LID TORN OFF AS MAYORALTY FIGHT WARMS

All Sorts of Issues to Fore for Last Week.

BY CHARLES N. WHEELER.

The last week of the mayoralty campaign opens today with the lid torn off and thrown into the lake and every indication that the home stretch battle probably will be the hottest and most spectacular in Chicago's history.

Things began to sizzle yesterday after Maclay Hoyne, the independent candidate, brought the religious issue to the surface with a bang.

The loyalty issue that has been raised by the soldiers in France, traction, gas, taxes, the labor, and Socialist canvasses, national issues, and the amount of buncomb and guff and foorback stuff in the final stages are finally getting on the nerves of the populace, all camps reported late last night.

Wet and Dry Issue.

The "wet" and "dry" ballot also is getting a lot of sedate folks running around in circles.

The leaders see in the developments of the last two days the promise of a hair pulling match that will be historic.

As at Brian Boru's battle of Clontarf, where the hairs of the warriors' heads were flying in the air like sheaves in a field of oats, so they look for wild times in the next few days.

Hoyne promises to make it sizzle this week. Thompson and Sweitzer are billed for their supreme efforts. The lithographic establishments have orders piled ceiling high. The town is going to be flooded with a thousand appeals, and the loop district is going to be no fit place for a person with weak ear drums. There will be more brass bands splitting the ether inside the "iron band" than has ever been heard before.

Parades and oldtime red fire pageants are on the schedule.

Rosenwald Aids Sweitzer.

Julius Rosenwald, head of Sears-Roebuck, put some new life into the campaign last night. He was the star spellbinder at the beefsteak dinner given last night to Robert M. Sweitzer by the Business Men's Athletic club boys at the Auditorium hotel.

Mr. Rosenwald spoke for about three minutes, and his first sentence put the big crowd on its feet, with napkins held high and much shouting.

This was the sentence:

"If this town elects this man Thompson mayor again, then this town is going to hell."

Sedate Mr. Rosenwald, immaculate in evening dress, also smiling and amiable, was not expected to say it quite that way. A lot of folks present didn't know he was so human. And when he spit it out, like a red blooded gent, and told them where their old town was headed for if they didn't check up, they roared with delight.

Talked for Hughes.

"The last time I made a political speech," said Mr. Rosenwald, after they had got through laughing and yelling, "was for Charles Evans Hughes. I think my candidate will be more lucky this time. Anyway, he ought to be, for he deserves to be. Robert Sweitzer ought to be mayor of Chicago, and I hope and pray he will, for the good of Chicago and for the good of all our people."

Talks for Fighters.

Lieut. O'Connor, one of the Thirty-third division boys, just in from Coblenz, sent a thrill over the banquet hall when he said that he had just come from Coblenz, and added:

"Coblenz isn't very far from Chicago, but all the way from here to Coblenz and from Coblenz here the people of the world were talking of the shame of Chicago," he said. "Chicago is on trial before the world. The shame of Chicago should be wiped out."

Clyne Also Talks.

United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyne spoke in a serious vein and chose his words with caution. He said:

"I am in a position to know. I say to you gentlemen of Chicago that at this time there is no room in Chicago's government for anything but a 100 per cent American. Nothing less will do. I know Robert M. Sweitzer is 100 per cent American. From my present information I am unable to say just what the percentage of Americanism the present mayor is. If you want my

EPITOME OF NEWS FROM WASHINGTON

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Washington Bureau of The Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 22.

RETURNS amounting to more than a billion dollars already reported from the first quarterly installment of the income and profit taxes due March 15 indicate that the total yield will reach $4,000,000,000 and may amount to the $4,750,000,000 contemplated by congress. They further indicate that the Victory loan soon to be called will be for $6,000,000,000.

But along with this announcement the revenue bureau states that the returns indicate general prosperity throughout the country.

The treasury has available to meet current cash requirements about $1,700,000,000, a rather high net balance, not including all the tax receipts from last week's collections.

The largest increase in income tax collections over last year's records is shown in North Dakota and the Eighth Illinois districts. Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are two large cities showing a decrease.

IRISH hopes that the peace congress would accord Ireland self-determination in accordance with the principle applying to subject peoples that President Wilson annunciated appear doomed for disappointment. The most recent reports from Paris indicate that President Wilson does not intend to present the Irish question to the allied council.

The obvious reason for such a decision would be the fact that England would not even discuss such a proposition, and probably would take umbrage at any suggestion of the kind from the president.

Sir Horace Plunkett, chairman of the Irish convention, says: "I do not find the absolute independence plan likely of realization or desirable, whether for Ireland or for England. When wars are a thing of the past and the world is disarmed an independent Irish republic may be considered seriously, but not until then. As civilization is at present constituted, absolute independence for Ireland is distinctly impracticable."

THE second venture by the industrial board into the field of price cutting, after having obtained a substantial slice in the prices of steel, was not so successful. A few of the lumbermen expressed a willingness to reduce provided they could be assured of the reduction becoming general, but it developed there was no national organization.

Lou Houseman Suffers Broken Shoulder in Crash

Lou Houseman, well known theatrical man, was injured last night when his electric runabout was hit by a street car at Madison and Market streets. Houseman was said to have been driving on the wrong side of the street.

He was taken to the Iroquois Memorial hospital, where it was found he had suffered a fracture of the right shoulder and a deep scalp wound. He was later taken to his home, 832 East Thirty-ninth street.

"We had arranged to leave the city tomorrow," said Mrs. Houseman, "and most all our trunks and grips are packed and waiting at the depot."

Religion Is Root of Home Rule Trouble, Writer Finds.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

LONDON, March 22.—From the south to the north pole in Ireland is a distance of 100 miles. It is just over the mileage from Chicago to Milwaukee. One passes from the warm, eager, smiling, passionate atmosphere of Dublin to the cold, dour, frowning environment of Belfast. It is difficult to realize that in three hours a slow train runs from one extreme to the other.

I arrived in Belfast on Sunday. For hours I walked through the principal streets of the industrial metropolis of Ireland. It was impossible to ride, for in Belfast Sunday is marked by practically a total cessation of vehicular traffic. In this city of more than 400,000 people there seemed to be not 100 wheels turning.

Belfast Pepellent to Him.

The aspect of Belfast was to me formidable and repellent. One looked down narrow streets fronted by even rows of high brick walls. The sidewalks were almost as deserted as the streets. I got the impression of rows of occupied cells fronting on a prison corridor. Even the great iron gateways which guarded the courtyard of the leading hotel were tightly locked. To get in or out one had to ring the bell and wait until the porter came with a huge iron key.

On the streets and in the offices one heard the hard Scotch burr of "Aye" in place of the "Yis, yer honor," of the Dublin jaunting car driver. Where the speech of the southern capital is soft and fluent and touched with a caressing brogue, the tongue of Belfast is hard and brief, edged with granite.

Home Rule Stirs 'Em Up.

But the next day I found how quickly—when the subject of home rule is mentioned—Belfast granite can melt into a flaming torrent of molten lava.

I found more bitter religious intolerance in Belfast than in Dublin, and, what seemed more dangerous—because more reasoned and calculating—threats of violence and civil war. I was shown a photograph of 20,000 of Sir Edward Carson's Belfast volunteers uniformed and armed, marching through the streets of the city. I was told there were 80,000 such volunteers, all armed and ready to die rather than to submit to home rule.

Religion Root of Trouble.

And yet that does not present a true picture of the situation in Belfast. I talked for hours with a group of a half-dozen workingmen, who left their tools in one of the big shipyards for the conference. They were against home rule. They frankly admitted that the religious question was at the root of the whole trouble.

But some of them displayed an almost wistful eagerness for a better understanding with their Catholic neighbors. One of them was the vice president of the local labor union. He was a devoted Protestant. The president of the same union is an equally zealous Roman Catholic. They get along in union affairs with perfect ease and agreement. Why did they instantly quarrel when the affairs of Ireland were concerned? He was puzzled and could not understand.

A Religious Island.

One thing is certain: The Irish south and north alike are a religious people to a degree and with real devotion which few other peoples in the world are capable of reaching or even understanding. There is the spiritual element in them all which is one of the controlling factors in everything they do or say. I believe no attempt to settle the Irish question will ever be successful which does not take into account this deep religious feeling of all Irish people and which does not approach it sympathetically and without prejudice or partisanship.

Most of the Belfast labor unions have no affiliations with other Irish workmen. They work with, and are joined to, the labor unions in England and Scotland. Yet there are a few unions which have locals in both Dublin and Belfast and covet the whole

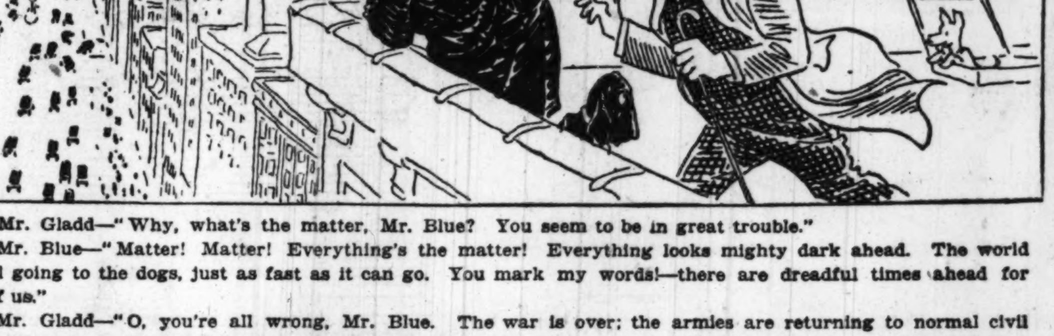
MR. LUGUBRIOUS BLUE AND MR. SMILEY GLADD DISCUSS THE SITUATION

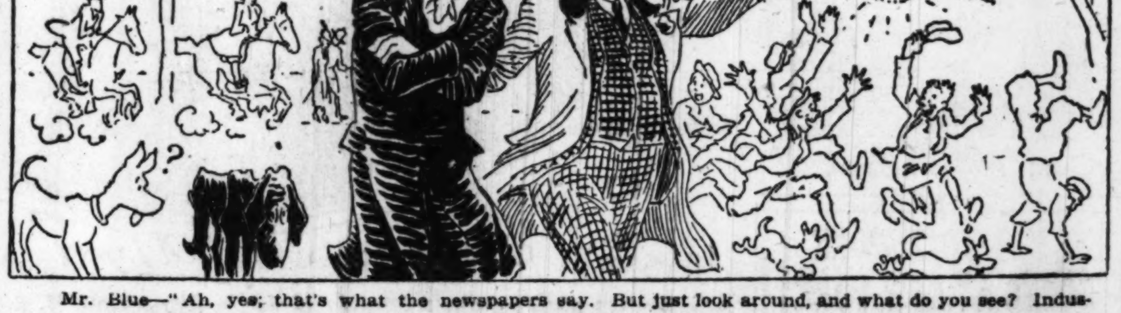
[Copyright: 1919: By John T. McCutcheon.]



Mr. Gladd—"Why, what's the matter, Mr. Blue? You seem to be in great trouble."

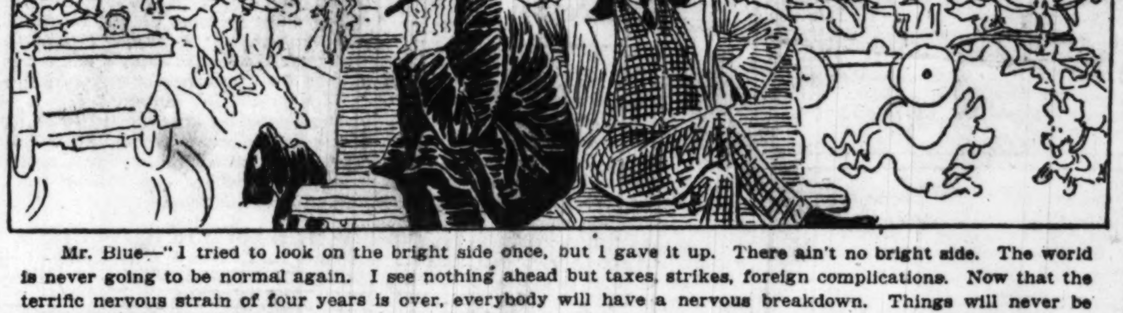
Mr. Blue—"Matter! Matter! Everything's the matter! Everything looks mighty dark ahead. The world is all going to the dogs, just as fast as it can go. You mark my words!—there are dreadful times ahead for all of us."

Mr. Gladd—"O, you're all wrong, Mr. Blue. The war is over; the armies are returning to normal civil life as fast as possible, and, just as soon as peace is signed, a great load will be lifted from a suffering world. Confidence, hope, prosperity, and happiness are only waiting the signing of peace to spring forth, stronger than ever."



Mr. Blue—"Ah, yes; that's what the newspapers say. But just look around, and what do you see? Industrial unrest and discontent everywhere. The working classes are not going back to the old order of things, and the employers are not going to yield their advantages without a struggle. You can see the evidences of a mighty clash in every country. Russia is seething with bolshevism, and instead of getting weaker it is gaining in strength every day. Germany is catching the fever and every day sees new reports of great labor unrest in England. And probably a lot of it doesn't get into the papers. With half the world in industrial chaos, what can a league of nations do to ease the situation?"

Mr. Gladd—"Of course, there is unrest. You can't expect the world to go through four years of agony and suffering and then slide back into a normal state in a minute. We've been through the worst ordeal that is possible. The future can't help but be better, because it can't possibly be as bad as it was. So cheer up. Look on the bright side. You won't help things by continually looking at the dark side."



Mr. Blue—"I tried to look on the bright side once, but I gave it up. There ain't no bright side. The world is never going to be normal again. I see nothing ahead but taxes, strikes, foreign complications. Now that the terrific nervous strain of four years is over, everybody will have a nervous breakdown. Things will never be the same again, not in your lifetime or mine. So what's the use of living, anyway. I get so discouraged and simply think I'll have to give up the struggle."

Mr. Gladd—"O, try to cheer up, Mr. Blue. Here is the sun shining. The birds are singing, spring is patting the world with a gentle hand, and there's a song in every heart. Come now, forget the things you think are going to happen and come out and enjoy the things that are happening. We'll go to a movie, and I'm sure you'll feel lots better. Come along, Mr. Blue."

$300,000 FIRE IN STOREHOUSE OF WEST. ELECTRIC

Fire in the storehouse of the Western Electric company at 2443 West Fourteenth street early this morning did damage estimated by the watchman, Charles Schnack, at $300,000. The blaze was discovered by Schnack while he was making his rounds on the third floor and he sent in an alarm at once. By the time engine company No. 107 arrived the flames had spread throughout the building, which is three stories and 150x150. Additional alarms were sounded and within half an hour the fire was being fought by thirty companies.

The blaze was under control by 3:30.

SENATOR CAPPER FAVORS CHANGE IN PEACE LEAGUE

Topeka, Kan., March 22.—Senator Arthur Capper, in a signed statement which will appear in the Sunday morning issue of his paper, the Daily Capital, endorses the league of nations principle, but declares certain amendments are necessary, among them one safeguarding the Monroe doctrine and another assuring to the United States absolute control over the question of immigration.

He asserts his belief that Kansas is overwhelmingly for a league of nations, and that he is emphatically for it, because he believes it to be a great step toward an enduring peace.

BECK IS KEPT OFF CARUSO PROGRAM BY MAYOR HYLAN

New York, March 22.—James M. Beck, former assistant attorney general of the United States, who was to have delivered an address here tonight at the Metropolitan opera house at the celebration of Enrico Caruso's twenty-fifth year on the operatic stage, did not speak.

He asserted in a statement issued late tonight that Mayor Hylan had threatened, if he did so, to prevent Police Commissioner Enright from presenting a flag of the city of New York to the noted tenor.

In his statement tonight Mr. Beck said that "just as the curtain went up the mayor sent me word that if I spoke the flag intended to be given Mr. Caruso would not be presented."

"It was then left to me to determine whether or not I should speak," added Mr. Beck. "Rather than interfere with the gift to Mr. Caruso, I preferred to remain silent, conscious that this atrocious exhibition of bad manners, which is as much an insult to Mr. Caruso and to the audience as it was to me, would injure the mayor more than it would me.

"It must not be thought that the willingness of the mayor to mar a notable occasion was due to my expression of opinion on Lincoln day with reference to certain phases of our foreign policy. It is due to the fact in the most critical hour of the war I directed the attention of the public to the activities of the Hearst press."

Troops Curb Outbreak of Bolsheviki

BULLETIN.

BUDAPEST, March 22.—(Havas.)—The Hungarian cabinet, headed by Count Michael Karolyi, has resigned, leaving the government to the proletariat.

This action was taken after Count Karolyi had communicated to the cabinet the entente note outlining the new boundary between Hungary and Roumania. After advising Col. Viss, commander of the French troops of occupation, of the decision of the cabinet, Count Karolyi then resigned in his turn.

LONDON, March 22.—Allied troops in the last few days have occupied the greater part of Hungary, with the exception of Budapest and the surrounding districts, for the purpose of suppressing plundering by bolshevik gangs and restoring order, according to a dispatch from Vienna to the Exchange Telegraph company by way of Copenhagen.

Riots in Budapest.

COPENHAGEN, March 22.—A Budapest dispatch says that a mob stormed the postoffice and military buildings and destroyed the Honved monuments. It is reported that the extreme Socialists intend to proclaim a soviet republic.

DELAY IMPERILS WHOLE PROGRAM OF WORLD PEACE

"League First" Cause of New Trouble in Paris.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[By Special Cable.]
[Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.]

PARIS, March 22.—The peace deliberations have reached an acute stage, precipitated through President Wilson's insistence on embodying the league of nations covenant in the peace treaty.

Pessimists assert there is a strong chance of the negotiations among the allied associated powers being broken off and the various delegations returning home and making separate peace treaties.

The delays which have resulted in letting nearly five months elapse since the armistice without any sign of peace and which it seems will further delay the signing of the treaty indefinitely, have strengthened the enemy's positions until today the Germans are arrogantly refusing to comply with the armistice demands.

Germans Showing Fangs.

The Germans have ignored the orders to cease hostilities on the Polish front and the German general commanding at Danzig has barred Gen. Haller's Polish divisions from passing through the port.

The German sailors also refuse to deliver ships for transporting American troops home until they have been guaranteed that they will be repatriated immediately.

The enemy is capitalizing the discord among the allies, which shows itself on every hand—Lloyd George is receding from his original position indorsing the incorporation of the league covenant in the peace treaty and is now opposing it; Italy is threatening to withdraw from the conference and make a separate peace with Austria-Hungary, and an economic alliance with Germany; the French are holding out for a pooling of the war debts.

American Hopes Fail.

The American commission's assurances, made when the president returned, that embodying the league covenant would not delay the drafting of the treaty undeniably seems to have proved a fallacy, and with new opposition springing up in various quarters it is positive that further delay is unavoidable, while the whole world cries for peace.

The sole factor which is holding the conference together today is the rapprochement between England and the United States, which, it is said however, is not nearly as strong as many think.

This is the crucial turning point in the peace conference.

WILSON SEEKS SAFEGUARD ON MONROE CREED

Present League Pact Forces U. S. Army Work Abroad.

BY RICHARD V. OULAHAN.
Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.
[Copyright: 1919.]

PARIS, March 22.—President Wilson will offer an amendment to the league of nations treaty "for the preservation of the sovereign rights of individual nations." This amendment may meet the demand of Republican senators for the protection of the Monroe doctrine, and for American protection on immigration and tariff.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.]

PARIS, March 22.—I am permitted to state on the authority of one of the American peace commissioners that if the present covenant of the league of nations is adopted, it means that, if German troops ever cross the French frontier again, the president of the United States immediately will order an American army overseas to reinforce the French.

If the United States accepts a membership in the league of nations as now constituted, it will not be necessary for the president to obtan the consent of congress to dispatch an expeditionary force to the aid of any nation assailed any more than he would have to convene congress to obtain consent to order the troops to repel invaders who landed on Long Island.

Must Maintain Big Army.

My informant says that as a safeguard against any such an emergency as another German onslaught, the United States will promise France to maintain a standing army of half a million men and Great Britain also will have to pledge the upkeeping of a big force.

It also is expected that the league of nations' general staff, as demanded by Leon Bourgeois, would recommend and supervise, for instance, that a certain fleet of transports be always available within a short time for transporting American troops overseas and English soldiers across the channel.

There is no question of voting by the league of nations council or anything else. If in the future any armed force crosses the frontier of a neighbor it commits an act of war against every member of the league and the big powers must immediately respond by rallying to the assistance of the nation assailed without calling a general league of nations meeting or consulting the domestic legislators or representatives of the people.

League Treaty Amended.

The league of nations commission, under the chairmanship of President Wilson, this afternoon began revising the covenant of the league of nations. Before 6 o'clock the eighth article had been reached, the first seven articles being changed, altered, and modified.

The amendments concerning the Monroe doctrine, the Japanese amendment for equal racial treatment, and the French amendment relative to the creation of a general staff were deferred for consideration at the next meeting, to be held on Monday at 8:30 p. m.

President Wilson will probably attempt to modify the covenant by incorporating new principles, which will safeguard the Monroe doctrine, but it is doubtful if the Monroe doctrine can be mentioned specifically if the Japanese and other alterations are to be kept out.

Peace Treaty Delayed.

Meanwhile the drafting of the peace treaty practically is at a standstill. The articles now agreed on refer to the military and naval terms and partially to the question of frontiers, leaving the principal items—reparation, economic, and financial terms—still incompleted.

There remain unsettled several naval terms—the Kiel canal, Helgoland, German cables, and whether the German fleet shall be sunk.

The frontiers are largely fixed in principle, although the matter of the left bank of the Rhine still is unsettled. It had been thought that all had agreed to erect a Rhenish republic as a buffer state, but this solution evidently is unsatisfactory.

The financial questions also are perplexing. The French, with lukewarm British support, are trying to get the United States to agree that the allies pool the war debt, which the American people will not accept, according to the feeling here.

"CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICS"

PARIS, March 22.—The official report issued tonight, dealing with the meeting of the league of nations commission, says the amendments proposed were the result of "the constructive criticism to which the covenant has been generally submitted."

One of the amendments, proposed by the Swiss envoys, concerns the sovereignty of individual nations. It follows:

"This covenant shall not be interpreted as containing anything contrary to the sovereignty of states except in so far as the state itself, by adhering to the covenant, shall consent, and the covenant itself shall not interfere with the internal affairs of any of its members."

While the amendment does not mention the Monroe doctrine, it is tacitly understood to apply to it. Some of the members of the American delegation are inclined to accept an amendment on such lines, feeling that it would meet the demand of the United States for some declaration in the spirit of the Monroe doctrine.

Proposal Made by Japan.

It is reputed that no action was taken in the Japanese amendment, but that it would be brought up at the plenary session of the peace conference—probably on Tuesday—when the covenant will be openly debated. The text of the Japanese amendment follows:

"Equality of nations being the basic principle of the league of nations, the high contracting parties agree to accord as soon as possible, equal and just treatment to all alien citizens of states which are members of the league, making no distinction either in law or in fact on account of race or nationality."

The Japanese delegates insist that American immigration restrictions are not involved in the amendment, which merely insures equality of treatment for Japanese already domiciled in the United States.

The Japanese delegates declare that they have made no threat to break away from the conference if certain claims of Japan were not recognized.

POLAND TO GET DANZIG

PARIS, March 22.—[By the Associated Press.]—The Council of Ten, or supreme war council, received at its session today a fresh report from the commission on Polish affairs which was discussed and reserved for final examination later, it was officially announced after the close of the session. This examination will take place in connection with the subsequent fixing of boundary lines affecting Germany.

One report said that the supreme council definitely decided to award Danzig to Poland, with a corridor running from the Posen district to the Baltic.

The council on Monday will go into the question of sending the Polish troops in France under Gen. Haller to join the Polish army in Poland. The council also will come to a decision as to what action shall be taken regarding the interruption of the negotiations with the Germans at Posen over the questions jointly affecting Germany and Poland.

Germans Will Resist.

COPENHAGEN, March 22.—At a meeting of the armistice commission on Thursday Gen. Baron von Hammerstein transmitted a note to Gen. Nudant, Marshal Foch's representative, according to a Berlin dispatch, saying that the German government could in no case permit Polish troops to land at Danzig and pass through the country, "as it would lead to an attempt bloodily oppress the undoubted German majority in West Prussia."

The note said that the government also refused to permit allied and Polish officers to travel unrestrictedly without supervision in the territories east of the Vistula.

Gen. Nudant, remarking that the note categorically rejected all the proposals and demands of the associated governments, said he would transmit it to Marshal Foch.

GUARD RIGHTS OF LABOR

PARIS, March 22.—Announcement was made by the peace conference commission on international labor legislation late today that the only thing remaining for the commission to do is to draw up its final report to the peace conference. At its session today the commission completed consideration of the proposals laid before it by a deputation from women's organizations.

The commission today introduced a clause into its report providing that "no recommendation or draft convention shall in any case be accepted or applied so as to diminish the protection already accorded to workers by the existing laws of any of the high contracting parties."

The intention is to safeguard legislation already in effect in any country which might be regarded by that country as better for the workers than that recommended by the labor bureau. It applies most directly to the seaman's act in the United States.

QUESTIONS OF ECONOMY

PARIS, March 22.—[By the Associated Press.]—The economic subjects to be introduced into the preliminary peace treaty were definitely determined at a meeting of the economic commission today. These take a wide range, the important subjects including the disposition of German patents, trademarks, and copyrights and alien property, such as that held by the custodian of such property in the United States.

WILL NOT ENTER EUROPE

LONDON, March 22.—[By the Associated Press.]—That the British dominions do not feel they should take the responsibility of entering into the deciding of the differences of European nations where the British empire is not directly involved is set forth in a memorandum of the league of nations, submitted by Sir Robert Borden, the Canadian premier, to the British delegation at the peace conference, according to the Paris correspondent of the Morning Post.

The memorandum, the correspondent states, is supported by the Australian delegation. It was not submitted, he adds, after consultation with the Australian delegates, but Premier Hughes of Australia, according to the correspondent, has pointed out that this does not imply that Australia disagrees with it.

17 YANKS BACK FROM FIGHTING REDS AND SNOW

Says British Men Are Favored; Many Ill in Hospital.

BY C. V. JULIAN.

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Home from Archangel with chilblains, frozen ears, frozen feet, and similar injuries, seventeen American soldiers, who arrived here today on the auxiliary cruiser Louisville, declared that of all the enemies the Yankee soldier has had to fight, the toughest and worst are the bolsheviki.

The Yankee fighters charged the British with treating the Yankee troops in Russia unfairly. They said that they were commanded by a British colonel and that this colonel made the Americans bear the brunt of the fighting.

There were two Illinois men among those who returned—Ensign C. S. Bishop, 6151 Sheridan road, Chicago, who arrived on the liner Baltic, and Corporal Harry Dickey of Sparta, Ill., who came on the Louisville.

"Wild to Get Home."

"Our men in Russia, most of whom are from Michigan and Wisconsin, are wild to get home," Corp. Dickey said. "We slept on cedar boughs in four feet of snow. Our food consisted chiefly of bully beef and hardtack. More than 100 Americans were in the Archangel hospital suffering from ills due to fighting in the swamps last fall and in snow above their waists during the winter."

Ensign Bishop said the bolsheviki are daily gaining in strength, that they have plenty of money, ammunition and machine guns. Bishop, who was with the first party of American soldiers to go ashore at Archangel in May, 1918, said the American officers undertook to train some of the Russians and that these mutinied, the revolt ending with the shooting of fifteen Russians.

No Bath in Six Months.

A surgeon on the ship, who asked not to be quoted, said a British surgeon from Russia had told him the American troops there are in a shocking condition. There are no bathing facilities, and many of the Yankees have not had baths for six months.

Among the wounded officers on the Louisville were:

Lieut. Raymond Mooney, 6900 Chappell avenue, Chicago, airman, wounded when attacked by twelve German planes.

Twenty-four nurses of base 11, recruited from the Augustana and St. Mary's hospital, Chicago, and two from base 13, the Presbyterian unit, returned on the Louisville. Fourteen more nurses of base 13 are expected tomorrow on the Zacapa, which has radioed that it will dock at noon.

The Chicago nurses expect to go home the latter part of this week.

Chicago casual officers on the Louisville were:

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—The Louisville, formerly the American liner St. Louis, was the only transport to dock here today. It carried 2,253 passengers from France. An abstract of the personnel on board follows:

LOUISVILLE—Three officers and 215 men of the Eleventh air service construction company; 13 officers and 825 men of the One Hundred and Forty-eighth infantry divided as follows: Camp Dix, 7 officers and 452 men; Camp Upton, 4 officers and 324 men; Camp Lewis, 1 officer and 30 men; Camp Bowie, 1 officer and 1 man; 1 officer and 22 men of surgical units Nos. 100, 101, and 103, scattered; casual companies from Texas, Louisiana, Ohio, and Massachusetts; 12 casual officers; 44 nurses, 8 civilians; Liverpool and Brest convalescent detachments, 24 soldiers' wives and 27 sailors' wives.

REPORT MUTINY TO AVOID FIGHT AGAINST "REDS"

French Troops Said to Have Rebelled at Odessa.

PARIS, March 22.—[By United Press.]—Reports reached both Socialist and Russian representatives here today that two French regiments in the Odessa region mutinied when they were ordered to attack the bolsheviki.

The French troops were said to have sent a delegation to their officers declaring they "were ready to fight for France, but not to fight our brothers."

Reminded that this was mutiny and that the penalty was death, the soldiers were reported to have said they recognized this, but that their decision could not be altered. No executions were reported.

Petrograd in Danger.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, March 22.—The Esthonian-Lettish offensive against the bolsheviki is menacing Petrograd so seriously that Leon Trotzky, the bolshevik minister of war and marine, has ordered the general mobilization of all men up to the age of 46, according to a Zurich dispatch to the Matin.

Bolsheviki Are Defeated.

OMSK, March 19.—[Delayed.]—The Siberian army has inflicted a crushing defeat on the bolsheviki, it was announced today.

Attacking along the Siberian railway in the Perm region, the Siberian forces pushed the bolsheviki back more than thirty miles at some points, recapturing Okpanksk. Between Okpanksk and Ossa the soviet army's front was broken for a distance of twenty miles. Ossa is practically surrounded.

The bolsheviki are reported to be retiring on the whole front. Their railway transport is breaking down, as the result of most of the rolling stock being in need of repair.

WANTS SOVIETS RECOGNIZED.

New York, March 22.—Recognition of the Lenine-Trotzky government by the United States and the allies was urged by Col. Raymond Robins, former head of the American Red Cross mission to Russia, in an address today. Col. Robins vigorously defended the bolshevik leaders and criticized the attitude of the United States toward them. He said the soviets were the only force in Russia "who could get something done and done expeditiously." Defending Lenine and Trotzky, he said they would not have signed the Brest-Litovsk treaty with Germany had their overtures to the allies been accepted.

U. S. MEN, NOT ITS MONEY, WON WAR, SAYS COL. JUDAH

Officer of the 149th F. A. Tells of Work of the Rainbow Division.

"Uncle Sam finished the war because the men he sent to the front were fighting men. That is the main fact to remember in connection with our service to the allies. America's other activities were trimmings. Our infantry and our artillery and our other fighting men won the war."

That is how Lieut. Col. Noble B. Judah of Chicago's famous One Hundred and Forty-ninth field artillery summed up western front action yesterday. With an unvarnished account of the 180 days of actual fighting and 224 days of overseas service seen by the Rainbow division, he had held an audience of several hundred in the University club spellbound for more than an hour.

Rainbow Typifies U. S.

"The picture of the Rainbow fighting is typical of America's part in the war," he declared. "Our men broke the German machine.

"The Rainbow, units from twenty-six states, reached France Nov. 1, 1917, when less than 50,000 United States troops were overseas. We got our polish in Napoleon's old artillery training camp near Nancy. The patriots of Valley Forge had nothing on the One Hundred and Forty-ninth in that winter."

After describing the division's final training in a "quiet sector" in the Vosges, when Yanks learned hand to hand patrol fighting, he took his audience through the German offensive in March, when the division held its own sector over a ten mile front.

"Every night we were in the German lines or they were in ours," he said. "The Sixty-ninth New York took revenge for the first German raid by shooting a patrol through the Hun front and a village near by. Lieut. Cassidy led the patrol. Sergt. O'Leary and Corporal Carrigan were members. They ran afoul of a big German outpost and treated it rough before dashing home across No Man's Land with their prisoners. They threw one prisoner over the entire thirty foot width of our wire. We had three months of that and were complete masters.

Stemming Final Drive.

"We were ordered to move June 21 and unloaded at Challons to face the German fourth offensive, the great 'peace drive' that was to end the allies once and for all.

"We repulsed nine attacks of twenty-five German divisions with less than twelve divisions of our own.

"Remember," he concluded, "the day of the armistice marked the complete military defeat of Germany. Their surrender was inevitable."

Reception plans for the One Hundred and Forty-ninth are well under way according to announcement made by Col. W. N. Pelouze of the welcoming committee.

A public reception and luncheon was tendered the One Hundred and Eighth trench mortar battery, advance guard of the Prairie division, yesterday. Late in the afternoon they entrained for Camp Grant to be mustered out.

GERMANS SEEK TO LEAD YANKS AGAINST JAPAN

Officers Admit Their Superior Skill Is Needed by Us Now.

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[By Special Cable.]
[Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.]

BERLIN, March 21, via Paris, March 22.—Sometimes I think the Germans have no sense of humor. Every day our American officers are stopped in the street by German officers and enlisted men who wish to go to America and train the United States' troops for a war against Japan.

At a little evening party in the Jurfurstenstrasse three young German officers asked me what inducements the United States was offering to secure German army officers for the American army. I explained as gently as I could that America just had had a war with Germany and a good many Americans had a mad on with Germany and would not consider Germans as officers of our army. I also said I had not heard of any war with Japan and that I did not believe there was such a thing on the schedule.

The young Germans were much surprised that I knew nothing of the coming war. They knew it for certain that Japan already was planning to strike at once, perhaps this week, at least within a few months.

That Jap Army.

All these applicants of our enemies to fight in defense of "Old Glory" were very positive about the approaching war with Japan. Some have even told me they understood the war had begun. One man said America already had been invaded and that the Japanese had landed on our shores. I told him I knew that he was misinformed, for if a Japanese army ever tried to land, the San Francisco police would lock it up. But it was in vain. The German soldier said he did not believe the police force would be able to capture the Japanese army.

So persistent have been the applications of the Germans to join our army that today on the doors of the American embassy I saw a notice which had been placed there by the Spanish legation, which is in charge of American affairs during the enforced absence of our own official. The notice said the royal Spanish embassy was not receiving applications of officers and soldiers who wished to join foreign armies. The notice did not mention the American army, but as it was posted on the doors of the American legation.

Very Wise, He Thinks.

One of the German officers, whom I met and who wishes to respond to the American appeal for trained help for the army, states that it is very wise for the United States to avail itself of the fine opportunity now to get hold of a lot of first class fighting men who are out of jobs. He said the American soldiers are very brave and resourceful, but from his observations on the west front the Yank is not well disciplined nor intelligently led.

To whip Japan America must have its army led by Germans, this German said. And the Germans tell me this without a smile or batting an eye.

Our Backsliding Officers.

A young German officer at a party the other night said:

"Nobody can admire the American soldier more than I do. He is the finest soldier in the world. But he is terribly handled. Why, your men were actually murdered in some places on the west front. They were thrown into positions where they had no chance to accomplish anything, even by dying. Sometimes we had to slaughter them until it made us sick.

"We didn't want to do it. We would hold our fire to give them a chance to fall back, but their officers would not let them go back, just held them there, and we had to shoot them. Now, give your army highly trained officers such as the Germans, and no nation in the world can defeat them. You can develop such officers under German training, but the war with Japan is so close upon you that there is no time to waste. You must put the Germans in command at once."

I told him I did not think it would be safe to make the change so suddenly. Our doughboys have been carefully instructed to dislike Germans.

FOE ASKS LEAVE TO USE CRUISERS TO INSURE FOOD

COPENHAGEN, March 22.—At a massmeeting of seamen at Bremen a resolution was passed expressing the determination of the seamen not to permit ships to sail for England unless a promise could be obtained that the German crews would be allowed to remain on board, according to Berlin advices.

As the provisioning of Germany is jeopardized by the refusal of German seamen to man ships required by the entente, the German armistice commission has proposed to the allies that they approve the placing of four small cruisers in service to guarantee protection to the immediate sailing of the German merchant vessels and the transport of food.

RAIL WORKERS REJECT BRITISH OFFER ON WAGES

LONDON, March 22.—Representatives of the miners, railwaymen, and transport workers conferred with government leaders in Downing street for an hour and a half today in an effort to end the deadlock between the railwaymen and the employers.

After the conference the railwaymen's leaders went to report to their conference, declaring that the situation was grave.

According to one report, the railwaymen rejected an offer of an increase in wages which would cost $450,000,000 annually and insisted on demands which would cost $600,000,000.

TO SPEND BILLIONS ON WAR WRECKED AREAS OF FRANCE

PARIS, March 22.—[French Wireless Service.]—The expenditure of more than 6,000,000,000 francs in the reorganization of communication in northeastern France is planned by Albert Claveille, minister of public works.

In a report to President Poincare the minister says that 900,000,000 francs should be expended for the construction of new main railroad lines, 875,000,000 francs for the construction of local railway lines, 350,000,000 francs for the reconstruction of waterways, 200,000,000 for building and rebuilding roads, and 600,000,000 for the reconstruction and improvement of maritime ports.

In the fighting area of northern France great stretches of railway lines were destroyed and must be rebuilt, as must most of the tunnels. All local railway lines have been destroyed in the regions of Reims and Laon. The canal system in the battle area also was damaged considerably, 450 bridges and 111 flood gates being destroyed.

The ports of Dunkirk, Calais, and Boulogne were damaged to the extent of 100,000,000 francs. The losses in machinery in the occupied area amounted to more than 450,000,000 francs.

Reconstruction and improvements are being carried out in the departments of the Somme, Aisne, Marne, Meurthe and Moselle. The Marne between Chateau Thierry and Epernay has been cleared and the canal east of St. Quentin is again in working order. The Hazebrouck canals have been reconstructed and the Pethune-Lille line will be in use again by March 25.

During the war, the minister says, the various armies built more than 1,100 miles of railway.

CAPITAL AWAITS FIXED DATE FOR EXTRA SESSION

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—The capital today was eagerly awaiting the announcement of the date set for the extra session of congress which, according to Paris dispatches received yesterday, will be some time in May. May 12 is talked of as the probable date of reassembling the lawmakers.

President Wilson is coming home much sooner than was expected when he left America. He may reach Washington by May 1, according to word from the White House today.

It is not improbable that the president may summon the senate as the treaty ratifying body to reassemble earlier than the house to take up the peace treaty and the league of nations. There is also a report current that the president will take the stump before calling an extra session to arouse public sentiment in behalf of the league.

Senators were still perplexed by the continued conflicting reports coming from Paris with regard to the connection of the league of nations covenant with the general peace treaty. Each day's news added to the confusion and, despite the president's promise to keep congress advised of his moves abroad, there has been no official statement to clear away the fog of misunderstanding.

O'Leary Jury Out 36 Hours Without Reaching Verdict

New York, March 22.—The jury which heard the evidence against Jeremiah A. O'Leary, former editor of the anti-British magazine Bull, and others at their trial here in federal court on charges of violating the espionage act had failed late tonight to reach a verdict after deliberating nearly thirty-six hours.

At 11:15 p. m., when the jurors still had failed to reach a decision, they were locked up for the night.

U. S. AIR OFFICER TO MAKE CITY AN AVIATION BASE

Lieut. Col. L. H. Drennan's Arrival Revives Ashland Field.

That Chicago will be made one of the principal army aviation bases of the country, when the military establishment of the United States is placed upon a peace footing, was revealed yesterday with the arrival here of Lieut. Col. Leonard H. Drennan, air officer for the central department.

Col. Drennan will begin search at once for a tract of 1,000 acres. Ald. John H. Lyle, one of those interested in the Ashland field before the army elected to establish its training school at Rantoul, announced that immediate steps would be taken to bring the field to the colonel's attention.

One or two squadrons of army planes will be permanently established here. But the army's purpose will go further. It will attempt to encourage civilian flights and starting, landing, and hangar facilities probably will be provided for use under proper regulation.

Army craft, which will number from twelve to twenty-four, will be employed for training and experimental purposes and for maneuvers with troops.

Sees City as Aerial Center.

"Chicago unquestionably will play a prominent part in the future of the airplane industry," said Col. E. H. Humphrey, chief of staff to Gen. Leonard Wood, "and it is particularly desirable to have ample airdrome facilities here."

No appropriation for purchase or lease of land is available, but this will not deter Mr. Lyle or his associates, who will ask the coöperation of the Aero Club of Illinois, which has partly improved and uses the Ashland property.

The tract comprises 640 acres at the extreme southwest corner of the city. Six hundred and forty more acres are available to the east, north, and south, making possible one of the finest aviation establishments in the country.

Lyle Explains Situation.

"Delay," said Mr. Lyle last night, "cost Chicago the school which was quartered at Rantoul. But the committees which went to Washington were assured that the army would avail itself of the Ashland field if ever an opportunity offered.

"The land is level, dry, and without obstruction, and we will take steps at once to conduct Col. Drennan over it."

Col. Drennan also will ask the coöperation of municipal, school, and park authorities.

Bomb Follows Blackmail Letters to Saloon Men

Rosario and Anthony Stamsu, brothers, owners of two saloons, were reminded, late last night, that blackmailers who had sent them three threatening letters, demanding $2,000, meant business when a bomb was exploded in front of one of their saloons at 2724 Lowe avenue. The place was damaged and windows in nearby houses were broken.

Mrs. Stamsu, looking out of the window at 12:20 this morning, saw two men walk to the saloon entrance below and drop a package, then flee south.

Rainbow Troops to Return Home Through France

PARIS, March 22.—The Rainbow division will embark from Brest or St. Nazaire, instead of Antwerp or Rotterdam, as previously planned, it was announced today.

The division will sail shortly after the Twenty-sixth division, which is scheduled to leave the middle of next month.

GERMANS FEAR BANKRUPTCY OF THEIR COUNTRY

BY GEORGE RENWICK.
Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.

BERLIN, March 20.—"Is national bankruptcy coming?" Such is the question which is a good deal discussed in the German press. It may be remembered that at Weimar Dr. Schiffer, finance minister, stated that Germany's national debt reached $42,500,000,000 and that Germany as a whole, her separate states, and her local authorities will have to find $5,000,000,000 yearly interest on her indebtedness.

Dr. Walter Rathenau, head of the General Electricity company, declares that no civilized state need have recourse to the "brutal, antiquated, unjust, and one sided expedient of national bankruptcy." His two chief remedies are a high tax on incomes and the restoration of exchange.

A well known private banker of Berlin takes the opposite view and declares that "with our national debt increased by the burdens which the entente's demands will place on us the question if we can avoid national bankruptcy must be answered by a definite 'no.'"

Dr. Julius Wolf, professor of national economy at the Berlin technical high school, thinks that national bankruptcy can only be avoided by putting on the direct and indirect taxation screw to the uttermost.

INSURES OTHERS, FORGETS SELF; COSTS HIM $125

A couple of weeks ago George Horn's butcher shop at 1539 Fullerton avenue was robbed of $500. But Horn laughed.

"I took out some burglary insurance from my old friend, Herman Redwanz, the ex-alderman," he said. "I ain't worried."

Last night two men came into the real estate, banking, and insurance office of Mr. Redwanz, 1537 Fullerton avenue, and shouted, "Hands up!"

Miss Flouise Fetzner, 2527 North Fairfield avenue, the clerk, screamed, and ran out the back way. She tore her clothes getting over the fence—but that has nothing to do with the story.

The robbers clubbed Redwanz over the head with their revolvers, inflicting eight wounds. Then they tied him up with wire. They took $125 and ran out. Mrs. Emma Hamburger, 1415 Garfield avenue, was leaving Horn's market and saw the men running away. She went into Redwanz's office, found him, and then told Horn.

"Were you insured?" was one of Horn's first questions.

"No," said Redwanz. "I insured everybody but myself."

U. S. MAY SEND FOUR PLANES ON ATLANTIC TRIP

Navy, Spurred by British Reports, Speeds Up Work.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Spurred on by reports that private airplane interests in England are to attempt the trans-Atlantic flight and are to operate independently of the British army and navy, the American navy is straining every facility to complete its plans for the undertaking.

It is understood that four planes are to be used, all of them to be sent all the way across the ocean if they can make it. The starting point will be Far Rockaway Beach, Long Island.

The machines, it is understood, are to be of the N. C.—1 type, capable of carrying fifty passengers, or the N. C.—2 type, which is an improvement of the other.

Pick Men for Duty.

Six officers of the navy and one of the marine corps have been assigned to the trans-Atlantic section of the office of the director of naval aviation in connection with the preparation of plans for the flight across the ocean. The officers are:

Commander J. H. Towers, in charge.

Commander R. C. Richardson, construction corps, experiments.

Lieutenant Commander P. N. L. Bellinger, operations.

Maj. B. L. Smith, marine corps, material.

Lieutenant Commander G. de C. Chevalier, operations and liaison.

Lieutenant Commander R. E. Byrd, navigation.

Lieut. Barrat, aerographying.

Some of these officers will make the flight, but as yet the crews of the planes have not been selected. In addition to the two pilots in each plane two mechanicians will be necessary.

Several new instruments for use during the flight have been perfected at the navy department, but these are carefully guarded secrets.

Ships to Be on Watch.

Officials said tonight that if any American flyers are forced to land in midocean such a stop would be made near a "mother ship." It was said warships and other naval vessels would be distributed across the Atlantic 200 miles apart. Suggestions that warships would be placed every fifty miles were discounted on the ground that there are not enough vessels in the navy for that purpose.

Three United States senators made a flight today in one army airplane, flying for half an hour 4,000 feet above Washington. Piloted by Capt. Roy Francis of the aviation section, Senators King of Utah, Fletcher of Florida, and Sterling of South Dakota all left Bolling field in a big bombing plane and landed at the same spot without mishap. All three of the senators confessed they had expected to be frightened, but each stoutly declared that once in the air he lost all sensation of nervousness.

PICK WAUKEGAN MAN.

Waukegan, Ill., March 22.—[Spe- son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Finer of Waukegan and one of the youngest cial.]—Raymond Finer, 19 years old, men enlisted in the naval aviation service, has written his parents from Pensacola that he has been selected as one of the navy flyers who may attempt the flight across the Atlantic.

HOOVER TELLS WHY WE FEED GERMAN PEOPLE

"Must Not Foster Cancer in Vitals of Civilization," He Says.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[By Special Cable.]
[Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.]

PARIS, March 22.—Herbert Hoover has given the following exclusive statement.

"Why are we feeding Germany?" reads his statement.

"From the point of view of my western upbringing I would say at once because we don't kick a man in the stomach after we have licked him.

"From the point of view of a governor I would say it is because famine breeds anarchy and anarchy is infectious. Infection from such a cesspool would jeopardize France, Great Britain, and thus involve the United States.

"From the point of view of a peace negotiator I would say it is because we must maintain order and a stable government in Germany if we would have some one with whom to sign peace.

View of Economist.

"From the point of view of an economist I would say that it is because the German people must have food in order to maintain a stable government and get back to production. Otherwise there is no hope of their paying the damages they owe to the world.

"From the point of view of a business man I would say it is because we need these damages more than any other form of punishment.

"From the point of view of a humanitarian I would say it is because we have not been fighting women and children and we are not beginning now.

"From the point of view of our secretary of war, I would say it is because we wish to return the American soldiers home, and it is a good bargain to give food for passenger steamers on which our boys may arrive home many months earlier than would otherwise be the case.

"From the point of view of the American treasurer, I would say it is because it saves the United States enormous expenditures in Europe in support of idle men and allows these soldiers to return to productivity in the United States.

"From the point of view of a negotiator of the armistice, I would say it is because we are honor bound to fulfill the implied terms of the armistice that Germany shall have food.

Keep Mind Clear.

"Let us not befog our minds with the idea that all we have done for Germany is to lift the blockade sufficient to allow her to import a limited amount of food from any market she wishes.

"Taking it by and large, our face is turned forward, not backward, on history. We and our children must live in the world with these 70,000,000 Germans. No matter how bitterly we may feel, our vision must stretch over the next 100 years, and we must write now into history such acts as will stand creditably in the minds of our grandchildren that we may not ourselves have fostered growths of cancer in the vitals of civilization."

Mr. Hoover gave this statement exclusively to THE TRIBUNE foreign news service in order to put the truth of the situation before the American people as a forewarning against any clamor that may arise in the future over increased food prices in the United States when irresponsible persons may attack our aiding and feeding Germany.

MACKAY, POSTAL HEAD, OUSTED BY BURLESON

Telegraph Company Officers Are Removed for Faulty Management.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—Differences between the management of the Postal Telegraph and Cable company and Postmaster General Burleson, which have been acute ever since the government assumed control of the telegraph and telephone systems, culminated today in an order by the postmaster general summarily relieving the chief officers, directors, and owners of the Postal company from all duties in connection with government operation of their system.

In the place of Clarence H. Mackay, president of the company, the order appointed A. F. Adams, president of the Kansas City Home Telephone company and member of the government's general telephone and telegraph operating board, to take over management of the entire postal system.

W. W. Cook, general counsel, and William J. Deegan, secretary, were named with Mr. Mackay in the removal order.

Points to Many Failures.

The department's announcement said the action was made necessary by failure or refusal of the Postal officials to follow instructions, efforts to embarrass and discredit government control, and failure to promptly put a new wage schedule and the eight hour day into operation.

Officials said informally they assumed the Postal company would seek to interfere with execution of the order by some court action, though they did not know what form it might take. The officers relieved of their duties under the government retain their connection with the company itself, the postmaster general's authority extending only to the actual control and operation of the company's properties.

Income Reports Vary.

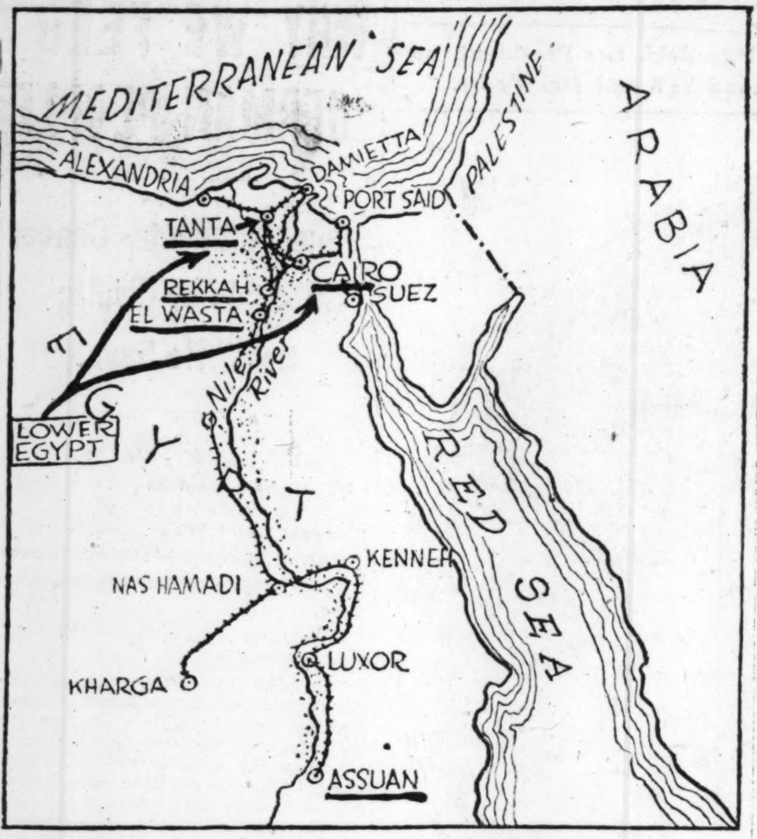
The official statement says the removal was "made necessary by the fact that since the postoffice department refused to grant the company the compensation asked for by them these officials have refused or failed to follow out the instructions of the department in the management of the properties; and failed to put into operation promptly the wage schedule and the eight hour day; and in various ways endeavored to embarrass and discredit the government operation of the wires." It adds:

"The reason for the refusal of the department to grant the compensation asked for was that the sworn statement, submitted to the interstate commerce commission in behalf of the company, placed the net income for 1917 at $17,264, while the sworn statements they made to the wire control board as a basis for compensation placed the net income for the same year at $4,485,593.34."

Postal Men to Fight.

New York, March 22.—Refusal by the Postal Telegraph company to sanction an increase of telegraph rates it deemed unjust and award of a 10 per cent wage increase to employés, instead of the 5 per cent advance ordered by Postmaster General Burleson, were said tonight by William S. Deegan, secretary of the company, to be the "reasons" for the removal today by Mr. Burleson of Clarence Mackay, president, and other officials of the company.

THE REVOLT IN EGYPT



Latest reports from the revolt in Egypt state that conditions are improving. Practically the entire valley of the Nile from Cairo to Assouan is affected and large bands of Bedouins are making raids from the west for the purpose of robbery.

In upper Egypt quiet has been restored in Alexandria, Cairo, and Tanta, telegraph communication having been reëstablished between the two latter places.

Other points from which trouble has been reported are El Wasta, Rekkah, and Galiaule.

The large forces of troops already in Egypt are being reinforced. The raids on the railroad along the Nile are said to be causing the greatest trouble.

Northwestern to Have Coast Artillery Unit

A coast artillery training unit will be established at Northwestern university next month, it was announced yesterday, in addition to the infantry R. O. T. C. of 300 men now being trained and the field artillery unit to be started in April, provided a minimum of fifty students enroll for the course.

SHIP BOARD SECRETARY QUITS.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—Lester Sisler has resigned as secretary of the shipping board, it was announced today, and has been temporarily succeeded by James V. Converse of Boston.

Triumphant Tommies in First March in London

LONDON, March 22.—The first triumphal march on a large scale of British troops which fought in France and Belgium occurred in London today. Fourteen battalions of the guards, representatives of all units of Great Britain's crack corps, accompanied by their bands, proceeded from their barracks to Buckingham palace, where they were reviewed by King George. The line of march thence led through the main streets of the city.

TURKISH ARMY VANISHED, SAYS GEN. ALLENBY

Relief for Suffering in Palestine Told by Conqueror.

BY FARMER MURPHY.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[By Special Cable.]

[Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.]

PARIS, March 22.—Gen. Sir Edmund Allenby, who swept the Turks out of Palestine, has just completed his first visit to Paris since those brilliant operations excited the admiration of the allied world. Gen. Allenby arrived direct from Egypt on Wednesday morning and returned there Friday night.

During the general's short stay here he was busy making visits, and he denied to newspaper men that his journey had any special significance. Among the distinguished men on whom the general called were President Wilson, Premier Clemenceau, and Marshal Foch. They all congratulated him, as a result of his well executed campaign.

Man of Action.

Tall, with massive shoulders, a fine thinker's head, clean cut features, and a quick, penetrating eye, Allenby looks like a man who could plan as well as execute, like a man of thought as well as of action. He might also be said to be something of a diplomatist, for in his meeting with the newspaper men he carefully parried all attempts to draw him into discussion of matters outside of those which strictly pertained to military operations.

The general was asked if he had been summoned to Paris in connection with the reported troubles in Egypt, but he said he had not. He said he had come to Paris to give information purely of a military nature regarding subjects which came under his administration.

As to whether the French, British, or American forces should administer those territories which his armies had conquered and which were not yet ripe for self-government the general declined to give an opinion. He said that was something for the peace conference to determine and was outside of his province.

Gen. Allenby said that as far as Palestine was concerned the Turkish army has ceased to exist. There are no Turkish forces there at all now. The entire Turkish army is being demobilized rapidly. They are keeping under arms only enough soldiers to preserve order in Turkish territory which they occupied.

Turk Cavalry Poor.

When asked about the Turkish cavalry the general said it was not as numerous as the cavalry he had had under his command and it had been inferior in quality. The Turkish infantry fought better, while the Germans were splendid soldiers. The general said there has been considerable suffering in the region over which his army has been operating, but he believed they now had enough to get along on. Relief has been brought in and conditions now are much better.

CLAIMS BRITISH SAILORS BEGAN MUTINY AT KIEL

BY FRANK J. TAYLOR.

[UNITED PRESS STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

BERLIN, March 22.—British sailors disguised as German sailors organized and started the Kiel revolt which was the initial movement in the German revolution, Frau von Hindenburg charged in an interview with the United Press today. Frau von Hindenburg, who is a sister-in-law and confidante of the field marshal, is a daughter of Prince Muenster and was familiar with the intrigues and intriguers of European diplomatic circles.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg believes the German army was never defeated militarily but was stabbed in the back by the revolution, according to his sister-in-law.

Former Kaiser Receives Big Sum from Country

COPENHAGEN, March 22.—Before the seizure of the former German emperor's private fortune by the present government, $200,000 was remitted to him through Dutch banks, according to the Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin. Then he expressed a wish for an advance on his property with which to purchase Dutch landed property and the government placed $250,000 at his disposal, the newspaper says.

EGYPT RESUMES QUIET, REPORTS FROM CAIRO SAY

LONDON, March 22.—The situation in Egypt has improved greatly, according to Reuter telegrams dated March 21 at Cairo.

Order has been restored in several towns and Cairo and Alexandria are tranquil. Telegraphic communication between Cairo and Tanta has been resumed.

The only disturbing feature, the telegrams say, is that the Bedouins are reported to be gathering in considerable numbers, but they are said to be out for robbery and not in connection with the unrest in Egypt.

More Than Half Million Back from Front in France

Washington, D. C., March 22.—The total number of the members of the American expeditionary forces returned to the United States has passed the half million mark. The war department announced today that actual figures on March 20 was 500,034, including 27,940 officers, 2,146 nurses, 3,683 civilians, and 448,241 men of the army, 13,550 navy personnel, and 4,474 marines. The strength of the expeditionary forces on March 20 was 1,470,676.

GRAVE CHARGES MADE IN ARMY GRAFT INQUIRY

Self-Wounded Man Tells of "Railroading" and Prompts Action.

Louis Christophilos was in a dying condition last night at the Auburn Park hospital. He cut his throat and stabbed himself in the chest a week ago.

But before he attempted to take his life Christophilos, a former military student at Northwestern university and a civilian employé of the army, told a story to the army intelligence officers that prompted investigation of the army quartermaster depot at Thirty-sixth and Iron streets. This was admitted last night.

It was a tale of graft that mounted into the thousands of dollars. One strange detail was the young man's complaint that he had been forced to swallow a mysterious pill in the depot hospital which temporarily deranged him. He declared he had been "railroaded" to the Dunning insane asylum so that his story would be discredited should he choose to talk.

Officers Investigate.

Despite the fact that Christophilos had been an inmate of the insane asylum, adjudged irresponsible by the County court, intelligence officers placed enough faith in his story to open an inquiry into operations at the depot which is used as a clearing house and sales place for used army goods.

The investigation has not yet been completed, intelligence officers said last night, and no one would say that any proof of graft had been obtained.

The facts, as understood, are these:

When war was declared Christophilos was in the process of becoming a citizen. Judge Landis, before whom his application was pending, aided in getting his papers. Christophilos, 26 years old, enlisted in the Student Army Training corps at Northwestern university, in the radio branch.

Soon after the armistice was signed he was honorably discharged. He then, according to his statement, appealed to Judge Landis and was placed in the quartermaster's depot at Thirty-sixth and Iron streets.

This was on Dec. 25. According to his statement to the army investigators, he soon noticed that things were not managed in an altogether honest fashion at the depot.

Names Men He Suspects.

He said that certain men—and he named them—were defrauding the government of considerable sums of money by selling used army goods and using duplicate receipt and entry books, pocketing the cash received.

He declared that these men became aware of his knowledge, and then, he added, an officer at the depot gave him the "mysterious" medicine tablet. That was on Feb. 18.

His story continues: "I lost all sense of where I was and what I was doing. The next thing I was aware of they had me in the psychopathic hospital. Later after a hearing I was sent to Dunning."

Still later a jury of physicians passed on his mental condition. He was declared normal and after being held for observation until March 12 was released. At the suggestion of his relatives he placed his story before the intelligence department the next day. The investigation was then begun at the south side army depot.

Attempted Suicide.

On March 15, for reasons not yet clear, Christophilos attempted suicide. His cousin, Christ Christophilos, said last night that it was because his sweetheart had turned against him during his incarceration in the insane aslyum.

He was taken to the county hospital, but on March 19 he was removed to the Auburn Park hospital.

Francis D. Hanna, chief of the bureau of graft of the army intelligence department, admitted last night that an investigation was on at the quartermaster's depot as a result of Christophilos' story.

"We have had men working on this case for a week and I regret the facts became public. Despite the insane asylum angle in the case, the story he told, together with existing circumstances, caused us to open the inquiry. It is not completed yet, and I cannot make a statement regarding the guilt or innocence of those whom the man accuses."

Asylum Record.

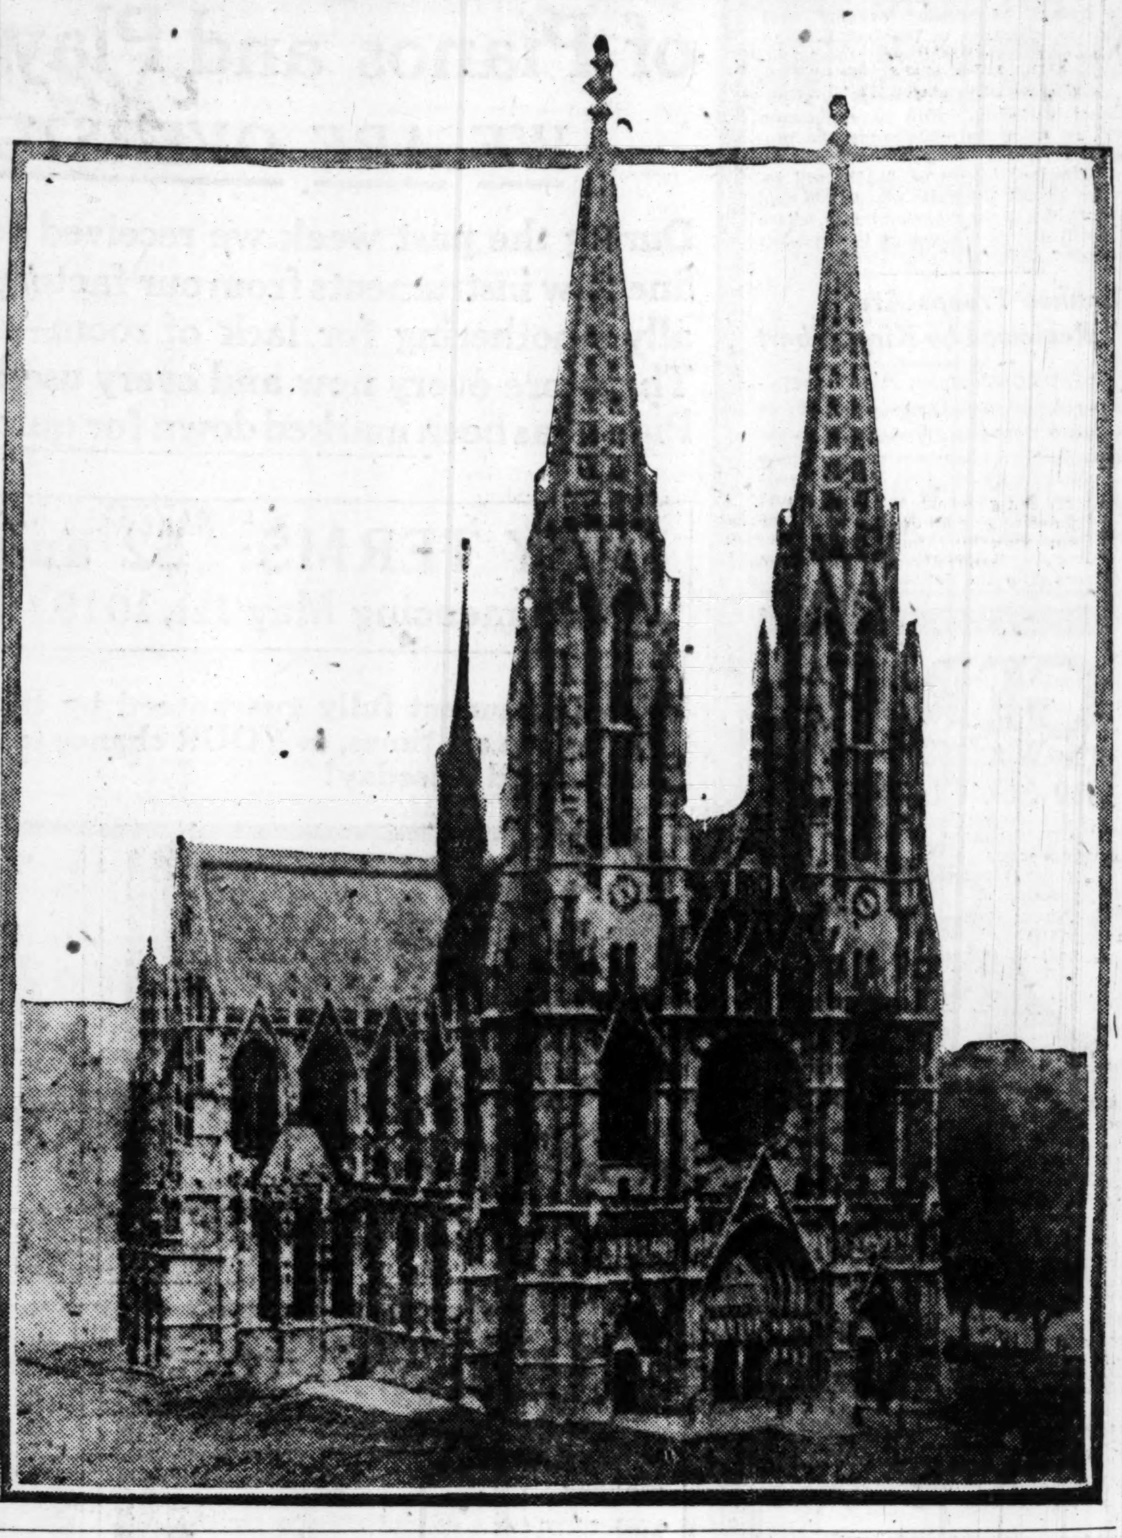
Dr. Charles F. Read, superintendent of the Chicago State hospital at Dunning, said last night that Christophilos was received there Feb. 27.

"He was released from here," he said, "on March 14 under parole to his cousin, Christ Christophilos of 7737 Stewart avenue. The parole was granted at the request of army intelligence officers, and I gathered that there was some kind of an army scandal in which Christophilos was one of the figures.

"Dr. H. Douglas Singer, the state alienist, examined Christophilos and found evidence of slight derangement. He seemed to be laboring under the delusion he was being persecuted."

WOULD HONOR HEROES WITH "TOUCH OF EUROPE"

Suggests Vast Gothic Structure in Grant Park as War Memorial.



'ONE DAY'S WORK BY EVERY ONE FOR WAR MEMORIAL'

Victor Falkenau Offers Idea with His Plans for Structure Here.

A Gothic structure in the center of Grant park, with lofty ornate steeples to recall the many buildings of such construction destroyed in the war, and of such size and equipment as to make it the pride and show place of Chicago, is suggested as the city's war memorial.

Victor Falkenau, builder of the Congress hotel, the Chicago stock exchange, the town of Gary, and other important works, offers the memorial plan.

To awaken public spirit in the enterprise Mr. Falkenau would have every Chicagoan contribute one day's work or the equivalent in money to finance the project.

Outline of Construction.

He suggests the building be equipped along the following lines:

Under its floors should be the tombs of the great men of Illinois. There should be appropriate memorial tablets to such men as Grant and Lincoln, and the name of every Illinois boy who died in the great war that freedom might live should be carved in an appropriate place. One of the transepts should be dedicated to the Red Cross.

In memory of America's humane attitude towards the babes left unprotected in war torn Europe, a large basement, well ventilated, should be reserved for little ones whose mothers are forced to work. This creche should have competent nurses and guardians, their salaries to be paid by the city.

Huge Auditorium.

An auditorium to accommodate 6,000 or 7,000 people should be provided to house large civic gatherings, and to afford a fitting setting when the nations' leaders are here to address the city. An organ for concert purposes, sounding boards and all modern improvements should be installed that those who once inspect the structure may carry a lasting impression of its purposes.

The windows should depict the early history of Illinois and Chicago, of La Salle and Joliet, the Fort Dearborn massacre, the Chicago fire, the world's fair, clear down to the present.

Ideas Summed Up.

Concluding his outline of the structure, Mr. Falkenau writes:

"Let the edifice stand for the spirit of all the high ideals this country has fought for, and as the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor awakens in the emigrant from Europe's downtrodden masses a hope to be allowed to follow his life's ambitions, so may this liberty temple help to confirm in his mind the conviction that we guarantee him life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

BACKS FOSTER'S ACCUSATIONS AGAINST BAKER

Manchester, N. H., March 22.—Maj. Frank Knox, recently returned to his position as editor of the Manchester Union after his release from army service, in a signed statement tonight said that he was "prepared in general terms to support the accusation brought against Secretary of War Baker by Maj. Dick B. Foster that orders were issued to commanding officers of mobilization camps in the United States which practically forbade effective handling of fake conscientious objectors who were inducted into the national army under the draft law."

"From the commanding officer of the division down there was a feeling of outraged helplessness when, under explicit, secret orders from the secretary of war, we were compelled to permit men who were nothing but contemptible slackers to find shelter behind the screen of a suddenly acquired religious scruple which forbade their bearing arms," the statement said.

HOME INMATE MISSING.

The Irving Park police began a search yesterday for Lars Larson, 70 years old, an inmate of the Norwegian Old People's hospital and home at Norwood Park. He disappeared several days ago.

COULTER GIRL REPORTED TO BE BACK AT HOME

Miss Loy Coulter, who disappeared from her home, 6000 Michigan avenue, three weeks ago, was reported last night to have returned. No information could be obtained from the residence over the telephone.

Neighbors, it is said, saw a young woman enter the Coulter home yesterday afternoon and she "very much resembled" the missing person.

Miss Coulter was to be a witness in a bigamy case against Conrad Edward Birden, who was arrested several days ago at Milwaukee.

Birden is being sued by his wife, formerly Miss Christine Hamlin, who resides with her mother at 4419 Prairie avenue.

FIRE NEAR RIVER EXCITES GUESTS OF TWO HOTELS

Theater Crowd Sees Blaze; Traffic Impeded.

Prisoners in the county jail and guests of the Revere house and Richmond hotel were alarmed last night by a fire in the building at 54 West Kinzie street. The blaze started in the chemical shop of A. Gaigger & Co., on the fourth floor. It quickly spread to 56 West Kinzie to the building occupied by Mullin Brothers, paper dealers.

A thick black smoke from the paper dealers' storerooms spread over the near north side and caused excitement.

The Revere house guests were summoned to the lobby from their rooms by Miss Flora Fowler, the switchboard operator. L. J. Mendenhall, manager of the Richmond hotel, warned the guests of that hotel.

Gongs Nearly Cause Panic.

The last act was on at the Casino theater when the engines drew up in response to the call from the box in front of the theater. The clanging of the gongs excited the audience until Manager H. D. Koffman was forced to make a talk assuring the audience there was no danger.

Koffman declared the sounding of the gongs outside nearly caused a panic and that he will complain to the city authorities.

Guards at the county jail quieted the prisoners when the smoke swept into the cellrooms.

The fire started just as the loop theaters were emptying and thousands of theatergoers were drawn to the scene. North side street car traffic was delayed for half an hour.

Explosions of Chemicals.

When Battalion Marshall O'Connor and members of engine company 11 attempted to enter the fourth floor of the burning building there was an explosion of chemicals that drove them back with smarting eyes and scorched faces.

Small explosions occurred repeatedly until the blaze was controlled. Fire department officials said the fire probably started from spontaneous combustion.

The need of gas masks for the firemen was displayed when they were driven back time and again by the fumes.

Williams College Men Want League Amended

Williamstown, Mass., March 22.—[Special.]—In a league of nations ballot at Williams college, 218 students avowed their belief in the principle of a league and 12 against the principle.

Eighty-five were in favor of the constitution of the league as drafted and 152 were against it.

Ninety-eight favored the inclusion of the league of nations covenant in the peace treaty and 123 were opposed.

MILLION MADE BY DRY LAWS LEADS TO SUIT

Sudden Prosperity Causes Whisky Men to Quarrel Over Profits.

When the United States government opped the manufacture of whisky in 917, thereby boosting the price of the ocks on hand skyward, the James E. epper Distilling company, Westminer building, found itself lifted from overty to affluence.

This sudden rise to wealth disrupted ie pleasant relations that had existed r years between the organizers of the mpany, Joseph Wolf and Alex White, nd distilled a dispute over stock ownship which brought the two men, ith their attorneys, into Judge Scann's court yesterday.

White, the treasurer of the comany, brought along $200,000 of the ompany's wealth in the form of cash, iberty bonds, and securities, and deosited it with the clerk of the court ending the hearing for a receivership r the company.

Accused by Lawyer.

Conrad H. Poppenhusen, attorney for Volf, president of the company, explained the situation as follows:

"White has been bookkeeper and onfidential man for the company for ears. He took this $200,000, getting me of it from the banks on the plea iat he had to pay taxes. This hapened while Mr. Wolf was on a vacaon. White claimed an interest in the mpany and that he took the money insure that his interest would be id.

"He brought the money back and ed a bill to restrain us from prosecuting him. I cannot say whether we will prosecute or not. The whole thing will be argued Monday."

David K. Tone, attorney for White, put a slightly different complexion on the affair. He said:

"In 1911 White and Wolf organized the distilling company. White became the owner of one-third of the common stock and Wolf took two-thirds. In addition Wolf took $100,000 in preferred stock because he turned over contracts for the purchase of distilleries in Kentucky.

"In 1917 the government stopped the distilling of whisky. The company had a lot of whisky, most of it hypothecated for loans. Whisky began to go up. The company had not made any money or paid any dividends. But with the rise in price these men that were poor as church mice found themselves almost millionaires. Their property became worth $1,000,000.

Advised to Take Possession.

"Wolf conceived the idea of getting all the money and had his lawyers draw up a resolution dissolving the company, reciting that my client, Mr. White, had received all his money, whereas he had not received anything. Wolf had taken all the money. The books show that White is entitled to $85,000 worth of stock.

"White came to us and we advised him to take possession of the property left, about $200,000, and deposit it to his account as treasurer. He did this and wrote a letter to Wolf telling him about it and advising him that if he would bring in the money he had taken that White would join with him in distribution to all the stockholders.

Government Tax Factor.

"Another matter entered here and that was the probable claim of the government for a large amount as excess profits tax. My client was afraid that as treasurer he might be held responsible to the government for this sum.

"We brought the money into court and deposited it with the clerk, asking that a receiver be appointed for the company and that the receiver take all the money.

"The application is still pending and seeks to set aside the papers dissolving the company and asks an accounting from Wolf and that a reserve be set aside for the government. That is the argument that will be heard Monday. We did not ask that there be no prosecution."

HOME RULE GAINS EVEN IN ULSTER, IN DOUR BELFAST

island. They do not affiliate with British unions, but are purely Irish. One such is the Irish Transport Workers' union, which is vastly strong in Dublin and furnishes most of the strength of the revolutionary army attached to the Sinn Fein cause. This union has more than a thousand members in Belfast. Such an organization as this—apart from their revolutionary purposes, which seemed to me a little touched by bolshevism—are working to bring the north and south of Ireland together. That is surely the first step necessary in the solution of the Irish question, for as I see it England is most anxious to get a fair and permanent settlement, and the stubborn attitude of Ulster is the chief obstacle in the way.

Outside of Belfast.

But it would be utterly unfair to judge Ulster by the city of Belfast, where the great business men, many of them Scotch by birth, dominate the situation. The province of Ulster, vastly the richest and most populous of Ireland, elects twenty-four members to parliament. Of these seven are already Sinn Feiners pure and simple, and four more are Nationalists. In Ulster the Unionists have only thirteen, a bare majority of the members.

In the country districts of Ulster the Catholics and Protestants are learning to live and work together. In one small community in the county of Down members of both churches are working desperately hard in the ranks of the Sinn Fein. That I know personally. I am told the same condition exists quite generally in many other parts of the province.

Quarter of Belfast Catholic.

Even in Belfast at least one-quarter of the population is Catholic and for home rule. Even here they have made a few converts to the national cause from members of Protestant churches. And there is one piece of daily propaganda going on in Belfast, the importance of which I do not think is realized by those who should be most interested.

In Belfast jail are locked up a lot of Sinn Fein prisoners. The number varies from forty to seventy-five or a hundred. The jail is a long low stone building standing in the center of a great block. It is surrounded by a high brick wall, by tall hedges, and by a great iron fence. Only the tops of the windows of the jail are visible from the street.

At 11 Each Night.

Promptly at 11 o'clock every night from the perfectly dark jail comes a tremendous voice screaming, "Time to begin!" Then for from two to four hours the jail is turned into a debating platform and concert hall. Rebel songs make themselves heard even through all barriers. Rebel speeches are delivered at the top of strong voices. Wild bursts of cheers shatter sleep for blocks around. Tin pannikins rattle in a savage chorus against the bars of the cells.

Such is the nightly demonstration of Sinn Fein prisoners. The night I listened there were scores of men and women and children who slipped up, put their ears against the iron fence and listened in silence. This audience changed constantly. Those who made it up may have already belonged to the militant minority, but it seemed to me that the nightly demonstration was likely to win even alien sympathies, at least, to serve as constant reminder of the Sinn Fein cause.

It is a hard way to make converts. But everything about the Irish situation is hard and complicated. Certainly it seems to me that the Irish question will never be permanently settled, Irish people will never be happy until somehow Ulster and the south are reconciled.

Plan De Valera Welcome.

DUBLIN, March 22.—[By the Associated Press.]—The Sinn Fein executive makes the following announcement:

"President De Valera will arrive in Ireland Wednesday evening next and the executive of the Dail Eireann (Irish parliament) will offer him a national welcome. It is expected that his homecoming will be the occasion of national rejoicing. Full arrangements will be made for marshaling the procession.

"The lord mayor of Dublin will receive him at the gates of the city and escort him to the mansion house, where he will deliver a message to the Irish people."

FELS-NAPTHA

"Old friends are best"

We like the old songs, the old books, and the old folks—the old friends who have proved their worth. They have a place in our heart for what they are—for what they have done.

Fels-Naptha Soap is that sort of an old friend. For 25 years it has been making clothes pure, fresh, and snowy white. For 25 years it has been doing the washday work, quickly, easily, and without hard rubbing.

Fels-Naptha makes and holds friends because you don't have to boil the clothes to make them sweet, clean, and white. It has changed the dread of handling clumsy steaming boilers into the joy of freedom from drudgery.

Fels-Naptha is a friend in deeds—it loosens and dissolves dirt and grease. Cleans pots, pans, and kettles, freshens woodwork and brightens linoleum. Makes the whole house as well as the housewife smile.

The great big thing about Fels-Naptha Soap is—you don't have to boil the clothes unless you really want to.

GARRITY OFFERS 7 SUGGESTIONS TO CHECK CRIME

Chief Studies Conditions and Points Out the Remedy.

Chief of Police John J. Garrity made a special study of the crime situation in Chicago yesterday, visiting several outlying stations where holdups and robberies have been numerous, conferring with experienced officers of the department and going over records of this and other cities.

He prepared a statement in the evening setting forth his views as to the cause and cure of the present high peak of crime.

Seven Suggestions.

These are his chief recommendations:

"1. One thousand police officers should be added to the force at once.

"2. Steps should be taken not to parole any convicts to Cook county.

"3. The vagrancy law should be amended so as not to put the onus on the police of proving that the defendant has no lawful means of support.

"4. There should be a law making it a penitentiary offense to carry a revolver, except under certain conditions. The papers yesterday contained the statement that the Saddler gun law had been passed by the Illinois senate. I am not familiar with this law.

"5. When a petition for a writ of habeas corpus is presented, while it is incumbent for the court to issue the same, it should not be made returnable forthwith, but sufficient time should be given the police to prepare their case before it is made returnable.

"6. Swift and certain punishment for persons who commit crime.

"7. More high powered automobiles should be added to the department, so that they could be placed at various points in the city and thus enable the officers to arrive at the scene of the crime and get on the trail of the culprits almost immediately upon receiving the alarm."

Chief's Comment.

In commenting on the situation Chief Garrity said:

"Never in the history of the world have police departments been confronted with the conditions which obtain at the present time. The industrial situation today is the worst we have seen in years. Coupled with this is the general spirit of unrest. These conditions tend to destroy respect for law and order."

He told of crime waves in other cities and presented figures to show the numerical inadequacy of the force. He told of the many penal institutions around Chicago and the many paroled men that find their way here. Police officers detailed to this work since he was appointed have arrested and sent back to prison twenty-six parole violators.

Concerning Vagrancy Law.

Of the vagrancy law, he said:

"Under the vagrancy laws, as they exist today, it is necessary for the police to prove absolutely that the defendant has no lawful means of support. This is very difficult. A well known thief, being arrested, brings in a witness of easy conscience to say that the thief is working for him. It is almost impossible to prove otherwise. It is very disheartening to see the culprit placed on probation or fined a small sum or given a light sentence.

"Another great evil is the issuance of writs of habeas corpus for thieves. The majority of these writs are forthwith. We arrest a thief or a number of thieves whom we suspect of some crime. A writ is at once served upon us and we are compelled to produce the priosner in court immediately to show cause why we are holding him. We have no chance to give the victims of the crime any chance to identify the prisoners.

Action Too Long Delayed.

"One of the best cures for crime is the fear of swift and certain punishment. Today a person accused of a criminal offense can postpone his case almost indefinitely through one pretext or another."

Chief Garrity denied the charge made by one of the candidates for the mayoralty that 200 police officers were put in plain clothes to do political work. He said he had put the men in plain clothes because that was the best way to catch thieves.

A special order went out to all stations last night ordering records prepared on cases where the police felt that judges had been too lenient toward criminals of known reputation.

Mooney Orders Roundup.

Chief of Detectives James L. Mooney issued orders to his men yesterday to bring in every professional criminal in the city.

"Bring in every crook you see," he said. "Some of you have been loafing and I want you to stop it or I will get rid of you. Certain men have been failing to make arrests for political reasons. Politics has no place in the suppression of crime."

Chief Mooney says the great problem is to get rid of the professional criminals—have them put away in the jails.

"I can take care of the unemployed, the casual criminals," he said. "We must make Chicago a tough city for the crooks. They don't like Milwaukee because the judges up there give them hard jolts. They should do it here. There are hundreds of dangerous criminals on the streets."

Suggests Vigilantes.

Elmer E. Baldwin, real estate dealer, 3450 Indiana avenue, writes THE TRIBUNE as follows:

"This letter is to inform you that pickpockets are working on the south side street cars and especially on the Indiana avenue cars. I had my pocket picked last Tuesday afternoon, and one of my neighbors, W. S. Edale, 3438 Indiana avenue, had his pocket picked yesterday. Burglars also broke into the millinery shop at 108 East Thirty-fifth street a couple of days ago. They also broke into the dying and cleaning establishment at 316 East Thirty-fifth street. Robbers and thieves are getting so thick in this neighborhood that it will be necessary for us to form a vigilance committee and take things in our own hands unless we get better protection. We have absolutely no police protection in this part of the city."

WISCONSIN CONCERN BANKRUPT.

Madison, Wis., March 22.—The F. J. Borden company of Janesville, Wis., today filed a petition in bankruptcy in federal court here scheduling liabilities of $204,000 and assets of $160,000. The case was referred to C. F. Lamb, referee.

THE DIARY OF A BANDIT

Youth Gives Chief of Detectives His Daily Record of Robberies Accomplished with Friend 13 Years Old.

THIS diary of a holdup man was given to Chief of Detectives James L. Mooney and Lieut. Norton yesterday by Morrill Turner, 19 years old, colored, who was arrested with Charles Levy, 13 years old, colored, after the couple had staged a hectic career as bandits for a month.

"Saturday's record—I met Charles Levy at 5344 Federal street at 9 a. m. We went to Fifty-third and Shields avenue and stuck up a brewery man. I asked him for change for half a dollar. He said he did not have it. I told him to throw up his hands and he refused.

"'Shoot him,' Levy told me, so I shot him in the foot. We went back to the house and split the money. Then we went to Sixtieth and Normal. Levy said, 'There's an auto; let's get in.' So we got in and rode away. We went to Seventy-fourth and State about 11 a. m. and went into a bakery to get some cakes. I gave the woman 50 cents and we went into a back room. I saw a revolver there and grabbed it and ran out of the back door.

"We went to Thirty-ninth and Prairie, where we saw a man getting out of a laundry auto. We grabbed him and he handed over his change. We got into his auto, but couldn't make it go and left it. We took a State street car to Fifty-third and State, where we were pinched.

"Friday's record—Loafed around, spending money.

"Thursday's record—We held up a man at Forty-sixth and Dearborn. He refused to hold up his hands, so we let him go. At Forty-sixth and Armour we went into a store and got $17. We held up a woman there. She said:

"'Boys, please don't shoot,' and we let her go.

"We went to Levy's home and split the money. We stayed around a poolroom at Fifty-third and State. In the afternoon we held up a tea wagon driver at Fifty-eighth and Wabash and got $75. A man came along in an auto truck and we got away in that.

"Wednesday's record—We stole an auto and went out on the south side. Smashed the radiator. Left it and stole two Fords."

Turner and Levy and two other colored boys, one known as "Blackie," now in the county jail, and another named Getz, out on bonds, are held responsible for many south side holdups and robberies during the last month. Levy lives with his parents at 5344 Federal street.

Thirty-seven crooks were taken in by the police squads yesterday and are being held for identifications and court action.

APPROVE PLAN TO ADD TO SOUTH PARK DISTRICT

All the improvement and neighborhood organizations on the far south side have indorsed the little ballot carrying the proposed annexation to the south park district of the territory in the Thirty-second ward west of State street and extending from West Eighty-seventh to West One Hundred and Seventh street.

The ultimate aim of the improvement clubs is a boulevard link connecting the south side with the Lincoln and Dixie highways.

Some opposition has developed over the question of taxes. The boosters point out that the south park tax rate is the lowest of all park rates in the city, being only 43 cents on the $100 of taxable property last year. At present the south park people are estopped from going beyond State street on the west and south of West Eighty-seventh street with any improvements.

It is pointed out that the north side has Sheridan road to the limits, the west side has the two boulevards, Jackson and Washington, but the great far south side has no connecting link to the limits. The property owners declare the benefits accruing from the proposed annexation will be many times in value the taxation that would be imposed.

Heintz Appointment to Chicago G. O. P. Post Made

New York, March 22.—Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, today announced the appointment of Capt. Victor Heintz of Cincinnati, O., as head of the Chicago regional headquarters of the committee. He will be assisted by E. V. Chilson of Ann Arbor, Mich. The headquarters will be opened Monday.

HOLDS UP LOOP CAFE WITH TOY GUN IN NOON RUSH

Robber "Armed" with a Cigar Cutter, Cop Discovers.

The well groomed young man, who a moment before had given his order to the waiter, left his table and stepped briskly to the cashier's cage in the Golden Pheasant café, 72 West Madison street. It was a few minutes after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

"A package of cigarets," he requested, and Mrs. Maude Kelly, the cashier, procured it from a case at her right.

"A pleasant afternoon," the suave young man continued, flipping 50 cents upon the counter and glancing about the crowded place.

"Indeed so," Mrs. Kelly rejoined, as she turned to her cash register to procure his change.

Pistol Covers Cashier.

The register stuck, so it was a moment before the cashier was at liberty to glance toward her customer. And when she did so she noticed that he had shifted his position to directly in front of her wicket, and that through the little opening in the grill where money passes was peeking a black object that in all respects resembled an automatic pistol.

The young man's smile had vanished. His eyes, moreover, had a sinister glint.

"Open that drawer under your hand," he directed, and Mrs. Kelly complied.

"Hand over the tin box!"

It contained the major portion of the day's receipts—$700 or $800.

Mrs. Kelly glanced about. At tables all about persons were dining—fully a hundred of them; waiters were passing, and buss boys, too; while not far away stood the girl at the check room door. But, by one of those curious chances that make such things possible, none observed her plight.

Grating Hole Too Small.

She placed the cash box on top of her desk and pushed it toward the grating. There, however, fortune ceased to favor the well-groomed young man. The box was too large to pass through the opening.

"The money—quick!" he commanded, thrusting the muzzle of the object that looked like a magazine pistol two inches nearer the cashier.

The box was filled with silver for the most part, but near the top lay fifty one dollar bills, wrapped in a package, ready for the bank.

Mrs. Kelly seized it and thrust it into the young man's hand. He smiled—for just a minute—before he darted down the stairs toward the door to the street.

Calls for Help.

The cashier swayed on her stool. Yet she knew that the recovery of the money depended on her retaining consciousness. So——

"Charley—Charley Wong!" she called, and waiter No. 26, who was returning from the kitchen with the well groomed young man's meal, set down his tray abruptly and hastened to her.

"Get him—get that man!" she whispered, pointing to the young man's back, which was vanishing through the entrance. "But, O!" she cried, as Wong started in pursuit, "look out for that terrible gun!"

The young man had elected to leave by the Clark street door. He ran a few steps to Madison street, darted into a group of people, and then began to walk toward Dearborn. Charley Wong was hot on his trail.

At Dearborn and Madison streets stood Patrolman George Brady, whom the army released to the traffic squad less than a month ago. Charley circled the fugitive and gained the policeman's ear.

Look Out for Gun.

"Arrest that man," he said. "He just robbed the Golden Pheasant. But look out—he's got a gun."

"Humph!" said Brady, and seized the young man's swagger coat tails.

"Look out what you do with your hands," Brady admonished, "and walk along with me to the patrol box."

They reached the signal station without adventure, and there the policeman started to relieve his prisoner of his artillery. Suddenly, however, his hands encountered nothing more material than the atmosphere and the dapper young man was worming his way into the crowd.

"Gun" Is Cigar Cutter.

Brady leaped after him, wrapped himself about him, and felt for his hip pocket. The black metal object came to light and Brady regarded it with interest. In all respects it resembled a magazine pistol, but was, in fact, a cigar cutter.

At the Central detail police station the young man described himself as Bernard F. O'Neill, 28 years old, of 4348 Wrightwood avenue.

O'Neill is employed by the cost accounting department of Sheppard-Strassheim company, wholesale grocers, 670 West Randolph street, and resides with his wife and four children at the home of his father, Frank O'Neill, a collector for John M. Smyth company, furniture dealers.

Protests His Innocence.

O'Neill protested innocence. He asserted he was on his way to the Twelfth street station to meet his mother-in-law and sister-in-law, who arrived from Michigan City, Ind., at 1:30, when he was arrested. He denied having been in the café and explained the presence of the cigar cutter by saying that he was taking it to have it sharpened.

Lieut. Edward Conroy said several employés of the restaurant had identified him. Fifty $1 bills in a bank binder were found in his pockets, Detective Sergeants Edward Goggin and John Prendergast, who searched him, said.

TWO ARRESTED AS LEADERS OF HOLDUP GANG

5,000 Idle Colored Men Blamed for Series of Crimes.

In the arrest of Michael Henry, 1349 West Thirteenth street, and James Weir, 1513 Washburn avenue, both of whom were taken in a poolroom raid at Twelfth and Paulina streets yesterday, Chief of Detectives Mooney thinks he has found the leaders of a gang of holdup men responsible for many jobs.

Henry is a paroled Pontiac prisoner and was the driver of a bandit car which figured in a sensational chase two years ago. Mooney, then a lieutenant, led a squad of riflemen which captured the holdup men after a running fight.

Henry is said to be one of the Lufman-Hadesman-Stamm gang in the Marquette station district. Louis Lufman, "Chick" Hadesman, and Robert Stamm are under indictment.

Robberies of the Day.

Shot and seriously wounded while stealing some lard from Wilson & Co., where he was employed, Edward Hardiman, colored, 4537 Prairie avenue, gave the name of a fellow employé—Henry Dawson, 6823 South Robey street, who incidentally is not colored. Inquiries made by Dawson when his wife began receiving telephone calls asking about the shooting disclosed the true situation.

Idleness Blamed for Crime.

The presence in the southern section of the city of more than 5,000 colored men who were brought to Chicago by packing companies during the war and who recently have been discharged to make room for returning soldiers was given as one of the chief reasons for the many recent holdups and burglaries traced to colored criminals.

Chief Garrity declared the colored settlement in the Fiftieth street police district was especially crowded with laborers who are now unemployed.

ABOUT MAYOR'S PRIME MINISTER, MR. FRED LUNDIN

Civil Service Laws Made Farce as 'Poor Swede' Builds Machine.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

[Fourth Article on the Record of Thompson as Mayor.]

Mayor Thompson is the main issue. But to understand the issue one needs must study Fred Lundin, prime minister and O. K. man of the "Big Bill" régime. Bill is mayor and mouthpiece; Fred is premier and headpiece. Fred thinks; Bill talks—an ideal distribution of work.

An interesting figure in local politics is the "poor Swede," as Lundin loves to call himself, with his amber goggles to match his mop of hair, his low cut black wes'kit with the jet buttons, his Japanese pink mink fur coat, and his everlasting grin—yes, indeed, an interesting figure and well worth the study of the voters.

Lundin always insists he is not in politics. "I'm only a poultry farmer," he modestly declaims. True enough, he always has political eggs in the incubator. His great dream has been to hatch out a political machine that will dominate in Chicago and Illinois. Thompson is his "front"; the card index of jobs is his instrument; the city hall patronage is the "juice" for his machine. Organization is his specialty, and "blocks of five" are his system.

Riot of Spoils Politics.

Organization rests on jobs, and on the ruins of civil service in the last four years a city hall machine has been built such as Chicago never saw before. It is second only to Tammany, and it has shown its strength in the last two Republican primaries. They have built it through a riot of spoils politics, with no blue sky limit at the hall, and as a result public service has taken to crutches.

Politics and city affairs have tangoed together as never before, and the taxpayers are now invited to pay for the cabaret party by an increase in tax rates and by authorizing a $9,500,000 bond issue to pay off bills for current expenses which have piled up, while the $2,800,000 surplus which Carter Harrison left in the treasury has vanished with last year's roses.

To get a perspective on the part Lundin's card index of jobs has played we'll turn the clock backward to 1915. Lundin was the real Thompson manager. In the old Union hotel in Randolph street Fred worked out the tactics and served as a board of strategy. His was the final word.

When Thompson got his plurality of 147,477 he fell on Lundin's neck as the wizard who had pulled the feat. To celebrate the victory the boys of the inner circle went boating down the Illinois river. When they got back Fred had intrenched himself even more solidly with Bill.

He was established in "city hall No. 2" at the Hotel Sherman, where he kept Charles S. Deneen and other high moguls warming chairs in his antechamber until they got weary and left. A card index was put in to parcel out the patronage. Fred's was the hand that pinned the medals on the battlers; he was the job dispenser, builder of the city hall machine, the O. K. man of the new administration.

At first it was hard to pry many of the precinct wallopers onto the payroll. Civil service stood in the way. So the small pickings were distributed, such as contracts to put teams to work removing garbage—"chop suey wagons," the battlers called them. And the legal department, too, was rich in prospects; many landed here, among them several Negroes in recognition of the vote the Second ward yielded Thompson.

People Have Short Memories.

In his campaign Thompson had promised of the merit law, "I favor upholding in spirit and in letter the city of Chicago civil service law." That was before the election, however, and one of the mottoes at "city hall No. 2" is "The People Have Short Memories." A new civil service commission was appointed and then began an astonishing raid on the city's classified service.

In four months 9,163 sixty day appointees were given jobs. What this meant may be seen from the fact that the whole service of Chicago did not greatly exceed 20,000 positions. This was in the summer time—no blizzards required emergency forces of street cleaners. During the first year's administration of the Thompson civil service commission 30,675 temporary appointments were made. They kept the card index of jobs busy.

Some instances of the political job delivery were especially raw and were investigated by council committees. The courts ordered reinstatement of some of the employés thrown out, but few got back on the payrolls—instead a new dodge was invented, a man would be put back and at once his job would be abolished for "economy's sake," and soon afterwards the same job under a new name would be filled with a sixty day political appointee.

Cases in Point.

It may be well to refresh the memory by recalling a few cases:

On May 7, 1915, six experts of efficiency were laid off by the civil service commission for "lack of work and of funds." Afterwards their jobs were filled by political appointees. This was all in violation of the law as shown by subsequent court decisions.

On May 8, 1915, J. L. Jacobs, expert of system and organization, was laid off pending investigation. No investigation was made. On June 5, the commission entered an order that inasmuch as the period of suspension of Jacobs would expire June 7, he should be restored to duty and that he be laid off June 8 on account of "lack of funds," and that his job should be abolished. Then, on July 19, the commission appointed a city day man to the Jacobs job, which had been abolished "for lack of funds." Jacobs went into court and the supreme bench ordered his reinstatement, but he has never gone back.

The Blachly Case.

On May 13, 1915, Clarence D. Blachly, superintendent of the bureau of social surveys, was dismissed. He had won the position in a competitive examination in which he was the only one who passed. Mrs. Leonora Z. Meder made a report that Blachly was "unqualified for the work," and wrote: "This is in accordance with instructions from Mayor Thompson." Later Mrs. Meder wrote to Mr. Blachly, stating he was the most efficient assistant she ever had and that she was simply obeying orders.

After Blachly's dismissal the position was given to Mrs. Page Waller Eaton, a stump speaker in the Thompson campaign, who testified later that she was told she was to have this appointment May 2, which was eleven days before Blachly was let out. The Eaton case, it will be remembered, developed into the "split salary" scandal, in which Mrs. Eaton charged that she had to "come across" with part of her salary to a political fund. Blachly took his case through three courts, all of which ordered him reinstated. But he never was.

July 13, 1915, the civil service commission cancelled a police captains' eligible list that had been posted March 25, under the previous administration. Such a protest went up over this outrage that on Dec. 8 the commission reversed its action and restored the list.

Example in Police Service.

Aug. 6, 1915, George H. Weideling, a sergeant, took an examination for police lieutenant. He stood No. 45 on the list. Forty-three of the men ahead of him were forced by pressure to waive their claims and Weideling got the job.

A finance committee report, published in the city council proceedings of Dec. 6, 1915, said of this: "There were persistent rumors of the notorious use of influence on the part of the chief of police to compel the waivers of those above Weideling on the list, so that Weideling might be appointed."

June 11, 1915, the commission cancelled an examination that had been held April 18 for the post of sanitary inspector in charge. It said "better results" would be attained by leaving the position at the disposal of the health commissioner. On June 8 Dr. E. B. Miller was appointed to the position—he had worked for Thompson. He is a brother of Harry B. Miller, city prosecutor, whom the hall forces later ran for state's attorney.

These are only a few instances, and most of them were discussed in the finance committee's report of Nov. 22, 1915. The civil service operations had been so raw and coarse that the city council, on Dec. 10, by a vote of 44 to 20, recommended the removal of the commissioners.

Boiler Inspector's Department.

But stop! We almost overlooked the case of Boiler Inspector George E. Nye, who appeared before the finance committee on July 15, 1915, and almost took its breath away by saying he had eleven boiler inspector's helpers in his office and that their work could be done by four inspectors. In naïve confidence that a new day had dawned, the committee authorized Mr. Nye to lay off the eleven helpers. They had been getting $90 a month. Then Nye proceeded to appoint not only the four additional inspectors authorized but a total of eleven inspectors. They got $120 a month. Thus Nye had not only pried several jobs open for the battlers, but had also succeeded in boosting the pay. "Economy!"

The finance committee investigated and in a report said, "All of these new inspectors were temporary appointees, whose names were sent down from the office of the mayor. Three of them were former helpers who were appointed as inspectors, their pay at the same time being raised from $90 to $120 a month. The testimony shows these appointments were made upon a political basis."

The committee recommended the dismissal of Mr. Nye, and the council concurred by a vote of 42 to 22. But the mayor merely yawned.

Mr. Nye as a "Fixer."

Mr. Nye, due, perhaps, to his work around boilers, appears to have developed a penchant for getting into hot water. When the mayor needed votes for some of his measures, Mr. Nye set about lining up the aldermen. A description of his methods is found in a report of the judiciary committee on page 2,236 of the council proceedings of Nov. 22, 1915. In part it says:

"Ald. Henry P. Bergen appeared and testified that on Nov. 5 he found a note in his mail box from the said George E. Nye, chief boiler inspector, asking him to call at the office of Mr. Nye.

"Mr. Bergen stated that he did call on Mr. Nye; that the latter upbraided him for voting against measures approved by Mayor Thompson, and notified him that his voting in the council on Nov. 8, on confirmation of members of the board of education and on the ordinance providing for a committee on standards and apportionment would be watched, and that if he did not vote as the mayor desired, his brother Richard Bergen, an employé of the chief boiler inspector's office, would be dismissed from the city's employ on Nov. 9."

Bergen Let Out.

Ald. Bergen stated he informed Mr. Nye he might as well discharge Richard Bergen at once, as he would not let his vote be influenced in that way.

Richard Bergen, sure enough, was dismissed without notice, Nov. 8.

The finance committee's report termed these methods of coercion an attempt at "bribery." It recommended Nye's dismissal, and the council, Dec. 10, 1915, concurred by a vote of 44 to 20. But Nye is still holding down his job.

A

'TRIBUNE' BALLOT SHOWS SEVENTH WARD FOR HOYNE

Gets More Votes than the Mayor and Sweitzer Combined.

Maclay Hoyne, independent candidate for mayor, collected a lead of 3 to 1 over both Mayor William Hale Thompson and Robert M. Sweitzer, his Democratic opponent, in a batch of 160 straw ballots gathered for THE TRIBUNE yesterday in the Seventh ward. Both the mayor and Sweitzer together received only half as many votes as Hoyne. Fitzpatrick got twelve there, which appears to be an unusual number, according to past indications.

Four years ago Mayor Thompson ran away with the Seventh ward by 11,287 plurality. There seems to be a difference in the sentiment out in the Seventh this time—a difference apparent not only in the small number of votes given the mayor, but the "switches" by Thompson voters of four years ago to Hoyne. Ninety-three out of Hoyne's ninety-six straws in the Seventh were "switches" from "Thompson to Hoyne." The other three Hoyne voters indicated they come over from Sweitzer, but it is Sweitzer strength that is chiefly going to Fitzpatrick.

Vote in Cigar Store.

A batch of 318 straws taken in a United Cigar store at Halsted and Madison streets showed 126 for Sweitzer, and 84 and 73 respectively for Mayor Thompson and Maclay Hoyne. Here again there was a sign that Fitzpatrick, the Labor party candidate, will have more strength on election day than the politicians generally credit him with, for he received twenty-eight of the votes taken.

Maclay Hoyne led in the day's balloting by twenty-two votes. A visit to several more office buildings — the Unity, Hartford, and Stock Exchange —probably was the cause of this, for it has been noted in the canvass of the business and commercial men and their employés in the office buildings, that they lean at an acute angle toward Maclay Hoyne. Robert Sweitzer took second place in yesterday's poll, and the mayor third.

Results for Day.

The results are:

Thompson	241
Sweitzer	286
Fitzpatrick	54
Hoyne	308

How political undercurrents are moving is best illustrated by a glance at the percentages of the total vote held by the various candidates from day to day since the poll was started. The cumulative percentage of the total vote held by each of the three leading candidates is given below:

	Thompson.	Sweitzer.	Hoyne.
March 12	43.4	39.7	11
March 13	42	39.3	12
March 14	40.8	39	12.2
March 15	44.6	38.2	13
March 16	39.4	36.2	15.2
March 17	39	36.5	14.1
March 18	38.2	37.3	15.4
March 19	36.4	36	19.4
March 20	34.9	36.5	20.4
March 21	34.9	36.5	20.6
March 22	32.8	36.3	21.6
March 23	32.4	35.9	22.6

It appears from the above that Maclay Hoyne is steadily gaining on Thompson and Sweitzer, and that John Fitzpatrick is ably assisting and abetting, so far as Sweitzer power is concerned.

HELD UNDER MANN ACT.

Joseph McCarthy, 6613 Stewart avenue, was held yesterday for further hearing under bonds of $1,000 by United States Commissioner Mark A. Foote, charged with violation of the Mann act. McCarthy took Gertrude Franz, 5831 Calumet avenue, to Milwauke, Wis. He said she paid her own fare.

RESULTS OF "TRIBUNE" STRAW VOTE

"TRIBUNE" straw ballot collectors yesterday visited the Unity, the Hartford, and the Stock Exchange buildings. Some straws also were gathered in the Seventh ward and in a United Cigar store at Halsted and Madison streets, a busy corner where a vote representative of every section of the city might be obtained. Here are the figures:

7	Taken in business sections	160	19	28	12	96
Misc.	Taken in United Cigar store at Madison and Halsted	318	84	126	28	73
Misc.	Unity building	132	31	49	10	36
Misc.	Hartford building	104	29	29	0	46
Misc.	Stock Exchange building.	193	78	54	4	57
	Totals yesterday	907	241	286	54	308
	Previous vote	11,063	3,639	4,007	936	2,397
	Total vote	11,970	3,880	4,293	990	2,705
	Per cent of total vote		32.4	35.9	9.1	22.6

Note—The figures do not exactly balance when added crosswise. This is because a few ballots which went to Collins were included in the totals.

MAYOR ATTACKS SWEITZER STAND ON REFERENDUM

Mayor Thompson yesterday discussed the traction question, attacking the views of Robert M. Sweitzer.

"One of my Democratic opponents, Mr. Sweitzer, makes the statement that he would, if elected, submit all traction ordinances to the people for their approval," he said. "It is very gracious of Mr. Sweitzer to say that he would allow the people to vote on questions of this kind, especially in view of the fact that the mayor has no control over such matters and no power to determine whether or not a proposed ordinance shall be submitted to a referendum vote.

"It would be more to the point if Mr. Sweitzer would state his attitude toward an ordinance such as the one passed by the city council last fall authorizing the increase in car fares which I vetoed, and which the people later rejected by an overwhelming vote.

"Mr. Sweitzer's statements put him in the attitude of saying that he would approve such an ordinance. This, I think, may be fairly assumed from the language used and from the fact that Mr. Sweitzer never raised his voice against this iniquitous ordinance, and from the further fact that the people supporting his candidacy were known to be favorable to the passage of that ordinance. I desire in this connection to ask Mr. Sweitzer if it is not a fact that the traction interests made substantial contributions to his campaign fund last fall when he was reelected county clerk for a term of four years?"

WILSON HOLDS LEAD IN CHOICE OF OVERSEA MEN

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—Returning overseas troops who were asked today regarding their preferences for president in 1920, declared in favor of Woodrow Wilson. Gen. Leonard Wood was second choice. The troops were scattered among many states, though most of them came from the south. The result of today's poll follows:

Wilson	79	Johnson	19
Wood	43	Root	19
McAdoo	42	Lodge	7
Pershing	36	Baker	6

The leaders in the cumulative vote for sixteen days are:

Wilson	2,472	Daniels	90
Wood	1,594	Lodge	79
McAdoo	1,233	Baker	72
Pershing	659	Borah	55
Johnson	414	Lansing	41
Taft	211	Schwab	16
Hughes	345	Root	23

CLINNIN URGES REPUBLICAN AID FOR SWEITZER

Col. John V. Clinnin, commanding the One Hundred and Thirtieth infantry of the Thirty-third (Prairie) division, sent an indorsement yesterday for Robert M. Sweitzer for mayor. Col. Clinnin is a Republican and was a member of Mayor Thompson's inside circle until America entered the war, when he resigned as assistant corporation counsel.

The letter reads as follows:

"My Dear Bob: Congratulations upon your success at the primary. Here's hoping that you take the second line of trenches and capture the city hall in April.

"It may not be ethical for a Republican to advance the cause of Democracy by assisting the representative of your party to elective office, but in the interest of good government and Chicago it is permissible to break party lines.

"Having the privilege of your acquaintance and friendship for twenty-five years, I make no mistake in voicing an opinion as to your ability, character, and reputation. As a man you are above reproach. In public life your record is 'honest and faithful.' Your name in the commercial world is a trademark which stands for integrity, honesty, patriotism, and executive ability. Possessed of all these qualifications, you make an ideal candidate for mayor of Chicago.

"Our great city may well trust her fair name and future welfare into your keeping."

SALOONKEEPER FINED $25.

George Witas, saloonkeeper at 3138 South Halsted street, was fined $25 and costs yesterday by Judge Williams in the Municipal court on a charge of selling whisky and beer in a "soft drink parlor" he operates in the basement of the saloon.

LID PRIED OFF IN LAST LAP OF MAYORALTY RACE

Hidden Issues Brought to the Fore for Last Week.

Dr. Charles F. Whalen was toastmaster.

Thompson Plans Made.

The Thompson forces had no spectacular event on the bill for last night, but are saving their ammunition for the last week.

They promised yesterday that they would stage a windup week that will outdo anything ever attempted in Chicago. They will bring the ballyhooing to a climax Saturday night at the Coliseum with a parade of all their workers from the thirty-five wards of the town, with transparencies, floats, streets ablaze with crimson flame, and "Big Bill" riding at the head as "our hero."

National spokesmen are to be imported to speak for the mayor. Congressmen Madden and Mason already are on the stump. Col. Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Illinois central committee, is coming back to put in a plug for "his honor" and Congressman Richard Yates is expected to be tearing up the turf for the city hall in the last three or four days of the battle.

Fitzpatrick, the new Labor party candidate for chief magistrate, is coming into the last lap with hair raising appeals to the laborers to arise and take possession of their destiny—now.

Hoyne Attacks Religious Issue.

Mr. Hoyne last night returned to the attack on the religious issue, which he charges has been raised by both the Thompson and Sweitzer forces. He declared it was un-American and cowardly, and that the voters should rebuke it at this time and forever bury it in Chicago.

In part Mr. Hoyne's second day statement on this issue follows:

"As an example of this insidious and nefarious kind of campaigning, I call attention to a paid advertisement which appears in the Revyen, a Danish-Norwegian weekly, under date of March, 1919, inserted in the interest of Robert M. Sweitzer, who, as it is well known, is a Catholic, in which it is said:

"'Scandinavian Democrats in Chicago recommend Robert M. Sweitzer for mayor. A vote for Sweitzer is a vote for the Scandinavian people's participation in the city government. Sweitzer is a man of honor. His father was a life-long Free Mason. He has promised a liberal and impartial administration. Vote for him.'

Quotes Sweitzer "Ad."

"In the Dziennik Chicagoski (Polish Daily News) of Tuesday, March 18, 1919, column one, page three, there appears a paid advertisement, sent out from the Sweitzer headquarters, which contains an appeal to the Polish Catholic voters setting forth reasons why Sweitzer should receive the Catholic vote. This appeal, among other things, says:

"'Robert M. Sweitzer was born in Chicago, and his parents descended from Ireland. His father's name was Roche, who died when the mayoralty candidate was a child. His mother married again, a man named Sweitzer, of German descent, and Robert retained his name. Robert, therefore, has not a drop of German blood in his veins. He is an American, born in Chicago. He is of Roman Catholic faith, is engaged in various charitable and public matters, and bears an active part in charitable societies. He never steps backs from personal donations for humanitarian purposes. Likewise, as a proof of his achievements, he was honored with the rank of chairman of the United Catholic Charities.'

"Of course these questions and this issue are entirely irrelevant in this or any other campaign, and it is outrageous that a campaign should be waged on this issue.

Tells His Own Religion.

"I have never in my public career discussed religious questions, and, on the other hand, I have never pretended to be anything that I was not. I have no reason for concealment, and therefore I state the exact facts.

"Both my parents were brought up in the Baptist church. So were my wife and myself. I became acquainted with my wife at a Baptist Sunday school, saw her baptized in a Baptist church in this city, and in the same church we were married by the Rev. George C. Lorimer, deceased.

"Three of my four grandparents were Baptists, and one of them was a Roman Catholic. The latter grandfather, Thomas Hoyne, was left an orphan at the age of about 8 years and was befriended by and brought up in the home of my great grandfather, the Rev. Archibald Maclay, a Baptist minister in New York City. Thomas Hoyne was sent to Catholic schools and church by my great grandfather and remained a Catholic all his life and was buried from St. Mary's church in Chicago. Fortunately, in those days, people were allowed to hold their religious beliefs as something sacred and private, and it was not a matter of public interest. Thomas Hoyne married Leonora Temple, a daughter of John Temple of Virginia, a pioneer Chicagoan. Leonora Temple was baptized a Baptist in Lake Michigan and reared all her children in the Baptist faith. Although Thomas Hoyne was a Catholic, he was the president of the board of trustees of the old Chicago university, a Baptist institution. He also provided the money to found the present law school of Northwestern university, a Methodist institution."

Civil Service Issue.

The Civil Service Reform association jumped into the fray with an indorsement of Sweitzer, Fitzpatrick, and Collins, but cracking the mayor and Mr. Hoyne.

Prominent Republican business men continued to flock to Sweitzer, with John V. Farwell and Col. John V. Clinnin leading the Saturday switch.

Party lines have been shot to pieces right and left, until the old line dope on what is going to happen fails.

The school issue bobbed up on the eve of the Sabbath, with a religious tinge to it, the anti-Sweitzer people charging in Catholic districts that Sweitzer was not going to appoint Catholics to the school board.

Traction and Gas.

Traction and gas worked overtime yesterday and last night, "Big Bill" shouting against the "barons" and Sweitzer promising that he would act within ten days to get relief for the populace from both.

Hoyne lit into 'em with the rapier thrust that neither were honest-to-God patriots on either issue, that both were tarred with the same stick, and that the only hope of relief was to put a man in the mayor's chair that had the nerve and honesty to tell everybody to go jump in the lake if they didn't toe the mark for honest government.

Only one spot in the town was left to its rejoicings—the Second ward—which all camps conceded to Mayor Thompson.

Claims of Thompson.

Up in the German wards the Thompson people are claiming 90 per cent of the votes, both men and women. This vote, with the Negro group almost solid, a big batch of the Swedes, and a goodly share of the ministers and dry supporters, Thompson's managers claim, will put it over again, with a large number to the good.

The Sweitzer people professed confidence as they closed their desks at night. The Democratic organization strength, the swing of the city's business forces to the county clerk, and the forces that are out to beat Thompson with any one, the spearing of most of the Harrison and Carey league leaders, and the rounding up of a portion of the labor vote, said "Bob's" managers, will bring home the bacon for the regular Jeffersonian candidate.

To all of which Mr. Hoyne and his men said "nothing doing." Their dope is that this is a campaign in which the city is going to smash all precedents and enter on the new life with a mayor who is 100 per cent on the square and 100 per cent American.

And there you are.

In the Political Pot

$100,000 on Sweitzer.

Ald. John Powers announced last night that that amount is available at the saloon of Walter J. Powers, 162 West Washington street, for Thompson or Hoyne admirers to cover. "Even money—one hundred to a hundred thousand, nobody barred," said the alderman.

Frank Koraleski, a member of the board of assessors for several years and a Democrat in politics, yesterday announced he would support Mayor Thompson for mayor.

War mothers of Chicago will hold a meeting at the Hotel Sherman today to indorse Sweitzer for mayor.

Mrs. Charles H. Sergel, wife of the president of the sanitary district board, has signed her name to a recommendation of Ald. George F. Iliff for reelection in the Third ward.

The nonpartisan lawyers' committee which is advocating the reëlection of Judge John M. O'Connor of the Superior court has secured the written indorsement for Judge O'Connor of 1,420 lawyers of Chicago. Among them are the following: Charles S. Cutting P. J. Lucey, Robert N. Holt, Shirley T. High, Lessing Rosenthal, Clarence N. Goodwin, James G. Condon, William Rothmann, Andrew J. Ryan, Albert M. Kales, Thomas M. Hoyne, Nathan G. Moore, Benson Landon, Edward Osgood Brown, Harrison B. Riley, Edwin J. Raber, A. F. Reichmann.

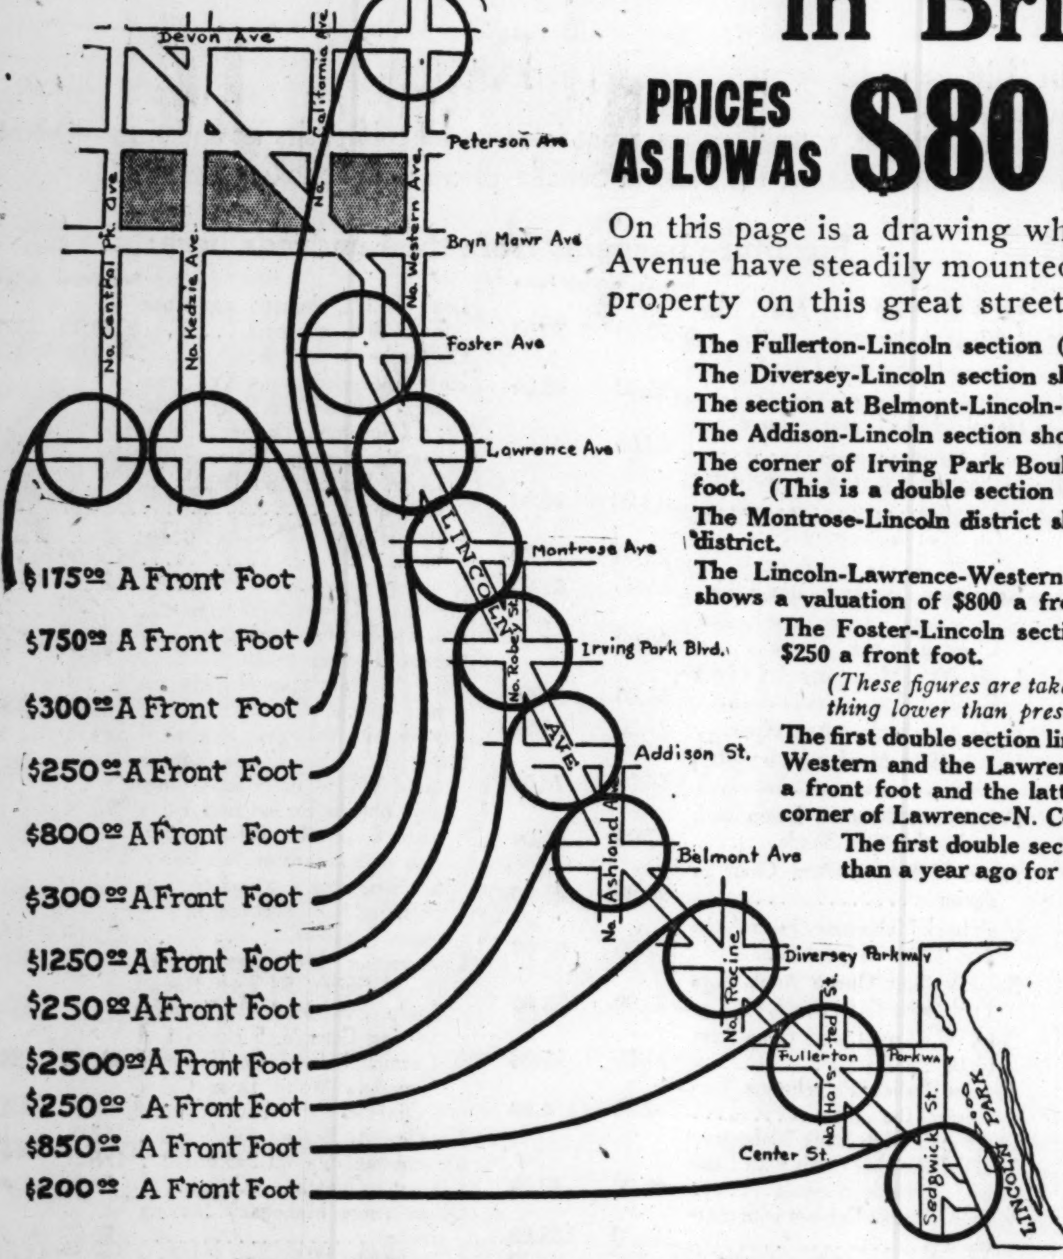
Lincoln Ave. Business Lots in Britiganwood

PRICES AS LOW AS $80 A FRONT FOOT



On this page is a drawing which shows accurately how values on Lincoln Avenue have steadily mounted. Starting from Lincoln Park, the business property on this great street shows a remarkable graduation of values.

The Fullerton-Lincoln section (full section line) is $850 a front foot.

The Diversey-Lincoln section shows $250 a front foot.

The section at Belmont-Lincoln-Ashland shows $2,500 a front foot.

The Addison-Lincoln section shows a valuation of $250 a front foot.

The corner of Irving Park Boulevard-N. Robey-Lincoln Ave. is valued at $1,250 a front foot. (This is a double section line.)

The Montrose-Lincoln district shows a value of $300 a front foot. This is a half section line district.

The Lincoln-Lawrence-Western district, which is a double section line business district, shows a valuation of $800 a front foot.

The Foster-Lincoln section (a half section line intersection) shows a valuation of $250 a front foot.

(These figures are taken from Olcott's Manual for 1918, and the figures are if anything lower than present prices which obtain for this property.)

The first double section line corners directly south of Britiganwood are the Lawrence-Western and the Lawrence-Kedzie districts. The former shows a valuation of $800 a front foot and the latter a valuation of $750 a front foot. The half section line corner of Lawrence-N. Central Park Ave. shows a valuation of $175 a front foot.

The first double section line corner north of Britiganwood was actually sold less than a year ago for $29,900, and is today worth probably $325 per front foot.

These Figures Prove We Are Selling Below Market

We have repeatedly said to the public that the prices of our Lincoln Ave. property are in reality far below the market. Study the figures on this page and study the map and you will be convinced that this is an existing fact. Within a few years Britiganwood will have a population of 20,000—in ten years it should have a population of 30,000. To provide for this population there will be expended in building operations nearly $25,000,000, and when the district is settled its annual purchasing power should be approximately $14,000,000. Judged by the ordinary Chicago development standards every foot of our Lincoln Ave. business property should increase 100% or more in the next ten years.

We Are Going to Raise These Prices Soon

Practically every residence lot in Britiganwood is sold. As soon as building operations begin in earnest you will see a wonderful building development in this subdivision. Then the speculative values in Britiganwood business property will begin and the market will reflect wonderful changes in this property, with steadily mounting prices. We are today justified in asking considerably more for our business property than the prices we have been getting. We cannot long continue to offer this property at the low prices which obtain today.

Come Out Today! These Lots Are Going Rapidly!!

In order that you may see BRITIGANWOOD and to enable us to show you the relation of Lincoln and Bryn Mawr Avenue business lots to this great property you should plan to come out TODAY, no matter what the condition of the weather.

HOW TO GET THERE—Take a through route Lincoln Avenue car and ride to the end of the line (Berwyn Avenue), where you will meet our automobile which will bring you to the property. Or telephone Randolph 7400 and we will have an automobile call at your home and take you out to the property. We will see that you have a comfortable trip, no matter what the condition of the weather.

Extraordinary Sale!

48.50 for a $75.00 Genuine Worsted Wilton Rug

A Special Purchase of Remarkably Individual Patterns

(All 9x12 Feet)

Once every year the big carpet mills have an accumulation of yarns left over from special patterned Rugs. These yarns are then made up into most unusual and individual designs. Under ordinary conditions these Rugs would sell for $75.00, but because these yarns are left over from the year's weaving, the mills have taken this loss on themselves so as to make use of the yarns.

We have just 130 of these Rugs to sell. You cannot buy more durable or suitably patterned Rugs, for this money, for your Dining Room, Reception Halls or Offices. These are the finest quality of worsted yarns woven up into Royal Wilton Rugs.

Being wholesale distributors for this mill we have had the opportunity to purchase these Rugs at almost ridiculous prices and are giving you the benefit of it.

HOYNE ONLY HOPE IN MAYOR RACE, DARROW WRITES

Indicts Thompson on War Record, Says Sweitzer Is Machine Product.

BY CLARENCE S. DARROW.

I shall vote for Maclay Hoyne for mayor. During the most critical period of the world's history, while this country was at war with a foreign power, the mayor of the second largest city in America has used his influence to weaken our power, to discourage our people, and to strengthen the enemy. Every effort of America to defeat Germany has been opposed by Thompson.

This would have been of little consequence had he not officially represented Chicago. He was not elected on the war issue, and the people of Chicago are not responsible for the fact that the world has questioned and doubted the loyalty of this great city, and especially the foreign born population, during the war, but if he should be reëlected we will be responsible, and the world will believe, and have a right to believe, that the heart of Chicago was with Germany and Austria in this fight.

Thompson Followers Indicted.

Every active and passive sympathizer with the enemy is now with Thompson, and if he is reëlected it will be mainly by their votes. So far as Thompson is concerned, the people of Chicago will be counted at this election to know which side we were on during the war.

The pro-Germans and pacifists have complained that they could not express their opinion on the war. Here is their chance, and that opinion will be expressed and the whole world will judge us by our vote.

The city administration has been used to build up a cheap personal, political machine, held together by public funds. Every board and department has been used to produce for politicians. Even the schools, for the first time in our history, have been frankly turned over to the politicians for spoils.

Should we turn to Sweitzer every one knows that he is the discovery of a political machine that for years has periodically ruled our county, our city, and our various taxing boards. Without this machine no one would have ever heard of Sweitzer for mayor. The machine is responsible not only for his being a candidate but for his being a Democrat. The machine is close to the public service companies of the city. This every one knows.

Hoyne Is Only Hope.

Promising by a candidate and his friends is easy; fulfillment, at best, is hard. We do know that Mr. Hoyne is intelligent; that he is honest; that he is fearless and independent. We know that if he is elected he will be mayor.

It is the only chance we have and his record does not make this a long chance. Mr. Hoyne has had long experience both in city affairs and as state's attorney and has never wavered in his support of the people in all their rights. Moreover, he is running as an independent and if he wins will owe his election to the independent vote only.

The SENATOR TALKS

When I blew into the Hall of the Clock, the new name which the boys have hung on the aldermanic clubrooms, all the regular battlers are holding down the leather chairs. The conversation is quite jumpy and every windjammer is using one lung for Europe and the other for Chicago.

"D'ye think Wilson will put the league of nations across?" says a west sider. "Say, did I tell you about the guy who's running against me in the 'Steenth? Why, that bird won't carry his home precinct."

"Leave it to Woodrow," says a Lake View lad. "Say, he gets his dope from Gen. Smuts and there's a deal between Wilson, Clemenceau, and Lloyd George to push the league over the plate. Did I tell you about the meeting I held in the ward last night? Couldn't drive them away. I'll win in a walk."

"What's the dope on the mayoralty?" asks a Hyde Park intellectual. "Will Bill cop or will he get the can?"

"Mayoralty?" says I. "Is there a campaign on? I've been drifting around headquarters for the last week and I've seen only one candidate so far, and I haven't bit into a single campaign cigar. They say the candidates are too busy on the stump—while, as for cigars, they're not in good form any more, on account of the women's vote. And in a whole week I haven't heard one invitation to perch the left dog on the brass rail. Times appear to have changed."

"Ain't it awful?" says the Seventh ward highbrow. "My right elbow creaks like a rusty pump. What d'ye think of Big Bill trying to make himself a national issue?"

"Bunk," says I. "It's the flabbiest bunk he could pull. I see he's running on the tariff. Can you beat it? The city hall probably wants a high protective duty on the ivory crop to protect a natural monopoly. And it's a pipe they don't want the filbert market destroyed. Why doesn't Bill say he's running on the multiplication table or the 'Toreador' song? It would be quite as reasonable as this tariff stuff. Next thing we know he'll be asking for reëlection on account of the league of nations or on account of the green cheese in the moon.

"I got one of Bill's booklets in the mail the other night," I goes on. "It's one of the best bits of fiction I've read in many days. On page 4 Bill says our markets are being glutted with foreign manufactures and this has thrown hundreds of thousands of men out of employment in Chicago and Illinois. What ineffable rot! The factories of Europe can't start up because they have little raw material, and that's one reason for the labor unrest over there. But Bill's dream book dumps imaginative products on our markets. Oddly enough, in the same mail I got a bulletin from the department of commerce saying that in January the exports of the United States broke all records in the history of American commerce.

"Our exports for tnat month alone were $623,000,000. The imports were $213,000,000. This leaves a favorable balance of trade for January alone of $410,000,000. One month, mind you. You get a better idea of this when it is remembered that the favorable balance of trade for the entire fiscal year 1914, the last normal year, was only $470,000,000. The dopesters who write Bill's booklets never let a little thing like actual facts bother them.

"Thumbing over a few pages, I found Bill pulling the old stuff of four years ago and saying he would insist upon adequate and first class street car service. In four years he has done nothing, but that doesn't bother Bill when it comes to writing a platform. On another page Bill says he is 'assailed' for 'refusing to sign' the gas ordinance. If he was so strongly against the ordinance why didn't he veto it? If he thought it a bad ordinance it was his plain duty to veto it and call attention of the council and the public to his reasons. He skips over this.

"O, hum! And on page 27, among other things, he wants to be elected to put through 'the erection of a new postoffice.' What in the world has a mayor to do with building a postoffice? The government has charge of that. Bill, perhaps, is thinking he is still running for the United States senate. On another page——"

"O, well," says a payroller, "it gets by with some of the voters. They don't know no different. Feed them anything they'll swallow—that's the main idea."

"They tell me," says Lake View, "Bill's noonday factory meetings are a frost this time."

"Do you wonder?" says I. "Four years ago Bill's spellbinders went out at noon in automobiles to a hundred factory entrances a day and thumped the full dinner pail. Bill was the boy who was going to slip the knockout drops to old Doc High Cost. He was going to fix the tairff. He was going to work miracles. Chief of these spellbinders was John M. Kantor, whose black pompadour fluttered in the March winds as he whooped it up for Thompson. After the election, when Fred and Bill put on the houseboat party, they forgot to invite Kantor. Garlic is not the most delightful of aromas. So they left him behind. But Kantor joined the party down river and edged Bill Cooke out of his stateroom and made him sleep on deck. Kantor landed a plum as real estate expert. He was right: the election of Thompson meant prosperity—for Kantor. But this time Kantor's dulcet bartione is not uplifted in speeches for Bill. Instead Kantor appears to be having troubles of his own with Judge Landis in connection with the Consumers' Packing company. I see he has just managed to raise $30,000 bail and is out of jail. Well, well, we miss him in the campaign. How do you dope the big registration?"

"Silent vote," says Lake View. "Out my way most of them are waiting to see whether Maclay Hoyne or Bob Sweitzer has the best chance to beat Bill Thompson—they aren't for Bill."

File Bankruptcy Action Against Hey Brothers

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the federal court yesterday by creditors of Hey Brothers, grain and feed dealers, at 2048 North Halsted street. Among the principal creditors is T. D. Randall & Co., 234 South La Salle street. The claims scheduled amount to $5,600.

REFORM REPORT WALLOPS MAYOR, SLAPS HOYNE

Would "Trust" Sweitzer, Fitzpatrick, Collins in Civil Service.

The Civil Service Reform association's report on the mayoralty candidates was issued yesterday. It carries an indorsement of Sweitzer, Fitzpatrick, and Collins, a knock for State's Attorney Hoyne, and a wallop for Mayor Thompson.

The knock on Hoyne is based on the failure of the state's attorney's office, the report sets forth, to act on the recommendation of the city council on Dec. 10, 1915, when by a vote of 44 to 20 the whole subject of alleged violations of the civil service laws in the city hall was referred to State's Attorney Hoyne with the urgent request that a thorough investigation be made.

The report of the civil service reformers now sets forth that "no investigation was made, no prosecutions were instituted." From this the association draws the inference that Mr. Hoyne was not heart and soul in the movement to protect civil service employés from the activities of the politicians.

Nothing Good About "Bill."

For Mayor Thompson the report hasn't anything to say that is good. It reviews the disruption of the efficiency division of the civil service commission and cties the large number of temporary appointments. In the first four months of the Thompson administration 9,000 temporary appointments were made, the report sets forth, and in one year the number reached 30,000.

"This does not mean," reads the report, "that 30,000 individuals were employed on such authority, but it shows an excessive use of these authorties." The report continues:

"February, 1918, an examination of the pay roll of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium showed 310 out of 559 employés were appointed under temporary authority. John Dill Robertson, the commissioner of health and head of the board of trustees of the sanitarium, immediately ordered sixteen civil service examinations. But notwithstanding this the city pay roll for a two week period of January, 1919, shows 463 temporary employés out of a total of 772."

Sixty Per Cent Temporary.

This is an average of 60 per cent temporary employés in January of this year, after four years of the Thompson administration, the report sets down.

The association reports it is convinced that Mr. Fitzpatrick, while he has never been tried, "is a sincere friend of civil service."

The association also reports that Mr. Collins, the Socialist candidate for mayor, "could be depended upon for an honest and efficient enforcement of the civil service law."

Mr. Sweitzer, the report says, "has been a consistent advocate of civil service. We believe Mr. Sweitzer can be depended upon for an honest and efficient administration of that law."

Kenyon Thinks Landis of Presidential Timber

Sioux City, Ia., March 22.—[Special.]—United States Senator W. S. Kenyon today discussed the possibilities for Republican candidates for president. He said: "Personally I would like to see the Republicans nominate Judge Kenesaw M. Landis of Chicago. When I left Iowa to attend the last session of congress I thought there was a probability that Gen. Pershing might be the party candidate, but I do not think this probably now, though I note that Frank Hitchcock, former postmaster general, has been visiting Gen. Pershing in France."

Use Tissue Cream—"one of the seven"

The normal skin is fresh in coloring, fine in texture, soft, pliable and provided with enough natural oil to keep the surface moist and free from any tendency to wrinkle. If your skin is dry and rough it is lacking in natural oil.

The first important step in remedying a dry skin condition is to discard the use of soap and water on the face and instead use Lettuce Cream for the purpose of cleansing. This cream removes the dirt and grime imbedded in the tiny pores and leaves the dry skin not irritated but refreshed and ready for an application of nourishing Tissue Cream.

A dry skin is a hungry skin

A dry skin craves a liberal supply of an oily preparation—something that will make up for its deficiency in natural oil. Tissue Cream has been compounded for this particular purpose and may be used not only at night for massage but at any time during the day that the skin feels dry and drawn, as after prolonged exposure to the air or a strenuous day of shopping.

The perfect way to protect your skin

The dry skin especially needs Marinello Powder. This powder instantly gives your skin a soft, lovely appearance and also protects its beauty. For the best effect it should be applied after Foundation Cream has been rubbed in. This cream helps the powder to cling to the skin and doubles its value as a protecting agent.

The advantage of using these Three Creams in the Right Way is soon apparent in the care of the dry skin. The expense is no greater than to use One Cream in Three Ways.

Other creams for other skin conditions

If your skin is too oily, if it is sallow, if it is marred by blackheads and blemishes—there is a special cream to bring it beauty. There are seven Marinello Creams, each one prepared by specialists to remedy just one skin condition. Study your complexion in the mirror, then learn from the Chart just which Marinello Cream your skin needs.

Persist in the treatment prescribed for your kind of skin and you will be delighted to see how soon you acquire the charm that every woman yearns for—a skin fresh and glowing with the exquisite texture of smoothest satin.

Marinello Preparations may be obtained at all Department and Drug Stores and at Marinello Shops

Should you desire to test these three creams, send five three-cent stamps and we will send you a Traveler's Trial Package containing samples of Lettuce Tissue and Foundation Creams, Marinello Powder, Nardy's Toilet Water, a Rouge Vanitab, Rose Jelly and a booklet on the care of the skin.

All questions answered free of charge. Address our Expert Department, Marinello Co., Dept. T5, Mallers Building, Chicago, Ill.

MARINELLO

Used, Sold and Recommended by More than 3500 Beauty Shops

Chart of Marinello Seven Creams

LETTUCE CREAM for cleansing the skin. It cleans more thoroughly than soap and water and without irritation, 60c.

TISSUE CREAM for a rough, dry skin. It builds up the skin and gives it the extra nourishment which it needs, 60c and $1.20.

ASTRINGENT CREAM for an oily skin. It restrains the too abundant secretion of oil—60c and $1.20.

WHITENING CREAM for a sallow skin. Gives your skin that "pink and white" roseleaf quality, 60c and $1.20.

ACNE CREAM for blemishes and blackheads. This disagreeable condition may be overcome in a short while if you are faithful to the use of this cream, 60c and $1.20.

MOTOR CREAM for skin protection. Neither wind nor weather can harm your skin if you fortify it with Motor Cream first, 60c and $1.20.

FOUNDATION CREAM before using powder. It makes the powder go on so much more smoothly and stay longer, 75c.

To supplement the action of the Creams, always apply Marinello Powder before venturing out.

CLINNIN ASSERTS SOLDIERS HOLD MAYOR DISLOYAL

Colonel Tells How Germans Used Utterances of Thompson.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[By Special Cable.]
Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.]

PARIS, March 22.—Among American soldiers, Col. John V. Clinnin testified here today, there's one general opinion of William Hale Thompson. He is "disloyal."

Recalled to the stand before United States Consul General Thackara during the taking of depositions in connection with the suits filed by Thompson against THE TRIBUNE, the Chicago Post, and the Chicago Daily News, Col. Clinnin used the term without qualification.

Here Is Bit of Testimony.

"Do you know," asked Attorney Morse Ives, "the general reputation of William Hale Thompson among the men of the United States army for loyalty or disloyalty to his country?"

"I do," answered the witness.

"What is it?"

"His reputation is that of a disloyal citizen."

The examination of Col. Clinnin brought out the facts of his indignant resignation as assistant corporation counsel nearly two years ago.

Tells of German Moves.

The colonel told how when the Thirty-third division, composed almost entirely of old national guard troops, was at the front it was showered with German reprints of Thompson's speeches. These, he said, were destroyed as soon as they were found. He was asked why this was done.

"Because the purpose of this sort of propaganda," he said, "was to weaken morale, break down discipline, destroy patriotism, and in general to aid and abet the enemy.

"Propaganda which destroys soldiers' souls is more dangerous to the United States and the allies than bullets and shrapnel, gas, or high explosives from the enemy's guns."

Effect of Propaganda.

"What was the effect," asked Attorney Ives, "of propaganda containing the utterances and ideas of William Hale Thompson upon you?"

"It caused me to resent with all my heart and soul the actions of William Hale Thompson, Fred Lundin, and others who made use of political utterances for home effect, which in turn were used by the enemy to destroy the soldiers of my command.

"I have seen so much death, suffering, and destruction on all sides caused by the ruthlessness of war that I cannot tolerate any political action or policy which is to the detriment of the United States of America or of its army."

Describes Types of Propaganda.

Col. Clinnin described the literature with which the Illinois men in the Thirty-third had been bombarded from German planes.

"I saw one speech of Thompson's," he said, "in a paper called 'America in Europe,' and in circulars that were dropped were sentences identical with those Thompson had used. I have in mind what he said about the war being a capitalistic war and a war to aid England and his statements concerning an embargo on munitions and foodstuffs and about the entrance of the United States into the war."

Identifies a Dodger.

The witness identified a copy of a dodger headed, "The Better Part of Valor," which was scattered by boche machines at St. Mihiel and north of Verdun. The dodger read, in part: "What business is this war in Europe to you, anyway? You don't want to give up your life for that abstract thing, 'humanity.' If you think war is hell and you as a citizen of the United States have no business to be fighting in France for England you are a coward to stay with it.

"If you stay with your outfit ten chances to one all you will get out of it will be a tombstone in France."

"What Are We Fighting For?"

A pamphlet containing President Wilson's fourteen points and the request sent to the president by Prince Max of Baden for an armistice was headed:

"What Are We Fighting For?"

And across the bottom of the sheet the words:

"Why are we fighting?"

Another one which Col. Clinnin said reminded him of Thompson read in part:

"You have no business fighting in France. You would be better fighting the money trust at home."

Col. Clinnin also gave further testimony, pinning the responsibility for "The Republican," the organ of the city hall, upon Mayor Thompson and Fred Lundin. He said the mayor gave his personal approval of many articles and Fred Lundin spoke frequently of "our paper." And on one occasion Lundin announced that a La Salle street office had been rented for the publication, and Miss Carlson had been placed in charge of it.

Junius Wood Testifies.

Junius B. Wood, war correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, testified concerning Mayor Thompson's famous interview, in which he called Chicago the "sixth German city." Wood said he wrote this interview for his paper from accurate notes made while the mayor was talking to reporters in his private office.

Wood also was asked about Thompson's statements regarding the danger of a food shortage in the United States.

"He was always discussing that," Mr. Wood answered, "or telling us how his grandfather sailed around the Horn or something like that."

BUTTER

It's Cheaper in Chicago than in the Suburbs.

A woman who wondered at the high cost of living on the north shore called up some of the groceries in the various towns between Evanston and Glencoe yesterday, and asked the price of butter.

Evanston quoted the best brands at 72 and 73 cents a pound, 69 cents for packages of certain not well known brands.

Winnetka sold it for 70 cents.

In Wilmette it could be had for 72 and 73 cents, though the chain stores were retailing it for 68 cents.

In Kenilworth the price was 75 cents.

In Gross Point they charged from 67 to 75 cents.

In Glencoe 68 cents was asked.

DIES AS RESULT OF FALL.

Mrs. Theresa Wren, 75 years old, 3015 Broadway, died at the county hospital yesterday from injuries suffered March 9, when she fell downstairs.

6-SHOOTER DAYS WHEN VINCENT WAS ON BENCH

Ex-Judge's Death Recalls Stormy Era in New Mexico Courts.

The sudden death of ex-Judge William A. Vincent in his law office in the Rookery on Friday, a victim of heart disease, recalls the fact that when Mr. Vincent was appointed to the federal bench he was only 26 years old, the youngest lawyer ever elevated to that position and one of the few whose early judicial days were spent in the southwest when guns ruled and the law carried but little weight. These details were furnished to THE TRIBUNE last night:

"Mr. Vincent was a mere youngster when he opened an office in Santa Fé, N. M., but he was fearless and knew the law. Within a short time he was retained by Gov. Otero and represented that stormy petrel in a case that attracted national attention. During its hearing the governor refused to produce certain papers that the presiding judge, who belonged to an opposing faction, deemed necessary. As a result both the governor and his lawyer were committed to jail for contempt.

De Luxe Meals for Prisoners.

"The citizens of Santa Fé decorated the jail with flowers, furnished it with the best the territory could afford, and arranged to have the prisoners served with de luxe meals. Young Vincent was formally appointed turnkey and given the keys to the town. This unusual demonstration was called to the attention of President Cleveland, who decided it was time to remove the chief justice and institute a régime of law and order. Mr. Cleveland consulted with the leading men of the southwest and all urged him to appoint young Vincent to the bench.

"'He is only a lad,' replied the president.

"'But he knows the law and has the courage of a bulldog,' was the reply.

"'Then I'll appoint him,' replied Cleveland, and he did, bringing by his act a reign of law and order to the territory.

"The appointment came by wire and reached the young attorney while he was in jail enjoying his imprisonment.

Six Shooters on the Bench.

"Judge Vincent's youth gave the rough and unruly frontier lawyers the idea that they would run riot, but they found that the judge went to court with two six shooters and that when court convened he placed them on the bench within easy reach. His bailiffs were armed and when trouble promised the sheriff was on the spot with a posse.

"Judge Vincent found that practically every case was heard in Spanish and that the interpreters lied or told the truth in accordance with their own desires. He then ruled that English only should be spoken, with the result that there was for a time constant turmoil. One of his cases lasted eight months—the longest on record. It was that of a Chinaman, unknown to the town, who had cut the throat of a laundryman with a pair of scissors. The testimony was in Chinese, Spanish, and English and before it was over the Chinese had learned to speak English well enough to tell his story the second time.

Billy the Kid in Court.

"One afternoon the sheriff of the county had been notified that "Billy the Kid," the most notorious bandit of the Santa Fé trail, had kidnaped a boy and was holding him for ransom. Judge Vincent ordered the outlaw's arrest and the next day the sheriff had him in court. During the hearing "the kid" charged a witness with lying, guns were drawn, and the sheriff killed.

"'O, it was nothing so unusual,' remarked Vincent when telling of the incident later. 'I frequently had to drop down behind the desk to save myself. I was always under threat and danger of gunfire.'

"Judge Vincent's removal from office was as sudden as his appointment and it, too, came by wire. He had been sitting in a case involving the interests of two political factions and the one that lost charged him with packing the jury. They took their grievance to President Cleveland, who, without waiting to hear both sides, removed the judge. Four days later he sent on a letter apologizing and offering Vincent the chief justiceship of two other states.

"'It was a four page handwritten letter,' said Mr. Vincent in telling of the incident, 'but I wired him that I was through with federal appointments. I was rather pleased, though, for it was the first time a president ever apologized to a judge.'"

Mr. Vincent will be buried from his home, 128 Washington road, Lake Forest, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p. m. A special train will leave the Adams street and Wabash avenue station of the elevated at 12:45 and return, leaving Lake Forest at 3:45 p. m.

Stray Cats Outlawed by River Forest Board

Straying "Toms" and "tabbies," that wander beyond the premises of their lawful owners in River Forest will have no standing in court, according to the terms of an ordinance passed by the village board of River Forest and signed by Charles F. Durland, president of the board, yesterday.

SEEK RUNAWAY GIRL.

The police were asked yesterday to search for Mrs. Charlotte Forsythe Spangler, 19 year old munition worker, at the Rock Island arsenal, who disappeared from her home in Davenport, Ia., Jan. 25.

OPPOSES "3 R'S" FOR CHILDREN UNDER 9 YEARS

Ripping into the public school system is an old game, but Mrs. Marietta L. Johnson, director of the Fairhope School of Organic Development at Fairhope, Ala., made a world's record yesterday in a talk at the Chicago Woman's club.

"Child destroyer," she called herself when describing her teaching experiences under the old system.

"No child should have any books, or be taught reading, writing, or arithmatic until he is at least 9 years old," she declared. "The best authorities agree that children under that age are not developed sufficiently to stand such forcing.

"Then the schoolrooms are so horribly crowded. I was talking to your new superintendent of schools and he told me that the average number of pupils in the Chicago public schoolroom was forty-five and that nothing could be done about it because there was no money. If a few of these women who wear sealskins would give up some of their luxury there might be more. People will buy conveniences and luxuries for themselves, but they won't pay teachers."

GREAT DROUGHT A DEAD TOPIC AT LIQUOR TROUGHS

Reporter Finds Thirsty Debate Anything but "Sadness of July 1."

PROLOGUE.

"Go ye," said the City Editor to the Reporter, "go ye this day into the fast drying sands of our loop. Enter the most noted of our alcoholic oases with your ears pinned back. With this silver decorate the mahogany as though you were rich and not a reporter, and bring me from the conversation of those you meet opinions, meditations and reflections on the coming of the July 1 drought. Methinks the approaching day the main topic of conversation among those who lean against the liquoring troughs"

And the reporter leaped down three flights of stairs lest the boss reconsider.

The reporter, disguised as a human being by the crinkle of new bank notes, entered the bar of the Sullivan Wine company in South Wabash avenue. The man with the green hat and brown overcoat stood before the shrine, elbows on the bar, his hands cradling his chin. His gaze seemed riveted to a spot on the back bar. There hung this sign:

> DON'T ASK US WHAT WE ARE GOING TO DO. WHAT THE HELL ARE YOU GOING TO DO?

The little brown bottle appeared upon request accompanied by 40 cents. There followed the customary "Howdy, stranger," so familiar to those points south of Van Buren street and Rattle Snake Gap, Arizona. Then, "Well, what are we goin' to do, pal?" in very best reportorial style.

"Sweitzer by thirty thousand," replied the man of the green hat.

"I mean about that" (pointing).

"Aw, hell," said he, "haul in your crape. I ain't bothered. There's laws against murder, ain't they, but we still got coppers and courts. Here's how!"

J. Raglan Is Met.

J. Raglan Patchmore, oft interviewed by Mr. McCutcheon, consented to talk for publication. He was found at Mr. Kenna's blotter palace in South Clark street.

"I say give Italy the Fiume if she wants it. Why not? I am strongly in favor of the league of nations. I think Hink will carry the First ward. I am not in a position to comment on the mayoralty campaign.

"About July 1? Ah, yes; why, I am an advocate of the no beer, no work movement. In fact, I have announced that, if the beer is shut off, I shall refuse to continue my present occupation. My friends and comrades join me."

The atmosphere south of the loop seemed unproductive, so the reporter moved north. By purchasing a pair of gray spats he was able to walk Madison street without attracting attention. They also served as skid chains and seemed to neutralize the cargo taken on previously. Entering Howard Lewis' cave, he was cheered. Six men were talking in loud tones. There was much shouldering, waving of hands, and general excitement.

A Straw Vote Row.

"Mot's the whatter, boys?" asked the reporter. "I mean whash the matter?"

He was ignored. The keeper of the kegs offered a grunted explanation. "Straw vote argument agin. Lord, if there's one there's a dozen a day. What's that? Well, ask 'em yourself. I'm takin' no chances. Why, I dunno. I suppose they'll have some place to hang out."

Only George, the porter, consented to be interviewed. "I gotta sof' thing, man, unloadin' pig iron in the Erie shops, where I don' have to listen to argiments like that and answer fool questions like you ast."

The reporter continued his search. Big bars, buffets, cafés, saloons, he met and conquered, but nowhere were the camels speaking of July 1. Rig's, Moran's, Silver's, Wall's were included in his itinerary. But of talk concerning the coming of July 1 there was not one paragraph, sentence, word, syllable, letter, or period. He learned all about the election, all about the league of nations, all about the current vaudeville bills, the movies, stage scandal, and boxing bill prospects, but about July 1, not a thing.

Aha! At Last a Clew.

With a bad list to starboard and sinking by the bow, he started for the place whence he came. At Washington and Dearborn he heard "July 1," and "bone dry," and "bootleggers." Three men were in close conversation.

"But what'll we do?" asked one.

"I know where——" said another.

"But it's only three months away," said the third.

"But, b-z-z-z," whispered the first.

"Can't be done," said the second.

"Jiggers—a reporter," said the third.

The reporter walked over to his friend the crossing cop. "Who are those suspicious characters?" he asked. The cop dispersed the group.

"Just a bunch of semi-professional prohibitionists," he said.

And the reporter came back to the office and told the City Editor of the only gabfest regarding July 1 he had heard.

WIFE CHARGES EX-MARINE HAS TOO MANY LOVES

George Harold Cross, formerly a first lieutenant of marines, stationed at Quantico, Va., is faithless, his wife, Mrs. Maude Edith Cross, told Judge Jacob H. Hopkins in the Superior court yesterday.

"We were married Feb. 24, 1914, and separated April 10, 1917, when I left my husband because of his association with other women," Mrs. Cross testified.

Judge Hopkins indicated he would grant Mrs. Cross a divorce and allow her to resume her maiden name of Maude Edith McCullough.

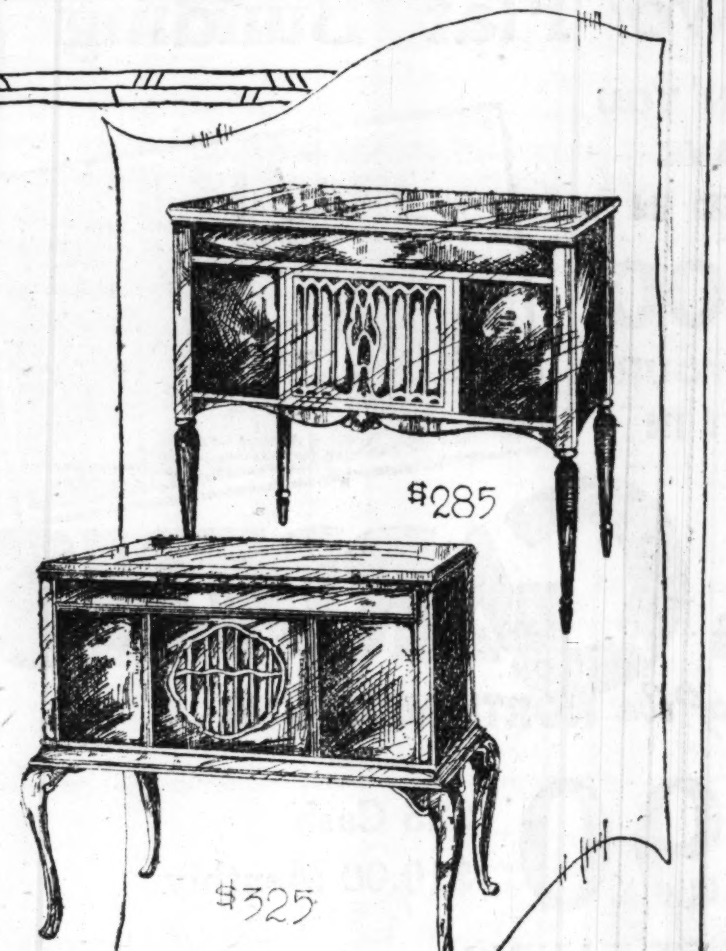
Have you considered exchanging your phonograph for a "Period" model?

There is a distinct and happy tendency, as you know, to conform modern home furnishings with the style of some historic era. Recognizing this tendency, the Aeolian Company is now producing sixteen styles of

Period Vocalions



Among them are models with motifs selected from the Gothic, Jacobean and Queen Anne periods, as well as from Chippendale, the Brothers Adam, and our own American, Duncan Phyfe.

"Period" Vocalions perpetuate all the superiorities associated with the Aeolian Company's instruments:

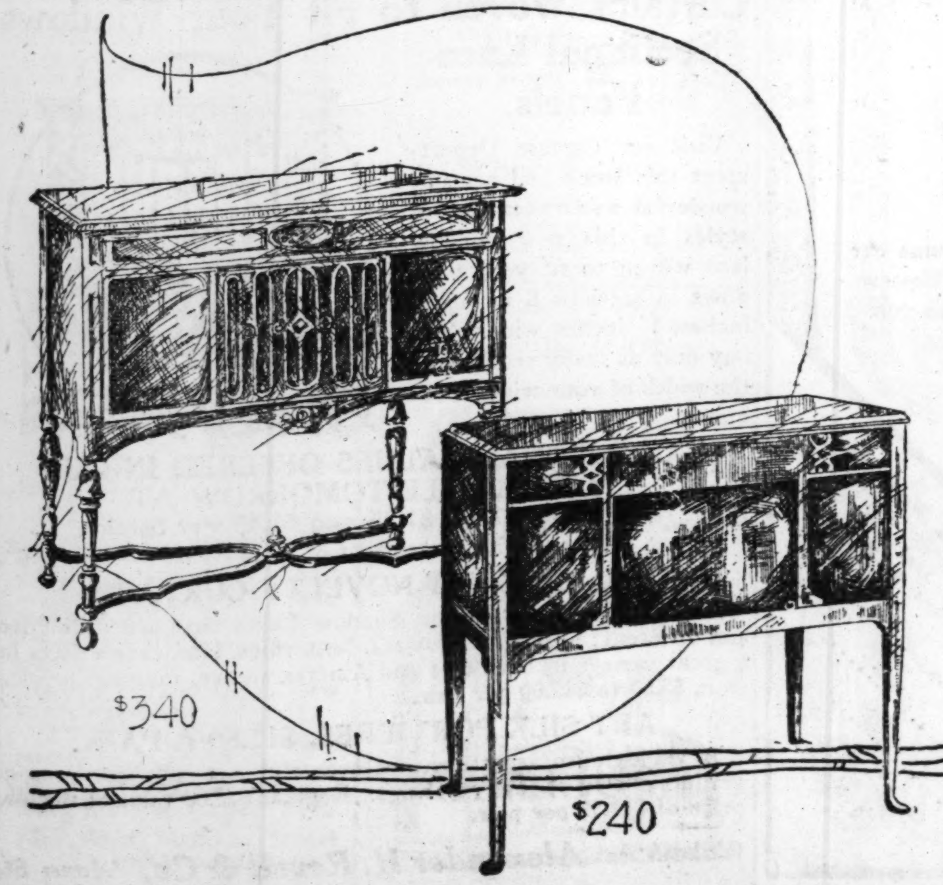
The advantage of playing the new Vocalion records, producing new and superior musical effects.

The advantage of playing every standard phonograph record with greater beauty and naturalness than ever before.

The advantage of the "Graduola"—with which you may vary the expression of your records at will—really interpret the music.

The advantage of the most convenient of record filing devices.

Vocalions in conventional models, $50 and up. Period models, $240 and up.



Liberal allowances on other phonographs.

No. 1495—Pictured at upper right: a Gothic Windsor design, at $285.
No. 1493—Pictured at lower right: a Queen Anne design, at $325.
No. 1497—Pictured at upper left: a William and Mary design, at $340.
No. 1516—Pictured at lower left: a Queen Anne design, at $240.

Convenient terms, if desired.

Society Brand Clothes
FOR YOUNG MEN AND MEN WHO STAY YOUNG

Exceptional Methods Make Exceptional Clothes

SMALL details are big things in making Society Brand Clothes. Garments are cut one at a time. The trimmings, linings, buttons are matched or contrasted with the woolens. And in the general construction each garment is tailored separately according to uniform specifications, wherein even the threads for the various operations indicate the standard of excellence.

Every tailor is trained to observe the niceties of workmanship that give a suit character and make the stylish lines as lasting as the all-wool fabric.

The label identifies every garment and is our unqualified guarantee.

HORSE MEAT TO LEAD TRIAL MENU IN BLUE SKY LIST

Allied Prosecutors Gain Headway Against Stock Swindles.

With guns of the allied prosecuting forces of nation, state, and county trained on stock swindlers and federal and state grand juries ready to get into action during the coming week, complaints from the swindled coming in by the hundreds, and Federal Judge Landis to resume his open court inquiry in the morning, the case of Gus Beneke, "horse meat king," was moved to the top of the federal court trial list yesterday. How Mr. Beneke took money from credulous stockholders is herewith related:

The Kunza Packing company, Inc.—brought into existence under the laws of Arizona and capitalized at only $5,000,000, a considerable amount of this stock being peddled to the poor—obtained an option on a big barn at 1446-52 West Forty-seventh street, and announced it was ready to change the appetite of Americans from beef, pork, chicken, and mutton to horse meat.

Gus Beneke was president and Otto F. Brietkreuts, "Big Otto" of circus fame, the secretary and treasurer. Affiliated with the company were "Billy" Dunn, who lived at the Sherman house, and Charles Green. For good measure "Prince Arthur" Quinn dropped in every day at the offices, 1317 Ashland block.

With this stage setting the horse meat promoters started out to hook investors at the rate of 50 cents a share. "Big Otto" made a trip down east and when he came back announced (and it duly was peddled by the stock selling agents):

"I saw President Wilson, Lord Northcliffe, and Herbert Hoover and the president says to me, 'Otto, tell the world I'm with you.' Herb Hoover says to me, 'Otto, this is kind of going to shock people at first, but it's going to end meatless days. Work in a quiet way at the start.'"

25,000 Pounds of Horse.

Then "Big Otto" went on to tell—and it was also made known to the prospects—that Herb Hoover had led him down to New York and introduced him to Lord Northcliffe, who had given him a tentative order for 25,000 pounds of pickled horse meat at 10 cents a pound in behalf of the allied governments. But "Big Otto's" story didn't end there. He brought back letters "on the quiet"—so he said—to Harry A. Wheeler, then state food administrator for Illinois; Joseph P. Cotton, head of the federal food department meat division; Prof. Charles McCarthy of the University of Wisconsin and friend of the president; Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, and the Belgian and Polish consuls. O yes, and he had a deal on with an alderman who was going to get an ordinance through the council so he could kill horses in the city limits.

$2,000 a Day "Profits."

With these things all fixed, Gus and Otto sat down and figured profits for the stock buyers. Here are their own figures, sent out in come-on literature to vicitims already hooked and to prospects:

> Horses can be purchased for from $12 to $25 in good condition for food purposes.
> We can get 100,000 head in thirty to ninety days from the west at $5 a head, which, with freight added, would bring the Chicago cost up to $12.
> Now, the return from hides alone will be $12 a head. Then there are shin bones worth $90 a ton; all other bones are worth $30 a ton; casings for export bring $2 each; hair from the tail and mane of each animal is worth from 50 cents to $1.25; grease for glycerin from each animal will run $5 to $7; the hoofs, boiled, will make the basis for oil, and the blood is worth $1.50 per head. Then estimate 400 pounds of good flesh from each animal—a very low figure—and the profit runs $2,000 a day, killing only fifty head."

Arguments for Horse Meat.

How the stock selling venture was to revolutionize the palate of the country was revealed in a prospectus sent out, which read:

"We all know that for years the foreign countries have used horse meat for food, and it is considered a staple product. Even in the United States, such cities as Milwaukee, Cincinnati, St. Louis, and New York City, horse meat is now being used in large quantities and recommended by high medical and health authorities and considered by them more wholesome than beef.

"This is positively the rarest opportunity which has ever been offered you and one that requires your immediate and speedy attention. We are desirous of securing the coöperation of a selected few of Chicago's butchers, who will readily understand our proposition.

"Knowing you to be a business man of intelligence and quick to grasp the opportunity, we are calling your attention to the biggest meat proposition ever conceived.

Claim Federal Approval.

"Otto—the big man from Arizona—has just returned from Washington, where, in consultation with the food administrators, he laid down his plans of supplying Europe with meat foods.

"The food administrators at Washington received the idea as a capital one and are highly enthusiastic.

"We have a packing plant in the stockyards district located at 1446-1452 West Forty-seventh street and are at present arranging and making all necessary alterations for slaughtering and packing horse meat for food purposes."

Beneke is to be tried for using the mails to defraud. "Big Otto" was last heard of in California, but is under indictment here. Louis J. Collins, 1454 Fargo avenue, and Robert Batysta, 4800 Throop street, are two of the principal witnesses against the "horse meat king." Collins was not only duped as a stockholder but acted as an agent and sold some stock. He says he "even induced my mother-in-law to invest, it looked so good."

VICTIMS COMPLAIN

Complaints came in by the hundreds from buyers of stock in bogus companies to the offices of United States Attorney Clyne, State's Attorney Hoyne, and Attorney General Brundage yesterday. All declared that from the list of complaints a number of bona fide cases had been culled, prospective charges running from confidence game to using the mails to defraud.

With the mails bringing in scores of complaints, a large number of complainants appeared in person. At the attorney general's office in the Otis building three assistants were taking care of the crowd, largely composed of poor persons and widows who had sunk their insurance money. Practically all said they had been "bunkoed" out of their world's safest investments—Liberty bonds and War Savings stamps.

Fully two dozen complaining persons appeared at the office of United States Attorney Clyne and Gen. James E. Stuart, postoffice inspector in charge. One of the written complaints named two companies, flanked with skulls and crossbones and beneath, "Get these. They got me."

Juries to Act.

Henry Berger, assistant state's attorney, who is in charge of the inquiry in State's Attorney Hoyne's office, declared that several good cases have been worked up and that the state grand jury will be brought into action.

With the two grand juries—federal and state—at work and the prosecutors building up new cases, reports were that Federal Judge Landis may have a new bomb to explode in the Consumers' Packing company case when he resumes open court hearings tomorrow. The hearing has already exposed the scandal involving the use of $801,000 of stockholders' money.

Subpœnas were issued for 150 salesmen who have sold stock in the company.

A near "run" on the attorney general's office was occasioned by a false report published in a foreign language paper that stockholders of the Consumers' company who called at room 748 Otis building would receive their money back. A large number of foreigners called in vain.

Pan Motors Case.

The federal grand jury heard more witnesses in the stock selling scandal involving the Pan Motors company case. Fletcher Dobyns, attorney for A. L. Pandolfo and other indicted officials, appeared before Federal Judge Carpenter and complained that witnesses brought here from St. Cloud, Minn., were being detained longer than necessary. The judge instructed the prosecutor to make haste in having them appear before the jury.

Both the federal and state prosecutors yesterday began delving into the Buck Run Oil and Refining company, whose stock selling activities were exposed by THE TRIBUNE.

It was also declared by the attorney general's investigators that stock salesmen for the Buck Run company, who had obtained "blue sky" permits, were splitting fees with Charles Wood of Charles Wood & Co., who had been denied a permit. This jeopardizes all these permits.

DOUBLING THE BYLAWS

The Hanover Casualty and Life Insurance company now is under investigation by the state's attorney's office. It recently was learned that County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer had recommended the concern before it was thrown into the hands of a receiver. Of the $80,000 subscribed by 1,500 persons only $11.74 was saved to the subscribers, according to the receiver.

Two sets of bylaws have been discovered. One is the legal operating set as set forth in the corporate minute books. The other was a printed copy, used as a "come-on" argument for stock salesmen. These were printed in pamphlet form. They set forth that salaries in excess of $2,600 were prohibited. No such provision was included in the minute book version. The pamphlet also set forth that there was an inhibition against the use of stock subscription moneys for the payment of salaries, expenses, and commissions. The bona fide bylaws are silent on this.

A check of the subscribers by Mr. Hoyne's office has shown that hundreds of maids in the homes of well to do residents of Hyde Park, Rogers Park, and Edgewater have purchased from five to ten shares of this stock at a face value of from $50 to $100 and paid down from $5 to $10 under contracts providing for the payment of the rest at $2 a week.

Seek Missing Officers.

Mr. Brundage's aids started out yesterday to help sundry buyers of stock to run down the Chicago headquarters of the Macy-Rogers company, a concern which sells general merchandise together with profit participating certificates to their customers.

A woman complainant is the most eager of their customers to get a line on their offices, according to Mr. Brundage's aids. She states that the visiting agent who called at her home to sell her groceries and other household articles told her she could find out all about her prospective profits at the company's offices in the Tacoma building. She visited the building and got no trace of the office.

One Max W. Meyer, whose purchases amounted to $200, and Nat Turner, who is still looking for $30 worth of goods bought at Christmas time, also are on the trail of the company's main offices.

Selling "When As and If."

Andrews & Co., it was learned during the day, has just concluded a new peace treaty with the attorney general's office, as the result of the chief law officer's hot campaign against them for selling stock in the Dictograph Products corporation. Although numerous agents have been offering stock for sale, the Andrews people naively explained that such could not be the case, as no stock was being issued.

A sharp letter from Assistant Attorney General Pruitt brought this enlightening delineation of their sales methods:

"We offer, subject to allotment and change in price when as and if delivered to us, 8 per cent cumulative convertible preferred [par $100] at $105 a share."

Mr. Pruitt failed to get the Andrews squint on the transactions, and another letter was sufficient to convince the concern that they should cease selling this stock and offer to reimburse all subscribers who desired their money back.

LIBERTY BOND LURE

Stock promoters are not the only ones strenuously endeavoring to lure Liberty bonds and War Savings stamps—securities backed by everything in this nation—away from those who have bought them as investments.

There is:

Carl M. White, whose business card reads:

> Licensed by and Bonded to the State of Illinois.
> Licensed Money Lender.
> Salary and Chattel Loans.
> I Will Buy Your Liberty Bonds.
> Room 411, 56 West Washington-st.

Mr. White has been flooding the Chicago Telephone company employés with letters. An excerpt from one reads:

"Have you Liberty bonds that you cannot afford to carry? I will either buy for cash, make you a loan on same, or buy your interest in bonds partly paid for."

GIANT BEANS

Exhibited at War Exhibition, Chicago, 1918

VICTORY LOAN TO BE 6 BILLIONS, BUT CHEER UP!

Income Tax Returns of Over Billion Show U.S. Prosperous.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—With the announcement today that collections from the first 25 per cent installment of income and profits taxes last Saturday amounted to $1,001,000,000 and might go higher with later reports, the last financial milestone preceding the Victory Liberty loan had been passed, and it seems probable that the loan will be for approximately $6,000,000,000.

Governors of federal reserve banks attending a conference closing tonight were told that although official statements of the amount of the loan heretofore have referred to it as "five or six billions," the higher figure was nearer correct. Treasury officials today emphasized, however, that the amount of the loan had not actually been determined.

Tax May Reach $4,700,000,000.

Tax collections of a little more than a billion dollars indicated that the total tax yield this year from income and profits levies would be more than four billions and might reach the $4,700,000,000 estimate of congress at the time of enacting the revenue bill. The aggregate of first installment payments will bring into the treasury only about $200,000,000 net at this time, however, since $800,000,000 is required to pay certificates of indebtedness maturing coincidentally with the tax payments.

"General prosperity throughout the country is indicated by the income tax returns," the revenue statement of today said.

Need Another Billion Cash.

In support of the belief that the treasury would make six billions the goal of the Victory loan campaign, officials pointed out that $4,855,000,000 certificates of indebtedness were outstanding to be redeemed out of proceeds from the loan, and they said that probably another billion must be issued before loan receipts begin to pour in.

Proceeds from the certificates will be required to pay ordinary government expenses for two months, now running at the rate of $1,200,000,000 a month, and to redeem a little more than $600,000,000 of certificates falling due before May 6.

Hope for Oversubscription.

Indications now are that unless the Victory loan is largely oversubscribed the treasury will have to begin within a few months after the campaign to market new securities, selling them mainly to banks, as a means of meeting future government expenses. These would be in addition to possible issues of tax certificates in anticipation of the last two installments of tax payments Sept. 15 and Dec. 15.

The total of the first quarter returns came from sixty-three collection districts, nearly all of which showed a decided increase over 25 per cent of last year's income tax. Two cities, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and three states, Minnesota, New Mexico, and West Virginia, fell behind last year's showing.

The largest increase in tax deposits for the country was revealed in the Eighth district of Illinois and in North Dakota, both of which returned an increase of 240 per cent over last year.

Collections from Illinois districts were: First Illinois district, $72,089,000, increase not shown; Fifth Illinois, $3,856,316, increase over quarterly collection for 1917, $2,416,615; Eighth Illinois, $8,463,395, increase $6,003,105; Thirteenth Illinois, $2,559,456, increase $361,692.

PLACED MANY SOLDIERS, OUT OF JOB HIMSELF

Capt. D. A. Tomlinson, who since the signing of the armistice has found more than 500 discharged soldiers jobs as executives with salaries in one or two instances as high as $10,000 yearly, now wants a job for himself. He says that with all his experience in job hunting he doesn't know how to get one.

When the United States employment bureau's special and professional section went out of business yesterday because congress failed to appropriate the necessary money Tomlinson found himself out of a job.

The work of placing discharged soldiers and sailors with professional qualifications will be continued by the Military Training Camps association, 520 Consumers' building.

Capt. Tomlinson will remain with the employment service for about a week to complete the transfer of records. He was made a $1 a year man to do this.

TWENTY GOVERNORS PLAN TO KEEP U. S. JOB BUREAUS OPEN

NEW YORK, March 22.—Governors of twenty out of thirty states, interview by the United Press, have declared their intention of continuing federal and state employment bureaus with state funds, messages received tonight indicate.

Despite the fact that the federal employment bureaus theoretically ceased to exist, because of failure of congress to make provision for their continuance, in few, if any states, will their work be allowed to lag.

Unemployment is the greatest cause for unrest, the state executives almost unanimously agreed, and where it was legally impossible to extend state aid in keeping the employment agencies open, patriotic citizens, councils of defense, Red Cross chapters, and commercial clubs will take over the work.

GIFTS OF PUBLIC PREVENT TIEUP OF JOB BUREAUS

Donations Reduce Per Cent Cut to Small Margin.

Liberal response by the public will enable the United States employment service to continue its work only slightly handicapped until congress convenes and makes an appropriation for it. Officially the employment service was curtailed about 80 per cent yesterday. Because of generous donations its effectiveness will be decreased only 20 per cent.

Most of the branch offices in Chicago and downstate will continue to operate as before, Mark L. Crawford, federal director, declared.

"The impression prevails in some quarters that the employment service will cease its activities," he said. "We shall continue our work as before. When congress meets I believe it will respond to public sentiment and make the necessary appropriation.

Must Discharge Some.

"We shall be compelled to let some members of our force go today, at a time when they are most neded and when European countries are expending millions of dollars on their free employment exchanges."

Col. Arthur Woods of the war department yesterday declared there appears to have arisen a misunderstanding of the purpose of the emergency committee on employment of soldiers and sailors organized by the Council of National Defense and a mistaken belief that the committee has taken over the work of the United States employment service.

Col. Woods declared his committee was a temporary body and the government departments and boards represented on it will not attempt to create a substitute employment service or in any way take over the functions of the federal employment exchanges.

Will Encourage Work.

He stated the committee intended to give the fullest support to the United States employment service and to encourage towns and cities through subscriptions to carry on the work for returning soldiers and sa..., which the employment service will be unable to finance until congress appropriates the necessary money.

Mr. Crawford said 300 offices throughout the country would be financed by public and private subscription, and that the Ohio legislature yesterday appropriated $18,000 to operate the United States employment offices in the state until congress convenes.

SOLDIERS TOLD OF THEIR PERIL BY GEN. WOOD

Warns Them That Foes of Nation Set Traps for Them.

By special invitation, Lester F. Rycraft, chairman, and Frank Countryman, treasurer of the newly organized Council of Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines, appeared before Gen. Leonard Wood, department commander, in the army building at 230 East Ohio street, yesterday, and listened to an earnest discourse on enemies of the government, who camouflage themselves in the uniforms of men discharged from service.

"These enemies," the general said, "do not hold the same ideals that you men hold—the ideals that you fought for. But they are trying to take advantage of you and other discharged soldiers, sailors, and marines to further their own ends."

Tells of Federal Aid.

Gen. Wood explained to Rycraft and Countryman about the special bureau, established by the army and the United States employment service, for finding jobs for men formerly in service; the building which had been leased at 120 West Adams street, and the other special facilities that would be available there.

Rycraft said he would communicate the general's view to the council Monday evening, and attempt to enlist its coöperation. "I will do the best I can," he asserted.

"Will the council disband, when it understands that the army has undertaken to perform its functions?" he was asked.

"Certainly not," he responded.

To Admit Reporters.

At the instance of Col. E. H. Humphrey, chief of staff, he said that newspaper reporters would be admitted to future meetings.

"There never was any secrecy," he declared, "except when we were getting organized. We thought the sessions should be private until the ways and means committee was formed."

Rycraft, a former member of the tank corps, resides at 4450 West Adams street; Countryman, who was in the aviation branch of the service, lives at 3512 Cornell avenue. Though the latter is treasurer of the council, Rycraft said no dues were collected, and the organization's activities had been restricted to compiling a roster of prospective members.

Labor Warns General.

Hardly had the men left the building, before Morton L. Johnson, executive secretary of the new Labor party, gave out a statement, in which he warned the general that Chicago labor would resent any interference with the council.

Johnson had addressed about 350 former fighters at 180 West Washington street, Wednesday evening, on the job situation. His statement continues:

"I advised the men in uniform to quit begging and make demands. I told them they should look out for themselves and their families, with the determination to win—just as they had fought the Huns.

Subscribes to Demands.

"Their grievances and demands have been formulated and I subscribe to them fully, as I believe the entire Labor party membership does. The Labor party and the Council of Soldiers, Sailors and Marines are here to stay, and will be in Chicago when a lot of grafters have either left town or gone to jail.

"I wish it distinctly understood by Gen. Wood and everybody else that I was instrumental in aiding the formation of the council in behalf of the Labor party. The Labor party is not trying to exploit our returned soldiers. It is trying to get jobs for them."

BODY FOUND IN CANAL.

The body of an unidentified man was taken from the drainage canal between Peterson and Bryn Mawr avenues yesterday by the police. It had been in the water for some time.

AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES
OFFICE OF THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF

France, January 27, 1919.

Mr. M. F. Murphy, Manager,
The Chicago Tribune, Paris.

My dear Mr. Murphy:

I received your letter of January 10th, enclosing the check to my order for 106,902.87 francs, which represent the profits of the Army Edition of the Chicago Tribune to the end of November, the month in which the armistice was signed, to be used for such purposes, connected with the men of the Expeditionary Forces, as I may deem wise.

I cannot hope to express to you adequately the thanks of the American Expeditionary Forces for this. You have rendered a signal service to us all in the publication of your newspaper and in your consistently generous and helpful attitude to officers and men in this war. Now you have placed us still further in your debt by your generosity.

It requires some study on my part before deciding how this fund may best be used in accordance with your desires. I will communicate further with you when I have reached a decision.

Again I wish to extend to you my hearty personal thanks for your generosity.

Sincerely yours,

John J. Pershing

Toledo, O., March 22.—Two Chicago bowlers topped the whole field, taking first place in the doubles of the American Bowling congress tournament this afternoon. R. Peckie and J. Lellinger, members of the Birk Brothers No. 1 of Chicago, shot to the top with a score of 1,258, topping Daiker and Wetterman of Cincinnati by ten pins. The Chicago pair rolled their money scores in games of 426, 402, and 430. Lellinger was high man with 233, 199, and 220 for a 652 total.

There were several changes in doubles. During one of the morning shifts F. Heller and A. Burgenhagen of Chicago went into second place with 1,247, one pin below the Cincinnati pair, which was leading until Peckie and Lellinger stepped in.

Jones and Trapp Seventh.

Third high in the doubles for the day was the 1,223 scored by J. Jones and A. Trapp of Chicago, also on the Birk team. The count carried them into seventh place. H. Thomas and H. Votel of Pittsburgh rolled 1,220 for eighth place in the list of first ten. The 1,212 score of S. Meyers and E. Vollmar of Chicago put that pair in ninth position. W. Agal of Chicago and F. Schmidt of Aurora rolled 1,163.

A shakeup also resulted in the individuals, although the 718 world's record score of Harry Cavan of Pittsburgh was not threatened. Dominick de Vito, who rolled last night with the Bensinger five of Chicago, had a chance to go into first place, but failed in his last game after recording counts of 243 and 246. He fell to 201 in the final, which gave him a 690 total, second place in the standings and tenth in the all events with 1,819.

Tie for Fifth in Singles.

Bowling on one of the earlier shifts today, F. Middough of Omaha and E. Tilende of Akron tied for what proved to be fifth place at the end of another day of A. B. C. competition. Each collected 662 pins.

Three Chicago teams went into the first ten in the five-men event last night. The Birk Brothers No. 1 team of Chicago took second place, rolling 2,930 total. The Burrel Belting five landed in a tie for sixth place with the Bicycle Playing Cards of Cincinnati, their score being 2,890. Ninth place went to the Battistini Brothers five of Chicago with 2,869.

ECKHARTS DOWN HEBREW TOSSERS

Eckhart Imps won from Hebrew Institute Reds, notoriously a tough team to beat, on the latter's own floor, 21 to 19, in a rousing basketball finish last night. The Reds battled to even terms in the second half, after the Imps galloped to a 9 to 5 lead in the first act. Then, with the score, 19 to 19, and two minutes to play, the Imps worked the ball cleverly down the floor, and Simunich got off a toss just as C. H. I. guards leaped at him. The try registered for the winning field goal. Pulaski Olympics, with Picloc featuring, won the lightweight curtain raiser from Eckhart Flivvers, 21 to 14. Lineup:

New York Americans Start for Jacksonville Camp

New York, March 22.—The New York Americans entrained today for Jacksonville, Fla. The party, which was in charge of Lieut. Col. Huston, part owner of the club, contained only a small percentage of the roster. The list included Herbert Thormahlen, George Mogridge, Frank Kane, "Ping" Bodie, Derrill Pratt, and Alex Ferguson. Bob Shawkey will join the party at Philadelphia and Allen Russell and Wilson Fewster will be picked up at Baltimore.

PUBLIC GOLFERS DISCUSS CHARGES AT SOUTH PARKS

KEEP THE FEE LOW.

Chicago, March 21.—[Golf Editor The Tribune.]—"E. S. S.," whose article appears in this morning's TRIBUNE, suggests a fee which if adopted would deprive the great majority of workers of the opportunity of enjoying this great outdoor sport.

I, as well as many others, realize that the golf courses at Jackson park occupy a large area and that it costs considerable money to keep them in good condition. I am sure that we would all agree to a nominal season rate, such as $1, if the money raised thereby would be used for keeping up the courses.

The courses are very crowded Saturdays and Sundays, and at this time I believe the congestion could be lessened by barring those of school age. And, bless us, some of the ladies who can very well play during the week, insist on playing on Saturday afternoons and Sundays, and—most of them are so slow. FORE!

GEORGE E. ANDERSON.

CHARGE FOR LOCKERS.

Chicago, March 21.—[Sporting Editor Tribune.]—As one of the hordes of golf bugs who infest the Jackson park links I am much in favor of the movement for some charge in connection with the facilities now offered free.

I think, however, that the suggestion made by E. S. S. for a 50 cent fee for each round is altogether too high and would deprive a large number of people of the benefits to which they are entitled from a public course. I do think, however, that there should be a substantial fee for lockers and that a charge of a few cents ought to be made for bath towels. Both of these privileges are now free.

At the beautiful Shenley park course in Pittsburgh there is an annual registration fee of $1, which covers the right to mere use of the course, but there is a fee of $2.50 or $5 for locker rental per season and a charge of 5 cents, I believe, for towels.

If any charge is to be made per day or per round it seems to me that it should be not more than 10 or 15 cents, and I am doubtful of the desirability of anything beyond an annual registration fee of a small amount.

DOUGLAS SUTHERLAND.

LIMIT USE OF LINKS.

Chicago, March 21.—[Sporting Editor Tribune.]—In connection with the intention of the south park commissioners to make a charge for the use of the golf links at Jackson and Marquette parks, I infer that no plan has as yet been adopted, and, therefore, presume that suggestions are in order.

While the people who use the free links at the parks, I think, will not object to the payment of a reasonable charge, the suggestion of "E. S. S.," to make a charge of 50 cents a round of eighteen holes, would practically be prohibitive for many players, who get about all of their outdoor recreation on the golf links in the public parks.

The objection raised by "E. S. S." to charging a fee for the season on account of certain persons monopolizing the links, I think, can be overcome, and yet allow a charge to be made by the season instead of a payment for each game.

If a season charge is made it will be necessary to issue receipts or identification cards to those who have made the payment, and I would suggest that such cards be arranged with numbers printed on them, limiting the holders to a certain number of game, say to provide for two games per week during the season, a number to be punched out of the card for each game played.

A small charge per game could be made to cover players not having a season ticket.

TENNIS PLAYERS OPPOSE TAX ON SPORTING GOODS

New York, March 22.—Tennis players of the country, said to number 1,000,000, will be asked to join in a concerted effort to bring about repeal of the 10 per cent war tax on sporting goods, the National Lawn Tennis Association of America announced tonight. It was declared that the impost "lays an excessive burden on normal exercise and healthful recreation."

The association announced its intention to issue a challenge for play in 1920 for the Davis cup, won in 1914 by the Australian team. It was stated that invitations would be issued to representatives of the nations which participated in former contests, except Germany and Austria, and also to the tennis players of Japan.

Fifty-one Horses Named in Kentucky Handicap Event

Louisville, Ky., March 22.—Fifty-one nominations have been made for the Kentucky handicap to be run at Churchill Downs May 24. The list, made public by the Kentucky Jockey club, includes such handicap horses as Cudgel, which won last year for Commander J. K. L. Ross, Canadian turfman; Billy Kelly, also named as a 1919 derby contender, from the same stable; Old Rosebud, which won the Derby in 1916, now training under the colors of F. D. Weir; Exterminator, sensational winner of the derby in 1918 for Willis Sharpe Kilmer; Eternal, also nominated as a derby candidate by J. W. McClelland; Rancher, Midway, Viva America, and Pif Jr., in the respective stables of George M. Hendrie, J. W. Parrish, C. T. Worthington, and R. L. Baker.

The distance will be at a mile and a quarter, for 3 year olds and upwards. It will carry $10,000 in added money and be worth about $15,000 to the winner.

ELAINE TIES FOR LAST IN FLIGHT AT PINEHURST

Pinehurst, N. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. J. S. Pritchard of Battle Creek entered from the Midlothian Country club of Chicago, and Miss Elaine Rosenthal of Ravisloe, western champion, were among the qualifiers in the United North and South championship today. Mrs. Pritchard, formerly Miss Myra Helmer, had a card of 94 and Miss Rosenthal, who had trouble at several holes, finished with 98, tying for last place in the first eight with Mrs. J. M. Scammell of Baltimore, former north and south champion.

Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck of Philadelphia, who won the women's national championship at Onwentsia, Chicago, in 1915, led the field with a card of 85, but withdrew. Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Philadelphia and Miss Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Pittsburgh, who tied for second place at 91, will play off for the medal.

Playing in a four ball match yesterday, Miss Rosenthal and Mrs. Hurd each had cards of 82, while Mrs. Vanderbeck, who led them today, had 92. Summaries:

CHAMPIONSHIP EIGHT—Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Merion, 48—43—91; Mrs. J. V. Hurd, Westmoreland, 44—47—91; Mrs. J. R. Price, Oakmont, 47—45—92; Miss Sarah Fownes, Oakmont, 45—49—94; Mrs. J. S. Pritchard, Midlothian, 45—49—94; Mrs. J. D. Chapman, Greenwich, 46—48—94; Miss Elaine V. Rosenthal, Ravisloe, 49—49—98; Mrs. J. M. Scammell, Baltimore, 48—50—98.

SECOND EIGHT—Mrs. H. C. Smith, North Hills, 47—53—100; Miss Eleanor T. Chandler, Philadelphia, 49—53—102; Miss Kathryn L. Bomann, Plainfield, 49—54—103; Mrs. S. H. Rackham, Detroit, 52—52—104; Mrs. J. D. Armstrong, Buffalo, 48—57—105; Mrs. J. D. Hathaway, Kanawaki, Montreal, 50—55—105; Miss A. J. Harris, Janesville, 55—51—106; Mrs. William West, Huntingdon Valley, 51—55—106.

JOCK REPEATS ASHEVILLE WIN

Asheville, N. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Jock Hutchinson, the Glen View professional, repeated his success of last year by winning the open tournament at the Asheville club today. Rounds of 69, 72, 71, and 71 gave the blonde Chicagoan a total of 283. Wilfred Reid, the English player, who tied with Jock the first day, ruined his prospect with an eight on the third round. He finished second four strokes behind.

Eddie Loos of Beverly, Chicago, scored a brilliant 67 in his third round and tied Hutchinson, but took 77 for the final round. He tied for third place with Mike Brady of Boston at 289. Jim Barnes of St. Louis had 291 and Walter Hagen and Leo Diegel, each of Detroit, had 294.

Purple Swimmers in Return Meet with Milwaukee A. C.

The Northwestern aquatic team will swim against the natators of the Milwaukee A. C. Saturday, April 5. This will be the return engagement originally arranged for Saturday, but postponed. In the first contest in February at Milwaukee the Purple were soaked, 48 to 28.

TIE FOR POCKET CUE TITLE.

New York, March 22.—J. Howard Shoemaker of New York A. C., tied tonight with William Tilt of the Calumet club of New York for the national amateur pocket billiards championship by defeating Tilt in the final game of the tournament, 125 to 72. Each player has won five games and lost one. The tie will be played off next Tuesday night.

Plunge for distance—Won by Lefurdiy, Rutgers, 70 ft.; Elderkin, Pennsylvania, 70 ft., second; [Lefurdiy won toss]; Badger, Yale, 69 ft., third.

100 yard swim—Won by George, Princeton; Hincks, Yale, second; Johnson, Princeton, third. Time, 1:00.

W. M. Chamberlain, Yale, was elected president of the Intercollegiate Swimming association. G. Newman, Columbia, was chosen vice president and W. I. Harris, Princeton, secretary-treasurer.

O'Leary to Lead Hikers on Gary Tramp Today

Dan O'Leary will lead hikers of the Wing Foot A. C. from Chicago to Gary today. The start will be from Madison and Halsted streets at 10 o'clock. James E. O'Brien, president of the club, also has arranged for Henry Schmehl, once a rival of O'Leary to accompany the party. The last half dozen walkers to reach the steel city will pay for the dinner.

Hugo Bezdek Leads Van of Pirates to West Baden

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 22.—Manager Hugh Bezdek, accompanied by five Pittsburgh players, left tonight for spring training quarters at West Baden, Ind. Pitchers Mayer and Cooper were the only regulars in the party, the others being from semi-professional teams. Many of the Pirate players will go direct. Excepting Stengel, Mollwitz, Bigbee, and Sanders, every member of the Pittsburgh club has signed for the season.

Red Regulars All Signed; Board Texas Rattler

Cincinnati, O., March 22.—Fifteen members of the Cincinnati National league baseball team boarded the train this morning for Waxahachie, Tex., where the team will put in three weeks of training for the coming season. Moran said all the regulars had been signed.

SOX PARTY LOSES TWO SCRIBES ON TRIP TO TEXAS

Reports of the Cubs' arrival in Pasadena last night were delayed owing to interruption of wire service by a severe storm in the territory west of Denver.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

McFarland, Kas., March 22.—[Special.]—The proverbial monotony of the initial stage of a training trip was broken for the White Sox today by losing two members of the party at Kansas City. They were scribes, not players, so Manager Gleason will not be short handed when work begins, even if the lost ones do not overtake the main bunch on the way.

Howard Mann and Irwin Howe took advantage of the hour stop over in Kansas City to go uptown and overestimated their speed on the way back or else were kidnaped by the military police. Secretary Grabiner wired the railroad administration to loan them transportation if necessary.

Rookie Preëmpts Lower Berth.

"Buck" Weaver brought a rookie aboard the train last night and then sat into a pinochle game and forgot to tell anybody about his protégé, who proceeded to pick out a lower berth for himself and turned in early. That produced a tangle in the sleeping car schedule arranged by Secretary Grabiner which was not unkinked until this morning, when Weaver remembered to explain to the secretary.

The new recruit is Roy Hansen, a 20 year old pitcher who was working for the same firm in Beloit that employed Weaver during the winter. "Buck" saw Hansen pitch a lot last fall and liked him so well that he annexed him for the White Sox on his own responsibility.

Signed for Spring Trip.

Gleason and Grabiner had a talk with the youngster this morning and signed him up for the trip much to Weaver's delight. Hansen is a tall right hander and has plenty of time to learn what he may not know about the art of deceiving swatters.

Lieut. Bruno Haas is the only Sox player in uniform on the train. He still wears the regalia of a naval aviator with the proper insignia of his rank. Several other branches of the service are represented on the trip. Eddie Collins was a marine, but was discharged in time to don civilian togs before leaving home. "Red" Faber wore the blue of the regular navy, but looks more natural without it.

Trainer Stevenson was in the medical branch of the service as a member of an examination board. Although the Sox have several men in the infantry, none of them has been discharged as yet. Lieut. Joe Jenkins and George Lees are expected to be on hand before the pennant race begins.

Gleason Gets Acquainted.

Manager Gleason spent the day getting acquainted with the rookies who have joined the Sox since 1917, when the new boss was assistant manager. He pronounced them a likely looking bunch, but reserved all comment until he gets a slant at them in action.

Hargrove was picked up at Wichita, the town made famous by Frank Isbell. The Sox train is due to reach Fort Worth early tomorrow and connect with a rattler that will land in Mineral Wells about noon. No attempt will be made to practice until Monday morning, when the well known razor strap will be unlimbered for duty.

MAROONS FORCE A CLOSE FINISH; MAIZE AND BLUE COPS, 36½—34½

Johnson Takes 3 Firsts; Wolverines Score in Every Event.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Represented by one of Steve Farrell's characteristically evenly balanced teams, which scored points in every event, Michigan won the ninth annual indoor track and field meet of the Western Intercollegiate Conference Athletic association at Patten gymnasium last night with 36½ points. Chicago, which fought the Wolverines all the way, was second with 34½ points, and Illinois third with 18.

As predicted, the meet was a bitter fight between the Wolverines and Maroons, the pioneer athletic rivals of the west. The teams alternated in taking the lead and before the relay race, the last event, was run, Michigan led by four points. Chicago won the relay, but Michigan won second place, which gave the Maize and Blue a well earned victory.

Meet of Absorbing Interest.

From the standpoint of interesting competition the meet was one of the most successful of recent years. In only two events the athletes failed to live up to the writer's predictions, and these contests were won by the best men.

Carl Johnson, the great Michigan athlete, the most versatile of recent years, was the individual star. The blonde star won first places in the fifty yard dash, sixty yard high hurdles, and running high jump. In the dash he stepped the distance in :05 2-5, which equals the world's and conference record.

Capt. McCosh of Chicago contributed his quota of points by winning the mile and two mile, all that can be expected of a distanace runner in such fast competition.

Great Finish in Two Mile.

The meet was featured by several good races, but the banner contest took place in the two mile run when Capt. McCosh of Chicago nosed out Capt. Sedgwick of Michigan for first place. To all appearances the Wolverine leader lost the race through overconfidence.

Shortly after the first mile Sedgwick took the lead, with McCosh ten yards back. The pair had outdistanced the rest of the field and were separated by the same distance when the gun was fired for the last lap. Sedgwick apparently made no effort to increase his lead. With a long, swinging stride he swung around the last turn into the stretch. In the meantime McCosh let loose a great burst of speed, coming into the stretch, and as Sedgwick appeared to make no effort to run faster McCosh nipped him at the tape.

Headwork Wins for Kennedy.

Henry Kennedy of Chicago ran a great uphill race in the quarter mile and won the event by clever headwork. He could not get past the field during the early stages of the race. As the leaders swung wide into the stretch Kennedy took the pole like a flash and finished a scant yard in advance of Emery of Illinois.

Harry [Dizzy] Eielson of Northwestern, of Great Lakes football fame, upset the dope in the pole vault. He won the event by clearing the bar at 12 feet 4 inches. In his successive attempts he touched the bar three times and apparently still possesses the horseshoe which made him the hero of the Great Lakes-Annapolis football game last fall. Buchheit of Illinois football fame, defeated Cross of Michigan, the favorite, for second place.

Big Crowd Chary with Cheers.

The crowd was larger than usual, but there was a distinct lack of enthusiasm, the only college yell given being a Northwestern cheer by a bunch of kids. All the football coaches who attended yesterday's meeting were present.

50 YARD DASH.

First heat—Won by Johnson, Michigan; Mara, Minnesota, second. Time, :05 4-5.

Second heat—Won by Losch, Michigan; Bierman, Minnesota, second. Time, :05 4-5.

RUNNING HIGH JUMP.

Won by Johnson, Michigan, 5 feet 11 inches; Linn, Northwestern, 5 feet 10 inches, second; Weghorst, Purdue, Brigham, tied for third at 5 feet 9 inches.

HALF MILE RUN.

Won by Speer, Chicago; Lewis, Chicago, second; Gardiner, Illinois, third; Birkholder, Michigan, fourth. Time, 2:04.

SIXTY YARD HIGH HURDLES.

First heat—Won by Johnson, Mich.; Hamilton, Northwestern, second. Time, :07 4-5.

Second heat—Won by Zimmerman, Ill.; Jensen, Minnesota, second. Time, :08 1-5.

ONE MILE RELAY.

Won by Chicago [Kennedy, Harris, Hall, and Speer]; Michigan second, Illinois third, Northwestern fourth. Time, 3:35 2-5.

SHOTPUT.

Won by Smith, Michigan, 41 feet 3¾ inches; Moorish, Purdue, 39 feet 5 inches, second; Walls, Michigan, and Gorgas, Chicago, tied for third.

SHORT SCHEDULE SAVES NO MONEY FOR BALL CLUBS

Comiskey Favors Long Chart and Longer Contracts.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Although originally opposed to shortening the 1919 major league schedules and an advocate of a return to the longer chart next year, President Comiskey of the White Sox refused to join the recent movement by the minority element to obtain a revision of the schedules for the coming season.

"I argued last fall against cutting the season to 140 games," he said, "because I could see no chance to save anything by it, but the other fellows won out. Once adopted, it is a tough proposition to change the schedule. Not because it can't be done on paper, but as soon as things were shaped up in January everybody started making plans for training trips and exhibition games along those lines.

Change Meant Much Confusion.

"Some clubs already have booked exhibition games on open dates during the season. To have changed the schedule in March would have caused a lot of trouble and confusion, but it was my position that the season should never have been shortened.

"They told us long season advocates we could save three weeks on our players' contracts, but they don't know the players as well as I do. The only possible saving on a 140 game schedule is a few days' hotel bills on the road and the cost of ticket sellers, gatekeepers, and ushers for fourteen games. Transportation expense is not reduced at all, because we have the same three trips to make to each city, and the players simply will not accept a three weeks' cut in their salaries.

What Good's a Vacation.

"One of my players objected to signing a contract for the same salary as last year, claiming he was entitled to a raise. I pointed out to him that he was getting the same money for three weeks less work, but that made no noise with him. He wanted more money just the same, and asked me what good the three weeks' extra vacation would do him.

"Ball players figure their salaries by the year and not by the week or month. I know, because I have been one of them or have dealt with them for more than thirty years and the only thing they look at in a contract is the place where the total salary is written. Consequently any attempt to reduce that raises a kick. They would want the same coin if the season was reduced to two months. Only a club which has a lot of young players just coming up and anxious to make good can save anything on a short season

To Cover Training Trips.

"I am in favor of lengthening the players' contract instead of shortening it. Many years ago the National league tried out a twelve months contract for its players, but did not continue it There are difficulties in the way of such an arrangement, but I believe the contracts should be long enough to cover the training trips. That would increase the cost to the clubs because as I have said, the player reckons his pay by the year and it does not matter to him whether he gets it in seven months or only four.

"That would stop all the protests we hear from a certain class of players against training trips because salaries do not start until the season opens. The wiser men, of course, realize the necessity of these trips and the fact they get their money just the same in the end, but not all players are wise men. The seven months' contract would put an end to reporting late for the training trip because it would mean loss of salary. It also would stop all grumbling at spring exhibition games because the players would be under salary from the time the trip began.

Money for the Recruits Prompt.

"We would not hear of players holding out until near the start of the championship season, because that would mean the loss of salary during the training trip."

"But," we interposed, "wouldn't that increase the pay roll a lot because all the rookies on trial would be under salary on the training trips?"

"That," replied the master of the White Sox, "would be one of the best features of the thing. It would really cut down the cost of training trips. We would all have to be more conservative in picking out recruits and then trying them out. Instead of having a flock of players on the spring trip, necessitating playing two squads in exhibition games to come anywhere near breaking even, we would all have to weed out our recruits in advance of the training trips and carry only the most likely men south."

Pollard Sets World Mark in Indoor Low Hurdles

Baltimore, Md., March 22.—In the big indoor athletic meet tonight, in which there were 544 entries, F. Pollard, scratch man, of the Meadowbrook club, Philadelphia, made a new indoor world's record for 100 yard low hurdles. His time was :11 2-5.

TRICKY RUNNERS NICK BRAIDWOOD SPORTING MEN

Footrace Game Worked by Old Time Pros Produces Usual Killing.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

In the opinion of many athletic men who followed professional foot racing in its heyday, H. M. Johnson was about the fastest thing on two legs in this country. He was of the tall type of sprinter, over six feet in height and built proportionately.

Johnson was not averse to entering schemes to get money from the innocent public, and, like other flyers his day, would race at the drop of the hat. It is said Johnson could run within two-fifths of a second as fast in . s street clothes as he could in running togs.

Two Runners Work Together.

In 1884 Johnson and Marley Kittleman, the latter hailing from Bloomfield, Ia., entered into a sort of partnership. One or the other would be the "plant" in some small town where foot racing was beginning to command the interest of the populace. Like other sprinters, they had advance men who scouted and laid plans for killings.

Braidwood, Ill., fifty miles distant from Chicago, boasted a sprinter called "Grasshopper Jack." The "Grasshopper" was a Jewish runner, who had defeated everybody in that section, and naturally the coal miners and railroad men thought he was unbeatable.

Scouts Go to Braidwood.

Dennis J. Maroney, now a conductor on the Illinois Central and at that time acting in the same capacity for the Chicago and Alton, lived in Braidwood. Like other railroad men who put up at the Caledonian hotel, Maroney took a keen interest in the "Grasshopper," but not enough to wager on him against strange runners, because he had heard of the tricks turned by the pros.

Johnson and Kittleman heard of Braidwood's wonder, and their scouts were immediately dispatched there. These clever men never figured on making their cleanup on the first race. On the contrary, they planned to lose a small amount to prepare for bigger game.

A prosperous baker in the town was shown by the Johnson and Kittleman scouts how he could make a cleanup. He was told that Kittleman was coming to seek employment. The baker was to give him a position, after which a race would be arranged with the "Grasshopper." He was promised he could time Kittleman and be satisfied that Marley could beat the local wonder.

By prearrangement Kittleman went to the baker's place of business to seek a job. He was put to work delivering orders. In the evenings the boss took him down to a stretch by the railroad track to watch him work, and soon was convinced that Kittleman could give "Grasshopper Jack" five yards in the century and beat him.

Kittleman an Easy Winner.

"Grasshopper Jack" was a typical poolroom frequenter. He could play pool above the average, which was one of his ways of making a living. It was in the poolroom that most of his races were arranged, so when the baker thought Kittleman was in shape he approached Jack for a race. The date was set and $50 a side put up. Kittleman won easily and "Grasshopper Jack" dropped out of sight.

Realizing how easy it was to get the baker and some of his prosperous friends into these deals, the plotters told the baker that another runner named Johnson was coming to town. The baker was told how easy it would be to get all the money in town, as the populace would surely bet on Kittleman, while Johnson could win easily.

This Time Johnson Wins.

The baker was carried away by the scheme and one of his friends consented to give Johnson a position. The sprinter worked about two weeks before a race was broached to Kittleman, who was supposed to be a stranger to Johnson.

The contest attracted so much attention that gamblers from Chicago made the trip to Braidwood to wager. Naturally, all the town people, with the exception of the baker and his friends, bet on Kittleman. Maroney, the conductor, occupied the same room in the hotel with Johnson and tipped some of his railroad friends to bet on Johnson.

Get Ready for "Killing."

A course was laid out on a beaten path between Upper and Lower Braidwood. About $2,000 was wagered on the match. There was not the slightest suspicion surrounding the race. The contest was held on a Saturday afternoon after most of the working class had received their salaries. Johnson won by a yard and stepped the distance in faster time than Kittleman did when he beat the "Grasshopper." This made the race look on the level.

Now comes the point where the sprinters made their killing, as they had only cleaned up enough to pay their living expenses on the two races held. While the contests were being held in Braidwood, the sprinters' scouts interested some sports in Ottawa, Ill., in staging a race between Johnson and Kittleman.

"Educated Money" Is Placed.

Johnson and Kittleman agreed to run in Ottawa. The baker of Braidwood and his friends were told how easy it would be to jip the natives of Ottawa out of their money by betting on Johnson again. Even the sports of Ottawa liked Johnson's chances. Kittleman and Johnson money already had been planted in Ottawa to cover all the strange money offered on Johnson.

The Braidwood baker, because of the success in the former races, mortgaged his bakery and even went so far as to pawn a silk umbrella to get enough money to make a big killing. The sprinters' scouts were on hand days in advance of the race to cover all money offered on Johnson.

On the day before the contest about $8,000 had been put up and this was considered a neat haul in those days. The race was run, Kittleman beating Johnson by a good yard. The populace of Braidwood and Ottawa had been given their first lesson in the ways of the professional foot racers of those days.

NAVY WRESTLER

Chicago Boy Earns Place on Winning Annapolis Squad.

Daniel V. Gallery, Jr.

MIDSHIPMAN DANIEL V. GALLERY JR. of this city, son of Attorney Daniel V. Gallery, is a member of the winning Annapolis wrestling team, which has just finished the indoor season without losing a meet.

Lehigh, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Yale and Penn State, intercollegiate champion, were navy victims. The midshipman won thirty-two and lost three bouts. Gallery won four of his five matches, losing once to Lee, the Chinese wrestler of Columbia.

The Navy team consisted of Maichle and Wilkie, heavyweight; Gates and Isbell, 175 pounds; Lewis and Tusler, 158 pounds; Swafford and Pixton, 135 pounds; Swigartm, 135 pounds; Mayberry and Adell, 125 pounds; Gallery, 115 pounds.

Gallery is the young man who figured in newspaper reports of a fight with Worth Bagley Daniels, son of the secretary of the navy. According to the stories current, Daniels, after his resignation from the academy, resented slurs which had been cast on his presence during the war period as a draft dodger and visited Gallery's quarters, where he was knocked out by the lighter man after a brief encounter.

LOYOLA GIVES CULVER CADETS HEAVY DEFEAT

Before a packed gym of prep shouters at the Illinois Athletic club yesterday, Loyola academy dropped Culver Military academy from the competition for the western academic championship, 32 to 16, in a fast basket match. It was the worst lacing suffered by the cadets in years. The result gives the Rogers Parkers the edge for the title.

Center Florence and Forward Scanlon were responsible for the one-sided win of Coach Shyne's tossers, each athlete flipping six field goals. The pair also counted two free tosses apiece. Packer was the big show for the Hoosiers with five field ringers.

It was a scoreless affair for the first six minutes, but after Florence found the rim from the center of the court, Loyola stepped into its stride and finished the first session with an 18-7 advantage. Culver showed better team play in the second half, but Loyola's scoring machine could not be stopped. Lineup:

GOOD NEWS FOR CARDINALS.

St. Louis, Mo., March 22.—Infielder Jack Miller of the St. Louis Nationals has cabled President Rickey from Tours, France, that he will report April 10. Rickey announced today that Miller would be field captain of the team.

OAK PARK FIVE TAKES LEAD FOR SUBURBAN TITLE

West Side Players Upset Evanston Lightweights by Fast Teamwork.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Oak Park nailed up the lightweight basketball championship of the Suburban league, defeating Evanston, 23 to 10, at Evanston Y. M. C. A. yesterday. Previously the rival teams each had lost one game. In the short time before the league season closes no team is expected to overhaul Oak Park. Blackmer, who plays with the heavyweights, was recruited for the Oak Park lights yesterday, being able to make the weight limit of 122 pounds, and he ran rings around the home players.

The day was doubly disastrous for Evanston, as the heavyweight five dropped a one sided game in the second division semi-final round to New Trier, 27 to 10. New Trier held Evanston to 2 points through the second half, after Roth and Kuelzow led in piling up a lead of 15 to 8 in the first half.

Evanston Team Handicapped.

Evanston lights were much the worse for the mauling given them in the league game, and its scrappy aftermath, Friday night at Harvey, when Thornton township defeated them. Two of the Evanston youngsters, Scott and Reed, were so badly used up on Friday that their play slowed the team and they finally had to be taken out. Lineups:

GAME LAW FACTS.

SOME time ago we hoped that we had written our last article on spring shooting, believing that when the migratory bird treaty act was enacted the question was settled for all time. However, we find that there is so much misunderstanding concerning the law among the rank and file of hunters that we feel it is advisable to touch upon the subject once more—for the last time we hope.

Chafing under the restraint of laws, and especially game laws, is inherent with Anglo-Saxon peoples. Although the school histories may not mention it, the majority of those who first settled Virginia, and a great many who came to Massachusetts, moved here to escape the harsh game and forestry laws of Britain, and it was much game and no restrictions, not cheap land, that attracted our ancestors, first to the middle west, then beyond the Mississippi—Daniel Boone was typical of his day.

Any one who has gone deeply into the subject of game legislation and hunting in this country cannot help but be impressed with the fact that, from the first law passed in 1679 to the present day, legislation by the separate states has been a failure and the story of American game is one of shameful slaughter that will some day be looked upon as a national disgrace.

In the last eighty years eleven species of birds have been exterminated and over twenty other species are threatened. For a long time it was apparent to the observing that something had to be done to save our rapidly depleting game supply. Among the remedies suggested was federal control of migratory game birds.

The first serious attempt to secure federal control of our migratory game was the Lacey act, which went into effect in 1900. This was followed twelve years later by the McClean-Weeks migratory bird law. When this law was put into operation Senator Root, a good lawyer and far seeing, scented trouble for the law, and its operation, and suggested that a treaty be made with Canada to regulate shooting of migratory birds.

Later, in 1913, Senator McClean introduced such a bill which was passed by the senate by a unanimous vote. A short time later a treaty was made, approved by congress, and promulgated by the president in 1918. It thus became the law of the land and is known as the migratory bird treaty act.

Those who looked upon the enactment of this law as "a revolutionary piece of legislation threatening our liberties" and so on have overlooked the fact that it is not an American question but a continental one, and that a similar treaty between eleven European countries has been in successful operation since 1875.

In the meantime the constitutionality of the old law, commonly called the "federal law" by hunters, was attacked and a few states, notably Illinois and Missouri, failed to enact laws to correspond with the federal regulations.

In Illinois sentiment was, and is, strongly in favor of a closed season in the spring, and the last legislature framed a law to synchronize with the dates set by the federal regulations, but some of the commercial fishing laws contained so many contradictions that the bill was not signed by the governor.

Moreover, the licenses issued last year by the Illinois fish and game department provided for a spring season and that added to the confusion. This year the licenses specify no spring dates, and it is expected that the present session of the legislature will make the open seasons correspond with those of the bird treaty act.

In Missouri it is different. Hunters in that state feel that they have a real grievance and claim that the zoning system gives them practically no shooting. In fact, they are so "het up" about the matter that the state assembly instructed their attorney general to test the validity of the bird treaty act. He did so personally, and was arrested by a federal warden along with four other prominent citizens of the "show me" state. It is expected that they will carry their case to the Supreme court, but meanwhile the bird treaty act is still in effect.

To make matters worse, a press dispatch from Washington a few weeks ago announced that the Shauver case, testing the old law, was dismissed at the request of the government. Inspired head line writers jumped at conclusions and either announced or implied that the federal regulations were withdrawn.

What happened was this: The Shauver case hinged on the old law, not the present bird treaty act, and since it was superseded by the latter there was no further use for arguing its merits, so the biological survey requested that the case be dismissed.

Bike Riders to Attend Men in Marathon Race

In the twenty mile marathon race of the Olympic Sports club to be run next Saturday bicycle riders will be allowed to accompany the runners as attendants. The race will be from the city hall to Niles, Ill., and return to Kosciuszko park. As the race will be run in handicap style the cyclists will be permitted to leave the starting mark with the runners.

The entry list already includes leading local marathoners. George Hankel, Henry Dabler, and Joie Kowalski are expected to be the trio to battle it out for the honor. Entries close Wednesday night with R. G. Umbright, 2732 Avers avenue.

Navy Will Conduct Annual Rifle Matches for 1919

Washington, D. C., March 22.—Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt has announced that at the invitation of the war department the national rifle matches for 1919 would be conducted by the navy. The date has not been fixed. It is expected that more than 100 teams, representing civilian organizations as well as the army, navy, and marine corps, will take part in the matches on the navy range.

Three girls from Jackson natatorium placed first, second, and fourth in the forty yard free style final event of the Amateur Athletic federation women's championship swims held at Hebrew institute last night, but their showing was unable to overturn the lead built by C. H. I. in earlier events this winter and the latter ended the season as champion.

One A. A. F. junior record fell when M. Levin of C. H. I. won the forty yard free style in :21 3-5, the former mark being :22 2-5. T. Barry, a Lane Tech boy, won a fast race in the 440 yard senior free style, beating out H. Leahy, the Sinai center hope. Sinai still holds the team lead in the senior, secondary, and junior classes. Summaries:

West secured eleven tricks.

The bidding of west was correct, although he expected to take a slight loss on the deal.

When dummy went down it was evident that the declarer could make his contract if he secured a trick in the spade suit. In order to do this it was necessary to lead spades twice before the diamond suit was broached.

If at trick two, west had led the knave of spades, south would have played the king of diamonds at trick three in order to make dummy innocuous. But the lead of the small spade and the play of the queen in dummy made the remaining spades in dummy appear quite innocent—perhaps too innocent.

South could not fathom the motive of west and concluded that player probably had the queen of diamonds and was trying to secure a diamond lead from south.

The declarer purposely refrained from leading trumps at the first opportunity in order to avoid disclosing his unusual trump strength.

At the conclusion of the play north criticized his partner for not leading the king of diamonds at trick three. He stated, with some reason, that the refusal of west to take the queen-ten finesse in the spade suit showed the latter to have something up his sleeve. South retorted that west almost always had something up his sleeve, but in such a situation it was almost impossible to decide what it was.

CUBAN VS. GREEK CLASH FOR WORLD 3 CUSHION TITLE

De Oro to Defend Emblem Against Copulos in Detroit This Week.

Cuban and Greek will clash when Champion Alfredo De Oro defends the world's three cushion title against the challenge of Gus Copulos at Detroit March 27 to 29. It will be the first time in the history of the three cushion classic that two players born outside the North American continent have met in a match for the championship.

De Oro, who for a quarter of a century has been one of the greatest figures in the billiard world, was born in Cuba fifty-six years ago.

Copulos, who will make his first essay for the title this week, was born at Sparta, Greece, Jan. 22, 1894, but came to this country when an infant. His father, who preceded him, had located at Humboldt park, Chicago, and there Gus grew up, like any American youngster, taking to baseball and eventually becoming a catcher on the Kelly team.

Lundgren Still in Lead.

Although Ernie Lundgren of Menk and Reading's dropped the final game of the week in the Chicago league, he still is one full game ahead of Pierre Maupome, the Milwaukee star being defeated by Charley Burton at Milwaukee. Charley Le Gros superseded Ben Klatcher in third place, the latter falling to Kieckhefer, who appears to have returned to form after his recent slump. Standing:

LAW IN ILLINOIS, ALSO NEW YORK, EAGERLY SOUGHT

With Two Biggest Cities in the Country Move Is Important.

BY RAY PEARSON.

While Illinois is striving to secure passage of a bill that will legalize boxing it is interesting to note the action that already has been taken in other states where measures have been introduced. This pertains particularly to New York state, which, like Illinois, boasts a city of great population, these being New York City and Chicago.

But before going into conversation concerning New York it is worthy of mention that two states, Nevada and Idaho, have jumped into the van as favoring the sport by passing laws permitting it.

It is particularly interesting in the case of Nevada. When the house and senate in that far western state had passed the measure introduced, which stipulated that bouts of twenty-five rounds could be held, the governor vetoed it. But that did not prevent the law from becoming operative, for it was passed over the governor's veto.

State of Boxing History.

Boxing in Nevada always has been a big institution. That state, until a few years ago, was the only one in the union where finish contests could be held. Folks who follow pugilism will remember back as far as that memorable St. Patrick's day of 1897 when the late Bob Fitzsimmons crashed a pile driving right hand to Jim Corbett's solar plexus and scored a knockout in the fourteenth round, incidentally taking the title from James J.

But Nevada, aside from permitting Fitz and Corbett to mix in their championship tilt, has had much to do with making pugilistic history. There was that affair of July 4, 1910, when Jack Johnson, the Negro champion, clashed with Jim Jeffries at Reno in a bout in which Jeff was pulled out of retirement in the effort to again install a white man as titleholder. That contest went to the sixteenth round, when Johnson knocked out the ex-boilermaker of Los Angeles.

Gans-Nelson Mill at Goldfield.

That bout between Battling Nelson and Joe Gans, another colored scrapper, who held the title of lightweight champion, at Goldfield on Sept. 3, 1906, is not forgotten by the fans. It was probably the longest distance scrap for a title in Nevada, and Gans was adjudged the winner on a foul in the forty-second round by the late Referee George Siler. These are the high spots presented by Nevada, but there were several other contests which, owing, to lack of space, cannot be described here.

Jumping a bit farther north lands one in Idaho, where the lawmakers have shown that they want boxing by passing a bill permitting twenty round bouts. One feature which is out of the ordinary was presented in this action, for two of the Idaho lawmakers are women. They are both in the house of representatives, and both voted for the bill. One of them, a mother, gave her reasons for voting for the bill by saying that she wanted her sons to grow up real men and not mollycoddles. When women vote for boxing it is some boost for the game that is being sought in Illinois.

Two Bills Up at Albany.

Now about what they're doing in New York. There are two bills in the legislature at Albany which are being given consideration. One is known as the Malone measure; the other is offered by Representative Gibbs. Perhaps it would be better to allow Jack Skelly, the Yonkers boxing critic, to give his views on these bills. Here's what Skelly says:

"The majority of voters in this state are absolutely in favor of the sport, and they want to see either the Gibbs or Malone bill go through as quickly as possible. Personally, I rather favor the Malone measure, as it calls for twelve rounds and a higher salary for the commissioners. You can't expect to get high class men to fill those positions for a piking compensation. So, I'm in favor of allowing the chairman of the board at least $6,000 a year and his three deputies $3,500 each, with a secretary at the same figure.

Want Action Taken Quickly.

"Most of us have our various notions about the Gibbs boxing bill, especially regarding the number of rounds and commissioners, but we all agree upon one verdict—boxing should be legalized without any further argument or delay."

BURMAN WHIPS JOE O'DONNELL

Philadelphia, Pa., March 22.—[Special.]—Joe Burman, the Chicago battler, outfought Joe O'Donnell of Gloucester, N. J., in the main bout of six rounds tonight at the National A. C. Burman set the pace from the start and never let up. In the closing rounds O'Donnell was lumbering around the ring trying to evade Burman's wicked punches. Burman jabbed and hooked as he saw fit and was an easy winner.

In the second round Burman's right connected with O'Donnell's jaw, sending him to the mat for a count of eight. O'Donnell stalled the balance of the round and was shaky at the bell. Burman drew blood in the third round. The Chicagoan had an advantage in every round.

VOTE FOR BOXING LAW

Women Members of Idaho Legislature Opposed to Mollycoddles.

Mrs. Carrie Harper White
Dr. Emma F. A. Drake

Two of the most earnest supporters of the recently passed bill legalizing boxing in Idaho were Mrs. Carrie Harper White and Dr. Emma F. A. Drake, members of the state legislature. Both voted for the measure.

Mrs. White, speaking for the bill, said that as a mother she did not want to see her son grow up a mollycoddle.

"Big Ten" Coaches Select Officials for Grid Games

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Coaches of "Big Ten" football teams held their annual meeting yesterday at the Auditorium hotel to select officials for the fall games. Unlike former years the selections were made by classifying the arbiters as referees, umpires, field judges and head linesmen. If one referee was chosen for a game on one Saturday, the next choice was made by drawing and so on.

Frank Birch, one of the best football officials in the country, will handle the Chicago-Michigan game on Stagg field on Nov. 8, while Walter Eckersall will referee the struggle between Northwestern and Michigan at Ann Arbor on Nov. 1 and the Iowa-Illinois game at Urbana on Oct. 18.

Hoagland to Officiate.

Ralph Hoagland, the old time official, will work his first "Big Ten" game in years. He will be field judge in the Chicago-Michigan contest. Other officials selected are those who have acted in similar capacities for years.

Fred Murphy, coach at Northwestern last year, who is now in the mining business in the west, attended the meeting. He declared he would not do any coaching, but said he would like to officiate in some of the games in the Rocky mountain region.

Officials Selected.

Following are the officials selected for the various games:

OCT. 11.

Illinois at Purdue—Referee, Birch; umpire, Knight; field judge, Elliott; head linesman, Maskere.

OCT. 18.

Purdue at Chicago—Referee, Masker; umpire, Knight; field judge, Keithley; head linesman, St. John.

Iowa at Illinois—Referee, Eckersall; umpire, Davis; field judge, Dorticos; head linesman, Elliott.

Indiana vs. Minnesota at Indianapolis—Referee, Ray; umpire, Lieut. Mumma; field judge, Graves; head linesman, Reid.

OCT. 25.

Northwestern at Chicago—Referee, Robinson; umpire, Clark; field judge, Knight; head linesman, Carrithers.

Ohio State at Michigan—Referee, Birch; umpire, Schommer; field judge, Thurber; head linesman, Prugh.

Wisconsin at Illinois—Referee, Maskere; umpire, Davis; field judge, Haynes; head linesman, Young.

Iowa at Minnesota—Referee, Magidsohn; umpire, Adams; field judge, Keithley; head linesman, Kintz.

NOV. 1.

Chicago at Illinois—Referee, Birch; umpire, Lieut. Mumma; field judge, Thurber; head linesman, Elliott.

Northwestern at Michigan—Referee, Eckersall; umpire, Haynes; field judge, Durfee; head linesman, Young.

Minnesota at Wisconsin—Referee, Masker; umpire, Schommer; field judge, White; head linesman, Kintz.

NOV. 8.

Michigan at Chicago—Referee, Birch; umpire, Lieut. Mumma; field judge, Hoagland; head linesman, Hedges.

Iowa at Northwestern—Referee, Eckersall; umpire, Samp; field judge, Haynes; head linesman, White.

Purdue at Ohio State—Referee, Magidsohn; umpire, Snyder; field judge, Gardner; head linesman, not selected.

NOV. 15.

Iowa at Chicago—Referee, Masker; umpire, White; field judge, Thurber; head linesman, Elliott.

Indiana at Northwestern—Referee, Eckersall; umpire, Lieut. Mumma; field judge, Reed; head linesman, Hedges.

NOV. 22.

Wisconsin at Chicago—Referee, Magidsohn; umpire, White; field judge, Haynes; head linesman, Young.

ROLL WINNER IN TRAP HANDICAP

George Roll defeated F. H. Sherman in the shootoff of the tie of the Elliott sliding handicap at the Chicago Beach hotel traps yesterday, scoring 24 to 22 after the pair had tied at 68 out of a possible 75 targets. The scores were lower than usual owing to the wind and varying distance under the terms of the handicap. Scores:

George Roll, 68; F. H. Sherman, 68; H. W. Leffingwell, 67; J. F. Nalbirnie, 65; Roy Nutt, 63; Dr. H. Timm, 61; M. O. Smith, 54; J. F. Brietenstein, 48; J. B. Smith, 49; W. H. Wheeler, 41.

Professionals—A. H. Ammann, 66; Ed Graham, 66; J. R. Graham, 66; G. W. Peck, 59.

BASEBALL TODAY; SEE ANY ROBINS?

The first local baseball game of the season is scheduled for this afternoon at Cragin park, Cicero and Armitage avenues. The contesting teams will be the Cragins and the Rex Eagles. Both managers will have plenty of talent on hand, for none of the athletes is expected to stay in the pastime more than a few innings.

INDOOR GAMES TODAY.

Three games are booked today in the City Indoor Baseball league championship, as follows: Hamlin Crescents at Hebrew institute, 1258 West Taylor; Dodger Trainings and Opportunity A. A. at Stanford park, Fourteenth and Jefferson; Welles Parks at Holstein park.

PINEHURST GOLF SYSTEM MODEL OF SMOOTHNESS

Eastern Players Flock to Resort; West Has Not Yet 'Discovered' It.

BY GEORGE A. O'NEIL.

Golfers who travel to the far west boast of California and its wonderful golfing facilities. Those who travel south declare Florida has no equal. These distant paradises are about as well known to players of the middle west as are Flossmoor, Glen View, and other home courses. But Pinehurst is to most of us an undiscovered country, although it has many claims upon our attention.

GEORGE A. O'NEIL
JARVIS-WEBB-Photo.

It is the seat of the great winter classic, the north and south championship, a threefold event, comprising the championship for women, the amateur championship for men, and the north and south open.

Nationally Prominent Field.

In the first, Elaine Rosenthal and Mrs. Hurd are always factors. The talent in the country, having been won by such players as Walter J. Travis, Warren K. Wood, Phil Carter, and Chick Evans. The high honors of the open are always contested by as skillful though not as large a field as the national open, for among the entries are always to be found such as Barnes, Brady, Croke, Hagen, Hutchinson, Loos, and MacDonald.

Eastern players know Pinehurst well and patronize it accordingly. A few Chicagoans are among its most constant visitors, but I should like to record a few facts which I think will suggest that the chairman of the committee on greens or on sports and pastimes of any club would be benefited by a visit to the pride of North Carolina and a careful study of the methods by which the courses are run.

Six Courses Contemplated.

These methods were invented and installed by Donald Ross, who has charge of the club and who cannot be praised too highly for the originality of the system and the comfortable smoothness with which it is carried out. Leonard Tuft, too, deserves admiration for the foresight and breadth of view which enabled him to lay his plans on so large a scale. The links now comprise four courses, and two more are in contemplation.

The basic fact of the system is that there are four courses—each almost if not quite as good and attractive as the other. To play, one has only to choose the course he prefers and draw for his time. This is done the day before. All is managed systematically, smoothly, and accurately. No favorites are played; and, as everybody knows this to be the case, there is never any discussion or criticism of the drawings.

Six Hundred Play Daily.

There are 600 players daily, and such is the perfection of the organization that one seldom sees more than two or three sets at the first tee on any course. Each course has its own starter to regulate the teeing off, but the duties of the starter do not end when the players are off. He has then another mission almost as important as starting sets at proper intervals.

The starter begins at the eighteenth tee and works backwards on the course, checking up the players, watching carefully to see that each player holds his place. If he discovers a congestion he immediately speaks to the set causing it and motions to the next set to pass through. No explanation is necessary; the order is understood and willingly accepted.

Among the few Chicagoans visiting Pinehurst are J. A. Middleton and E. H. Guertin of Beverly, G. B. Blossom of Exmoor, and E. Toll of Calumet. Thousands of eastern golfers are there every season, among them J. E. Brodhead of New York, Richard H. Dana Jr. of Cambridge, Mass., and W. V. Kellen of Boston.

Dr. Carlos MacDonald Devotee.

Most famous of all is, perhaps, Dr. Carlos MacDonald of New York. He is universally known for his expert work in the Harry K. Thaw case; he was called to Buffalo to determine the mental condition of Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley; but all his fame as an alienist is nothing in his eyes in comparison with his prowess as a golfer. He is 74 years old, and I have never seen any man of his age who would be a match for him at thirty-six holes or would play so many holes every day. He is the Popsie Herendeen of the east.

SHOTS ON THE LINKS
By JOE DAVIS

Despite the chilly breeze there were a number of players at the small course at Jackson park yesterday afternoon. Around the golf shelter the majority of the players approve of the daily fee proposed by the south park commissioners provided it is not made too high. Action on this will be taken at the next meeting of the board.

The tent colony is getting so big at Olympia fields it will be under the direct supervision of the club. A charge of $30 a month will be made for tents 9x12 or 12x15. An additional charge of $2.50 will be made for additional tents erected by any one member. Members who had tents last season will be permitted to use the same site this season.

Tom Morris, the Midlothian professional, has returned from Miami, Fla., where he gave golf lessons. He reports that Miami has doubled in size the last four years. Bert Krogstad, the Edgewater professional, is back from California.

Meyers and Nestor, Poles, Matched for Mat Contest

At Polish Union hall Wednesday night, Augusta street and Milwaukee avenue, Pole meets Pole in a wrestling contest, which has the earmarks of a championship affair. The principles are Johnny Meyers, who claims the middleweight title, and Mike Nestor, a newcomer to these parts.

Nestor came to Chicago solely to meet Meyers in a title bout, but had considerable trouble in inducing the champ to sign. The hitch was due to the weight question, Nestor asking to come in at catchweights. Meyers demanded that his challenger make 158 pounds. They compromised on 162 pounds.

Two Shooters Tie Twice at Lincoln Park Traps

Both events resulted in ties for high gun in the weekly shoot at Lincoln Park Gun club yesterday. C. G. Burmeister and Murray Ballow scored 48 in the fifteen target shoot from sixteen yards. The same two had the only perfect scores in the twenty-five target event, same rise. Leading scores:

50 targets—C. G. Burmeister, 48; Murray Ballou, 48; L. C. Larsen, 46; Dr. McClenathan, 44; J. W. Burghardt, 43; Jerome, 44; Dr. W. E. Little, 43; J. H. May, 42; A. Hummel, 41; Bill Harmening, 41; J. Kuhnlein, 40.

PRICE SCOUTS OF STATE GET STUCK IN SAND INQUIRY

Head of Wholesale and Retail Firms Fixes the Price for Both.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

The legislative investigators of the prices of building materials devoted yesterday to sand. The three witnesses heard opined that "sand will go down some" when the "volume of the sand business gets large and wages get easier," as one of them phrased it.

Reducing wages is not popular. No plan was suggested for increasing sand sales, except by a building boom. No scheme to do that was advanced. Therefore the progress of the committee at this session was limited.

Senator Denvir, one of the investigators, said he had paid $8 for three cubic yards of sand. One of the sand men said that he had "paid too much" and another said the senator was "stuck."

Collects "Coming and Going."

Another interesting feature was the admission by J. W. Alder. He is president of the American San dand Gravel company, and also of the Hydraulic Sand and Transit company. The latter brings sand, by boat from the St. Joseph river, Michigan, to Chicago and sells some of it to the American company. Alder makes the price at which he will sell for one company and accepts the price he will pay for the other. The Hydraulic is a wholesaler.

The committee hopes to get a reduction in cement prices and if they get a substantial one they expect road construction to proceed. On motion of Senator Essington, Chairman Dailey was instructed to wire A. Mitchell Palmer, U. S. attorney general, to withhold confirmation of the sale of the LaSalle Portland Cement company until the committee has completed its investigation.

Probe "Unlawful" Combines.

The chairman in his wire said his committee was appointed by the Illinois general assembly to "investigate the alleged existence of unlawful trade combinations among producers of building and road materials," then he followed with so pointed a request that the committeemen anticipate an almost certain reply at an early date, because—as one put it—"the federal government cannot foster a public policy that would tend to interfere with large construction programs." Regarding the basis for the request the telegram says:

"We are informed the La Salle Portland Cement company is the only independent cement company in Illinois and that the confirmation of the sale may create a monopoly of the cement business in Illinois to the detriment of the state of Illinois in its contemplated 60,000,000 hard road program, and likewise to the interests of those engaged in private construction projects."

The names of some of the purchasers of the La Salle company were printed in THE TRIBUNE March 11, as well as their connections with other cement organizations. These have not been subpoenaed by the committee.

Mr. Hines in Hot Springs.

C. F. Wiehe of the Hines Lumber company gave an amusing five minutes to the committee in asking to be excused until Monday. He said Mr. Hines had gone to Hot Springs for two weeks' vacation.

"When did he go?" asked Chairman Dailey.

"Yesterday morning," said Mr. Wiehe.

"You accepted service for him, did you not?" asked the chairman.

"The subpoena was left with me."

"You said you would accept service," spoke up the sergeant at arms.

"Mr. Hines will appear before the committee when he returns?" inquired Dailey.

"If you want him," said Wiehe.

"We have subpoenaed him and he has gone to Hot Springs and the subpoena is evidence that we want him."

"He did not go because you subpoenaed him," said Wiehe. "He has been having a busy time in Washington for six months and had to have a vacation."

"I don't think he went away because he was subpoenaed," said Dailey. "But he will appear when he returns, won't he?"

"He will be pleased to."

Would Block Taxes.

G. A. Hendricks of Grand Rapids appeared before the committee with a suggestion that taxes be not increased on real estate because of improvements made, if they are started at once. Hendricks said he had traveled all over the country since the armistice was signed, had interviewed architects and contractors, and he was confident there was no price combination.

"Who sent you here?" asked Senator Turnbaugh.

"I came of my own accord," he replied.

The committee assisted him to summarize his plan quickly and dismissed him to go to other fields.

JUDGE BLOCKS $25,000 AWARD TO MRS. REEVES

Mrs. Margaret Reeves, wife of Melville Reeves, frequently arrested by the police as an alleged participant in burglaries, will receive only a part of the $25,000 damages awarded her by a jury before Judge Joseph B. David in the Superior court in a suit against former Chief of Detectives Nicholas Hunt and Detective Sergeant Charles Gratton.

Judge David, while denying the defendants' motion for a new trial and declaring that Mrs. Reeves was entitled to damages, held that the amount awarded was excessive.

"If the defendants will pay and Mrs. Reeves will accept $2,500 I will enter judgment for that amount," he said. "Otherwise I shall reduce the award of $10,000 and allow the defendants to carry the case to the Appellate court."

The matter was continued until next Saturday to allow the lawyers to agree upon a settlement.

EXPLORE ATTIC! EUROPE NEEDS OLD CLOTHES

Gen. Wood Urges All to Help in Big Drive of the Red Cross.

They wear strips of gunny sacking for clothing, the women of Serbia; in France the children of refugees tramped about the frozen winter roads with boards strapped to their feet, in lieu of shoes; in Belgium they used straw and leaves for blankets.

What do you say to exploring the attic, the old cedar chest, and the closets for some of your cast off garments to give to the American Red Cross in its old clothes drive, which starts tomorrow? Here's what Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood said:

"I would gladly take off my boots and give them to the Red Cross if it says the word. That's about the only thing an army man can given in the way of clothes, as uniforms are not accepted."

Should Show Gratitude.

Later, Gen. Wood wrote the following letter to J. W. Scott, vice chairman of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross:

"The American Red Cross is asking for used clothing for the peoples of the liberated areas of the allied countries.

"To these people we owe sympathy for their suffering and gratitude for their heroic service. In a war that was ours—for it threatened self-government and civilization—they have borne the brunt of the enemy campaign of devastation, terrorism, and horror.

Died for Civilization.

"They endured untold suffering. Their children died of starvation. Their men and their women were torn from their homes and deported like slaves. They lost their means of livelihood. On their ruined fields their countrymen fought and died, that right and justice might prevail, that civilization might live.

"To help them now to our utmost is not charity, but only a small return for what they suffered in our behalf, in behalf of government by the people, in defense of civilization."

All fireproof storage warehouses throughout the city will be used as collection stations during the drive. The central collection station, at 902 South Michigan avenue, has been open since last Wednesday. The drive, which starts officially tomorrow, will continue only one week, until March 30.

YOU'LL HAVE TO HURRY.

RABBI WISE TO TALK ON LEAGUE THIS AFTERNOON

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, recently returned from Paris, where he, as a representative of the American Jewish congress, presented the complicated Jewish problems to the peace conference, is to address a meeting in the Auditorium theater at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

He will speak on "The Peace Conference and the Jews." The theater will be open to the public, but reserved seats may be had only at the box office. Reserved seats not occupied by 3 o'clock will be given late comers.

Miss Miriam Pruzan of the Chicago Opera company will open the meeting with the national anthem.

Rabbi Wise is confident, he said, that the hope of a Jewish state under the protection of the league of nations, with Great Britain as the mandatory power, will be realized; and he looks for complete independence "eventually."

LIQUOR CACHED IN DRY OAK PARK WORTH $500,000

Ralph M. Pray Declares Suburb Is "Loaded" for Prohibition.

Half a million dollars' worth of intoxicating liquor is stored in Oak Park and River Forest basements in anticipation of the day the nation becomes "bone dry," according to Ralph M. Pray, wealthy resident of Oak Park and head of the real estate firm which bears his name. Mr. Pray declared suburbanites who formerly never had anything "harder" in the cellar than elderberry wine or grape juice now possess stores of wines, beers, brandies, and bourbon. He added they are ready to fight to the last ditch in defense of their alcoholic acquisitions.

Mr. Pray told of the reversal of form in local option Oak Park and total abstinence River Forest in the course of a discussion with prominent villagers as to the advisability of passing local laws to bolster the national "dry" act.

Mr. Pray further declared well to do residents of the western suburbs are digging ditches and contriving all sorts of secure hiding places for the forbidden fluid.

"The prospect of a bone dry nation had a peculiar effect in Oak Park and River Forest, I find," Mr. Pray told Oak Park business men at a luncheon. "Some Oak Parkers have provided a sufficient supply of alcoholic fluids to last them their whole lives and leave a little over for entertaining their friends."

PRICE CUTTING PROGRAM RUNS INTO LUMBER JAM

Woodsmen Say They Are Not Organized; Delay Decision.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—[Special.]—Obstacles in the way of lumber price reductions developed today when a committee of lumber men met with the industrial board of the department of commerce.

The lumber manufacturers insisted that to cut prices would result in a loss to them, but some of them individually indicated a willingness to do so if united action by the industry could be obtained.

It was disclosed that there is no lumber organization comprehensive enough to bind the entire industry. Suggestion was made that it might be possible to deal with different sections of the country and dealers in the various varieties of lumber separately.

The industrial board issued a statement after the conference saying that in view of the complexity of the problem sufficient data were not available which could be used as a basis for any action by the board.

The lumber committee will name a subcommittee to remain in Washington to attempt to work out a solution of the problem.

The situation with respect to lumber is somewhat different from that of steel, the price advance during the war not having been so great proportionately.

The first Packard worm drive truck in Chicago, 4 years continued service, 42,000 miles on original tires, motor never been thoroughly overhauled

The story of the first Packard worm drive truck in Chicago

PACKARD worm drive trucks meet the delivery problems of many successful Chicago firms.

B. A. Railton Company, wholesale grocers, know what it means to deliver with Packard equipment. Their experience has proven the worth of these good trucks and has caused them to install two more Packards. These trucks have just been ordered to replace 2 one-and-a-half-ton trucks of much less initial cost.

A careful record of operating costs has been kept by this firm. Their figures show that the discarded ton-and-a-half trucks were costing too much to operate in comparison with their Packards.

The point of importance to you is that Packards are a good business proposition.

B. A. Railton Company have standardized on Packard trucks because of their economy. Forty-two thousand miles on its original set of tires, a minimum cost for repairs—four years continued service—and still good.

You would deliver with Packard equipment for such a good reason.

Figure the cost per ton mile—which means, know what your hauling cost per ton is—for each mile. Compare this record with the operating cost of some other truck. The Packard will win and mean as much to you as it does to B. A. Railton Company.

Motor trucking, its service, its costs and economies, is one of the livest issues of the day. The business man needs first of all to get the facts—the experience of people competent to speak.

This is the function of our freight transportation department—a department not of sales but of service.

It's the Packard idea—"A good truck built to deliver. A thorough service, organized to serve."

Packard truck drivers know their trucks. We teach them how to save. The next meeting of the "Truck Drivers' Instruction Course" will be held Friday evening, April 4th.

PUBLIC EMPLOYE PENSION FUNDS IN A BAD WAY

Report Shows Quick Legislative Action Is Necessary.

BY E. O. PHILLIPS.

Springfield, Ill., March 22.—[Special.]—Most of the public employés' pension funds are insolvent, or are at the jumping off place, and radical methods must be adopted by the present session of the legislature, unless a grave crisis and a possible scandal are to be averted.

This is the finding of the report of the Illinois pension laws commission appointed by Gov. Lowden in response to the act passed by the last legislative session, in compliance with the bill introduced by Senator Hull. The report of the commission has just been made public.

The report proposes a centralization of the entire public employés' pension funds activities, through a central supervising board, to be appointed by the governor. The original purpose of the recommendations of the commission is to place all of the funds upon a proper business basis, whereby each of them can be maintained as going concerns.

Creates Two General Funds.

Under the proposed plan the various existing Chicago funds, including the public school teachers' fund, the municipal employés' fund, the firemen's fund, the policemen's fund, the Cook county employés' fund, and the park policemen's fund, would be consolidated and known as the metropolitan funds. The various funds outside of Chicago, including the state teachers' pension and retirement fund, the statewide policemen's fund, and the statewide firemen's fund, would be consolidated as the statewide fund. Each of the two big funds, thus consolidated, would have a retirement board, operating under the general management of the state commission.

The report is the product of eighty sessions of the commission, that was appointed after Senator Hull had demonstrated to the legislature that the funds, acting independently, were running into serious trouble. Its members are George E. Hooker, chairman; Rufus C. Dawes, John P. Dillon, and Henry L. Rietz.

Points Out Law's Weakness.

In discussing the present hopeless insufficiency of existing pension funds the commission says:

"The deficits today in the larger and older Chicago funds, on the basis of actuarial estimates, even when credit is given for the perpetual continuance of the present receipts from taxation, are as follows:

Public school teachers' fund	$ 6,000,000
Municipal employés' fund	5,000,000
Firemen's fund	7,000,000
Policemen's fund	21,000,000

Advise Standard Plan.

"The statewide public school teachers' fund similarly is headed in the direction of a large deficit. The police and fire funds of the cities outside of Chicago are too small to be sound financially.

"The commission recommends the enactment of a law or code for a standard plan for a comprehensive and permanent, consolidated system for old age retirement annuities, life insurance providing widows' annuities, and sickness and accident insurance for employés of the public in Illinois.'"

"The standard plan proposed by the commission is what the actuaries and other insurance men call a reserve plan. It calls for the accumulation of the funds toward old age retirement annuities and toward life insurance for widows' annuities, from year to year, while service is being rendered, and while these liabilities which will mature in the future are being incurred."

He Smiles at the Ladies; a Policeman Interrupts

"He smiles at all the ladies," said Policeman Albert T. Webber, assigned to Clark and Lake streets.

"You've got me wrong," said the prisoner, J. P. Senderson, 150 East Fifty-third street.

"No, I haven't. Many of them have pointed you out to me, but I never caught you at it before. You're the smiling gent, all right, all right."

Anyhow Senderson didn't smile last night.

Presents Rail Program to Aid the Chinese, Leading to Eventual Operation by Natives

BY J. B. POWELL.

[Special Correspondence of The Tribune.]

[Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.]

FOURTH ARTICLE.

PEKING, Feb. 4.—The general plan for the solution of the problem presented by the conflicting interests of the great powers in China that the American government is expected to propose is roughly as follows:

1. The creation of a central railway board of the Chinese ministry of communications, composed of five members, one from each of the following countries: China, Great Britain, America, France, and Japan; the Chinese member to be appointed by the ministry of communications, and the four foreign members shall be appointed by the Chinese government upon the nomination by members of the Consortium bank group, their salaries and expenses to be paid by the Chinese government.

2. Department chiefs shall be chosen from foreigners or Chinese on a basis of merit only. The aim shall be to train Chinese for administrative positions as rapidly as possible.

3. The railways shall be considered as one system, but for administrative purposes shall be subdivided into zones or districts as appears most convenient for operation and administration. District and divisional officers shall be selected from foreigners and Chinese, preference being given to Chinese to the extent that qualified men are available.

Board to Have Authority.

The board shall have full managerial authority over the railways in operation and the construction of all new railways financed by foreign loans subject to an accounting to the ministry of communications. All foreign loans shall be made on Chinese government account through the Consortium banks.

The nationals of each nation in the Consortium shall be at liberty to subscribe to the loans up to but not in excess of 25 per cent of any particular loan. Provided that in case any nation fails or can take only a portion of its quota, the balance may be secured in the most favorable money market. No bonds shall be issued for a period exceeding fifty years.

The board shall refund all outstanding foreign loans so that the identity of foreign influence in any particular line may be eliminated. Any claims for losses that might result to investors by reason of such loss of identity with a particular line shall be adjudicated and compensated fully.

Purchase Railway Concessions.

The board shall purchase on the account of the Chinese government at an agreed appraised fair value all foreign concession railways and any other railways now built in Chinese territory, which it may seem expedient to acquire, by paying for them out of the proceeds of the sales of Chinese government railway bonds.

The security for railway bonds shall be the consolidated national railway properties and the Chinese government general credit. No bonds for new construction shall be issued without the approval of the Chinese government. Net profits shall be considered as being the balance of earnings for consolidated lines over and above all capital, operating, maintenance, depreciation, previous losses, and other proper charges. The Consortium bank group shall be entitled to receive not in excess of one-fifth of the net profits. Of the remaining four-fifths the Chinese government shall be entitled to one-half and the other half shall be placed at the disposal of the board for betterments, extensions, etc. The Chinese government's share of the surplus shall be released automatically.

The construction of new railway lines, terminals, and harbor works shall be let upon the most favorable terms obtainable without reference to nationality or bidder. Materials and equipment shall be purchased without reference to nationality on the most favorable terms obtainable, except that Chinese products shall be favored and encouraged as far as is practicable. Neither the board nor the Consortium bank group shall be entitled to a commission on the purchase of supplies or materials and equipment.

The construction of new railway lines shall be under the immediate direction of the superintendent of construction and maintenance. The Chinese government may appoint a Chinese director to represent its interests in connection with the execution of the work.

Port Terminal Improvement.

The construction of railway, port terminal, and harbor work shall be under the immediate direction of the superintendent of port terminals. The Chinese government may appoint a Chinese director to represent its interests during the execution of the work. The board shall, in agreement with the Chinese government, include in its construction program a reasonable percentage of development lines into backward or outer territories. Such lines, which would not likely pay for a number of years, should be carefully balanced in proportion to the good paying roads in order to assure a reasonable net profit from the railway system as a whole.

The board, in agreement with the Chinese government, shall organize a development and colonization bureau to encourage settlement along the railways in backward or outer territories and to foster and promote such agricultural, stock raising, forestry, and resource improvement, and development as would benefit the country and increase railway earnings.

Develop China for Chinese.

It shall be the duty of the board to insure efficient management in order to protect the loan investments of the Consortium bank group, but the underlying intent of the board's powers and functions shall be to promote the proper transportational development of China for the Chinese and to train Chinese executives and operatives in the science of railroading with the view that at the earliest practicable date the board may step out of authority and the Chinese assume full control and responsibility.

To summarize and fix in our minds the whole matter the following points should be remembered:

China and central Asia are approximately three times the size of the United States or of the whole of Europe. Large areas in outer China and central Asia are rich in undeveloped resources and fertile lands. These areas may be made to produce large quantities of staple products of which the world is in need, providing they are made accessible by means of modern transportation facilities.

China has approximately 7,000 miles of railways in operation, as against approximately 30,000 miles in India and 250,000 miles in the United States. Most of the railways have been built by foreign capital through loan contracts or outright concession. With the advent of railways special spheres of influence and exclusive privileges have developed that, partially or completely, in some instances, close the door to equal opportunity. China's proper development is being retarded thereby.

These spheres and exclusive concessions threaten the Chinese national integrity and if perpetuated will continue to retard her proper development politically and economically.

Worse yet, if the present conditions are permitted to remain, China will continue a hotbed of international intrigues and jealousies threatening the peace of the world.

The following things should be done: Wipe out the old sphere of influence, concessions, and exclusive privileges in China and make a new start on the principle of "No special privileges, but equal opportunities to all and justice to China." Consolidate the contract loan railways, forming a Chinese national railway system with only sufficient foreign control to insure protection to the investments. Through this board provide the funds and purchase on China's account all the concession railways, making them a part of the consolidated system.

For Improvement Program.

Assist China to formulate a comprehensive plan of railway and port terminal development, any foreign loans for construction and equipment to be handled through the central management board.

Make adequate provision for the training of Chinese in executive positions with the avowed purpose of turning full control over to the Chinese government as soon as ability to manage the system and safeguard the investment is proven.

Consolidate the concessions at the various treaty ports, neutralize them under international administration that will assure the Chinese an increasing participation in municipal government until the time is ripe for full control. Abrogate all leases of continental territories converting the settlements into treaty ports under neutralized international administration.

Seaver and Secretary Are Married in Racine

Racine, Wis., March 22.—[Special.]—Vernon C. Seaver, theatrical promoter of Chicago, was married here today to Miss Ethel Burley, his secretary, at the parsonage of the First Presbyterian church, the Rev. C. S. Nickerson officiating. The bride was unattended. Seaver's former wife, Mable Boyce, was divorced from him in Chicago, March 21, 1918.

Seaver in applying for the marriage licence stated he had been married twice and was 55 years of age. Miss Burley gave her age as 33.

OPENS FIGHT TO FREE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL INMATES

Assistant State's Attorney Wants Parents' Wish to Give Release.

The right of industrial school authorities at St. Charles and Geneva to keep boys and girls in the schools after parents or guardians desire their release was questioned yesterday in habeas corpus proceedings in the Circuit court by Assistant State's Attorney Robert Hogan of the Juvenile court. Hogan acted on behalf of Florence Horner, 18 years old, who is being held at Geneva, although a petition for her release was filed some time ago. Judge Arnold overruled the petition. The argument was set for tomorrow.

Hogan said the heads of the St. Charles and Geneva institutions are in conflict with the laws of the state when they seek to hold boys and girls longer than parents or guardians wish.

"Their attitude has led to the crowded conditions at St. Charles and has resulted in boys being held in the police stations and in the county jail," he added.

"If I get favorable action on this case I will petition for the release of other boys and girls who deserve their liberty because of good conduct."

Hogan said there was no merit in the contention of Col. C. B. Adams, head of St. Charles, that releases such as that sought in the Horner case would upset the discipline of the school.

Granting of the habeas corpus writ is being opposed by the attorney general's office on behalf of the superintendents of St. Charles and Geneva. The courtroom was crowded yesterday with Juvenile court officers and workers.

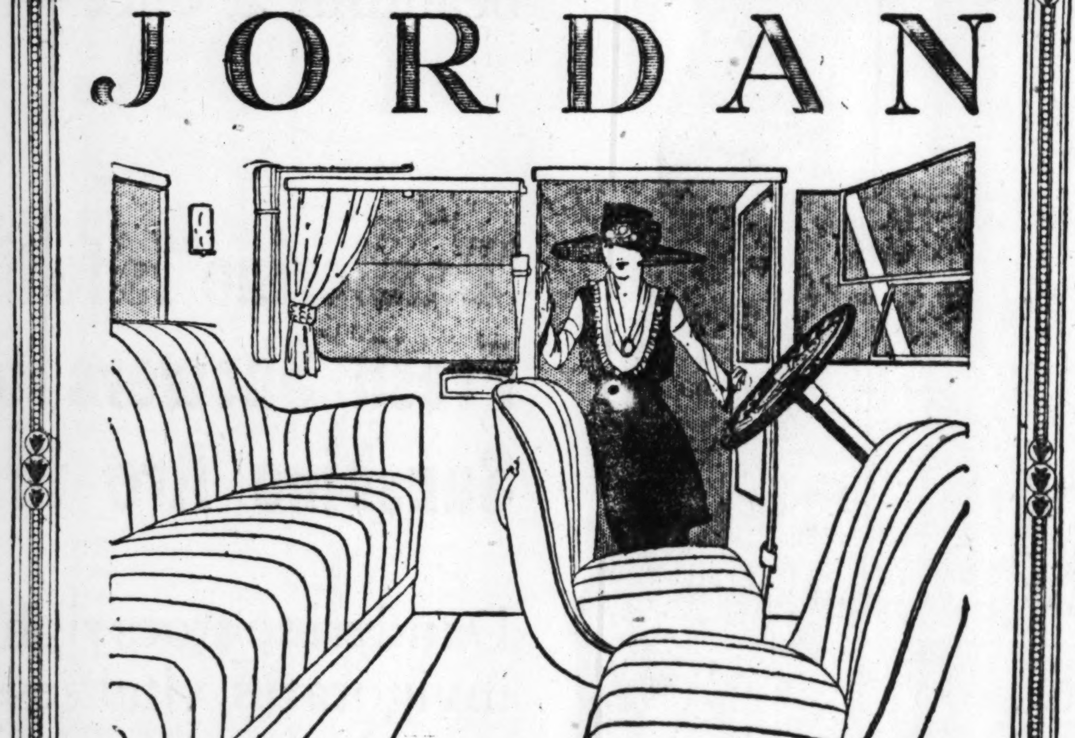
JORDAN



How Inviting to a Woman

The Jordan Brougham is a distinctly new type of enclosed car for personal driving—particularly inviting to a woman. It offers all the intimate comfort and convenience of an electric—with none of the limitations.

Upholstery is of the finest worsteds over Marshall cushion springs. Paneling and mouldings in Circassian walnut marquetry.

The all-aluminum body—hammock-swung on a perfectly balanced chassis—is rust, dust and rattle proof, with unusually broad vision. It may be so opened as to be practically out of doors.

The driving position has been studied and steering made so flexible that the car will turn in almost any road.

Window lights operate with improved lifts and slide in noiseless velvet grooves. There are Yale locks with inside locking levers. Dome light and individual reading lamps. Clock on the instrument board. Water tight compartment in the rear provides room for tools and two suit cases.

The Jordan Brougham is complete to the last detail. It will be widely imitated.

Optional colors, Liberty Blue and Brewster Green.

You must drive your own car. You will eventually drive this type.

The "Preferred Investment"

The wise man selects his motor car investment in much the same way that he selects a first mortgage bond or any other high grade security.

He looks for permanent, enduring quality—not mere surface veneer. He looks to the integrity of the manufacturer, the critical expressions of the average owner and the history of the product over a period of years.

It is on this basis that we would have you consider the Paige.

From the standpoint of initial cost, ours is not a cheap motor car There are many cars on the market that sell for less money than the Paige, and we could readily build them ourselves if we considered that the best policy. But we don't.

We firmly believe that self-respect, comfort, and enduring satisfaction have an actual market value. So we build those things into our product.

We take just a little more time—just a little more care in the selection of materials—just a little more pride in our work. And the result is a real motor car—not a make-shift or a compromise.

In brief, while we agree that first cost is an important consideration, we are convinced that Ultimate cost is vastly more important.

We believe that the only true test of economy is years of hard, gruelling service on the road.

We believe that freedom from repair bills and excessive depreciation is infinitely more desirable that a mere catch-penny price list.

These are our convictions. We have held to them staunchly during many fitful periods in the motor car industry. So long as the Paige Company is a factor in the making and distributing of motor cars, we shall continue to adhere to them.

And it is because of these convictions, and their practical application to manufacturing, that the Paige car is regarded as a "Preferred Investment" in every automobile mart of the world.

BIG ARMY MUST CRUSH REDS, SAYS CZECH OFFICER

Bohemians Welcome Aid of War Minister on the Way to Paris.

"It is only a matter of weeks before the allies will realize they must put great forces into Russia," Lieut. Frank Lakomy, aid to Minister of War Steffanik of Czecho-Slavia, declared last night. "This and this alone will bring the end of bolshevism," he added.

Lieut. Lakomy, who is on his way from Vladivostok to Paris to join his chief, arrived in Chicago at 7:15 last night from the Pacific coast, accompanied by Corporal Stanislav Fucik. He was met at the Northwestern station by a reception committee headed by Andrew Schustek, president, and Vojta Bennis, secretary of the Slovak league, and James F. Stepina of the executive committee of the Bohemian National alliance.

Lieut. Lakomy is fresh from the fighting in the Urals on the Ussuri front, where, he said, the Siberian army is opposed by nearly 100,000 bolshevists.

Never Take Prisoners.

"The bolshevists never take prisoners," he said. "It is a fight to death always, because our men know only too well if they are captured they will be handled in the most brutal manner. Every man the reds take they torture. They are worse than the Huns, more barbarous than the Turk. I fought both and know.

"I know of one horrible case—that of a school teacher fighting with our forces. He was tortured most cruelly. His eyes were burned out with live coals, after which he was crucified. He was not even given the humanitarian sword through his heart but left hanging by his hands and feet until he died. A mob that tried to aid him was swept by bullets and cut with bayonets.

Siberia Needs Aid.

"America must realize the fight the brave Siberian army is putting up needs aids. We look passionately for [illegible]. First, we need food, lots of it, and then more arms and soldiers."

The Czecho-Slovaks, the officer declared, look to America to give them their rights at the peace table.

The lieutenant also brought from the Pacific coast a new rumor as to the fate of the former czar of Russia.

While in San Francisco Monday, he said, he met several former Russian officers who now are privates in the American army.

Czar Reported on Coast.

"They recognized my uniform," he declared. "I chatted with them for several minutes and, to my astonishment, one of them told me he was positive that the former czar is in San Francisco. He refused to give me his reasons for believing this, but said the czar is supposed to have reached Vladivostok and to have taken passage incognito for America with two of his most trusted officers."

Lieut. Lakomy was professor of languages in Bohemia and was impressed into the Austrian army in 1914

GETS A WIFE TO MAKE JOKE GOOD; JOKE'S ON HIM

Mrs. W. T. Stille Tells of Strange Romance in Divorce Bill.

This is a story about a man who accepted the congratulations and wedding presents of his friends—and then went out and got a wife. The wife, who is Mrs. Harriet L. Stille, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Wilcox, 2014 Waveland avenue, announced yesterday that the joke (also the husband) has gone quite far enough.

The announcement came in the form of a divorce suit filed in the Superior court by Attorney Laurence B. Jacobs for Mrs. Stille. The bill for the first few paragraphs makes drab and uninteresting charges of cruelty.

Then—

"The plaintiff at the time she was induced to marry Walter T. Stille believed that he loved her," the bill recites.

In the spring of 1918, the bill asserts, Stille, who was employed in a loop office, secured a two day vacation to attend the wedding of a brother. (If you recall, that was an unusual spring in the marriage marts.)

Upon returning to his office after the wedding, the other clerks suspected orange blossoms and delicate maternal sobs and deep throated ministers—hidden orchestras sending forth subdued strains of Lohengrin. These suspicions, if not confirmed, were at least not disproved, the bill says, and soon Walter's back was the recipient of many a hearty congratulatory smash.

A day or two later—still following the bill—the friends in the office presented Walter with a cut glass water set. You know how they do those things—everybody anties up, and the office boy goes out to buy whatever he sees and likes.

"I would like to have you come out and see my wife," the "bridegroom" said. He was playing the game and having a perfectly lovely time.

But to his surprise, the bill says, the whole office force accepted the invitation, and Walter's smile immediately fled. There was a jam—now where was Walter going to get a wife—ah! He had it.

That same night, according to the bill, the little rose light in Harriet Wilcox's parlor blinked softly under the barrage of love Walter was sprinkling. On April 11, 1918, Harriet and Walter were married and the "bunch" gave a nice little house warming for them. The cut glass set was presented all over again—this time to the "missus."

Things went along pretty smoothly for a while, the bill says, and then Walter started to neglect his wife and later turned to cruelty.

BRITISH-YANKEE TRADE WAR NEAR, BALFOUR SAYS

Shipping Firm Head Sees Fight for Sea Business.

A hint of a commercial war after the peace treaty is signed was given in Chicago yesterday by Sir Robert Balfour, head of an international shipping combine, of which the Balfour agency of Chicago is a part He predicted bitter competition in trans-Atlantic shipping, with England as the aggresor, and said cargo rates may be cut below a profitable margin.

Sir Robert, who was in England throughout the war, but who was in the United States for almost twenty-five years up to 1914, passed the day here while en route to San Francisco, where one of the most important of his export offices is situated.

War Hastened Contest.

"Of course," he said, "no one knows what will come, but it is reasonable to presume there will be keen competition in ocean trade. England expects the United States to be a keen competitor. That was expected before the war, and the war only hastened it. It would not surprise me if tariffs should fall very low, possibly below a profitable basis.

"England will be helped considerably in the fact she can operate her merchant marine on a more profitable basis," he said.

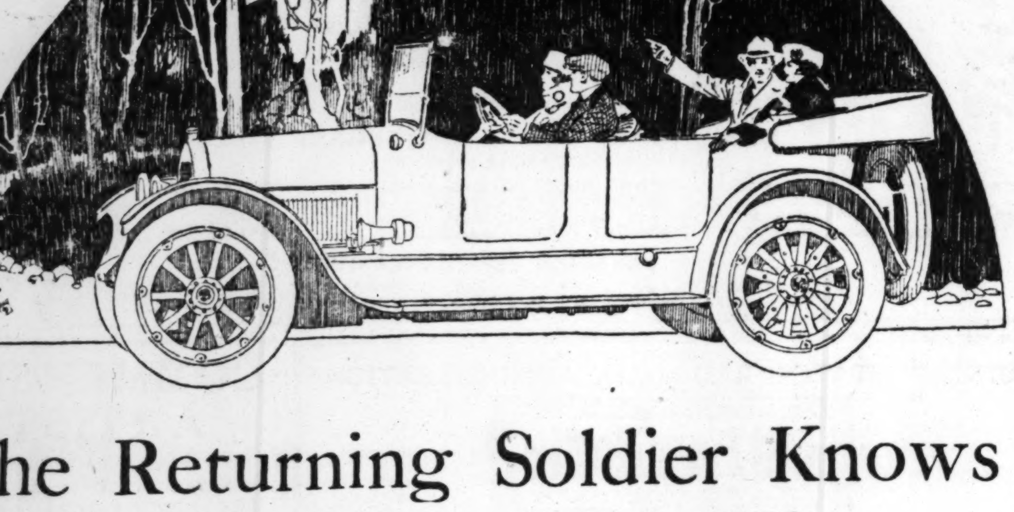
Asked if he thought England would institute an extensive after the war blockade on American-made goods, he replied:

"I hardly think so; it is possible that preference may be given to the colonies."

Sees German Recovery.

As for Germany he said:

"Germany will reinstate herself as a commercial factor. It is inconceivable the allies would try to make the peace terms so stringent that she could not, because we can't ask the Germans to starve. They never may reach the point where they were before the war, but they certainly will manufacture on a large scale and do a large export business."



The Returning Soldier Knows the Cadillac. Ask Him.

Quite frequently a word from without rouses us to the merit that sits by our own fireside.

By some such simple, human process the Cadillac is being re-discovered in America by way of France.

America did not fully recognize the genius of Edgar Allan Poe until France and England revealed it.

England, in turn, awoke to Robert Louis Stevenson, her own gifted son, when America acclaimed him.

In like manner many an American soldier had to go to France to find out how good a car his own country builds, in the Cadillac.

These men saw the Cadillac under circumstances that were at once brilliant and trying.

The war zone was a huge demonstration-ground; and its adoption by the War Department thrust the Cadillac into almost cruel prominence.

Under the eyes of all the allied governments the Cadillac was naturally subjected to most intent and interested scrutiny as the choice of our government.

Conditions were such that American army men were given an exhibition of Cadillac efficiency they could never have witnessed at home.

They saw the car doing almost impossible things, day after day, with the same constancy and consistency that characterizes it on American streets and roads.

But, best of all, they were witness to the frank and ungrudging admiration of four allied nations which pride themselves on motor refinement.

Naturally, their Americanism rejoices in that fact, and they have come home realizing fully, for the first time, how highly the whole world esteems the Cadillac.

WIDOW, 86, SUES, CHARGING HOME COST A FORTUNE

Mrs. F. L. Baker Demands an Accounting from W. R. Adams.

William R. and Edith W. Adams, 96 Gale avenue, River Forest, were made defendants in a bill for an accounting filed in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Flora L. Baker, 86 years old, of South Bend, Ind. Mrs. Baker is a widow of a civil war veteran. She makes several charges against the defendants.

In November, 1914, according to the bill, Mr. and Mrs. Adams asked Mrs. Baker to move to their home and there to spend the remaining years of her life. This the aged woman agreed to do, and until February, 1918, she paid for her board and lodging in advance every month.

Cites Life Agreement.

"Then the plaintiff became ill, and while in this condition was induced by the defendants to transfer to them one note for $6,500 and three coupon notes for $195 each," the bill says. "For this the defendants agreed to support her the rest of her life."

It is charged that Adams was interested in Florida real estate, and that he made two trips to Florida, and the expenses of both trips were defrayed by Mrs. Baker. Later she was induced to spend $1,350 for a motor car, it is charged, and the defendants started on a motor trip south. While they were gone she was put in the Soldiers' Widows' home in Maywood.

Provided Funeral Costs.

"When Mr. and Mrs. Adams returned from Florida they demanded $75 for board and $327 for funeral expenses in the event of her death," the bill reads. These were paid, it is said.

A complete accounting and refund of all moneys over living expenses are asked in the bill, which was filed by Attorney Edward L. England.

COUNTRY CLUB PUTS BAN ON TIPS

Since Patrick Henry enunciated that ringing American principle, "Give me liberty or give me death," time has fugited most lamentably for some of the cherished institutions of democracy. As, for example, the tip.

You are deprived of this prerogative at the South Shore Country club, but it is apparent that some of the members have become insurgent, because the following pronunciamento was issued yesterday:

"No member, guest, visitor, or any one shall give any fee, money, or gratuity to any employé. . . . For the first violation the offending member shall be reprimanded; for the second, suspended for a period of thirty days; for the third, suspended for a year, and for the fourth violation such member shall be expelled."

DENIES PARDON TALK IN CHICAGO WITH HARDING

Testimony of Iowa Judge and Lawyer Clashes in Rathbun Case.

Des Moines, Ia., March 22.—[Special.]—The statement by Judge J. L. Kennedy of Sioux City that Attorney Thad Snell, alleged go-between, was alone with Gov. W. L. Harding in Chicago, and the denial of Snell that he talked with the governor about the pardon, were the two most important points of testimony introduced today before the house judiciary committee which is investigating the Rathbun pardon.

In a newspaper interview Gov. Harding declared it would be proved neither he nor Snell knew the other was to be in Chicago and predicted that everything would be explained satisfactorily. Judge Kennedy, who was the first witness called today, said Gov. Harding was with Attorney Snell in Chicago while they walked from a hotel to a large store where Snell bought a baby buggy.

Calls Rathbuns Crooks.

When asked about the standing of the Rathbun family in Ida Grove, Judge Kennedy said:

"I found the Rathbun family to be a notorious family of crooks."

When Thad Snell Jr. was called to the stand he told the committee that when before the grand jury he had been examined with reference to his trip to Chicago, or his meeting the governor, he said:

"I did not talk with the governor about the pardon."

Harding Assails Havner.

The governor pointed out that when Judge Kennedy declared the Rathbun family a family of crooks, he completely discredited the Rathbun affidavit introduced yesterday, in which Rathbun said he was told by Clark that the $5,000 was to go to the governor.

Gov. Harding declared that Attorney General Havner has grossly misrepresented the governor's position in the Rathbun affair, and had used "only parts" of the chief executive's statements in an attempt to show irregularities.

PAVEMENT BUMP OVERTURNS AUTO, HALTS WEDDING

A bump in the pavement at West Congress and South Halsted streets prevented the wedding of Dominick Salenio and Miss Vera Guciardo, both residing at 916 Sholto street, yesterday, when it caused the Yellow cab in which they were riding to get the license to skid to the curb and upset the bridal party into the street. All received minor cuts and bruises.

The party was taken home, where it was decided to postpone the wedding.

Coal Service Certainty

Your coal contract placed with the Knox County Coal Operators' Association means that you are assured the absolute certainty of getting exactly the kind and quality of coal you want when you want it!

Our contract Service is guaranteed despite mine accidents or breakdowns.

For instance, about a year ago one of the mines in the Association suffered a breakdown. It required months to put that mine back in operation. But—not one contract customer suffered. The supply of KNOX COUNTY COAL to all that mine's customers was continued at the contract price. But for this guaranteed protection to these contract customers they would have had to pay $90,000.00 to $100,000.00 more for their coal—for this happened during the recent "short coal" year.

The Illinois Glass Company Commends Our Service

Gentlemen:

We appreciate very much the manner in which you have been handling our coal contract this year. You have not failed in one instance to keep us supplied with coal according to our orders. The Knox County Coal has proven entirely satisfactory and you have complied with the agreement on the contract in every respect.

Yours very truly,
ILLINOIS GLASS COMPANY,
Thompson Plant,
W. E. Poling.

Let us prove that KNOX COUNTY COAL will meet every demand of a fluctuating steam load with economy—that it will give you the lowest coal cost per 1,000 pounds of steam. Avail yourself of

Our Free Fuel Engineer Service

Our Fuel Engineering Department, headed by Carl J. Fletcher, nationally known as a fuel engineer, will, at your request, visit your plant, analyze your fuel requirements and help you to "carry your load" with less coal and less uncertainty. This service will obligate you in no way whatsoever. To get it, all you need to do is to

19,410 KEWANEE BOILERS

Kewanee's Part in the War

During the nineteen months of the war we furnished the Army and Navy nineteen thousand four hundred and ten Kewanee heating boilers, heaters and tanks. Most of them were used in this country, but a great many of them went to France.

Every solitary one of these boilers, heaters and tanks played an important part in preserving the comfort of our fighting boys. And they were selected, mind you, by experts whose instructions were to secure the best boilers, heaters and tanks the world afforded.

Every one of these articles was manufactured in the same thorough manner as Kewanee Firebox Boilers, and it tickles us to death to be able to repeat the statement that every one of them rendered service that was 100 per cent efficient.

The 190 boilers that we furnished the Great Lakes Naval Training Station alone furnishes an intensely interesting chapter in "Caring for the Comfort of the Heroes," and that one order, after it was established, created the greatest heating plant in the world.

So we are more than happy over the part this company played in the big war, aside from the employees who went to the front. We were busy every minute of the nineteen months, doing work for the government of the character described. And we are proud to report its absolute success.

The Kewanee Smokeless-Firebox Boiler is the real solution of the hard coal problem—because it will burn the cheapest grade of soft coal without smoke or soot—and gets from the same amount of soft coal from 21 to 35% more heat than ordinary boilers.

Is the Meat You Eat from Healthy Animals?

BOTH in the dietary and in the family budget, there is probably no food so important as meat. Under normal conditions, 43% of the average income is spent for food and half of that, or approximately 22% of the income, for meat. The public has a right therefore to demand that the meat it eats comes from healthy animals.

Few appreciate the importance of Government inspection of meat. And fewer still realize the careful examination of the animal before slaughtering and the inspection of every part as cut up. All meat entering into interstate business must be Government inspected under the Meat Inspection Act of June 16, 1906. All Armour plants operate under U. S. Government Inspection.

Unfortunately, however, there is some meat offered to the public which is prepared in establishments that do not have Government Inspection. Much meat which does not enter into interstate commerce is uninspected. According to official statistics, this covers about 40% of the national meat supply!

Last year, in our establishments, Government inspectors rejected 59,267 of all the animals killed. Nor does this include those condemned on the hoof. On the fair assumption that an equal unfit percentage exists in the two-fifths of America's meat which is not U. S. Inspected, think what present methods may mean to national health! Armour and Company unreservedly endorse Government inspection. Steps should be taken to enforce the inspection of all meats with a thoroughness equal to that of the United States Government. You should take this up with your State legislators. They can bring it about.

True, the condemnation of unhealthy animals costs something. It may also be that you now buy uninspected meats at less than prevailing prices. But, under any circumstances, the safeguarding of all public health would be justified at many times present cost. And because condemned animals can be made into inedible greases, fertilizers, etc., as Armour and Company now do, loss can be reduced to a minimum.

With a clear comprehension of the importance of Government Inspection to your family's health, good sense demands that you make sure you are buying from a dealer who handles Armour meats.

REALTY MARKET SHOWS NEW IMPROVEMENT

NEW HOTEL PLANS FEATURE WEEK'S REALTY MARKET

Building Boom Looms with Preparations for Development.

New building projects, particularly of a hotel character, were the feature of the week's real estate market, the proposed Drake hotel at Lake Shore drive and North Michigan avenue, with estimated cost of $4,500,000, holding first place. The Lott Hotel company's plans for a fourteen story structure at Lincoln Park West and Webster avenue was another development.

And still another important hotel development is the statement that a $1,000,000 addition is planned for the Edgewater Beach hotel, as the result of the pronounced success which it has achieved.

In the downtown district there was considerable speculation as to the identity of the lessees of the Grand Pacific hotel property, and a report was current it was the Illinois Trust and Savings bank. It is known the bank has for some time felt keenly the need for more room, and that it has recently become so acute as to make the acquirement of additional property necessary. The report is the bank's plans contemplate banking rooms which are to extend from Clark to La Salle street, while the rest of the building is to be devoted to stores and offices. The lease is said to start with an annual rental of $125,000.

The report the Statler hotel interests are behind the lease of the property is not credited, in view of Mr. Leiter's admissions concerning the identity of the lessees.

North Side Project.

The new north side project is to be a fourteen story, fireproof, residential hotel, and is to be located at the southwest corner of Lincoln Park West and Webster avenue. Its cost is placed at $1,500,000.

It is to be erected by Charles H. Lott, president of the Lott Hotel company, which owns and operates the Parkway residential hotel at the northwest corner of Lincoln Park West and Garfield avenue. It will occupy a lot with 120½ feet front on Lincoln parkway by 128 feet, which has just been purchased from H. B. Clow and Andrew F. McNally, trustees of the Andrew McNally estate, through John R. Magill & Co., for $70,000.

It is announced that the work of construction will begin by early summer at least and that the proposed building will contain special features new to Chicago. A complete kitchenette will be furnished with each apartment, and all the service of a hotel will be maintained.

Market Improves.

The week's market, as a whole, made a distinctly better showing than during the previous week. While there was nothing doing in the downtown district in the way of sales, there were a number of interesting store leases, while the outside territory was represented by two noteworthy transactions, one being of special interest as involving the erection of a new and attractive home for the Noel State bank. Apartment property also made a better showing than during the previous week, but there was a falling off in the number of residence sales.

The bank has acquired from Jacob M. Loeb, president of the board of education, and Sidney S. David the triangular shaped properties across the street from the present location of the bank, at the northwest corner of Milwaukee avenue and Robey street, at the intersection of North avenue. The property comprises 138x134 feet, improved with four brick and frame buildings. While the consideration is not disclosed, it is understood to have been in the neighborhood of $105,000. It is announced that the buildings now on the property will be wrecked about July 1 to make way for a building to be devoted exclusively to the bank's business. While no figures are given out, it is expected the building will cost at least $150,000.

North Avenue Deal.

A notable deal in North avenue business property was reported in the sale by Louis L. Mueller to Emanuel Herzog of the fee to the property at the southeast corner of North avenue and Sedgwick street, for a reported consideration of $60,000, subject to an incumbrance of $30,000. The lot, which is improved with a two story building containing stores on the ground floor and lodge and dance halls on the second floor, is under a ninety-nine years' lease expiring in 1930 at an annual rental of $4,800. The property has been in the Mueller family since 1871. Henry L. Newhouse and Benjamin Samuels subsequently acquired a two-thirds interest.

Record has been made of the transfer by the Smith Motor Truck company and the Smith Form-a-Truck Company of Illinois, by Frank M. McKey, trustee in bankruptcy, to the Borg & Beck Company of Illinois, of property in Clearing, with 3.1 acres of land and factory improvements, for a stated consideration of $85,000.

CHICAGO TO HAVE ALL-AMERICAN EXPOSITION

Plans are under way for an All-American exposition in Chicago late in April or early in May, in which every foreign born American citizen will participate. Its prime object will be to establish in America, through the assistance of skilled artisans who have come here from other lands, as many as possible of the arts and industries whose products are among American imports and to create a fund for the establishment in Chicago of a permanent Americanization institution.

The program, to continue for sixteen days, will be planned in conjunction with the activities of the Liberty loan campaign. It will be held in the Coliseum.

2 ASTOR STREET HOMES SOLD; 1 BRINGS $60,000

While the movement of residence property was not quite up to that of the previous week, there was considerable doing of an important character, including the purchase by Mrs. Dorothy F. Borland, wife of Bruce Borland, of the W. D. Kerfoot residence at 1425 Astor street, between Burton place and Schiller street, for an indicated cash consideration of $60,000. The house is an attractive three story brick structure on a lot 50x140 feet, and contains about fifteen rooms. The sale was negotiated by Paul Steinbrecher & Co.

Another Astor street sale covered the property 80 feet south of Goethe street, lot 22½x90 feet, east front, with ten room brick dwelling, which has been sold by Mrs. Lillian S. Haines to Laurietta F. Stresenreuter for a stated consideration of $20,000, subject to an incumbrance of $7,000. Mrs. E. G. Tracy was the broker.

A transaction in Homewood residence property also was reported in the sale by M. L. Rau and Leon V. Becker to Louis H. Hoymann, vice president of Morris & Co., of the property at the northeast corner of Elm and Walnut streets, for a reported cash consideration of $13,000. The house is a ten room frame on about one acre of ground. David S. Simon represented both parties.

The residence property in Birchwood avenue, 198 feet west of Sheridan road, lot 100x150 feet, has been conveyed by Charles Bodash to Frank Tuilty for an indicated consideration of $23,000, subject to an incumbrance of $9,000. It is a 10 room brick with a garage. Whipple & Clark were the brokers.

The residence property in Warwick road, near Melrose avenue, Kenilworth, with attractive dwelling, has been conveyed by Ralph S. Farwell to Bruce V. Crandall for an indicated cash consideration of $27,000, according to the revenue stamps on the deed.

Sell North La Salle Street Property on Court Order

The property at 161 North La Salle street, eighty-five feet north of Randolph street, will be sold at foreclosure sale on Monday, April 7, at 11 a. m., at the judicial salesroom of the Cook county real estate board, by William A. Doyle, master in chancery, in accordance with a court decree entered in the case of Kate Kerwin versus a number of defendants, including the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee under the provisions of a trust agreement dated July 18, 1917. The claim of the plaintiff, Kate Kerwin, amounts to about $29,000, while Judge Theodore Brentano holds a second mortgage against the property amounting to about $12,000. The property has a west front of 16 1-3 feet, with a depth of 70 feet on the north line and 65 feet on the south line. It is improved with a four story and basement building, the lower floor and basement of which have been occupied for many years by John Press with a weinstube.

$1,000,000 Artificial Ice Plant Soon to Be Erected

The Federal Refrigerating company, a new organization, in which the Hygienic Ice company is interested, is to erect a large artificial ice manufacturing plant to cost about $1,000,000 on a tract of 24½ acres between Halsted street and Racine avenue, One Hundred and Fortieth and One Hundred and Forty-second street, in Riverdale, which is just acquired for a reported consideration of about $25,000. It is said it will be one of the largest plants of the kind in the country.

STORE LEASES SHOW GROWING BUSINESS NEEDS

Downtown Deals for Various Purposes Reported.

There was considerable doing in the way of store leases in the downtown district, but hardly as much in the more outlying districts as was the case during the previous week.

In the most important of the leases Nahigian Bros., importers and dealers in oriental rugs, located for the last twelve years in Wabash avenue, between Monroe and Adams streets, have leased from Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. the entire main floor of the buildig at 28-30 South Wabash avenue, between Madison and Monroe streets, formerly occupied by A. G. Spalding & Bros. The store, which fronts 40 feet, will be extensively remodeled and occupied by the lessee concern. Warren A. Cahn represented both parties. The terms of the lease are withheld.

Leases in the Griffiths building on the east side of Wabash avenue, between Madison and Monroe streets, by E. F. Keebler & Co., comprise the entire fifth floor, in the buildings, 80x172 feet, which was leased by the Consolidated Millinery company for seven years from May 1 next at a term rental of $46,200; to Mead & Wheeler, the entire third floor in the building for seven years at a term rental of $45,000, and to the Progressive Hat company and Capper & Capper the entire fourth floor, also for seven years, at a term rental of $46,200. Robert White & Co. were associated in the Capper & Capper leases.

Keebler & Co. also leased for W. P. Adams to Harry E. Gilmore an "L" shaped store in the building at the northwest corner of Wabash avenue and Congress street for ten years from May 1 at a term rental of $48,000. Mr. Gilmore recently leased the corner store in the same building through Keebler & Co. for ten years at term rental of $60,000. He plans to add a line of clothing to his men's furnishings business. The same brokers have also leased for Mr. Adams to Kastino & Bolliavia a store in Wabash avenue, in same building, 28x65 feet, for ten years from May 1 at a term rental of $54,000. The entire seven story and basement building is now rented at a gross rental of $65,000.

Joseph Byfield, president of the Hotel Sherman company, has leased, through Keebler & Co., to G. D. Cominos the entire basement in the building at 16-20 North Clark street for ten years from May 1 next at a term rental of $30,000. The lessee will expend about $10,000 in alterations and fixtures and occupy the premises with a barber shop. Keebler & Co. recently leased the entire store floor in this building to the Delco Lunch company for ten years from May 1 at a term rental of $150,000. Also all the upper floors to the Joy Yet Lo company for ten years at a term rental of $88,000.

Lease to Coffee House.

J. G. Kirk & Co. have leased for Frank Cuneo to Dwinell-Wright company, coffee importers, the entire five story and basement building at 112-114 West Kinzie street, for a term of ten years from May 1 next at a term rental of $50,000. The lessee company now is located at 216 North Michigan avenue, where it has been for twenty-eight years. The move is being made to increase the facilities of the company and enable it to do its own coffee roasting in Chicago. Mr. Cuneo will expend about $10,000 in alterations on the building.

The Hind & Harrison Plush company of Clark Mills, N. Y., said to be one of the largest manufacturers of plushes, velours, and fur effects in the country, is materially enlarging its Chicago branch and is putting in an extensive stock for its western trade, and has leased from William P. Adams and Katherine A. Wells the second floor of the Adams building at 315-321 West Adams street for a term of years at a reported term rental of $48,000. The lease was negotiated by Esther Linn Hulbert of C. E. Hulbert & Co. She also reports eleven other leases closed in the wholesale district.

Auto Radiator Maker Takes $100,000 Lease

A. M. DeVry & Co. have leased for Donald L. Morrill the building known as the Swedish-American building, at 5235 Ravenswood avenue, to the B. & W. Manufacturing company for ten years, at a term rental aggregating $100,000. The lessee is to use the property for manufacturing automobile radiators.

FLAT PROPERTY SHOWS GAIN OVER PRECEDING WEEK

$91,000 Transaction Is Chief of Week's Trading.

While there was a noticeable increase in the number of fairly good sized deals in apartment property as compared with the two preceding weeks, there were no especially large transactions.

In a large south side deal Julius P. Friend conveyed to Mattie P. and John Reichfeldt of Deerfield, Ill., the twenty-four apartment building of four, five, and six rooms, known as the Varsity building, at the southeast corner of University avenue and Fifty-fourth street, lot 100x165 feet, for a reported consideration of $91,000, subject to an incumbrance of $46,000. The building is said to have a gross annual rental of about $14,000. The purchaser is said to have given $15,000 in cash and a highly improved farm of eighty-five acres three and one-half miles west of Highland Park, fully stocked and equipped, at a consideration of $30,000. George W. Stewart of I. J. Bliss & Co. represented both parties.

Sells Flat Building.

The same broker sold for Margaret Roads to Anna Reno the six flat building at 4540-42 Clifton avenue, 150 feet south of Wilson avenue, at a reported consideration of $20,000, subject to $10,000.

Frank A. Case of Boston has sold to Jacob Kaulan the thirty apartment building, lot 180x125 feet, of four, five, and six rooms, at the southwest corner of Sixtieth street and South Park avenue, for an indicated consideration of $85,000, subject to an incumbrance of $50,000. The building is said to have a gross annual rental of about $14,000. Mr. Krulan in turn conveyed the building to Leon F. Titus of Traverse City, Mich., taking in part payment a fruit orchard of fifty-four and one-half acres near Traverse City at a reported valuation of $25,000, subject to an incumbrance of $10,000; also an eight flat building at 1823-29 Pratt boulevard, 50x125 feet, at a reported valuation of $25,000, subject to $15,000. The farm and Pratt boulevard building were then sold to Bertha R. Keller. Sidney L. Stein & Co., with Charles L. Keller associated, represented Mr. Case, Mr. Krulan, and Bertha R. Keller, and Walter J. Nelson, with Frank Gage associated, represented Mr. Titus.

$50,000 Trade.

Murray Wolbach has sold to Morris Barancik the twelve flat building of four rooms, 52x125 foot lot, at the northwest corner of Merrill avenue and Seventy-third street, for an indicated consideration of $50,000, subject to $35,000, taking in part payment the tore, theater, and flat building in Western avenue, 200 feet north of Potomac avenue, at $16,000.

The high grade six apartment building of six rooms and four garages, English basement, at 629-31 Waveland avenue, 151 feet west of Sheridan road, lot 59x170 feet, has been sold by Sarah and Jonas Schwartz to John W. Hirst, president of Hirst, Bagley Linseed Oil company, for a reported consideration of $75,500, subject to $44,100. Mr. Hirst gave in part payment the eight room residence at 4626 North Paulina street, 50x175 feet, at $7,500, clear. Lamont & Clasen represented both parties.

Pays $20 a Square Foot for N. Michigan Ave. Land

A notable transaction in North Michigan avenue, of special interest as marking the sharply advancing tendency of values along that street, is the purchase by Reuben Donnelley of the Prendergast property at the southwest corner of the avenue and Erie street, 109x75 feet, for a stated consideration of $164,500, which is at the rate of $20 a square foot, a record price. The present improvements comprise a 3 story apartment house. The purchase was of a speculative character, and was negotiated by the Bowes Realty company.

STONE CONCERNS MERGED BY NEW $1,000,000 DEAL

Chicago, Racine, and Lemont Plants Are in Combine.

The filing for record of several transfers by which the Producers' Material Supply company takes title to stone and dock properties of various companies in and near Chicago exceeding in value $1,000,000 was an important feature of the week's market.

The first named transaction, which is understood to have been in effect a consolidation of the various properties affected for the purpose of effecting economies in operation, covers the plants of the Illinois Stone company, the Artesian Limestone company, and the Argo Stone company. Attorney Robert Redfield of the firm of Tolman, Redfield, Sexton & Chandler, represented all the parties to the transaction.

The Illinois Stone company's plants comprise the two located at Racine, known as the Universal Crushed Stone company's plant and comprising about 175 acres two miles north of Racine, with rail connections with the Northwestern road and the Milwaukee Electric road.

There also is included the property of the Illinois company, consisting of about 100,000 square feet of dock property at Ashland avenue on the south branch of the river, improved with loading bins and equipment, and also about 250 acres of quarry land with the plant thereon at Lemont, Ill.

The Lemont property is on the main channel of the drainage channel and has rail connections with the Alton and the Joliet Electric roads. The deed covering the Wisconsin property bears $200 worth of revenue stamps, while that covering the Chicago property bears $300 worth of stamps. As these properties are covered by a joint bond issue for $250,000, the revenue stamps indicate a value of $750,000 for the properties.

Two Real Estate Boards Oppose Housing Bill

Both of the real estate boards went on record during the week as opposed to the Illinois housing bill, as it is drawn at present, at meetings held during the week. The general opinion seemed to be that while it probably would be a good thing for the smaller cities in the state, it would not work week in Chicago.

The Chicago board gave the board of local improvements a severe grilling in connection with the adverse action the realty organization took in connection with house bill 234, a substitute for senate bill 127 relating to supplementary and special assessments.

Are You Big Enough to Direct a $500,000 Business?

A great, new industry with undreamed-of possibilities now opens wide its doors to a few able, far-sighted men.

The industry is electric refrigeration for home use.

One of our clients owns and controls the basic patents on the only satisfactory domestic electric refrigerator that has been produced. He has ample funds, a well-equipped factory and a thorough-going sales organization and has been making and marketing this refrigerator with unusual success.

But he has the vision to see that it would take a dozen plants, many times the size of his present one, to even begin to take care of the demand for domestic electric refrigerators that is already swamping him. And he is not interested in big business as big business. He is more concerned with making a success of the refrigerator he has perfected and in the success of the domestic electric refrigerator industry.

And so he has asked us to write this message to the business men of America who are big enough to sense the possibilities of electric refrigeration, just as the executives of two of America's foremost industrial institutions have sensed it and have answered its call and just as a number of men who never operated a business netting more than $5,000 a year have answered his invitation.

He has asked us to get in touch with men in all parts of the country who may be in a position to take over the manufacturing rights for his refrigerator upon payment of $1,000 per county—men who have the bigness and the go-at-iveness to operate a $500,000 business—who see the profits of two years ahead when they build on the investment of today. Brains are more essential than large capital.

If you are at all interested and possess the needed qualifications, communicate with us. The available territories are limited.

Organization and Agriculture

Lowering Costs and Increasing Profits

Most of the substantial fortunes of today have been made by men for whom great organizations are continually working. There was never a time in the history of the world when so much wealth has been produced as during the last ten or fifteen years. This production of wealth is the direct result of manufacturing and marketing economies which cannot be effected by the individual or the corporation operating on a small scale.

The Organization of Agriculture

Until a few years ago there was no organization in agriculture, although there was organization among food producing concerns. The farmer who raised the cattle was an independent operator; but the packer was a big-volume organization. The man who produced the fruit worked alone, but the concern that marketed the fruit was a big-volume organization.

The Waterbury Investment Founded on the Big-Volume Idea

In this new and unique investment we have applied to one branch of agriculture the principles of big-volume production and marketing of a staple commodity. We have so organized as to effect economies in the same manner as the big-volume automobile manufacturer does. We have been able to reduce overhead expenses, will standardize our product, control our market, and by a combination of reduced costs and high prices put back of the individual just what the man of wealth has back of him. In addition, we will bring to the individual an added source of profit made up of increased value of his property holdings.

This Investment Stands the Test

Ample additional capital has been secured, and under our plan this capital expands and finances are always sufficient for organization requirements. The product of this organization is a necessary one. In the Waterbury plan finances, production, sales and profits are assured for years unending; and you can make a whole splendid combination work for you. You can make it bring you to the envied position where you will enjoy a comfortable annual revenue.

HIGHEST PRICES FOR UPTURN ARE MADE ON CORN

Reaction Follows Decision of Government to Sell Rye.

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

Highest prices on the present upturn with corn the best of the season were made with liberal general buying by outsiders and covering by shorts. Profit taking on the advance, combined with the decision of the grain corporation to sell its rye, led to a good reaction and the close was irregular with corn ⅜@½c lower from March to July inclusive and ½c higher for September. Oats gained 1c for March and lost ⅜c for May, while July gained ¼c and September finished ¼c lower in Chicago. Outside markets were irregular with corn in St. Louis and Kansas City ¼c lower to 1c higher. Oats were ⅛c lower to ¼c higher in the southwest, while Minneapolis lost ⅛@½c and Winnipeg gained ½@⅝c. Rye in Minneapolis was unchanged and barley ⅞c higher.

It has been an excellent week for the holders of all grains and provisions, with rye up 17c and barley 18c for May delivery. Corn is 4¼@6½c and oats 3¾@6c higher, March leading in both grains. Pork gained 50@67½c, lard 95c@$1.10, and short ribs 50@65c.

May Corn at New Level.

A continuation of the persistent buying of May corn by commission houses, which has been so much in evidence for the last week, more than offset heavy profit taking sales by the best recent buyer and prices advanced to a new high on the crop, touching $1.46¾. Toward the last there was week end evening up and some selling on the report that the government was to offer part of the rye it bought a while ago, and the close was at $1.45¼@1.45½, showing the first net decline in seven days.

Deferred deliveries fluctuated erratically within a range of 2½c and closed at intermediate figures, with July $1.37¼ and September $1.32. March was neglected and closed at $1.54½.

With the public in control of the market news developments have been ignored. The eastern cash demand continues extremely slow, and further reselling by New England dealers was reported. Deliveries of 7,000 bu were made on March contracts. No. 3 grades in the sample market were only slightly above a delivery basis, and, while prices there were unchanged to 1c higher early, the close was easy. Receipts, 68 cars.

Favorable weather prevailed over the belt, with the weekly forecast for unsettled early and generally fair later with normal temperatures. The country shows more disposition to consign than to sell to arrive. For the week receipts were 690,000 bu and shipments 275,000 bu. Last year receipts were 3,476,000 bu and shipments 1,230,000 bu.

Oats in Sharp Bulge.

Heavy realizing sales in oats finally filled up commission houses that had liberal buying orders from the country, and with the reports regarding the government selling rye prices reacted sharply and May closed 1⅝c under the top at 67¾@67½c. July finished at 66½c and September at 62½c. March was neglected and finished at 67c. Deliveries were 25,000 bu.

Prices at the top were at the best figures on the present upturn. The news on the cash situation was ignored. Eastern demand was slow, and receipts of 47 cars were taken at May price for standards and ½c under for No. 3 white. Country offerings were larger, including some round lots. For the week receipts were 690,000 bu, or 327,000 bu less than shipments. Last year receipts were 1,923,000 bu and shipments 1,183,000 bu.

Government to Sell Rye.

The government is to resell some of the rye bought earlier in the year when $1.62 was paid for millions of business and the surplus taken off the market. Export bids were advanced 2c early to a basis of $1.82, track Baltimore, and a few cars were secured in the interior at that figure. Spot prices were 4¼c higher, with No. 2 at $1.76½. Receipts, 4 cars. Milwaukee was 4c higher and Minneapolis ½@1c lower. The northwest had 90 cars.

Barley advanced 2@4c early, but lost the greater part of the advance later. Maltsters were the best buyers, and there was some buying regarded as for speculative account. Futures were up 2½@3c. Spot sales were at $1.06@1.16. Receipts, 29 cars. Milwaukee was 3@6c higher, Omaha 1@6c higher and Minneapolis 2@3c higher. The northwest had 176 cars.

Flaxseed at Duluth closed 1@12c higher; May, $3.80½; July, $3.68; October, $3.57. Winnipeg, 2@2½c higher; May, $3.55; July, $3.44.

Clover seed continues to advance. Toledo was up 25c to $29.25 per bu of 60 lbs. At Chicago country lots were $30.00 @42.00 per 100 lbs.

Provision Trade Light.

Little interest was taken in the provision trade and prices had a narrow range, the close being at gains of 10@12½c on pork, while lard was 10c higher to unchanged and short ribs 2½@5c higher. There was a little selling of lard and ribs by commission houses, while the buying was scattered. The break in foreign exchange of 20@30 points affects export business and for the time being is said to have checked it.

Shipments of lard and meats for the last three weeks aggregate 159,613,000 lbs, against 64,819,000 lbs last year. Packers are figuring on a larger run of hogs, as country roads are said to have improved. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

It is the general impression of the trade, with few exceptions, that the grain prices are advancing too rapidly for the best interests of all the exchanges. The public have the market, and with the help of a few large traders are able to shape the action of values. There are many operators who are bearish on corn and oats and they are covering on all the bulges. The action of the markets of late has indicated that the more bearish the local trade gets, the greater is the advance in prices. The situation is one that calls for caution in trading on both sides, as the public are not in shape to stand a reversal of the attitude on the part of the bull leaders for any length of time.

The break in corn and oats from the top prices late in the day was due to heavy realizing sales and selling against weekly offerings. The largest buyers of Friday were the principal sellers late yesterday. The buying at the last was not so urgent as early in the day and the market not in shape to take the big load that was put upon it by two of the large commission houses.

It is understood that the government is to sell its rye. Recently it had 22,000,000 bu and it was said to have been sold for export, but the trade fell through. It has 18,000,000 bu on hand and within a few days has offered 2,000,000 bu abroad. The report that the government was to resell rye caused realizing and a break. The rye was bought three to four months ago at $1.62. With the carrying charges added it might be sold on the same basis that it is selling its wheat, cost price plus carrying charges, which would make it around $1.65 to $1.66. The barley bought a few monhs ago is said to have been sold.

The feeling in the trade is to look for some reaction in corn, said Bartlett-Frazier. This might readily occur after such a steady and upward drastic movement.

Clement-Curtis say the crowd is generally long corn and the big local bulls are waiting to buy on a break. The demand for oats is increasing, and the trade maintains a good buying power on the break.

"While we continue in the belief that the advantage will favor buyers of corn until something develops, we can serve public confidence," says Logan and Bryan. "We realize that our recent advance discounts much that is bullish in surface conditions, which coupled with the fact that cash markets have failed to follow the advance in futures makes it appear advisable not to ignore the action of the spot market or to become too enthusiastically bullish on upturns from the present basis."

Lipsey & Co., a grain commission house, ordered their trade closed yesterday. It is an incorporated concern with $50,000 capital. It has extended too much credit to its customers and had from 150,000 bu of grain open, mostly corn. Its capital was impaired and the liabilities on the board are estimated at around $30,000 and all told $100,000. It is expected to pay less than 50 cents on the dollar.

Board of trade memberships have sold at $7,700 and $7,800 in the last few days, the latter being yesterday. Applications for memberships are E. A. Walther, Martin S. McCarthy, D. P. Cosgrove, J. G. Beaty, C. H. Sterne, J. W. Kohler, and Leonard Brousseau. For transfer, C. E. Conley, J. C. Schwartz, E. L. Dwyer, C. N. McFarland, E. J. Skewis Jr., W. L. Lyons Jr.

A Liverpool cable says stocks of provisions there are 90,000 tons of bacon and 30,000 tons of lard.

W. W. Boyton, an old timer around the Board of Trade, was stricken while in the visitors' room around 1 o'clock yesterday and revived by a physician. He is 83 years old.

The American Provision Export company, with $1,000,000 capital, has been formed and is to be incorporated under the laws of Delaware. Its officers are: President, C. S. Hammond of Detroit; vice presidents, C. J. Roberts, Chicago, Edward T. Nash, and A. L. Eberhart; treasurer, T. K. Boyd, and secretary, L. Harry Freeman. Its offices will be in the Royal Insurance building. It is supposed to do an export business.

Primary receipts of wheat for the season to date aggregate 400,078,000 bu, corn 83,903,000 bu, and oats 215,252,000 bu. Last year receipts of wheat were 155,569,000 bu, corn 158,039,000 bu, and oats 235,184,000 bu.

Chicago handlers bid 5½c over Chicago July for a cargo of Argentine corn c. i. f. Galveston, but sellers asked 6½c over.

There were a few inquiries for corn from seaboard exporters, but no business was done. Stocks here are so light that sales could scarcely be made in quantities.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

A feature of the cash wheat markets was the sale of a car of dark No. 2 hard winter wheat at Kansas City for the account of whom it may concern at $2.50½, the highest price on the crop, and 33½c over the guaranteed figure. The only sale at Chicago was a car of No. 3 northern at 16c over the basic. Receipts, 12 cars.

Cash corn sold rather slow despite small receipts. Prices were unchanged to 1c higher, but closed easy with futures. Larger arrivals are looked for this week. St. Louis was unchanged to 1½c higher, Omaha 2c higher to 1c lower, Peoria 3c higher, and Milwaukee firm.

Standard oats lost their premium over May, and sold mainly at that price. Offerings were limited, demand slow, with prices unchanged to 2½c higher, the close being easy. St. Louis, Kansas City, and Milwaukee were 2c higher, Omaha ½c higher, and Peoria 1½c higher. Cash grain prices in leading markets follow:

COTTON TRADE NEWS

NEW YORK, March 22.—A good character of buying was on in the cotton market today with the bulk of the business in cleaning up commitments by the smaller traders to even up for the week. Trade reports were more favorable and southern advices reported a better export demand, especially for the off grades, and a feeling prevailed that the movement abroad will make a better showing. Domestic mills have bought little cotton since the beginning of the year, and with the larger trade in textiles, they are looking for a better market. Prices moved within a moderate range and old style futures closed 2 to 5 points lower except on March, which gained 8 points, and new style were 10 points higher to 5 points lower. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Cotton yarns today were in better demand at low prices. Cotton goods were quieter, with jobbers buying carefully. Announcement was made of further reduction of 4-4 bleached cottons [fruit of the loom] to 19½c, 2½c a yard lower, at which price, it was stated, a limited quantity will be sold, the price then to be advanced to 20c, which will be the lowest price for the remainder of the season. Offerings of goods from second hands were made to clean up stocks of high priced goods. Burlaps were quiet and silks steady. Wool dress goods were quiet.

AVERAGE PRICE OF HOGS AGAIN SENT SOARING

Reaches $19.68, Best Made Since Last September's Record.

With more than a third of the 9,000 hogs received billed direct to packers, and shipping orders here for 3,000, the market closing day of the week was naturally in healthy condiiton. While the top at $19.85 was no higher than Friday, the average price at $19.68 was 5c higher than previous day and highest since the record week last September, standing 40c above a week ago and $2.17 higher than a year ago.

General range of hog prices was narrowest of the year at the close of the week, the top Saturday being 35c above high point Monday, while the average price stood 48c higher than opening day of the week. Light weights and heavy packing showed most gain. Underweights were scarcer, the week's estimated average weight at 235 pounds being 6 pounds heavier than previous week and 2 pounds lighter than a year ago.

Receipts of hogs for the week totaled 153,800, being 90,000 smaller than a year ago and the third smallest since last October. While arrivals decreased so materially, the week's shipments to eastern points were only 24,000 smaller than a year ago at 32,000. Active competition on shipping account was the big factor in the trade during the last week.

Besides being comparatively small at Chicago, the hog supply at outside markets decreased sharply during the last week. Closing day of the week eleven points received 43,000, being 2,000 less than a week ago and 31,000 less than a year ago. Combined arrivals at all markets for the week at 373,000 were 45,000 smaller than previous week and 229,000 smaller than a year ago. For 1919 to date, however, arrivals turned the 9,000,000 mark, standing largest on record, 448,000 more than a year ago and 1,700,000 more than the ten year average for corresponding period since 1908.

The supply of 1,000 cattle included only a few loads offered for sale and prices were nominally steady. A small number of calves offered went at weak prices. Trade was very uneven for all grades of cattle during the week. After starting on a sharply higher basis late declines were sharp enough to put values unevenly lower than close of previous week. Best steers during week sold at $20.25 on opening day, but none of like quality were offered later to test the market.

Nearly all of the 2,000 sheep received were forwarded to packers from other markets. A few lots of low priced offerings cleared at Friday's prices. Top lambs last week sold at $21.00, being $1.10 below the record high top established last May, yet the average price at $19.60 was within 15c of the highest week on record, which was during last April. Larger proportion of choice to prime offerings was mainly responsible for the high average price.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 18,000 cattle, 47,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep, against 24,535 cattle, 72,856 hogs, and 17,849 sheep corresponding Monday a year ago. Next week's estimated receipts, 63,000 cattle, 185,000 hogs, and 66,000 sheep.

How to Improve the Blue Sky Law.

The failure of the Illinois blue sky law to protect investors against worthless promotion stocks is admitted now by everyone concerned, including the officials charged with administering the act. They place the blame for this failure on the "lack of an appropriation."

It is hard for an outsider to see how an appropriation would make for efficiency. The plan of the law is to compel stock sellers to bear all necessary expense, and it empowers the officials in charge to collect the money. It provides that any promoter seeking a license must file duly authenticated and sworn statements covering all points required and that for verification and any further examination that may be deemed advisable he shall pay a fee of $5 a day, also traveling expenses and hotel bills of the deputy who may be employed to do the work. If any expert appraisal of the property is deemed necessary, the state officials are empowered to have it made at the expense of the promoters.

Thorough examinations at the expense of the promoters may be made, not only before a license is issued, but at any time thereafter, as often as the officials shall "deem necessary or proper," and if the promoter refuses to pay for such examination his license is forfeited.

It is clear that the law gives ample power for getting the information needed, and it seems that all the needed data have been collected. The weak point in the law is not that it fails to provide means for making all necessary investigations, but that it fails to require the facts to be placed before investors.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool.

H. L. H.—Stock of the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company represents participation in a business venture rather than a conservative investment. Earnings amounting to 8 1-3 per cent on $6,448,800 were reported for 1918, compared with 18 per cent for 1917. The decline seems to have been due to writing off more than $1,000,000 from the item "investments" that had been carried in the balance sheet for years at $1,191,370. Presumably the item represents stock of subsidiaries. For years the company paid 4 per cent annually on stock, but the rate was increased to 6 recently. There is a bonded debt of $3,250,000 and a floating debt of $940,000. The company does not report its gross sales.

Brief Answers.

C. G. L.—No recent information is available about the United States Can company. At last accounts it had issued $280,000 of common stock and $220,000 preferred. It had no funded or floating debt, and was paying 7 per cent on preferred stock and 10 on common.

A. S.—The Pyramid Oil and Refining syndicate was purely a speculation, as far as available information showed. Its name does not appear on the list of corporations chartered in Illinois.

L. H. P., Mountain, Wis.—The Malbohm Motors plant burned last December.

INSURANCE NEWS IN ALL BRANCHES EAST AND WEST

Modern Woodmen to Hold Special Rate Meeting This Week.

BY THOMAS R. WEDDELL.

Interest in fraternal insurance circles centers about the special meeting of the head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America, to be held this week at the Hotel Sherman. It will decide on the increase in rates to be made to meet the greatly increased losses due to the influenza epidemic, which has cost the order nearly $10,000,000 in the last five months.

The officers will make no recommendations as to the plan to be followed. Several years ago it recommended an increase in rates, which was made by the head camp but was turned down by the membership. In consequence the officers will merely inform the members of the conditions which confront them because of the influenza epidemic, and will allow the meeting to work out its own remedy. Several concrete plans are ready for submission.

WESTERN UNION PROGRAM.

The committee on order of business for the April meeting of the Western Union, to be held at the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia, has completed the program. Aside from the regular routine reports, the only special order is a report on "The Attitude of the Insurance Companies Toward the Liquor Business." C. A. Ludlum of the Home is chairman of the committee, the other members being O. E. Lane, Niagara; G. M. Lovejoy, Phoenix of Hartford; C. R. Street, Fidelity-Phenix, and S. Y. Tupper, Queen. John Marshall Jr. is chairman of the memorial committee for the late Bernard Faymonville of the Fireman's Fund.

SURCHARGE CASE ADVANCED.

The Missouri Supreme court has advanced the suit of the fire insurance companies against Insurance Commissioner Harty to require the approval of the 10 per cent surcharge, and has set it for hearing at the April term. Otherwise it would have awaited its turn on the docket, which would have prevented any decision until near the end of the year.

COURT OF HONOR ENJOINED.

A temporary injunction has been issued at Springfield, Ill., against the Supreme Court of Honor and its officers, restraining them from expelling any members and district courts which have opposed the recent increase in rates. Several courts had begun proceedings to prevent the collection of the higher premiums, and it is claimed that they have been summoned by the officials of the order to show cause why they should not be expelled for this action. The Court of Honor is enjoined against taking any steps against these members which will impair their standing until the whole matter of the increase in rates has been passed upon by the courts.

—Motor Vehicle Dealers and Manufacturers

We finance Automobiles, Trucks and Tractors from factory to dealer, on his floor or in warehouse—and then we pay 100% cash down for the time sales notes when such motor vehicles are sold to Buyers. Your Buyer pays the cost.

100% CASH down for your time sales paper —your Buyer pays the cost.

Your profit on the sale of one car will probably pay the cost of keeping sufficient cars in stock or in warehouse to make immediate deliveries and thus clinch sales—which you may otherwise lose to your competitors who have their cars in stock. The Buyer wants his car now.

Our plan makes your capital equal to that of your more wealthy competitors, and you can keep your credit free for current business needs by letting us finance your stock cars and your customers.

We also purchase active open accounts receivable from responsible Manufacturers and Wholesalers in other lines of business. We have unusual facilities and abundant cash resources. Write for details and rates.

BANK STATEMENT SHOWS CITY WAS READY FOR TAX

Little Borrowing Needed to Make Payments on Income.

Figures of the weekly statement of the federal reserve bank of Chicago indicate a moderate amount of borrowing in the district in the last week. Bills discounted expanded $40,248,649 above the $133,371,162 of last week. One or two large Chicago banks were responsible for a large part of the increase and the remainder came from different sections of the district. But the showing reflects almost complete preparedness for the income tax payments due and payable a week ago yesterday. The statement is a reassuring one from the viewpoint of credit, indicating as it does the ability of the banks without extraneous aid to carry off one of the large loan periods of the year.

The statement sets forth in a separate item the amount of rediscounts made by the Chicago bank for other federal reserve institutions. The sum totals $32,130,000, being a decrease of $856,950 from the previous week. The treasury department increased its deposits by $18,543,328, bringing that item up to $42,218,671, substantially as large an amount as the government has ever had on deposit with the local bank.

Reserve Notes Expand.

Federal reserve notes showed a small expansion, $1,322,510, while bills bought in the open market decreased $2,549,063. Comparative figures follow:

The statement of the New York associated banks for the week did not bear out the rumors early that the government had withdrawn several hundred million dollars from the banks. The total decrease in government deposits was but $525,000. One of the reasons given therefor for the flurry in call rates to 6½ per cent did not exist.

Call Loans in Volume.

But the banks did call loans in considerable volume, the amount being $58,086,000. It is assumed such an amount of loans was called since the rise in price of securities attracted new purchasers rather than liquidation of outstanding contracts. Deposits for the week decreased $38,889,000 and the cash fell away $19,619,000. The net result was a decrease in the excess reserve of $15,116,970. The surplus now stands at $43,666,540, not a large total. The figures follow:

INDUSTRIAL EARNINGS

New York, March 22.—The Union Bag and Paper corporation and subsidiary companies report for eleven months ended Dec. 31, 1918: Net earnings of $2,619,173, compared with $3,131,106 for the year ended Jan. 31, 1918, and a surplus after dividends of $827,845, against $1,114,278 the year before.

REALIZING SALES BREAK MARKET AFTER ADVANCE

Steel Common Suffers a Loss After Crossing Par Earlier.

The New York Times.

New York, March 22.—[Special.]—A sudden forward movement of stocks brings into the market traders whose purpose is to seize a transient profit, and the evidence of participation of this sort was seen in today's session of the stock exchange.

After numerous issues had reached new high points on the movement, Steel common crossing par, realizing sales appeared in large volume, with the result that the closing was highly irregular. The Steel shares lost amounts running from large fractions to 2 points. Some of the oil stocks were under pressure throughout the two hours of business, although in other departments the more extensive selling did not appear until near the close. In the street the tendency toward reaction was considered a natural product of the enthusiastic buying of speculative character which accompanied the reduction of steel prices the day before.

Exchange Price Factor.

It could not be determined whether the secondary break in quotations for sterling exchange had an effect on security prices, although the fact that the removal of restrictions on exchange dealings earlier in the week appeared to be ignored by traders in stocks.

The recession of the sterling cable rate from 4.71 the day before to 4.58 lent emphasis to the supposition that the British financial authorities were seeking to let the market run its own course free of control, even of a sentimental nature.

The sharp advance of the dollar rate in London Friday carried the quotation forward to 4.50 as the maximum, with a final reaction to 4.58. In view of this movement in a market represented by cable as demoralized today's decline here appeared like an evening up development, with some of the factors surrounding it still obscure. The quotations established this morning were so near the 1915 minimum of 4.48 that preconceived ideas about the attitude of the British treasury to the market had to be readjusted. Expectation that support would be rendered not far under 4.70 was suspended.

Not Reflected Here.

Inasmuch as the market for sterling at New York has gone more "upon its own" for weeks past than in pre-war days, due to the slow cable service, strength is lent the supposition that certain of the influences which caused the slump in London were not reflected here for practically a full day. It is to be noted that local bankers find no cause for worry over the exchange situation, declaring that the removal direction had to come sooner or later, irrespective of international conditions, and that trade developments should be allowed to shape the market as soon as possible. Little business was reported in sterling, and a recovery to about 4.66 occurred before the end of trading for the day.

CHICAGO CURB MARKET

Local curb market has been quite active this week, with the majority of issues showing an increase in value. Motor stocks were the feature of the list; Reo Motor Car advanced to sales at 24¼, closing at 24@24½; Paige-Detroit sold at 29; Continental was unchanged at 7¾@8; Hupp sold as high as 9¾, but reacted at the close to 8½ bid, 8¾ asked; Republic Truck was steady at 36½@37; Mitchell continued in good demand at 31, with limited offerings at 33; Federal Truck was wanted at 36, with odd lots offered at 37½; Ford of Canada was traded in at 308. Rubber securities continue in excellent demand, Goodyear selling at 278 and closing at 275@280; Fisk was unchanged at 103@106; Firestone Tire and Rubber common advanced to sales at 150, closing a little easier at 145@148; Portage Tire and Rubber was traded in at 163, and Miller Tire and Rubber at 170. Emerson-Brantingham common advanced to 20¼, closing at 19¾ bid, offered at 20½; the preferred changed hands at 86. Moline Plow preferred was in demand at 95, with stock offered at 96. Bucyrus was unchanged at 67@69, and the common at 13@16. Little interest was displayed in the sugar issues; Holland-St. Louis, 11¼@11¾; Utah-Idaho, 8½@9, ex dividend; Michigan, 8¼@8½; Columbia, 12@13.

Kellogg Switchboard and Supply continued in demand, sales being made as high as 212, closing at 208@210. There was quite a volume of trade in Butler Bros. between 204 and 207, closing at 205 for round amounts, and the stock was offered at 206. Creamery Package was wanted at 97. Consumers preferred sold at 82, closing at 80@81¼, while the common was unchanged at 44@46. Great Lakes Dredge and Dock was easier at 80@82.

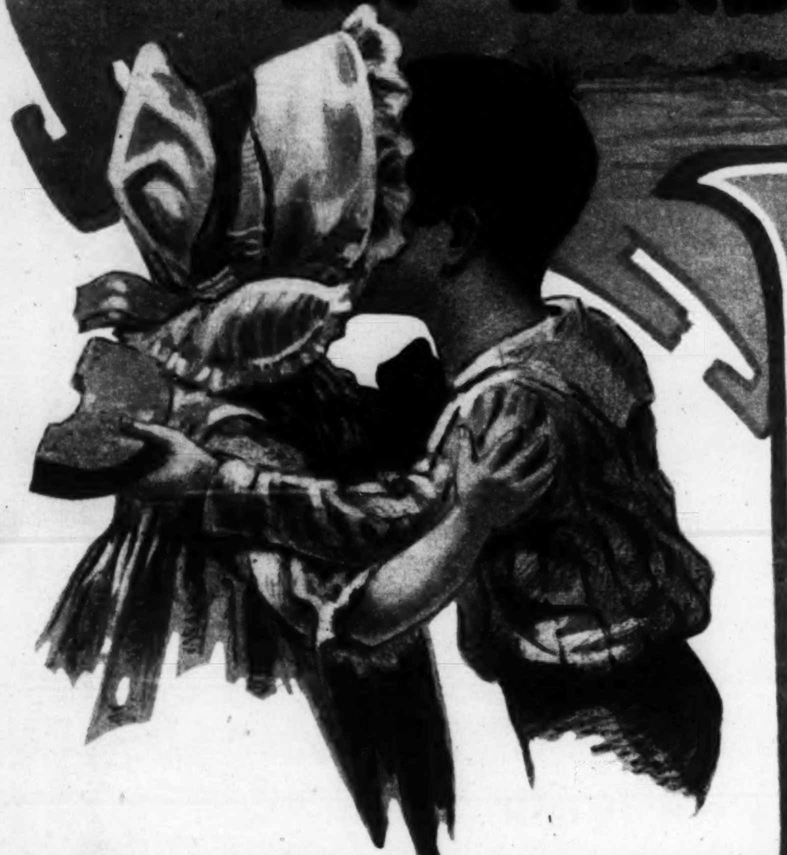
ELKHORN CHEESE
IN TINS



It is now generally known that cheese should be a part of the staple diet of every home. Naturally, then, you want a cheese that you can keep in stock on your pantry shelf, and this means

Elkhorn Cheese
8 Varieties in Tins

These parchment-lined tins are safe and sanitary; contents will keep until opened and for days after. No rind, no waste.

Elkhorn Cheese gives "meat-y" values in a wholesome, economical form. Besides, just think how good it tastes!

Once when I had some home-made bread,
With Elkhorn Cheese upon it,
I met a girl in gingham gown
And calico sunbonnet.

"I'm awfully hungry, Johnny dear;
I love Elkhorn," she said.
"S'pose you give me your sandwich, quick,
And take a kiss instead."

Now, I'd just like to see the boy
Who such an offer misses;
There's nothing half so sweet in life
As bread and cheese and kisses.

Concerning Typewriter Ribbons and Carbon Papers

THERE are comparatively few firms of any importance in the Middle West who do not use Miller-Bryant-Pierce Typewriter Ribbons and Carbon Papers, and if you should happen to be a non-user we have an interesting proposition to offer you.

You gentlemen who buy typewriter ribbons and carbon papers for your big organizations know how the war upset our industry. You know how quality, in many cases, deteriorated and prices shot skyward.

But* you know also that the quality of Miller-Bryant-Pierce brands was kept up, although a sacrifice in quantity was demanded of us. Instead of idling away our time waiting for imported materials, we, with the aid of other American manufacturers, busied ourselves making what we had heretofore imported until today our products are even better than before the war.

We are ready for the important work of reconstruction. Our factory and our organization is equipped for bigger business —for the production and distribution of ribbons and carbon papers that will give you greater satisfaction at minimum expense.

A Word About Our Prices

Although Miller-Bryant-Pierce ribbons and carbon papers cannot be excelled in quality their prices are no higher than other brands. Our immense production and consequent advantages in buying raw materials enable us to sell at lowest costs.

Purchasing Agents,
Manufacturers,
Office Managers,
Dealers:

Write to us on your firm's letterhead and we will gladly send you samples of our typewriter ribbons and carbon papers, which we invite you to put to the severest tests. We want you to prove M.-B.-P. quality to your satisfaction. Please enclose coupon.

If you buy in big quantities—if you need rush orders in large or small lots—if you demand efficiency in every phase of your transaction, send us your order. Although our business extends to all quarters of the globe we are near enough to all the important industrial centers of the Middle West to make rapid delivery of fresh stocks in any quantity.

No matter what grade of service you require and expect from typewriter ribbons and carbon papers we have an ideal grade for your purpose—made according to the specifications of hundreds of firms whose needs are similar to yours and who are using them with thorough satisfaction.

The Miller-Bryant-Pierce line comprises eight grades of carbon papers and five grades of ribbons. Besides our "Carnation" Brand, which is the best brand made, we have the following brands:

Carbon Papers

Carnation
Thin-O
Clover
Diamond
Maple-Leaf
Aurora
Special
M. B. P.

Typewriter Ribbons

Carnation
Diamond
Elk
Aurora
M. B. P.

Every one of these brands has withstood the severest tests to which they could be subjected and will meet your approval.

Special Ribbons and Carbon Papers for Unusual Uses

If you have any particular situation to meet which cannot be fulfilled by the standard ribbons and carbon papers write to us. We handle special orders of all kinds.

How To Size People Up From Their Looks

Little Signs That Reveal Character at a Glance—Plain as Print When You Know How to Read Them

YOU meet a man or woman for the first time—you may be favorably or unfavorably impressed—may form an instant liking or dislike—but is your first judgment of people based on anything more than a mere half-conscious impression? Will it stand the test of better acquaintance?

Do you know how to look into people—and through them merely by looking at them?

Until recently, the writer of this article was constantly finding himself mistaken in his first impressions of people—constantly handicapping himself in both a business and social way because of his inability to form a correct judgment of the people he met.

But here he tells how the simple signs that reveal a person's character, mental workings, temperament, trustworthiness, or other traits have become an open book to him; how these outward signs that show the inner qualities always stand out plain as the nose on a man's face; how he has learned to tell at a glance what people are like just from what they look like.

ONE evening a few months ago, I happened to be on the Twentieth Century bound for Chicago. In the club car after dinner, whom should I run into but my old friend John Cogan.

Our talk gradually veered around to business—as usually happens between business men. But this was no ordinary "shop talk"—I soon found myself getting a brand new viewpoint on meeting and dealing with others.

From the ground up, John Cogan is the kind of man people call practical. He is a thorough-going business man, and incidentally has always been a mighty good salesman. So he took me somewhat by surprise when he told me—apropos of a big deal that he had just put over—that in the last few months he had learned more about handling people and getting on with them about selling, than in all his previous years of experience put together.

I asked him how. "By learning how to 'read' people—from their faces, from their outward appearance; how to look into them and through them, instead of merely at them," was his answer.

"What I have learned about judging people," John continued, "has already added 25% to my sales—and you know I've always done fairly well. I can win men around now that I used to fall down on—simply because I can now size them up at sight and tell just how to go at them—whether to get right down to business or open up in a roundabout way—what their weak points are—what angle of talk will make the best appeal to each man, and what facts or arguments will clinch him. It is all as clear as a book when you know the simple alphabet of signs that spell out a man's character and his mental 'slants'—an alphabet that is surprisingly easy to learn.

"From a strictly business standpoint," John went on, "I consider this knack of judging people at sight about the biggest thing I ever picked up in my life. And yet learning it was a matter of only a few spare half-hours, while smoking my after-dinner cigar.

"Maybe you've heard of Dr. Katherine M. H. Blackford. Every once in a while some magazine writes her up. For years she has made a business of analyzing character from appearances. One of the big agricultural implement companies paid her a record salary for picking employees that way—because of her ability to tell from an applicant's looks whether he had the stuff to make good, and what kind of a job he would fit into best. Instead of being guided by an applicant's record, or experience, or references, Dr. Blackford judged his good points and bad points, his ability and dependability, entirely from what she could see of him while taking his application. Other big firms have also paid her big fees for doing similar work.

"I had read and heard enough about Dr. Blackford's work," he continued, "to convince me that she had learned something I wanted to learn. I did a little sleuthing. I found that she had taught the knack of judging to thousands of men and women—all the way from ambitious clerks up to heads of million dollar corporations.

"I made up my mind that I could get the knack if they could. It was easier than I ever dreamed possible. You know lots of things that look hard at first turn out to be very simple when some one who knows shows you how. After a little practice, the knack of 'reading' people from the outward appearance has become almost automatic with me."

* * * * * * *

I have known John Cogan for years. He isn't a man who lets mere enthusiasm run away with him. Results are the only things that count with him. But there was one point I didn't get—how as busy a man as John Cogan had found time to go to school to Dr. Blackford or anyone else.

"Nothing of the sort," he explained when I asked him. "I found that Dr. Blackford has recently boiled the whole thing down into seven simple, quick and easy lessons in printed form—a sort of vest pocket course for busy people that you can read and study after dinner at home, on the train, or any other time or place that happens handy. The lessons are so simple and interesting that they are more like a pastime than a study. My first evening on those lessons was more fun than going to a show. And the practical results began to show immediately—that first evening gave me pointers that I began to cash in on the very next day. The rest was merely a matter of a little more study and a little more practice.

"And here is another thing that makes it easy—a mere request to the publishers of Dr. Blackford's lessons will bring them for 5 days' free examination. If they don't sell themselves to you when you look them over, send them back and they cost you nothing. If you think you are getting value received, a $5 bill pays for them. That's all. And I can honestly say, Harry, that I wouldn't trade what I got from those lessons for any $5,000 check ever signed, let alone a $5 bill."

* * * * * * *

One of the best moves I ever made in my life was to take John Cogan's suggestion and follow suit. That was about three months ago. Now that I'm in on the real How of reading people from the outward signs—of telling what a man or women is like from what they look like—I can say "ditto" to everything John Cogan said.

He didn't paint it a bit too strong—either the simplicity of it, or the practical day after day value of knowing how to judge people, instead of relying on mere haphazard impressions about them.

Thanks to these 7 easy lessons, I can now tell almost the minute I lay eyes on people how to make them my friends, in either a business or social way—how to talk to them, how to influence them to the best advantage. Also I can tell at a glance whom I can trust and whom I can't. The first time I see a man—or woman either—I can get a better line on him than many of his friends have after years of acquaintance. On top of all this, those lessons have taught me more about myself than I ever knew before—and when you come right down to it, mighty few of us every really know ourselves, to say nothing of others. To my mind those two points are two of the biggest factors in any kind of work or business—knowing yourself and knowing others. No wonder Mr. L. E. Hawley of Grand Rapids, wrote the Independent Corporation as follows:

> "If I had known years ago what I have learned already from Dr. Blackford's Course, the knowledge would have been worth a thousand times the price of these lessons to me."

Free Examination—Send No Money

Next to the ability to read and write, I can't think of anything more practical and useful to any man or woman than this easily acquired ability to "read" others. From selling a bill of goods to addressing a jury or winning over a Board of Directors, from choosing friends to keeping them—in any kind of contact with others, social or business—the ability to judge people at a glance is a tremendous advantage; while the lack of this easy-to-learn knack is a tremendous handicap.

That's why I say that what you can get from Dr. Blackford's 7-lesson Course in Character Reading is certainly worth many times $5 to anyone who will take the trouble to send for it and read it.

And remember that you don't have to pay a cent until you see the lessons, and then only if you are satisfied with your bargain.

You can keep them 5 days before deciding. Then if you can't see $5 worth in them, return them to the publishers and they cost you nothing. No matter what you think of the lessons after you look them over, you can't lose on a see-for-yourself offer like this. Merely mail the coupon at the bottom of this page, same as I did—no money necessary, nothing but your name and address.

Has Been Doing This for Years

DR. BLACKFORD'S unerring ability to judge people at sight is amply evidenced by her remarkable record in the selection of employees for such firms as the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company, Hercules Powder Company, and others. In passing on thousands of applicants each year, Dr. Blackford estimated the character and capabilities of each entirely from the outward signs. The accuracy of her instantaneous judgment is proved by the fact that 98% of her selections—regardless of their previous experience—made good at the jobs in which she placed them. Her 7-lesson course now makes it easy for anyone to learn and apply the simple principles which she had been using for years.

"My skin is so tender"

The new treatment for tender skins

Some people with delicate, tender skins have been misled by the superstition that washing the face with soap is bad for the complexion. Dr. Pusey, the famous skin specialist, in his book on the care of skin, says: "The layer of dirt and fat that such persons accumulate on the skin is a constant invitation to various disorders."

The following Woodbury treatment is just what a sensitive skin needs to keep it active and resistant.

Dip a soft washcloth in warm water and hold it to the face. Then make a warm-water lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap and dip your cloth up and down in it until the cloth is "fluffy" with the soft, white lather. Rub this lather gently over your skin until the pores are thoroughly cleansed. Then rinse the face with clear, cool water and dry carefully.

You will find a 25c cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap sufficient for a month or six weeks of this treatment and for general use for this time. It is for sale at drug stores and toilet goods counters everywhere throughout the United States and Canada.

Write today for a week's size cake

For 6c we will send you a trial size cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap large enough to last for a week, together with the booklet, "A Skin You Love to Touch," which gives the treatments to use for all of the commoner skin troubles.

For 15c we will send you, in addition, samples of Woodbury's Facial Powder, Facial Cream and Cold Cream. Send today to The Andrew Jergens Co., 26 Spring Grove Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio.

If you live in Canada, address The Andrew Jergens Co., Limited, 26 Sherbrooke St., Perth, Ontario.

MACHINES FOR DETECTING THE PRESENCE OF ENEMY AIRCRAFT—This is called the long-horn anti-aircraft set. It is used in learning the presence of enemy aircraft and in detecting their exact location. The horns revolve to point to any direction and they receive the disturbances in the air waves made by the propellers of the aircraft. These disturbances, even the very faintest ones, are received on an instrument somewhat like that of a telephone, and calculations as to distance are then made, based upon the volume of the sound.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG—rather slumped for awhile; but her recent picture, "Cheating Cheaters," shows that she's taken a long breath, started to reduce and "come back." It would surely be a pity to lay those big brown eyes and that glorious hair on the shelf labeled "Has Beens." Miss Young—rather Mrs. Young, for James Young the director was her husband before divorce diddum part—is a Chicago girl and was educated at St. Xavier's academy. At various times from the age of 3 she was in stock, vaudeville and various productions. Her screen career started with Vitagraph, where Mr. Young, her director, brought out some really good pictures with her as the star. From Vitagraph she went to World. Here she made a number of productions, among which were "Camille," "The Yellow Passport," etc. She now has her own company, releasing through Select. "Cheating Cheaters" is the best picture she has made in a long time. Miss Young is in her late twenties, has brown hair and eyes, loves good music and good food, and rides horseback well. Here's hoping she sticks to rare roast beef and spinach!—By Mae Tinee.

ELSIE FERGUSON—middle name, Louise; married name, Mrs. Thomas B. Clark, Jr., may not be the most beautiful thing in the world, but she is surely one of them! She was born in New York City some thirty odd years ago and went to school at the Normal College of that state. Her stage career was not an especially happy one. Her evil genius seemed always on the job and her plays never were the successes they invariably promised to be. Critics, however, never deviated in their sincere praise of the work of Miss Ferguson herself. "Such a Little Queen," "The First Lady of the Land," "The Strange Woman" and "Outcast" were some of her starring vehicles on the "legitimate." "Barbary Sheep" was her first picture—made for Famous Players-Lasky. Since then she has appeared in "The Rise of Jennie Cushing," "Rose of the World," "The Parisian Wife," etc. "The Marriage Price" is her latest. Miss Ferguson is of medium height, has gray-blue eyes and golden brown hair, which she arranges wonderfully after a style of her own. The first question any woman asks after a glimpse of the lady is: "How do you suppose she gets her hair up that way?" Nobody has ever learned the answer to the riddle.—By Mae Tinee.

New Way to Wash Your Face Beautifies Your Complexion

Beauty specialists agree that the secret of a perfect complexion is a thoroughly clean skin. But all toilet soap contains caustic potash or caustic soda to dry and age the skin, encouraging the premature aging of the complexion. The same thing in soap that shrinks woolens also shrivels the skin. In place of soap some use cold cream. Many face creams contain mineral oil, and mineral oil helps to grow hair. A specialist has perfected a new substance, called Ara-Mara, which is not only excellent for washing the face, but it cannot injure the most delicate complexion. It will not, cannot, grow hair. All you do is to gently massage it into the skin and wash with plain warm water. It not only cleanses thoroughly, but it lightens the complexion much better than lemon juice or face bleach. It is surprising to see how fresh, clear and wholesome the skin becomes, even after only one proper treatment. Many of those who use it declare it has done more real good to their complexion than any cream or toilet soap they ever used. It's a wonderful treatment for enlarged, clogged pores and irritations. It certainly is a great blessing to those who are afraid of wrinkles and who have dull, sallow, lifeless complexions. You can always get Ara-Mara at any big store. If you live out of town and your home dealer has not got it, you can order fifty cents' worth of Ara-Mara by mail of Herbert Roystone, 16 East 18th Street, N. Y.

La-may Face Powder Stays on Better Than Any Other

Now you can use a pure face powder that beautifies your complexion wonderfully and is guaranteed not to injure the most delicate baby skin. And it really stays on better than any other face powder. It does not contain white lead or starchy rice powder (Poudre de Riz) to make it stick. White lead poisons the skin and rice powder turns into a gluey paste that encourages enlarged pores, blackheads and rice powder pimples. The specialist who makes this improved powder uses a medicinal ingredient that doctors use to heal the skin. In fact, this new powder helps to prevent and reduce enlarged pores and irritations. It is also astringent, discouraging flabbiness, crows' feet and wrinkles. Because it is pure and because it stays on so well, this La-may powder (French, Poudre L'Ame) is now used by over a million American women. The large size is only fifty cents and the trial size twenty-five cents. Remember, La-may is guaranteed. If you do not find La-may much better than any you have ever used your dealer is authorized to return your money without question. Refuse substitutes. Your common sense will tell you that when you are offered a substitute it is sure to be a demonstrator trying to sell an inferior powder that pays a big commission. When you use this absolutely pure La-may and see how splendidly it beautifies your complexion, you will understand why it so quickly became the most popular beauty powder sold in New York.

What does your mirror say about Soap?

DOES your mirror say you are using a soap which is too "fat," or a soap which is too "lean"?

Or does it show that you are keeping your skin soft, smooth and clear by the use of a pure soap—like Fairy Soap—which is neither too "fat" nor too "lean"? A soap which perfectly cleanses and soothes, and which thoroughly rinses off? This is very important.

Choice balmy oils are "mellowed together" in Fairy Soap. And its soothing ingredients are blended, in every pure process of its making, for the particular care of skins.

But you cannot gain these Fairy Soap benefits for your skin unless you use Fairy Soap consistently.

IMPORTANT FACTS

bout "fat" Soaps and "lean" Soaps

A soap for the proper cleansing and beauty of the skin mustn't be too "fat"—and it mustn't be too "lean."

A "fat" soap, you know, works up into a "thick" lather which sticks, clogs up the tiny pores and coarsens the fine skin-texture.

A "lean" soap gives a thin, bubbly lather. Too often this means that the soap contains free alkali and will "dry" the skin, causing it to become harsh and rough.

Fairy Soap gives a velvety pure lather which creams up easily in wonderful abundance. A remarkable quality of Fairy Soap is its perfect rinsing off. After it has creamed in and out of tiny pores, leaving them cleansed and refreshed in their beautifying activity, it perfectly rinses away.

This not only leaves the tender outer skin fine and smooth, but the tiny pores also unobstructed and free to keep the skin soft, clear and glowing.

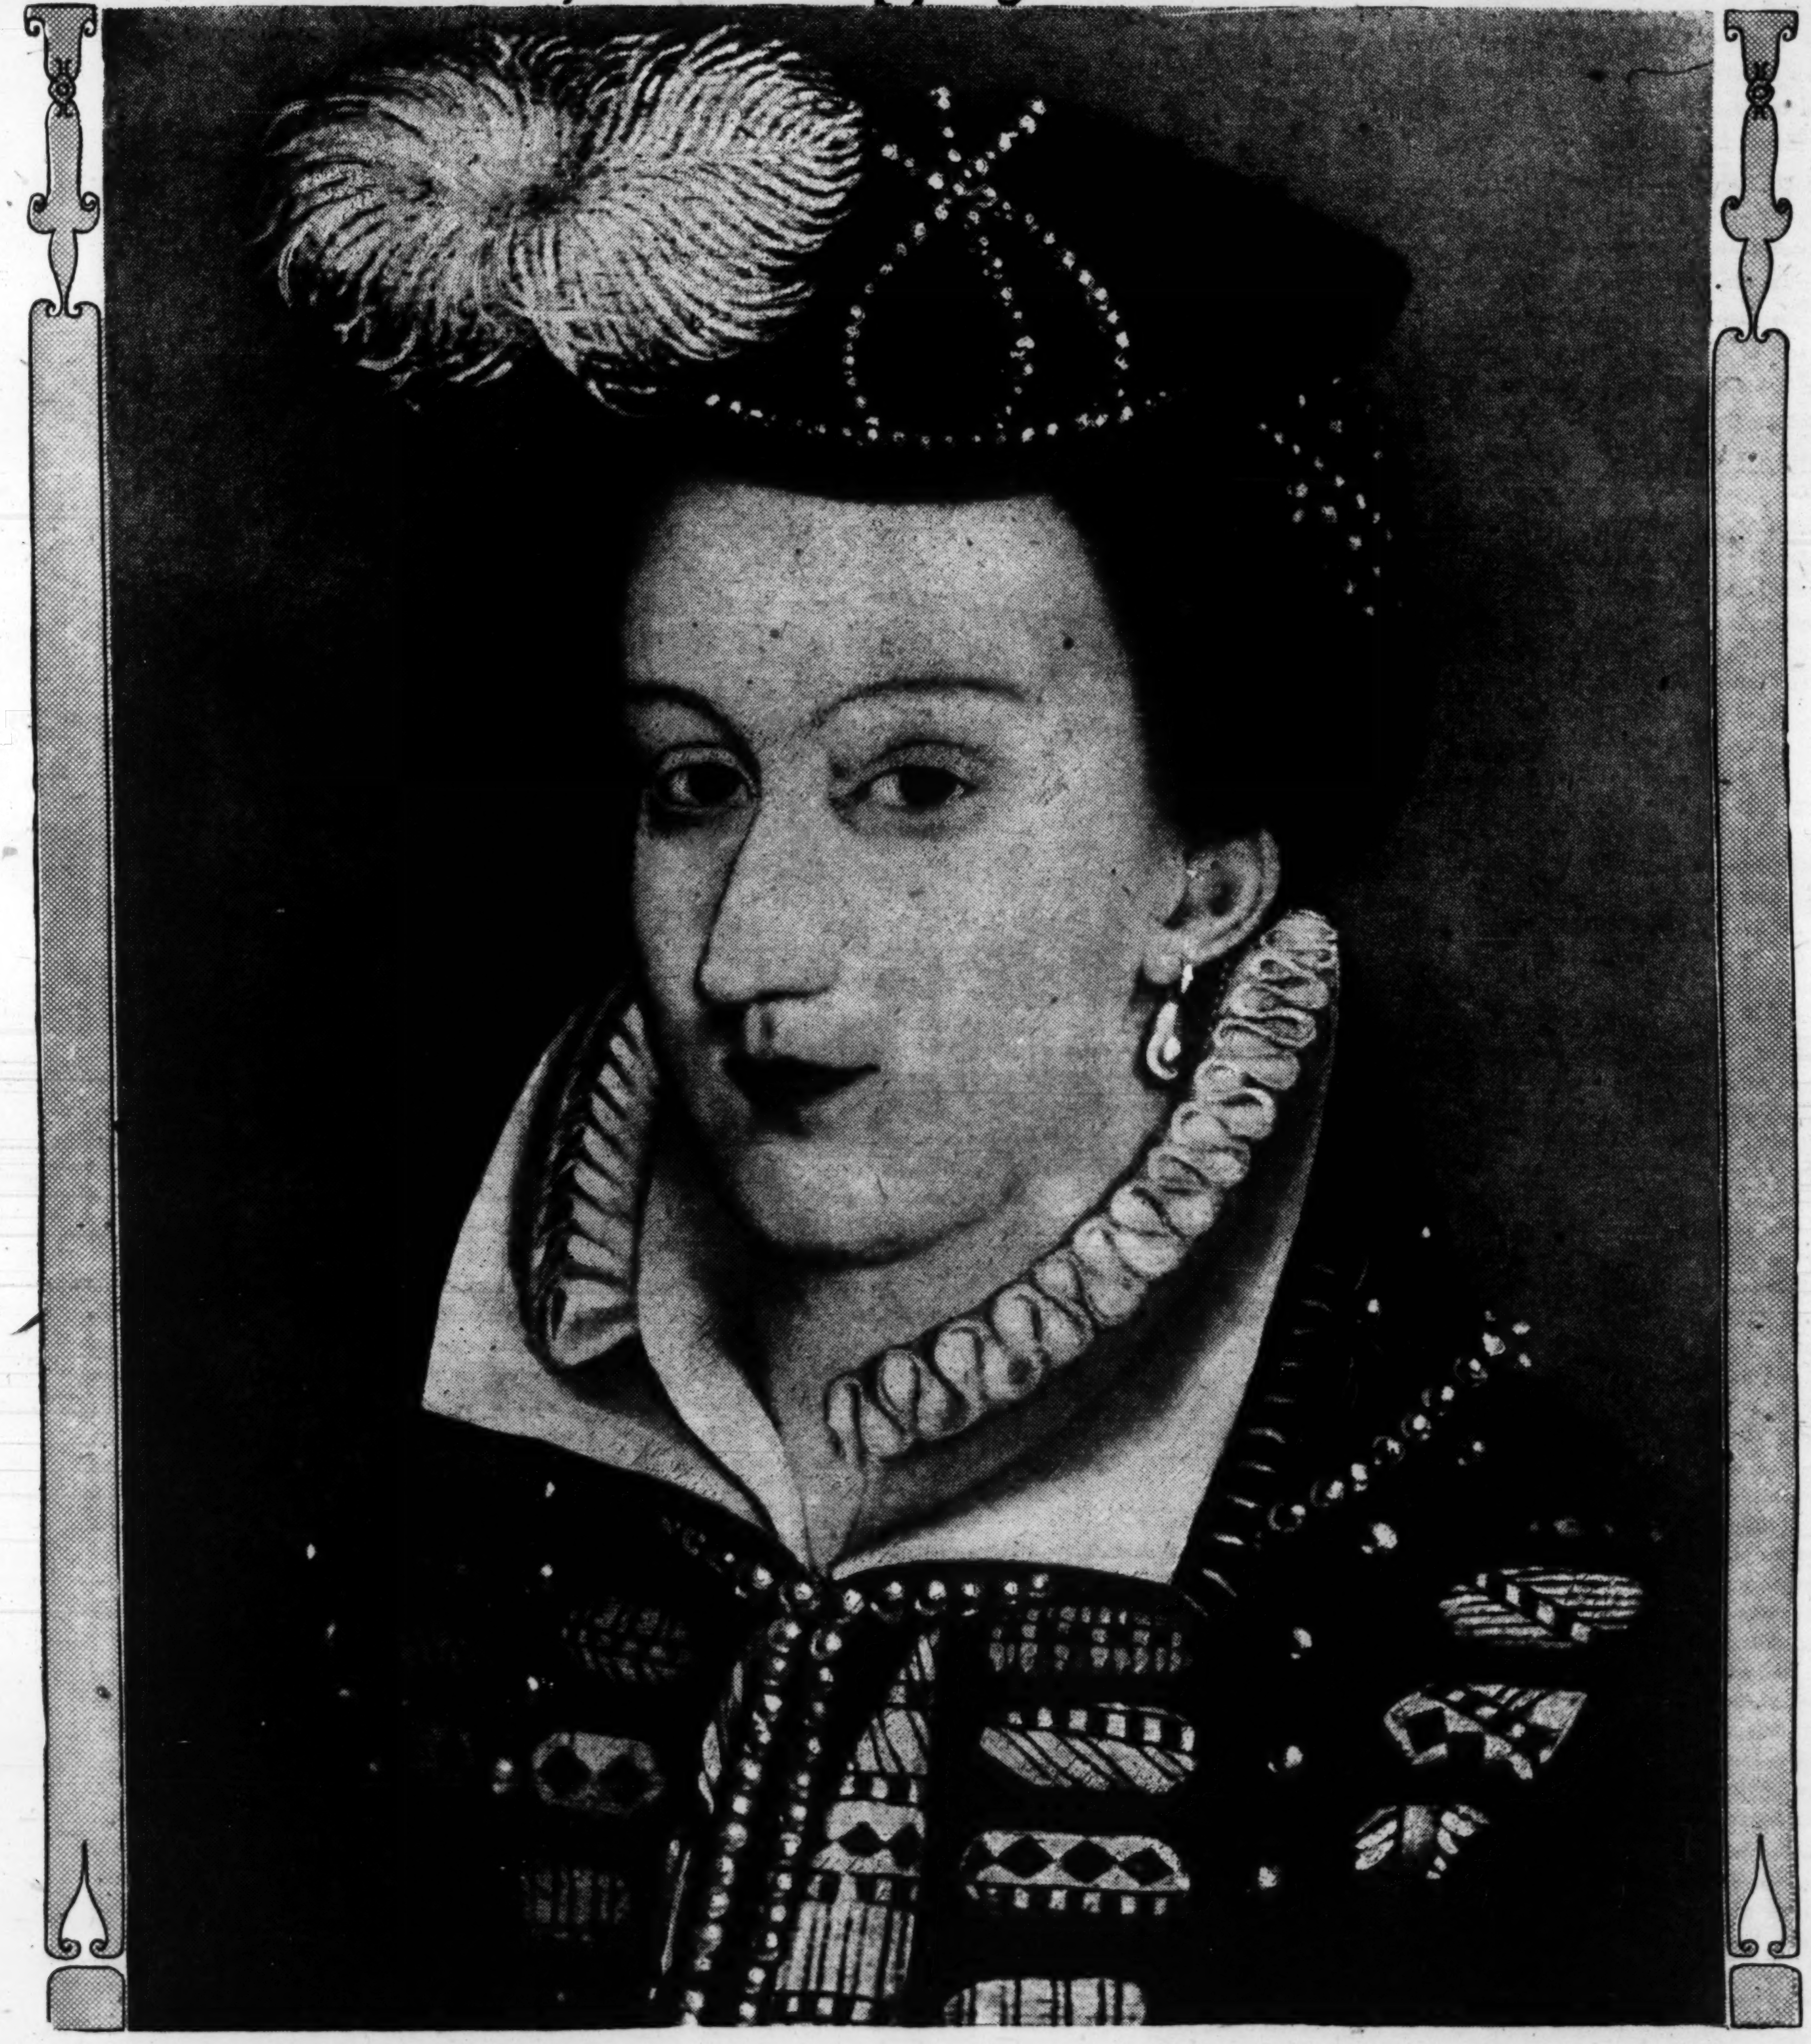
MARY, QUEEN of SCOTS
From a painting by Jean le Court



By ELEANOR JEWETT.

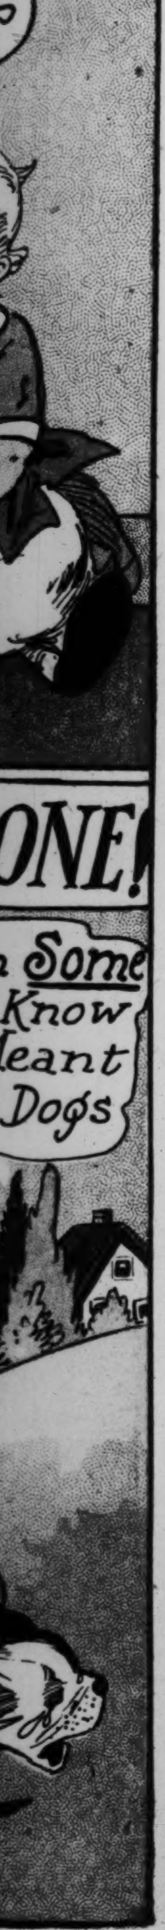
MARY STUART was born in Linlithgow palace, Scotland, on December 8, 1542. She was the daughter of James V. and his wife, Mary of Lorraine, a princess of the family of Guise. James V. dying when the infant was but six days old, the regency, after some dispute, was vested in the Earl of Arran. When the young queen was six years old she was sent to France and reared in the corrupt but brilliant surroundings of the court of Queen Catherine de Medici. On April 24, 1558, Mary Stuart was married to the young dauphin, who became later Francis II.

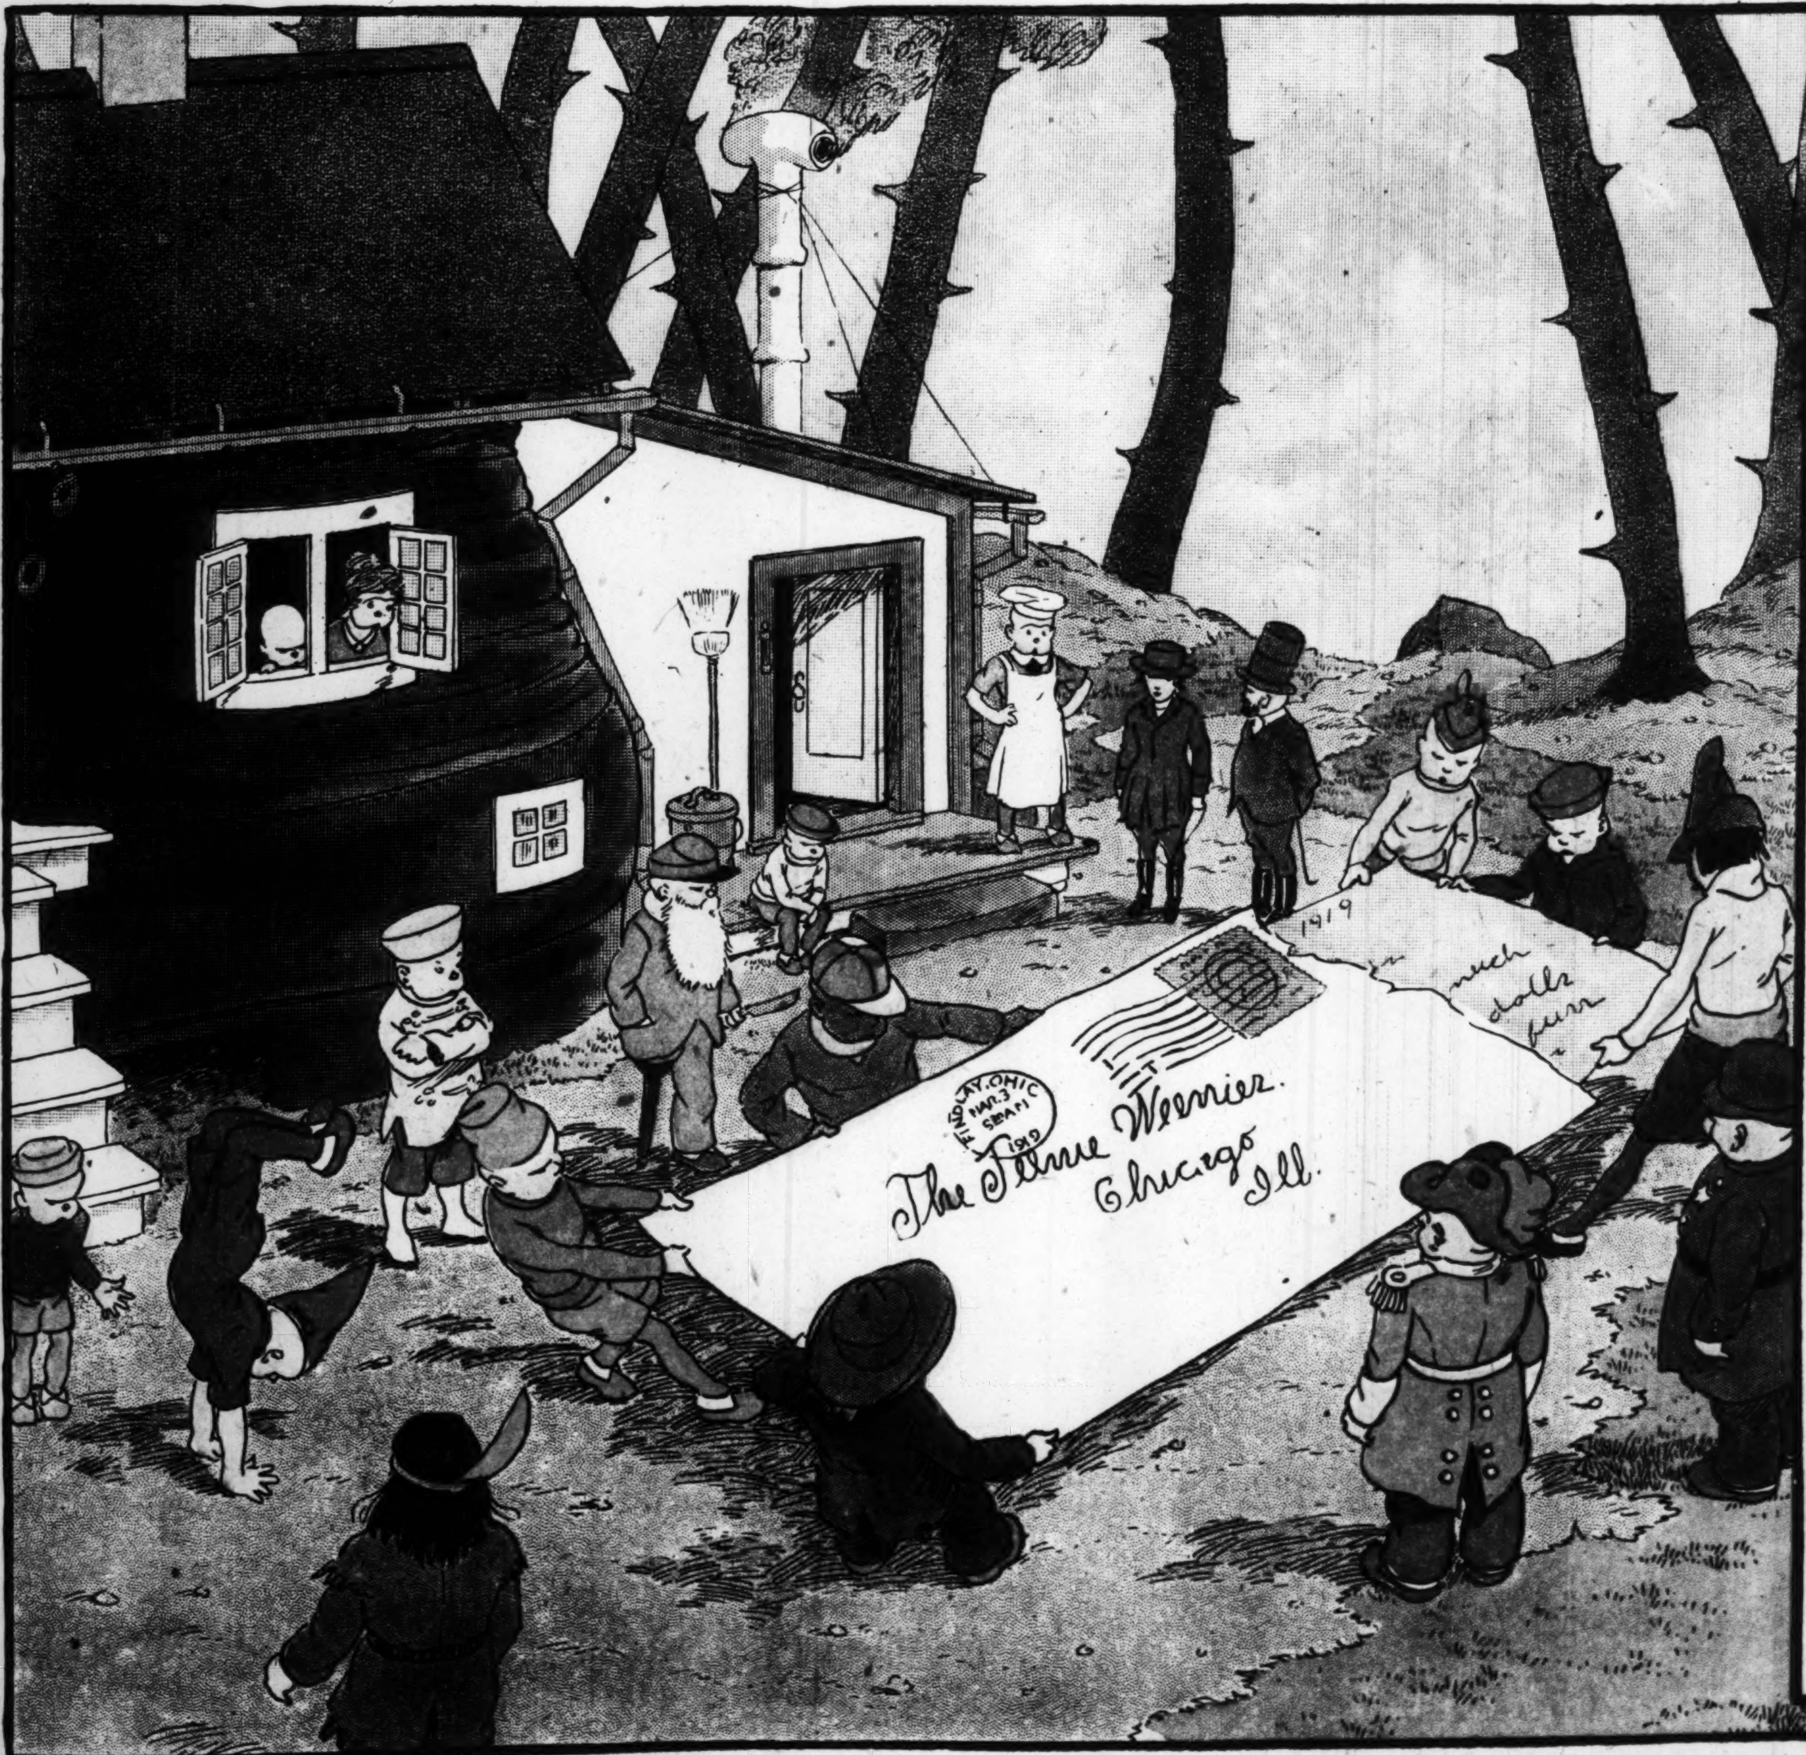
Francis II. died on the fifth of December, 1560, and in August of the next year his queen returned to Scotland. Then began for her a life of violent changes, unrestrained passions, plots and counterplots, sentimental, patriotic, and religious. In February, 1565, she met for the first time her cousin, Lord Darnley, the son of the Earl of Lennox. By her marriage with him the queen's claim on the English succession was immensely strengthened. Aside from this fact the union was in every way unfortunate. Darnley proved a profligate and unworthy husband, a weak and worthless man.

On June 19, 1566, a son was born to Mary Stuart, who later became James VI. of Scotland and James I. of England. The following year Darnley, who had separated from the queen, fell ill and was taken to a remote house called "Kirk of Field." There a short time afterwards he was murdered. The Earl of Bothwell, who had risen high in Mary's favor, was suspected of the crime. However, he was acquitted before a jury of his peers and married the queen on May 15, 1568. Their wedded life was of short duration. On June 15, Bothwell at the head of his troops was defeated by the lords who had risen in wrath against his marriage, and he was forced to flee Scotland, while Mary was taken prisoner.

On July 24 she was compelled to sign a document renouncing her crown in favor of her infant son. Practically from this time on for eighteen years Mary was a prisoner. She was held in England under the jurisdiction of her cousin, Queen Elizabeth. She was accused at last of being implicated in a plot against Elizabeth's life and government, and having been tried. was condemned to death, the execution taking place on February 8, 1587, in the castle of Fotheringay.

This portrait of her, attributed to Jean le Court, is interesting, though it reflects little of that beauty which is claimed by historians to have been hers.





THE TEENIE WEENIES.

THE LADY OF FASHION HAS AN IDEA.

WM. DONAHEY.

"WE got a letter! We got a letter!" shouted the Dunce as he came tearing up to the shoe house.

"Allie same what's allie noice ablout?" asked the Chinaman who happened along at that minute.

"Ah, c-c-c-crickety!" exclaimed the Dunce. "We got a letter and the fellows are bringing it up to the house,' and the Dunce dropped onto the ground, kicked his feet into the air and walked away on his hands.

Presently several of the Teenie Weenies came puffing up to the shoe house under the weight of a big letter. They dropped the letter onto the ground while the Old Soldier cut open the envelope with one of the Cook's biggest knives. The little men pulled the letter out of the envelope, spread it out upon the ground and held it down while the General read it aloud.

"Dear Teenie Weenies,' he began, "I am very fond of all you little people and I wish you would come to see me. I read about you every Sunday in the paper and I made a book out of your pictures, too; but I wish you could live with me, for we could have so much fun! If you will come to my house you can live in my doll house and I will cook for you everything that you would like to eat. I will have a party for you, too. Will you come?

"From your friend,
"HELEN COLES."

"J-j-j-jimminie C-c-christmas!" exclaimed the Dunce. "Let's go and see what she has to eat.'

"I call that a mighty nice letter, that's what I do," said Paddy Pinn. "And I'll bet she is a fine little girl."

"It is mighty nice of her to invite us," said the Old Soldier. "But I can tell you that those doll houses are not very comfortable to live in. They never have any water in them and dolls' beds are awful hard, they never have springs, anl I like a soft bed to sleep in."

"Well, there's no use talking about visiting the little girl, for we couldn't do it," said the General. "Of course, it would be fun and I'm sure that we would be well treated; but we couldn't do it and still be in the paper every Sunday. It keeps us busy every day getting ready for the next Sunday's paper and if we went visiting we'd lose our place."

"I've got an idea,' cried the Lady of Fashion, who had just come in from a mouseback ride with the Doctor. "The General is right; we couldn't go visiting, but we could do the next best thing."

"What's that?" asked several Teenie Weenies.

"Well, my idea is this," said the little lady. "We could have our pictures printed in the paper so the children could cut them out and make paper dolls of every one of us. Then, you see, our pictures could visit while we went on with our regular work."

"That's a fine idea," cried the Teenie Weenies. "We'll do it." And the excited little folks chattered for some time over the Lady of Fashion's idea.

"It may be a good idea," the Dunce told the Turk while the little people were discussing the matter, "but j-j-j-jimminie f-f-fishhooks, that little girl said that she would cook everything we liked to eat, and a picture can't eat."

Dear friends: Next Sunday every Teenie Weenie will have his or her picture printed in the paper so they can be cut out and made into Teenie Weenie dolls.

THE LADY OF FASHION.

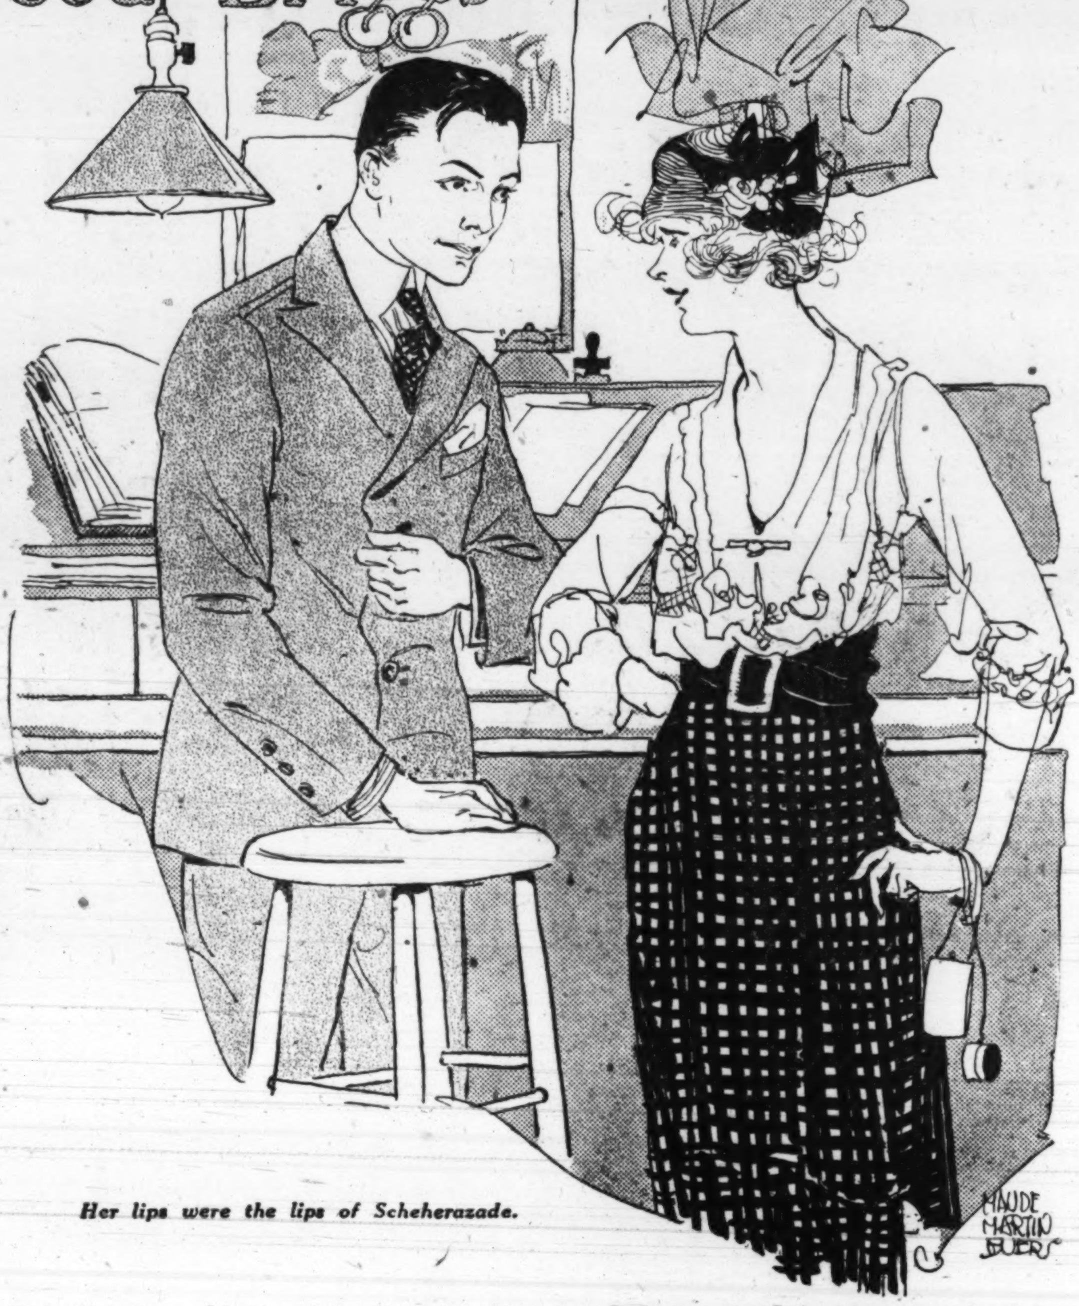
WITH THE PHILOSOPHER'S HELP

by Wood Briggs



Her lips were the lips of Scheherazade.

The Way of Two Maids With a Man.

THE Philosopher told me the story. He who knows so many stories and ponders over them, and tells so few. Molly calls him chere ami, and loves him; Dan calls him a matchmaker and fears him just a bit, and the Midge knows him not at all. He is an interesting old chap; you may have seen him while showing your Missouri relatives about of a Sunday. His place of abode is an imposing stone structure near the lake, where I visit him pretty regularly. He sits in a marble chair on the stair landing and takes a sort of spiritual toll of the passers by. Dan would have known but little about the Philisopher had it not been for Molly, who—but there, the Midge comes first, of course.

The Midge, as near as I can make out, was a minx, and lived in a village down Peoria way. There is a bank in her village where Dan was used to sit on a high stool and add columns of figures and dream of the Midge. The bank is owned by the Midge's father, and the Midge once upon a time held absolute copyhold over Dan. Born of a high spirited and luxury accustomed mother who died shortly after her daughter's birth, endowed with a body of unusual grace and charm, humored in her every whim by an adoring, busy, well to do father, the Midge had grown into an entirely fascinating 18 year old menace. And like a badly broken thoroughbred horse, was beautiful to look upon but dangerous in an intimate relationship.

Dan was, or had been until the Midge made a sort of Helot of him, a fairly intelligent, hard working bank clerk. The son of a cultured, conscientious minister, who had given him a high school education and then passed quietly over to the other side, where, let us hope, he has solved many of the problems which troubled him over here. I would like to tell you that Dan saved every cent of his $18 salary, supported his widowed mother, wore frayed trousers, and looked to buying stock in the bank and becoming cashier, but I can not. He wore pretty good and rather loud suits, selected from the big style book in Ben Killian's Gents' Furnishing store, spent what was left on the Midge, dreamed of high finance, and hated the bank heartily. He was just a pretty average decent sort of chap, out of which pretty average decent sorts of citizens are made, and pretty average decent soldiers, too, say the Germans who faced them over at Chateau Thierry not long ago. And his mother, by the way, lived on a comfortable income in another state and thought very little about Dan save when his somewhat infrequent letters reached her.

Dan had come to work at the bank while the Midge was in boarding school, and since her vacation time was spent largely at the sea shore he had not really known her until, declared by the Misses Enly "finished," she had come triumphantly home. Just what they, who carry out the process, mean to imply by the term I do not know, but in this case it meant that a wholesome, intelligent child, with the possibilities of splendid womanhood and wifehood in her, had been turned into a graceful, artificial, thoroughly charming siren with few ideas and false ideals. She was steeped in snobbishness, vain, selfish, extravagant, and unfit to be helpmeet or comrade to any sort of human being, or useful in any sphere of activity whatsoever. At the same time she could be counted upon to make a doddering idiot of any man on whom she might focus. Truly the Misses Enly had done a good job and Dan got the benefit of it, for she focused immediately on Dan.

Two days after her arrival she called at the bank for money, and two minutes after he had shaken hands with her (she wore number six gloves that cost four dollars the pair) Dan's helotship was begun. There was about her hair a lustrous red—poor Dan had never heard of henna—and it fluffed bewitchingly from beneath a trim and stylish toque. Her eyes, the lids at langourous half mast, were flecked like green chartreuse with gold, while above each one there curved a slender penciled arch whose erstwhile somewhat uneven amplitude had been painfully reduced through the practice of an aboriginal custom which in our best circles has been lately revived. Her lips were the lips of Scheherazade—and pouted. From her rounded pink shoulders hung a transparent confection of a blouse through which uncertainly supported lingerie showed alluringly.

Dan held her hand until the current was too strong, voiced something between a howdydo and a grunt, dropped the surcharged member, clutched for his stool and registered extreme embarrassment. The Midge, on the other hand, registered fulsome pleasure. Hands to her correctly corseted hips, vanity bag adangle, she slumped slightly into a harem pose, verified her position with a quick side glance in the glazed door, and opened the attack.

"So aw'fly glad to see you again, Mr. Markham. Isn't it an adorable day? Is dad in?"

"Umphh-ukk-gurgle."

"Pardon?"

"I——I think he is, Miss Helen."

"Oh, won't you tell him that I'm here? You business men are so awf'ly busy I hate horribly to disturb you in office hours, but I really must see him."

"Just step into his office, Miss Helen." Dan gallantly opened the passage door. "He'll not be too busy to see you, I'm sure."

Dan's accentuation of this "you" brought a wealth of reward from the gold flecked eyes, and the vision tripped daintily by him perhaps somewhat more closely than was absolutely necessary. The shackled slave stumbled blindly back to his stool, and for long minutes sat with pen poised over inkwell while a riot of color, and perfume, and lips, and lingerie, and eyebrows, and gold flecks whirled through his befuddled brain.

To say that she ever came to love the boy is an absurdity; she was incapable of the emotion. It was simply that her hunting preserve was limited and Dan was the likeliest game in sight. He was coming to frequent suppers before long, and pretty soon she was calling him Danny boy, and holding his hands, and then there were long evenings in the porch swing with her soft clinging arms about his neck and the pouting carmine lips of her near to his while they discussed plans of great moment for the future.

I have said that Dan hated the bank work and that he dreamed of high finance. With this, then, for spark, and the Midge's absurd ideas for their after life for fuel, a very real flame of discontent and desire was kept burning in Dan's heart. Then one night came the great decision that brought Dan to the Philosopher, to Molly the sort of happiness for which her dear, sweet, motherly heart yearned, and to the Midge just exactly nothing at all unless it be the twinge of jealousy which comes to some women at the loss of even something they did not really want.

The Midge had read Dumas and yearned to control men in large affairs, but she ignored or perhaps she did not know that nothing is bought in this world without price, and in poor Dan her animal efforts had produced only a great unrest. She persuaded him with her eyes and her body and her lips and the great love he thought was in her that his bent was finance and that the city was his untilled acreage. She painted for him a future of padded limousines and opera boxes, of footmen with powdered hair, and nation building over directors' tables, until the boy's brain was aslant. Believing her and in himself he put his credit to the test, borrowed some two hundred dollars, gave up his job, and a modern Jason set sail for a worthless golden fleece. The Midge's father made some feeble protest, but was as helpless in her hands as Dan.

Our scene shifts to—I have pondered more than a bit over what to call this city toward which our Jason's argosy was turned, this most American group of buildings on the continent. Cobbett called old London the Wen. Boston is the Hub. O. Henry of sweet memory has dubbed New York forever Bagdad on the Subway. Our Pacific metropolis is by common consent The City. How then shall we name Chicago? In flux with Destiny's hand upon it, a city of haste and leisure, of art and commerce, of mud and sunshine, of crudity and culture; experiencing the growing pains of promise—my pen halts. When its youth is finished and it has donned the toga virilis of its larger cityhood, then will it be promptly and worthily named. The privilege is not mine.

At any rate to Chicago came Dan, swelled even as the frogs in the fable, two hundred odd dollars in his pockets and a will o' the wisp before his eyes.

He put up at a hotel of consequence, with room and bath of course—could a man of his vision do less?—and with hope for his handmaiden he procedeed to translate idleness into getting his bearings. Through letters of introduction he managed to meet a few men who were doing things in financial circles, who did not of course take him seriously, but were perfectly willing to put in a few hours with him evenings and help him spend his money, and with them he heard the chimes at midnight, but in the cold gray dawn Dan found his percentage small.

Many letters he wrote home on gilt crested note paper—met Soandso and Soandso, and vague promises for the future. Many missives he found in his pigeon hole of a morning, written on scented and colored stationery, slanted sprawls of chirography beginning "Danny dear," and ending "Always and always and always." Lately, though, these voicings, separated from the former physical contact, had lost much of their meaning, and there came fits of despondency to Dan which even an extra drink or two would not dispel, and then—one day in his meanderings Dan drifted into the abode of the Philosopher.

It happened to be a free day. Had there been a pause at the door? But why speculate? The little kindly gods of happiness have these things in charge and it was a free day and the wicket clicked and Dan went in.

Molly—my hand has been impatient until now—Molly was sitting just below the turning of the stair where the Philosopher rests, working upon a sketch, when she looked up and saw Dan for the first time. Molly in her simple garb with the ashen brown of her hair pulled smoothly back, a dear little by Clifford Raymond

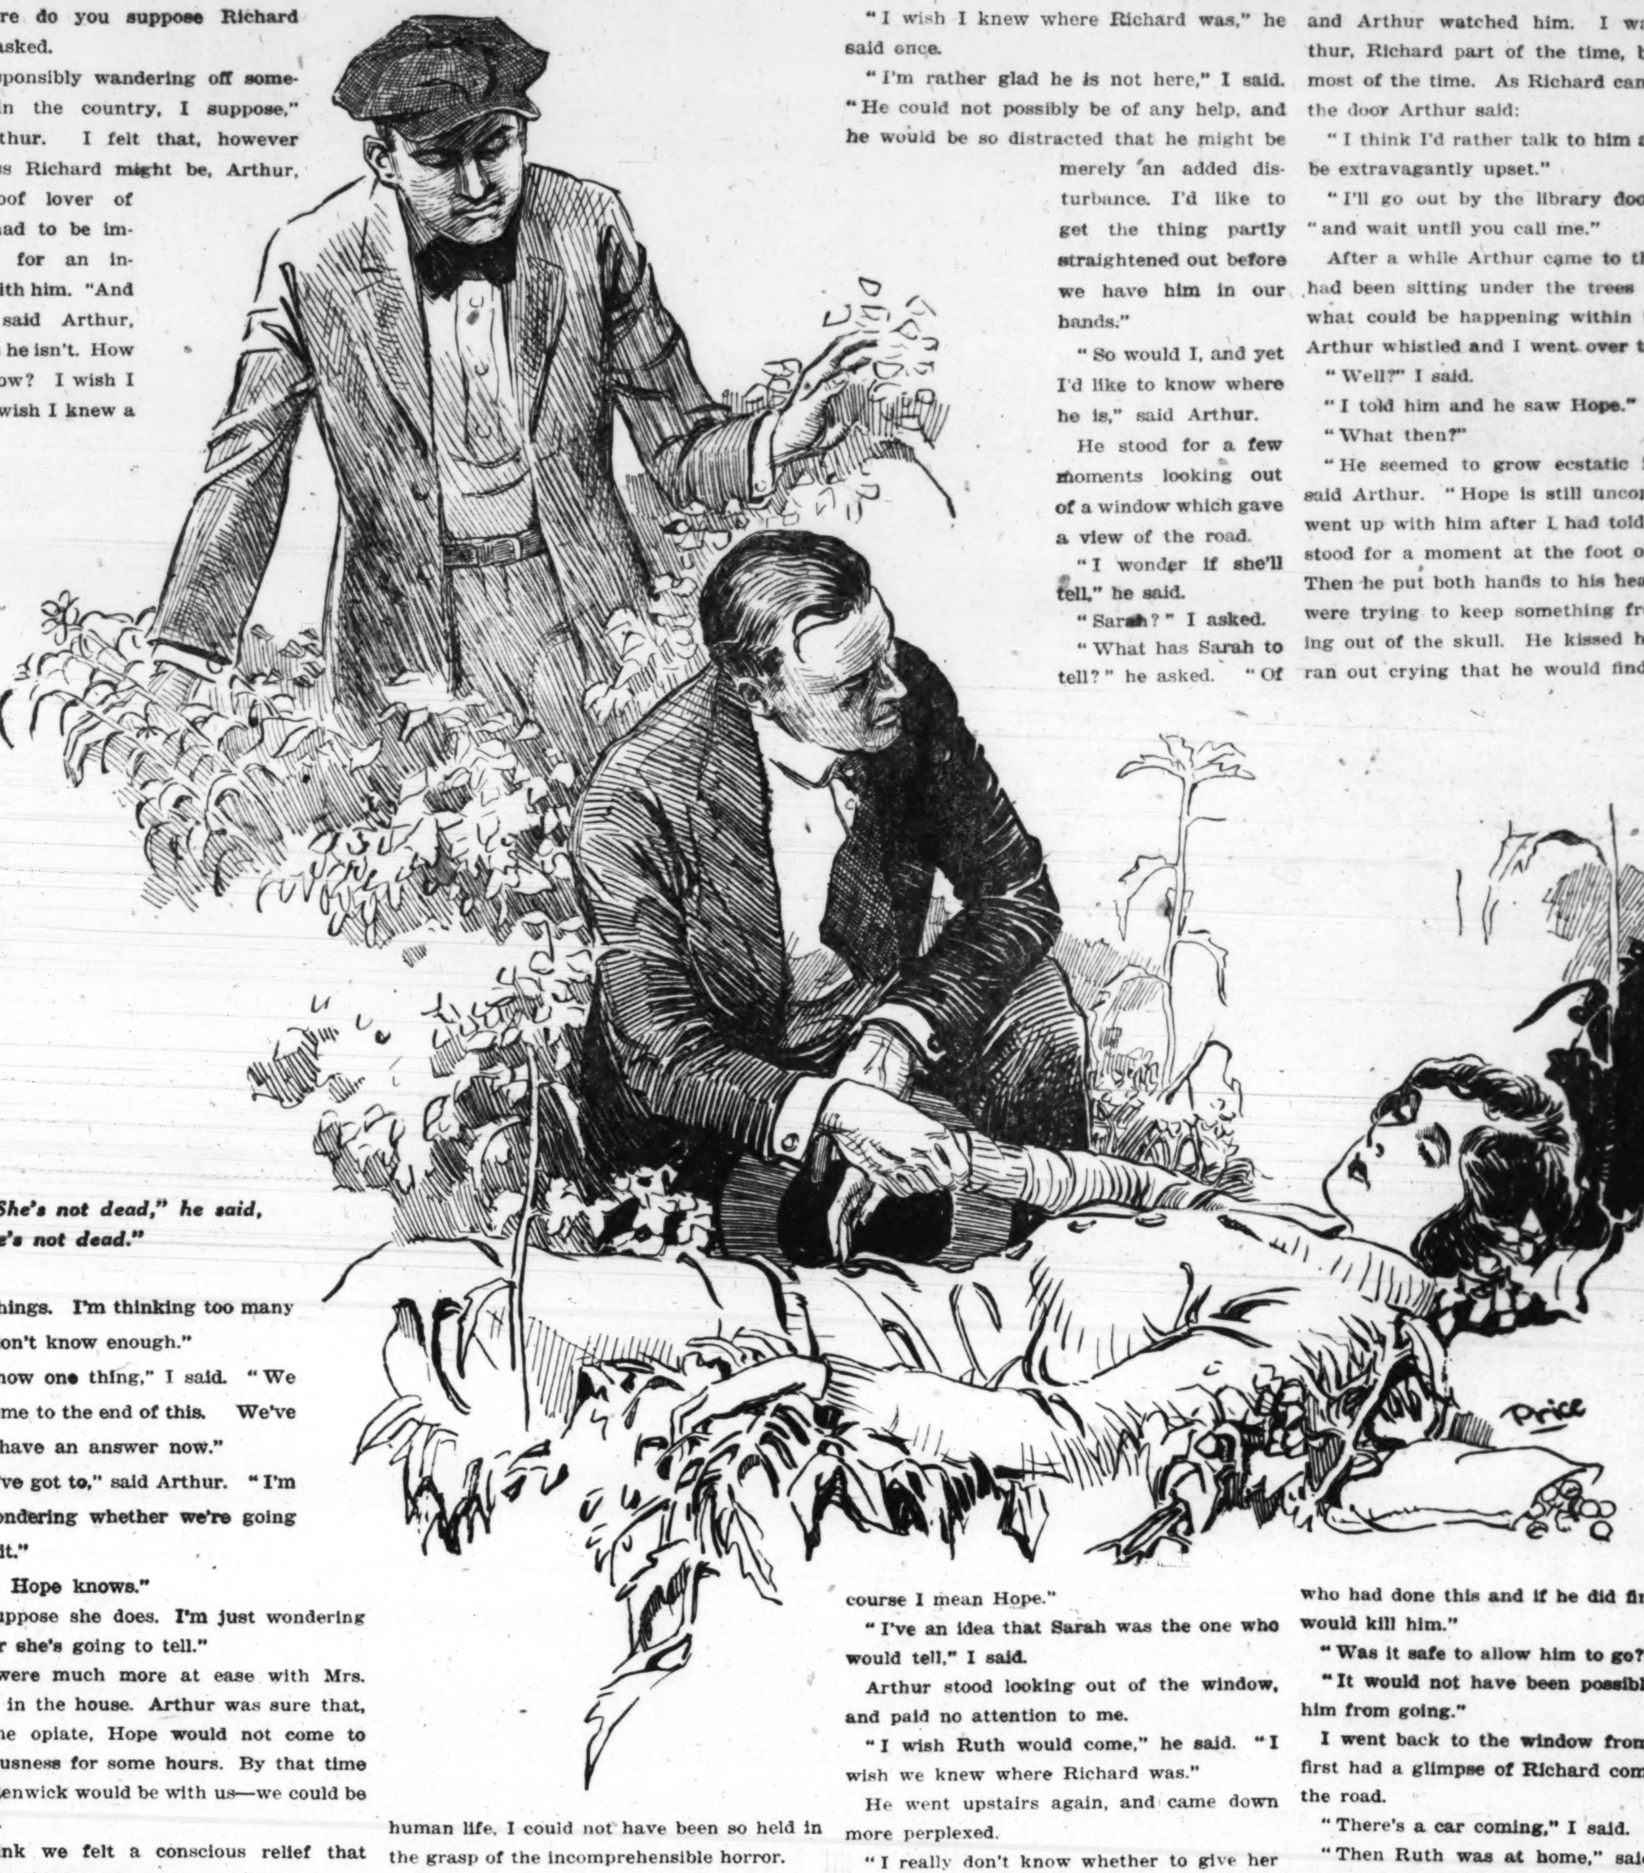
"Where do you suppose Richard is?" I asked.

"Irresponsibly wandering off somewhere in the country, I suppose," said Arthur. I felt that, however blameless Richard might be, Arthur, this aloof lover of Hope, had to be impatient, for an instant, with him. "And then," said Arthur, "maybe he isn't. How do I know? I wish I did. I wish I knew a lot of things. I'm thinking too many and I don't know enough."



"She's not dead," he said, "She's not dead."

"I know one thing," I said. "We have come to the end of this. We've got to have an answer now."

"We've got to," said Arthur. "I'm just wondering whether we're going to get it."

"But Hope knows."

"I suppose she does. I'm just wondering whether she's going to tell."

We were much more at ease with Mrs. Simons in the house. Arthur was sure that, with the opiate, Hope would not come to consciousness for some hours. By that time Ruth Renwick would be with us—we could be certain.

I think we felt a conscious relief that the inevitable, or what we regarded as the inevitable, had at last come to an issue. This event had to have a solution. It could not possibly be ignored. Out of all the shadows which had been in corners, out of all the intimations which had been in darkness, something explicable now had to come.

If it became necessary, if there were no other way out, Hope must tell. Whatever had happened, it had happened in the daylight and must have been known to her. She must have seen her assailant. She could not longer hope, no matter what benevolence guided her self-sacrifice, that she could offer herself for immolation after this.

We had—I know I had—this curious sense regarding the thing we did not understand at Quatuck—that it was not chance—that it was not incidental brutality—that it did not have a casual causation—that it did not get real intimation in the causeless terrors of a dark night, and that it was a moral beatification of Hope.

These ideas had saturated my shadowy comprehension of the mystery. Without them it was a trivial mystery. If I had not known by every instinct and intuition which can possibly guide the judgment that we had in this affair a great moral justification of a human life, I could not have been so held in the grasp of the incomprehensible horror.

It never had been a horror tangibly. It had been startling. It had had moments which started the imagination and moments which terrified the imagination, but the revealed facts were commonplace, no matter how disagreeable.

I knew that the revealed facts were not the facts, and that is why as Arthur and I waited impatiently for Richard to appear, for Ruth Renwick to come, for the time when Hope could be allowed to come out of her now drugged coma—that is why I knew the conditions of life at Quatuck had been impregnated with a significance beyond our understanding.

Arthur was restless when he could not be of service and restrained whenever he went upstairs to see how Hope progressed. Mrs. Simons sat constantly with her. Arthur would go up, find that Hope remained unconscious—in these visits being the imperturbable physician—and, coming downstairs, be the distracted friend of Hope, wandering restlessly over the entire downstairs, looking out of windows, betraying every nervous symptom of disordered mind, collecting and restraining himself whenever it was advisable, even permissible, that he go upstairs.

I knew he did not want to talk, and therefore said very little to him.

"I wish I knew where Richard was," he said once.

"I'm rather glad he is not here," I said. "He could not possibly be of any help, and he would be so distracted that he might be merely an added disturbance. I'd like to get the thing partly straightened out before we have him in our hands."

"So would I, and yet I'd like to know where he is," said Arthur.

He stood for a few moments looking out of a window which gave a view of the road.

"I wonder if she'll tell," he said.

"Sarah?" I asked.

"What has Sarah to tell?" he asked. "Of course I mean Hope."

"I've an idea that Sarah was the one who would tell," I said.

Arthur stood looking out of the window, and paid no attention to me.

"I wish Ruth would come," he said. "I wish we knew where Richard was."

He went upstairs again, and came down more perplexed.

"I really don't know whether to give her another hypodermic or not," he said. "I don't want her to grasp the full consciousness of the thing until Richard is here. I don't want her to have the consequences of the morphine to contend with when she does make her effort."

I was standing at the window having a view of the road.

"Richard's coming," I said.

Arthur joined me at the window. Richard was approaching by a bit of road of which we had a view. He had a heavy stick over his shoulders and from it was hung a burlap sack. We knew that he had been out for hickory nuts. He had knocked down as many as he could carry comfortably and was coming slowly home.

"It's strange," I said, "that if they both went for hickory nuts they did not go together."

"Evidently they didn't," said Arthur. "I wish I didn't have to tell Richard what's happened to Hope."

Richard came slowly into the grounds and up to the house. He spread his hickory nuts out upon the roof of a small shed, emptying them out of the sack and spreading them out to dry before he husked them.

All this was within view from the window and Arthur watched him. I watched Arthur, Richard part of the time, but Arthur most of the time. As Richard came towards the door Arthur said:

"I think I'd rather talk to him alone. He'll be extravagantly upset."

"I'll go out by the library door," I said, "and wait until you call me."

After a while Arthur came to the door. I had been sitting under the trees wondering what could be happening within the house. Arthur whistled and I went over to him.

"Well?" I said.

"I told him and he saw Hope."

"What then?"

"He seemed to grow ecstatic in anger," said Arthur. "Hope is still unconscious. I went up with him after I had told him. He stood for a moment at the foot of her bed. Then he put both hands to his head as if he were trying to keep something from breaking out of the skull. He kissed her and he ran out crying that he would find the man who had done this and if he did find him he would kill him."

"Was it safe to allow him to go?" I asked.

"It would not have been possible to keep him from going."

I went back to the window from which I first had a glimpse of Richard coming down the road.

"There's a car coming," I said.

"Then Ruth was at home," said Arthur, with thanksgiving in his voice.

He hustled her directly to Hope's room. The young farmer had come back with her.

"I left my rig in town," he said. "The horse needed shoeing, and Mrs. Renwick will take me back tomorrow. So I left the horse there. There's a good deal of excitement about this thing in the neighborhood."

"Do they know anything about it?" I asked.

"They seem to," he said. "Mrs. Browning is pretty well liked, and they're pretty tired of this sort of thing. There's a posse out, and I hear they've heard about her brother Gerald and the big monkey. As we came through the village I heard that this brother and the big monkey had been seen at a roadhouse near Three Oaks, four miles west, and the posse had gone over to get them."

Arthur and Mrs. Simons came downstairs.

"Susan can stay here and get supper for you," said the young farmer. "I'll have to get back on the place unless I'm needed. I'd like to be with the posse. Mrs. Browning's been awful clever to us, and if they catch that man there's going to be something done about it pretty quick."

brown wren who would pass thousands in a day unnoticed. Molly looked up and her fine blue eyes with her sweet womanly, motherly soul looking out of them, met Dan's.

I wish I could make you know Molly as I know her—one of the clean, courageous souls of the earth who fight their battles quietly and without applause, and look to more struggles as we ordinary mortals look to peace. Molly, who had come to the city, not as an army with banners, but fearfully, as one who has no choice; who, in the beginning, had been oppressed by the immensity and the hurry of it, but had come now to know and hence to love the great, human abiding place.

She had made good in a material sense with the gift of her deft fingers and the vision in her brain. She earned a weekly stipend that was more than sufficient for her modest needs. And yet there was a rift in Molly's lute. She had no one to love—nothing to mother, no one to sacrifice for—and she had loved and mothered and sacrificed all her life.

And then—well, she looked up and Dan's eyes were on her, and Molly smiled at Dan!

She smiled at him! She has confessed it to me since. Molly, who never broke a convention in her life, smiled at Dan and halted in her pencil work, and Dan with Balm of Gilead pouring in upon his tired, worried heart, woke suddenly, turned, and hurried out.

And then Dan forgot high finance, and began looking for a job. He forgot, too, the gold flecks in the Midge's eyes and wrote her no more letters. With what little he had he went from the hotel to a simple room out south, and began to read the help wanted columns of the papers.

Sounds sordid, does it not? But to Dan it was as the striving for the Holy Grail, for Dan, remember, had seen into the deeps of Molly's eyes. What he met with in the days that followed and how he finally landed and justified the good that was in him belong to another story. We are here interested only in his relation to The Philosopher.

He came back often to the stair turn during his period of stress and search, nor did he ever seem to realize that The Philosopher was there, but strangely enough Molly was always in her accustomed place, sketching; and she would look up and smile and he would go away comforted and heartened. And then one day he came and Molly's seat was vacant and Dan's eyes in searching for her came for the first time upon the dear quiet face of my friend. Dan says that Molly's matchmaker, as he calls him, raised his head for a moment and with his hand pointed to Molly's vacant place, and Dan crossed over and sat down.

Perhaps he went to sleep; perhaps it was a moment of unconsciousness as the last of the old Dan went out of him. At any rate when he came to himself there stood Molly looking down upon him. Simple, wholesome, lovable, dependable Molly in working dress with sketch book under arm. Remember that Dan had never spoken to her. He knew not whence nor where nor how she came. Yet The Philisopher says that with the light unpaintable and indescribable upon his face, Dan rose and cried her name and folded her closely in his arms, and she dropped her book and nestled with a little sigh.

There is of course a great deal more that might be told, but what is left is normal human life, sweetened and dignified by great unselfish love. They see The Philosopher now and then, Dan and Molly—on free days—and he has told me a secret, that not one line did Molly put upon her sketch after that day when she first saw Dan. But that, as I said, is a secret—Molly's and The Philosopher's.

THE ARGONNE OFFENSIVE by General John J. Pershing

A Map Illustrating This Report Will Be Found on Pages 4 and 5.

ON the day after we had taken the St. Mihiel salient much of our corps and army artillery who had operated at St. Mihiel and our divisions in reserve at other points were already on the move toward the area back of the line between the Meuse river and the western edge of the forest of Argonne.

With the exception of St. Mihiel, the old German front line from Switzerland to the east of Reims was still intact. In the general attack planned all along the line, the operation assigned the American army as the hinge of this allied offensive was directed toward the important railroad communications of the German armies through Mezieres and Sedan. The enemy must hold fast to this part of his lines or the withdrawal of his forces with four years' accumulation of plants and material would be dangerously imperiled.

The German army had as yet shown no demoralization, and, while the mass of its troops had suffered in morale, its first class divisions and notably its machine gun defense were exhibiting remarkable tactful efficiency as well as courage. The German general staff was fully aware of the consequences of a success on the Meuse-Argonne line. Certain that he would do everything in his power to oppose us the action was planned with as much secrecy as possible, and was undertaken with the determination to use all our divisions in forcing a decision. We expected to draw the best German divisions to our front and consume them, while the enemy was held under grave apprehension lest our attack should break his line, which it was our firm purpose to do.

Our right flank was protected by the Meuse, while our left embraced the Argonne forest, whose ravines, hills, and elaborate defenses screened by dense thickets had been generally considered impregnable. Our order of battle from right to left was the Third corps from the Meuse to Malancourt, with the Thirty-third, Eightieth, and Fourth divisions in line and the Third division as corps reserve; the Fifth corps from Malancourt to Vauquois, with the Seventieth, Thirty-seventh, and Ninety-first divisions in line and the Thirty-second division in corps reserve; and the First corps, from Vauquois to Vienne-le-Chateau, with the Thirty-fifth, Twenty-eighth, and Seventy-seventh divisions in line and the Ninety-second in corps reserve. The army reserve consisted of the First, Twenty-ninth, and Eighty-second divisions.

One the night of Sept. 25 our troops quietly took the place of the French who thinly held the line in this sector, which had long been inactive. In the attack which began on the 26th we drove through the barbed wire entanglements and the sea of shell craters across No Man's Land, mastering all the first line defenses. Continuing on the 27th and 28th, against machine guns and artillery of an increasing number of enemy reserve divisions, we penetrated to a depth of from three to seven miles and took the village of Montfaucon and its commanding hill, and Exermont, Gercourt, Cuisy, Septsarges, Malancourt, Ivoiry, Epinonville, Charpentry, Very, and other villages.

East of the Meuse, one of our divisions which was with the Second Colonial French corps captured Marcheville and Rieville, giving further protection to the flank of our main body. We had taken 10,000 prisoners; we had gained our point of forcing the battle into the open, and were prepared for the enemy's reaction, which was bound to come, as he had good roads and ample railroad facilities for bringing up his artillery and reserves.

In the chill rain of dark nights our engineers had to build new roads across spongy, shell torn areas, repair broken roads beyond No Man's Land, and build bridges. Our gunners, with no thought of sleep, put their shoulders to wheels and drag ropes to bring their guns through the mire in support of the infantry now under the increasing fire of the enemy's artillery. Our attack had taken the enemy by surprise, but, quickly recovering himself, he began fierce counter attacks in strong force, supported by heavy bombardments with large quantities of gas. From Sept. 28 until Oct. 4 we maintained the offensive against patches of woods defended by snipers and continuous lines of machine guns, and pushed forward our guns and transport, seizing strategical points in preparation for further attacks.

We made steady headway in the almost impenetrable and strongly held Argonne forest, for, despite his reinforcements, it was our army that was doing the driving. Our aircraft was increasing in skill and numbers and forcing the issue, and our infantry and artillery were improving rapidly with each new experience. The replacements fresh from home were put into exhausted divisions with little time for training, but they had the advantage of serving beside men who knew their business and who had almost become veterans overnight.

The enemy had taken every advantage of the terrain, which especially favored the defense, by a prodigal use of machine guns manned by highly trained veterans and by using his artillery at short ranges. In the face of such strong frontal positions we should have been unable to accomplish any progress according to previously accepted standards, but I had every confidence in our aggressive tactics and the courage of our troops.

On Oct. 4 the attack was renewed all along our front. The Third corps, tilting to the left, followed the Brieulles-Cunel road; our Fifth corps took Gesnes, while along the irregular valley of the Aire river and in the wooded hills of the Argonne that border the river, used by the enemy with all his art and weapons of defense, the First corps advanced for over two miles. This sort of fighting continued against an enemy striving to hold every foot of ground and whose strong counter attacks challenged us at every point.

On the 7th, the First corps captured Chatel-Chehery and continued along the river to Cornay. On the east of the Meuse sector, one of the two divisions coöperating with the French captured Consevoys and the Haumont woods. On the 9th, the Fifth corps, in its progress up the Aire, took Fleville, and the Third corps, which had continuous fighting against odds, was working its way through Brieulles and Cunel. On the 10th we had cleared the Argonne forest of the enemy.

It was now necessary to constitute a Second army, and on Oct. 10 the immediate command of the First army was turned over to Lieut. Gen. Hunter Liggett. The command of the Second army, whose divisions occupied a sector in the Woevre, was given to Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Bullard, who had been commander of the First division and then of the Third corps. Maj. Gen. Dickman was transferred to the command of the First corps, while the Fifth corps was placed under Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, who had recently commanded the First division. Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, who had gone rapidly up from regimental to division commander, was assigned to the Third corps. These four officers had been in France from early days of the expedition and had learned their lessons in the school of practical warfare.

Our constant pressure against the enemy brought day by day more prisoners, mostly survivors from machine gun nests captured in fighting at close quarters. On Oct. 18 there was very fierce fighting in the Caures woods, east of the Meuse, and in the Ormont wood. On the 14th the First corps took St. Juvin, and the Fifth corps, by hand to hand encounters, entered the formidable Kriemhilde line, where the enemy had hoped to check us indefinitely. Later the Fifth corps penetrated further the Kriemhilde line, and the First corps took Champigneulles and the important town of Grand Pre. Our dogged offensive was wearing down the enemy, who continued desperately to throw his best troops against us, thus weakening his line in front of our allies and making their advance less difficult.

On the 23d, the Third and Fifth corps pushed northward to the level of Bantheville. While we continued to press forward and throw back the enemy's violent counter attacks with great loss to him, the regrouping of our forces was under way for the final assault. Evidences of loss of morale by the enemy gave our men more confidence in attack and more fortitude in enduring the fatigue of incessant effort and hardships of very inclement weather.

With comparatively well rested divisions the final advance in the Meuse-Argonne front was begun on Nov. 1. Our increased artillery force acquitted itself magnificently in support of the advance, and the enemy broke before the determined infantry which by its persistent fighting of the last weeks and the dash of this attack had overcome his will to resist. The Third corps took Aincreville, Doulon, and Andevanne, and the Fifth corps took Landres-et-St. Georges and pressed through successive lines of resistance to Bayonville and Chennery. On the 2d, the First corps joined in the movement which now became an impetuous onslaught that could not be stayed.

On the 3d, advance troops were hurried forward in pursuit, some by motor trucks, while the artillery pressed along the country roads close behind. The First corps reached Authe and Chattillon-sur-Bar, the Fifth corps Fosse and Nouart, and the Third corps Halles, penetrating the enemy's line to a depth of twelve miles. Our large calibre guns had advanced and were skillfully brought into position to fire upon the important railroad lines at Montmedy, Longuyon, and Conflans. Our Third corps crossed the Meuse on the 5th and the other corps, in full confidence that the day was theirs, eagerly cleared the way of machine guns as they swept northward, maintaining complete coördination throughout. On the 6th, a division of the First corps reached a point on the Meuse opposite Sedan, twenty-five miles from our line of departure. The strategical goal which was our highest hope was gained. We had cut the enemy's main line of communications, and nothing but surrender or an armistice could save his army from complete disaster.

In all, forty-four enemy divisions had been used against us in the Meuse-Argonne battle. Between Sept. 26 and Nov. 6 we took 16,059 prisoners and 468 guns on this front. Our divisions engaged were the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-eighth, Twenty-ninth, Thirty-second, Thirty-third, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-seventh, Forty-second, Seventy-seventh, Seventy-eighth, Seventy-ninth, Eightieth, Eighty-second, Eighty-ninth, Ninetieth, and Ninety-first.

Many of our divisions remained in line for a length of time that required nerves of steel, while others were sent in again after only a few days of rest. The First, Second, Fifth, Twenty-sixth, Forty-second, Seventy-seventh, Seventy-ninth, Eightieth, Eighty-ninth, and Ninetieth were in the line twice. Although some of the divisions were fighting their first battle, they soon became equal to the best.

SYNOPSIS.

The Brownings, Richard and Hope, are entertaining in their own charming manner on Christmas eve. Hope leaves the room for a moment and re-enters with terrible bruises on her throat, announcing a masked man discovered at her jewel case struck her cruelly. Richard and Philip Kline search the grounds. The servants are questioned, and Richard decides they must all be discharged, and plans to take Hope south. Sarah Parr, who lives in the village, and has known Hope always, appears to know more than she cares to tell about the happening. Philip and Dr. Arthur spend the night at the Parrs', returning to Quatuck the next morning. Sarah tells them about Esther Browning, Richard's mother, of her love for children and all young, tender things. Richard takes Hope south after Christmas, and there Hope has another terrifying experience. A Negro is hanged as suspect. She and Richard go to New York, and Dr. Arthur sees a horrified look in her eyes one evening while they are dining. Jasper Lord, Richard's uncle, returns from a voyage, bringing with him Hope's brother, Gerald. Dr. Arthur thinks Gerald is responsible for the marks at Hope's throat, and sits up all night at the Brownings' to guard her from harm. He has a peculiar sensation of being watched. Philip Kline learns that Jasper Lord sent a huge ape to Quatuck years before. One sultry night, during an electric storm, a man servant at the Brownings' is frightened by some animal which he says clutched his throat. Again Dr. Arthur and Philip Kline remain awake to watch, and in the dark Arthur encounters something not human. Hope's brother is going away, and they all feel his departure will remove a dark shadow from Quatuck. Simon and Sarah, with the two younger men, attend a circus nearby, and Philip recognizes one of the performers as Gerald. Later, when he seeks him out, Gerald is gone, together with a large ape from the circus.

NINTH INSTALLMENT.

IN THE HAZEL WOOD.

WHEN we found Hope we thought she was dead. She was lying in a clump of hazel bush a quarter of a mile from Quatuck house, inexplicably there, but apparently dead. There were dark marks on her neck, finger marks, and her lips had been bleeding. The blood clots had formed. The blood had trickled down her throat.

Arthur and I had gone for hickory nuts. It was an excuse for a glorified revival of boyhood. The night before we had been through the experiences which suggested that something outrageously malevolent was in the outskirts of our pleasant knowledge of Quatuck.

We had had such experience before. It came out of the darkness. It evaporated with the daylight. We had had it at the Brownings'. We had found the night saturated with intimation of evil. Daylight always had made intimation absurd. There was Quatuck, house or village, in the daylight, beautiful or commonplace, beautiful in many of its commonplaces, in its placidity and assurances and guarantees.

The night had been malevolent—by suggestion and indication—but to go to bed under the old roof had been reassuring. There was a black oak overspreading part of the house. It was dropping acorns. After I was in bed several acorns hit the shingles with solid thumps. Explicable sounds were reassuring.

In the morning when we came downstairs to take the basin out to the pump for water and to come, with face dripping, to the roller towel, Sarah was making muffins and frying salt pork. That was pleasant reality.

We had planned to go for hickory nuts that day, and after we had helped with the chores about the place we started. It was a glorious day. The maples had colored. The soft oaks were turning. The sumac was aflame. The small shagbarks already had dropped all their leaves, and there was that assertion of benevolence which attends autumn and precedes winter rather than attends spring and precedes summer. The full granary is the benevolent fact. Autumn is the full granary.

There were some butternuts to be had, and we got some hazelnuts. We had a sack, and when we came to the hickory trees we knocked the nuts down by throwing clubs into the trees. It was a rare sport. We had been going toward Quatuck house. About a mile from it we came upon some boys of the village who knew Arthur. They were clubbing hickory nuts out of two richly laden trees. They recognized Arthur and shouted at him.

"Did you know the Brownings got back last night?" one boy called. "Getting any nuts?"

"Some," said Arthur. "That's astonishing," he said to me. "I thought they'd let some of us know and make some preparations before they came home. I wonder if it's true."

"The boys probably know," I suggested. "They have been roaming all over the place."

"I couldn't have been very easy in my mind if I had known they were here last night," said Arthur. "That makes it really bad."

"You still think Gerald is the explanation," I said.

"I don't know," said Arthur. "It's one of three, and all three are here now—by the most inexplicable twist of fate. I think it is Gerald, but I don't know."

"The ape's obviously another. What's the third?"

"I wouldn't dare say," said Arthur. "It makes me chill even to think of it. It isn't possible. It is possible, but it isn't believable."

We had been going across country, climbing fences, going through groves and across pasture land.

"Of course we'll go over to the house," Arthur said.

Then, in a clump of hazel bush, a quarter of a mile from the house, we found Hope. She was stretched out on the ground, apparently lifeless. She had put on a sweater and tall walking boots and a khaki shirt she frequently wore outdoors. By her side was a small sack with some hazelnuts in it.

Dead as the beautiful face of Hope seemed, it was not so lifeless, I thought, as the face of Arthur as he stood, for an instant, palsied, motionless, dead, dead on his feet, dead not only physically, it seemed, but emotionally, spiritually.

We had come through the clump of witch-hazel and viburnum, edged with helianthus and wild asters, with an occasional oak sapling—the whole effect being one of dense thicket touched at the margin with color—and the discovery of Hope's body was one of curiously cumulative effect upon the perceptions.

Vision itself is incomplete. Perception is wholly inadequate. A startling phenomenon—unexplained—only partly seen—a foot protruding from a thick growth of tall helianthus stems—the edge of a khaki skirt—a woman's body, revealed by parting the wild sunflower stalks—a body motionless, the head, with hair lovely but disheveled, resting on an outstretched arm—as if the woman were asleep—the dark marks on the throat—the blood at the lips—the stains—and the woman Hope.

Dead as Hope seemed, when vision and perception at last got the whole picture, she was more alive than Arthur. He was an undemonstrative man, but this was a knife run in under the fifth rib. He moaned as if inarticulate agony had found a sound without words. Then he dropped to his knees beside her.

"She's not dead," he said. "She's not dead."

He took her wrist and felt for the pulse. He had said she was not dead as if he were asserting something which had to be a fact. Then he said again: "She is not dead." That was in a different tone. It was the assertion of something that was a fact.

He made a hurried examination.

"She has been terribly treated, shocked, stunned, and hurt," he said, "but not seriously injured physically."

His emotionalism, so significantly revealed for an instant, was gone.

"We must carry her to the road," he said. "It's only a hundred feet. Then we'll see."

Hope did not revive.

"It's all right if she doesn't until she's home. It's been a terrible shock. It's bound to have some nervous consequences."

When he got to the road we were in more luck than we could have looked for. A light farm wagon came along, proceeding toward Quatuck house. It had straw on the bottom of the wagon box. The farmer helped us lift Hope into the box. She stirred and moaned a little, but did not open her eyes.

The taciturnity of country folk never seemed more admirable than it did in the conduct of this farmer who had driven up so fortunately for us. He was sympathetic without inquisitiveness, tender and helpful, but not exclamatory. Something had happened. He could be of help. That, for the time, was enough for him. I knew that he would be garrulous later, but that did not matter. He was perfection at the moment when he was most needed.

Another wagon, driven toward the village, came just as we were lifting Hope into the wagon box. Two farmers were on the seat. It was natural that they, seeing the body of a woman being lifted into a wagon and laid seemingly lifeless on the straw, should stop.

They did, and one of them jumped down.

"It's Mrs. Browning!" he exclaimed. "What's the matter?"

"We found her over in that clump of hazel," I said. "We don't know what happened. She's been unconscious all the time."

"She's been hurt," said the man. "Look at her neck and at the blood. Some one has hurt her."

"That's what we think," I said, "but we don't know anything about it."

The man's face became curiously and grimly ennobled by an emotion which took all the commonplaces of his life away and substituted for them the idea of a whole breed. He was unconscious of it, but his expression became one of uncomprising retribution. It was the expression of generations of men from whom he had obtained his traditions and his ideals.

"It would go rather hard on the fellow that did this if he was found around here," he said. "We've heard two or three stories about things happening to Mrs. Browning. She's been well liked around here."

"I've been thinking about that man and that monkey from the circus," said the man whose wagon we were using. For the first time I recognized him as the young farmer who had brought us word from the circus.

"We must first get Mrs. Browning home," said Arthur, who had been putting a blanket under Hope's head. "Please, let's hurry."

We went on toward the house. The other men went on toward the village. We learned later that they went to the store and told the strange occurrence to Simon. They repeated our young farmer's remark regarding the circus man and the ape. Simon not only told them who the circus man was—that he was Hope's brother—that there had been difficulty regarding a ring—but some fears as to Hope's security had arisen before because of his presence in the neighborhood.

Simon not only did that, but he forgot to tell Sarah anything of the occurrence. Simon had these tricks of forgetfulness. Sarah dealt very little with gossip or news as a distributor, but she was as eager an auditor as any distributor ever had, and Simon, with what she thought was utter inconsiderateness of her comfort and pleasure, frequently forgot to tell her the most important thing he had heard during the day at the store. Just as frequently, Sarah discovering it, it made trouble for Simon. He forgot to tell her this.

When he went home he told her, with a detail that fatigued her, all about his efforts to get some satisfaction from the C., M., P. & R. railroad for two barrels of sugar smashed in unloading from the local freight, but he did not tell her that Hope Browning had been found in the thicket of witch-hazel and viburnum. Simon afterward could not explain this himself.

He had told the stern farmers what he knew of Gerald—that Gerald had been with a circus in the neighborhood and had gone with an ape—and he had not told Sarah, who had the whole secret and was waiting to act—to act upon precisely such information—had not told her anything except of two broken barrels of sugar.

Arthur and I, thinking only of Hope, had not realized what might be the consequences of arousing a rural community to indignation. I might have perceived if I had really seen what was in the farmer's face when his personality disappeared from his expression and when his traditions sternly entered.

We drove up to the house and found a new perplexity. Hope and Richard, having come back only the day before, had opened it without servants. Richard was not there. We felt helpless.

The young farmer again was helpful.

"I'm only a little way beyond," he said. "I'll get my wife to come over. It won't take but a minute."

We carried Hope to a divan, and Arthur tried simple restoratives. I got compresses for him, and basins of water.

"This is no place for her," he said impatiently. "I hope that young fellow's wife gets here soon."

Hope was alive but not conscious.

"Nervous shock," said Arthur. "Sort of catalepsy. We've got to bring her out of this coma without producing another shock. If she comes to consciousness and returns to the state of mind she was in when she was in terror it's going to be bad. I hope that woman comes soon."

I knew that in an emergency in which a woman, merely a human being, was reliant upon Arthur, a human being merely a physician, he would not have hesitated an instant to do anything required.

The young farmer came to the door with his wife, a strong, comely woman with that instantly expressed and serviceable affection which women have for each other in certain kinds of distress. She ran to Hope with strong, capable arms outstretched, and Arthur's apparent relief was that of a man who had come out of difficulties he did not know how to meet and had remaining only difficulties with which he could deal.

Hope had moved several times. I even thought once that her eyes had opened—at least that the eyelids had moved as if they were opening.

"We'll carry her up to her room," said Arthur. "Then Mrs. Simons will get her into bed. Can you do that, Mrs. Simons?"

"Yes," said the woman eagerly.

"If you can find her things," said Arthur, "make everything just as if she had gone to sleep in bed. If it can be done, I want her to come out of this in a way which suggests that she is just waking up in the morning. Now, Phil, if you'll help me."

We carried Hope upstairs and laid her on her bed. Mrs. Simons remained to undress her. Simons, the young farmer, begged to be allowed to do anything useful.

"There isn't a person about the place," said Arthur, "and we can't send any one anywhere. If you could drive to Appleton and get Mrs. Renwick and take some prescriptions to a drug store for me."

Simons was anxious to do so.

"It won't take you two hours to make it," said Arthur, "and Mrs. Renwick can drive her car over in half an hour if you find her at home. I hope you do. Leave word for her to come as soon as possible if she is not at home."

I knew by the fashion in which the young farmer went that it would not take him two hours to go to Appleton.

"I gave her a hypodermic," said Arthur. "She'll probably come out of a sleep rather than out of a terror—but then I shan't know what to do. It's out of my province. What possessed them to come back here and open up the house without any help?"

JUST exactly where on the map did my boy in France fight or receive his wounds or die? Here is another map that will answer that question for hundreds of thousands of Americans whose sons and brothers and husbands and fathers took part in the largest and otherwise greatest battle ever fought by Americans. That battle was the Meuse-Argonne offensive, which was made up of many battles. It began on Sept. 26 and continued until the signing of the armistice on Nov. 11. More American soldiers were engaged in it than ever before fought under the stars and stripes in a single battle. The map has been compiled from the reports of the staff of the American expeditionary force. It shows the location of the various German positions which were captured by our men. It shows where our lines were at the opening of the fight and the points to which they had been advanced when the Germans decided to quit. In each line there is shown the number and the individual sector of the American division, with marks to indicate its progress on that day. Follow the number of your boy's division from the date it appears on the map and you will be able to follow his course through the battle fields of the Argonne. Read the legend in the lower left hand corner of the map. On page 3 is a brief and authoritative resume of the battle written by Gen. John J. Pershing himself. It is taken from his report to the secretary of war.

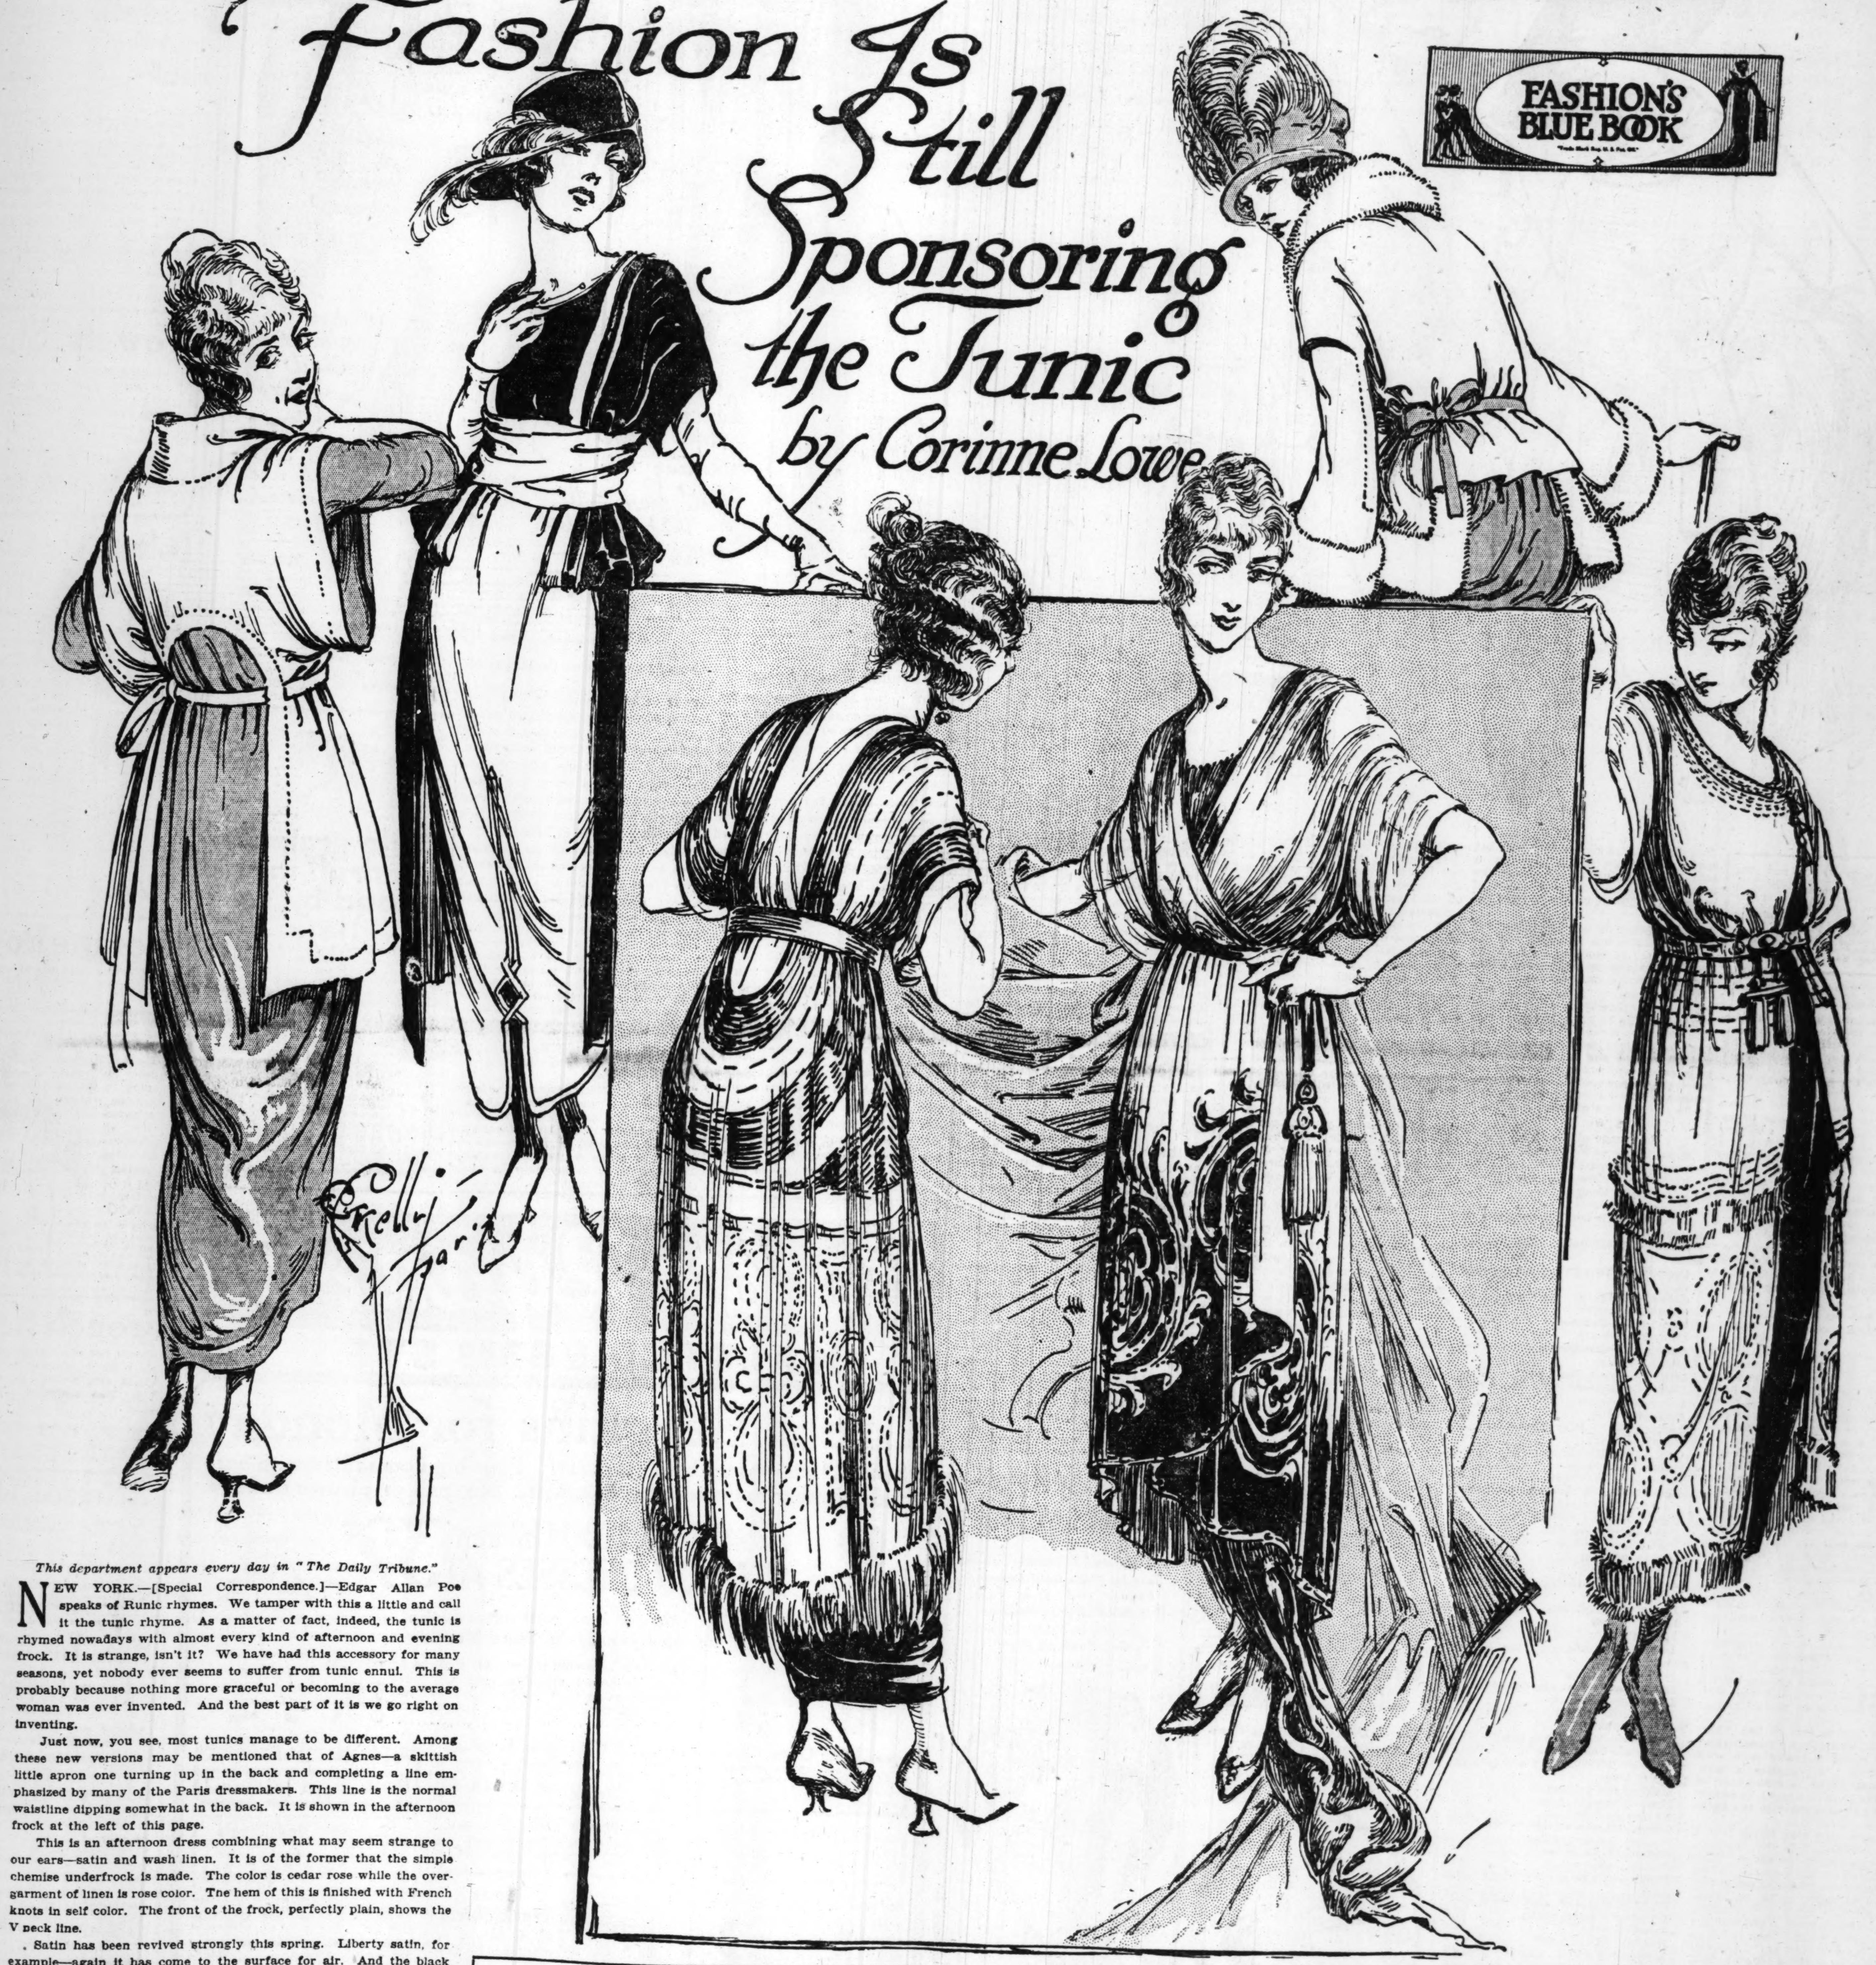
FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

Fashion Is Still Sponsoring the Tunic

by Corinne Lowe



This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Edgar Allan Poe speaks of Runic rhymes. We tamper with this a little and call it the tunic rhyme. As a matter of fact, indeed, the tunic is rhymed nowadays with almost every kind of afternoon and evening frock. It is strange, isn't it? We have had this accessory for many seasons, yet nobody ever seems to suffer from tunic ennui. This is probably because nothing more graceful or becoming to the average woman was ever invented. And the best part of it is we go right on inventing.

Just now, you see, most tunics manage to be different. Among these new versions may be mentioned that of Agnes—a skittish little apron one turning up in the back and completing a line emphasized by many of the Paris dressmakers. This line is the normal waistline dipping somewhat in the back. It is shown in the afternoon frock at the left of this page.

This is an afternoon dress combining what may seem strange to our ears—satin and wash linen. It is of the former that the simple chemise underfrock is made. The color is cedar rose while the overgarment of linen is rose color. The hem of this is finished with French knots in self color. The front of the frock, perfectly plain, shows the V neck line.

. Satin has been revived strongly this spring. Liberty satin, for example—again it has come to the surface for air. And the black satin evening frock embroidered in either jet or steel beads, a note sounded so strongly in Paris during the late winter, is bound to be sustained this spring and summer. Satin, too, is such a chummy, companionable material!

In the frock second from the left we find it in tunic and bodice making up with an underdress of soft gray shantung. The satin here is black, but it is enlivened with borders of narrow grosgrain ribbon in three shades—orchid which is half an inch wide, pale green that is three-fourths of an inch, and red which is one-third of an inch. Outlining the puffs, which, by the way, appear only at the sides, these ribbons are brought up over the shoulders in the suspender effects which a number of the foreign dressmakers—notably Agnes—are using so much. It makes, too, a perfectly stunning note of color against the gray shantung.

The wide girdle here is of the shantung. The skirt of this material is bordered with soutache in self color. The back with its tunic is almost perfectly plain. As to the neck line, here again we find that round affair which the Parisian has borrowed from Directoire modes. It is safe to say that the smartest of the imported models now coming to America have either this round neck or the V shaped one. Compared to these, the elliptical is almost passé.

> THAT the tunic is still fashion's tonic is proved by looking from left to right. First, a cedar rose satin combined with wash linen in rose color; next, a gray shantung frock with bodice, tunic, and puffs of black satin bound with vivid grosgrain ribbon; third, an evening frock of smoke silk voile made over flesh color crepe, embroidered in jet and steel, bordered with cloth of gold wrought in steel and finished with yellow silk fringe; fourth, a coral silk voile embroidered with coral and gold over a deep border of red velvet which falls over an underdress of cloth of gold; next, a day dress of brown satin completed by a coatee of beige shantung bordered with angora bands, and at the extreme right an afternoon tunic of smoke color satin folds about an underdress of old rose albatross.

That satin and shantung are great friends in the league of Paris creations is brought out by another model—the one at the upper right. This sitting figure wears brown satin topped by the most adorable of tunic coatees done in beige shantung and finished with bands of angora. The narrow tied girdle is of the brown satin, which again asserts itself in front in the form of revers falling away from the V shaped neck. Anybody who wants to do an able coat thesis should observe the details which make this garment so arresting—the cut of the peplum and the sleeves widening at the wrists after the always becoming peasant fashion. Please note the line of stitching which brings these sleeves into an informal fold midway above the elbow. Even after Easter there are evenings to be reckoned with. Looking ahead, we find in the center panel two suggestions which bring out the simplicity and charm of late evening frocks. As a matter of fact, the simplicity is that of a sophisticated person who realizes just how winning always is shyness. Beware of these new frocks! The line may look guileless, yet each bit of draping, each touch of color, needs a deep Italian mind.

The dress at the left of the center panel is the exquisite combination of smoke colored silk voile over an underslip of flesh color crepe. The tunic has a deep border of gold cloth embroidered in steel beads and finished with yellow silk fringe, the latter applied in reversed fashion so as to give a rounded effect at the heading. The upper part of the tunic of smoke gray voile is embroidered in the ubiquitous steel and jet beads.

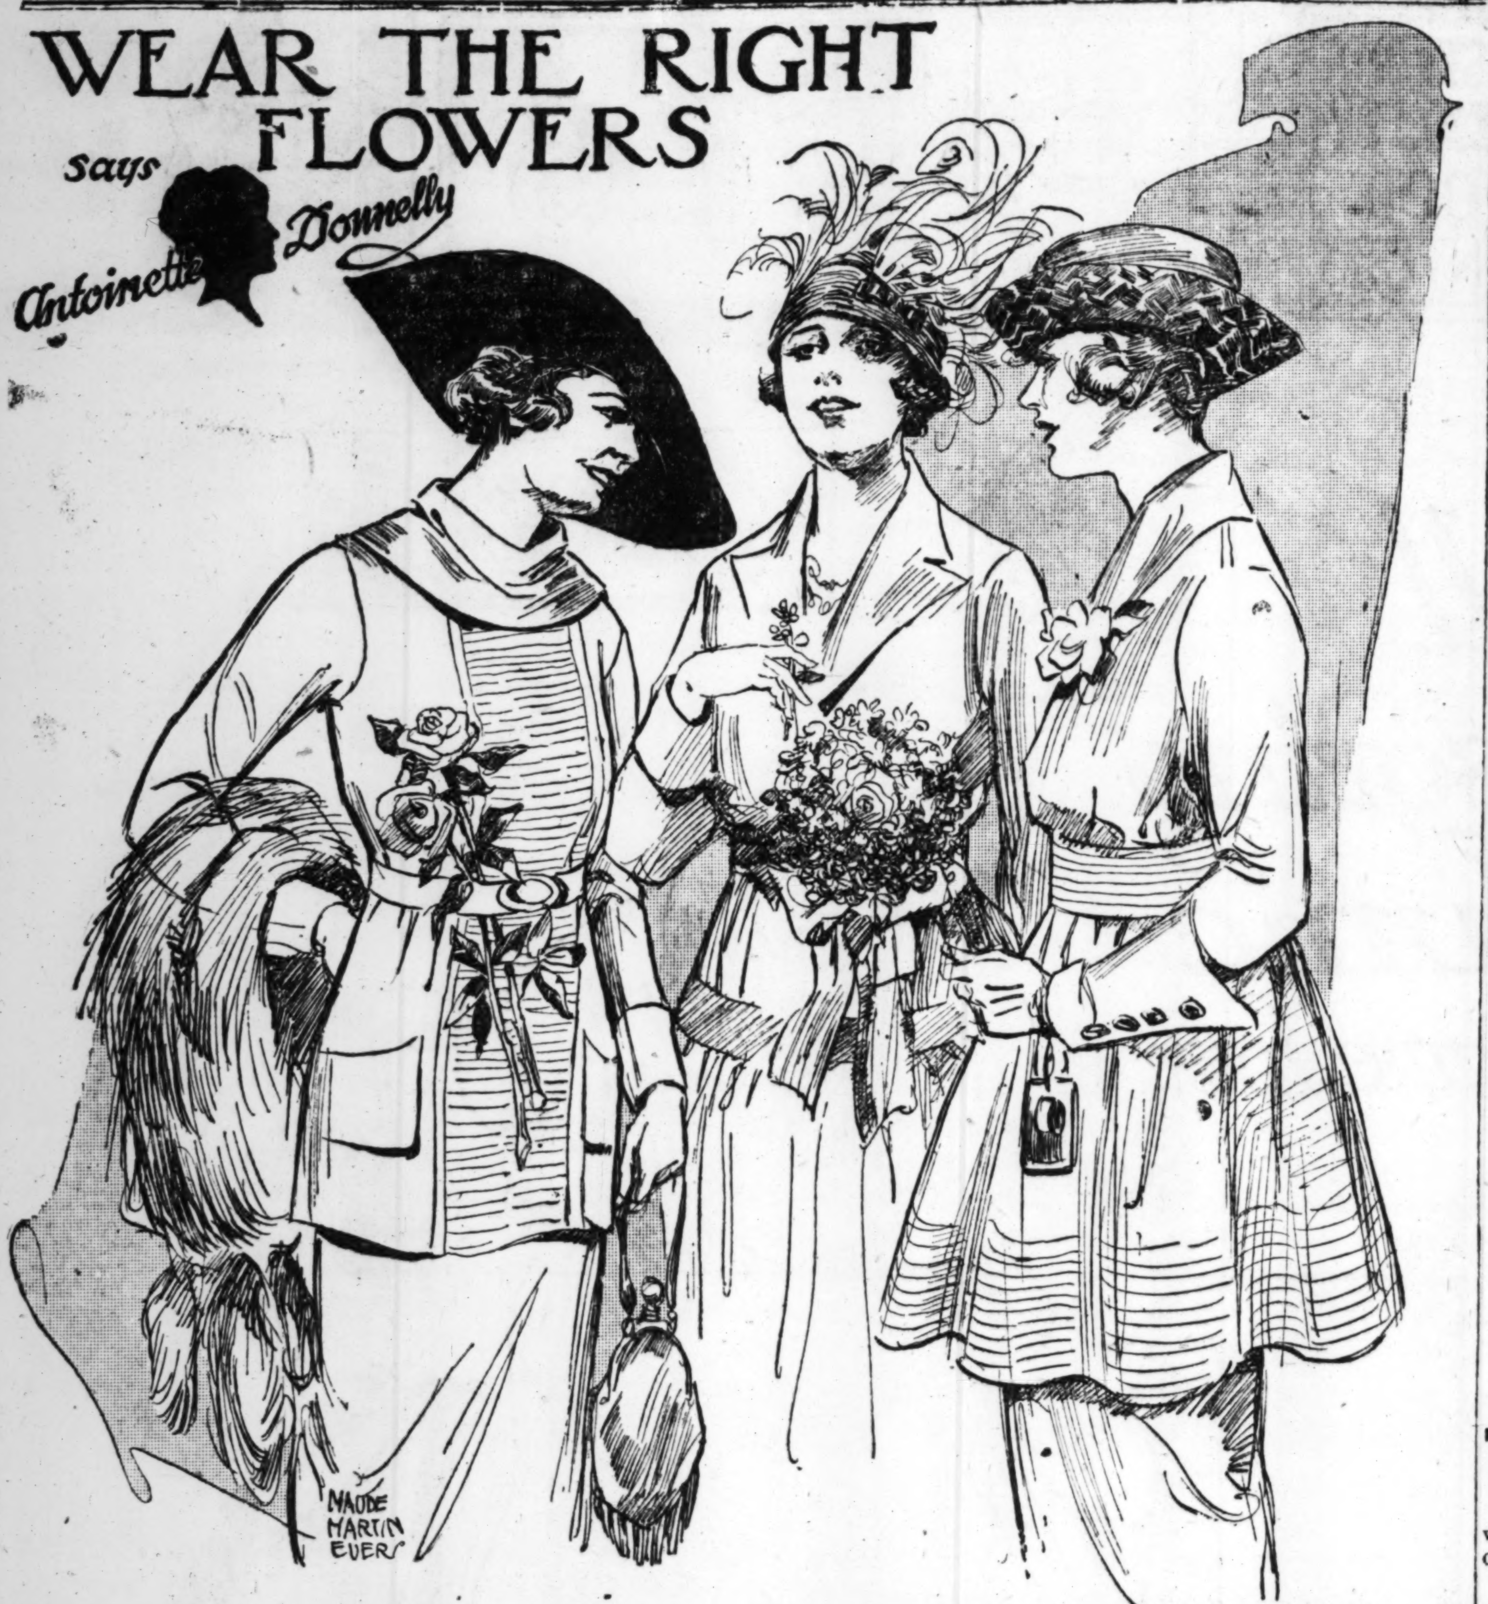
The second evening frock shows in its draped tunic the Greek influence which Worth has played up so strongly this spring. Here, over an underslip of cloth of gold which is cut princess fashion, semi-fitted, is draped a coral pink silk voile tunic embroidered with coral and gold over a deep border of red velvet. The train is, of course, of cloth of gold.

This décolleté, like so many seen this spring, is round and temperate. The V shaped décolleté is also done. Some of these new V backs are indeed low.

We close our tunic thesis with the model at the extreme right—an afternoon frock of smoke color satin embroidered in woolen threads of the same tone and worn over old rose albatross, a light weight woolen material.

WEAR THE RIGHT FLOWERS

says Antoinette Donnelly



What's your beauty ill? Too fat? Too thin? Shy on hair? Oily hair, oily skin, freckles, pimples, or blackheads? Flat chested or flat footed? Or, what is your beauty ill? Write to me. I have a tonic, a diet, an exercise, or a set of exercises for what ails you and you're welcome to them and to all the advice I can give you. If you wish a personal reply send stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly "Chicago Sunday Tribune."

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

SOME women wear flowers; others just stick them on! Some women choose flowers to wear and others have flowers forced upon them. Some are born with a flower sense and some are born totally without it.

In themselves flowers are always lovely—but they may be made to appear incongruous by the company they are forced into. For instance, a pudgy little woman, with a protruding chest will make a bunch of violets pinned thereon look like something poised perilously for flight instead of giving the modesty impression the violet was meant to convey by tucking it with careles artistry at her belt.

A big woman wearing a "scrubby" little corsage makes the poor flowers look as if they were in the hands of a captive giantess, shrinking timidly from view.

A woman may acquire a distinctive note by studying out what flowers best suit her on various occasions.

There are girls who suggest certain types of flowers, and a pretty conceit is to adapt the thing one suggests. Looking over the "language of flowers" given herewith it would not do to take the meanings too literally, or you might encounter difficulties in accepting a certain flower as your type.

The coloring and size of a flower are the things to bear in mind. For instance in my mind, with the gardenia there is always associated a stunning picture of a girl of average height, with black hair and little or no color, but beautiful and perfectly groomed. The gardenias that are tinted just a shade of yellow or pink are for a different type—the yellow tinge for the red and auburn, and the pink for the real or ash blonde.

A huge corsage worn with tailored clothes or heavy coats somehow has a foreign look. If it be a much befrilled affair with chiffon streamers, it requires a soft afternoon or evening frock to make a background for it. A plain bunch of violets or one with a bright flower in it does look well with such a suit, and is in perfectly good taste.

A long stemmed rose or two, when worn on the street, run through one's belt, may strike a happy note with some girls—but it requires a slim, stylish young thing to make this a pleasing way to treat a rose. Somehow a tall vase yawns emptily in the background.

Almost any type may break into a high note of color, with the tiny boutonnieres one sees in the shops. They serve ofttimes to brighten up an old suit or an old dress. They're smart and universally becoming to fat and lean, long and short.

I saw at a tea recently a girl wearing a very dark brown satin dress of lovely style and texture. At her waist she had pinned a large violet corsage, with the center of marigold. The effect was charming. With her was a handsome gray haired woman wearing a dark blue serge of equally good tailoring. Her corsage was large and it was made of the pale yellow Aaron Ward roses and cornflowers. O, lovely! Her hat was trimmed in cornflowers, and there was just a touch of pale yellow in the vest of the dress. These two spoke of the possibilities of fitting flowers into the frame and doing it so prettily as to make one observer, at least, remember it for some time.

In contrast there was a woman of gross proportions done up in a light gray dress, an indifferent black hat, and three long stemmed red carnations. "All wrong," you registered against her, and she unconsciously vouched for your registration by looking the part.

The saving grace of flowers is displayed most often in an evening gown, when the combinations of colors you had in mind at buying prove not as successful as you hoped. A flower or little bunch of flowers may save the day. One of the most fashionable dressmakers in America told me that many a time she would have lost a sale after making up an expensive gown if it weren't for the touch of color of the flower, chosen to save the situation.

But grabbing off any old flower will not serve. She was an artist, and she said she had become one by studying flower combinations, and seeing which ones worked out most happily.

The language of flowers would suit moods rather than types, but I thought you might like to know the meanings of them all. However, as I warned you, don't think just because you are a kind person you must wear blue bells, or because you move quickly you must pin a larkspur upon you. Because the language of flowers is poetry, while the wearing of them is prose.

Answers to Inquiries.

JACQUELINE: The back of the tongue is often covered with a thickened, decomposing substance which may extend forward to the tip and cause visible coating of the tongue. This condition is often the cause of bad breath where there is no actual disease to account for it. Scraping off these masses from the back of the tongue as far back as one can reach with the ring of one handle of a pair of scissors will remove the bad smelling material. Many persons do not know the base of the tongue is often the site from which bad breath arises and attribute it to catarrh. You want to find out at once if you have any throat disorder.

ANNETTE: After the shampoo is the time to apply any tonic or ointment. The pores are more open then and absorb the remedies readily. Applying a tonic directly before the shampoo would be a waste of material and energy. Of course, you will get benefit as well from applying it the second and the third and every other day after the shampoo. I have a formula for a ripping good hair tonic. Send stamped, addressed envelope and tell whether your hair is oily or dry.

* *

EYELIDS: If the veil is the cause of your eye strain why in the world do you wear it? Didn't it occur to you that that would be a good idea? Large figures in veils and dots are not recommended for eye health. It will profit you little if you gain a reputation for dashing veils if you lose your sight. Be sensible, for goodness sake!

MISS Q. J.: In massaging the lines about your mouth you should very gently pinch the part as you massage with an upward lift. Use only the stroking movement. Massage the throat with the same upward stroking movement.

* *

SHINY NOSE: Keep a bottle of alcohol on your dressing stand and with a piece of clean absorbent cotton rub the face over a couple of times a day with it. It's cleansing, too, if there is a tendency to pimples.

LOUISE: Cocoa butter and cocoanut oil are not the same. Both are nourishing to the skin and are used for massaging neck and bust. They are too heavy for use on the face. You can train your eyebrows by brushing them night and morning with a little eyebrow brush. I have a tonic for the growth of eyebrows and eyelashes which I shall be glad to send to you, if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

MOTHER: The best way to teach a child distinct and refined speech is to let her hear it in the home. You will find children who have gone through school falling back on some peculiar accent or some grammatical error because it is used in the home. The number of people who grow up handicapped by hasty, slurred, harsh, disagreeable speech and voice is great. The fault is invariably with the parents who refused to give the children the advantage that a refined, melodious voice and correct speech in themselves would impart.

MRS. B.: I do not approve of your using patent medicines and chemical nostrums advertised as bust developers. Some of them contain drugs that will temporarily stimulate, but which finally dry and atrophy the glands and are extremely detrimental in the long run.

* *

NECTARINE: I guess every woman has had that trouble this winter. I never saw so many dirty necks before. The soft coal and grime seem to have chosen the fur around the neck as a nice resting place and, consequently, the neck is the sufferer. As soon as you get home take a clean towel and wipe the fur off carefully with it. And then it will have to be cleaned occasionally, too. Wear a bit of tulle of a becoming shade, or maline, to protect the neck.

CORNS PEEL OFF PAINLESSLY

There's Only One Genuine Corn-Peeler—That's "Gets-It."

There's only one happy way to get rid of any corn or callus, and that's the painless-peel-off way. "Gets-It" is the only corn remedy in the world that does it that way—effectively, thoroughly. Why get down on the floor, tie yourself up into a knot, and have to fool with "packagey" plasters, greasy ointments that rub off, sticky tape, and digging knives and scissors, when you can peel off your corn or callus in one complete piece, peacefully and surely, with magic, simple, easy "Gets-It"? It takes 2 or 3 seconds to apply "Gets-It"; you use 2 or 3 drops, and that's all. "Gets-It" does the rest! Get rid of that corn-pain at once, so that you can work and play without corn torture. Be sure to use "Gets-It." It never fails.

Corn-Pain Is Eased—the Corn Is Doomed!

"Gets-It," the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Manufactured by

To the right is the "simple" marquisette—
And the villainess—Charlotte Granville was swathed in cut jet and embossed velvet and net—
MAUDE MARTIN EVERS

By Maude Martin Evers.

THE "pièce de resistance" as far as clothes go in the play at Powers theater—"The Saving Grace"—is a flesh colored taffeta worn graciously by Miss Laura Hope Crews.

One learns during the first act that the family funds are running low and so all the gowns of the mistress and her niece, Miss Betty Murray, are exceedingly simple except this flesh colored taffeta. That belonged to Mrs. Corbett when she was the colonel's wife—a remnant of former grandeur, as it were.

The most preoccupied husband realizes that these "simple little gowns" bring home the largest bills, and this pink one is a shining example. Of course it was designed for the play and by no obscure artist. It is merely a high wasted, plain little dress, but observe the decoration running around the neck and down the front in two rows. The silk was plaited in tiny folds and the edges box plaited.

Miss Crews' maid told in confidence that the French seamstress who was employed on that particular part of the dress almost quit her job. She thought she would go mad over the infinite detail.

It is an easy pattern to copy—the bottom of the skirt is weighted and it opens in the back. The sash is of old blue chiffon and fringed with silver. Charming color scheme, pale pink, old blue, and a touch of silver. The double edge row of box plaiting down the front is caught with designs of silver and tiny French flowers at intervals.

When the family (in the play) became quite poor, second act and third, Miss Crews appeared in another high waisted gown of figured marquisette. Although we are to believe that the lack of silk signified poverty, on close examination, lo! it is another example of the cunning hand of a prosperous designer! Figured marquisette in which the predominating color is blue—dull blue on the turquoise side, and those bands of trimming you observe in the sketch are plaited folds of blue velvet ribbon. Also the rosette at her waist. Hemstitching is used and cords edge the folds about the skirt and the puritanlike collar.

Miss Betty Murray wears the lavender georgette gown, which is effective and youthful. Long, loose sleeves and surplice blouse. The skirt is layer after layer of georgette, after the petals of a flower. A girdle of silk about the waist finishing in a satiny bow in back heightens its beauty.

The last touch is a pale yellow flower tucked in the front of the girdle. The result reminds one of a delicious bonbon.

Little grains of dandruff mean good-by to Hair

Sloan's Liniment Kills Pain

Applying this Paste Actually Removes Hairs

(Beauty Notes)

Merely applying an inexpensive paste to a hairy surface, say beauty specialists, will dissolve the hairs. This paste is made by mixing a little water with some powdered Delatone; after about 2 mintes it is rubbed off and the skin washed. This simple method not only removes every trace of hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. To insure success with this treatment, be careful to get real Delatone.

CREAM OR LENTEN SOUPS.

If meatless soups were not actually invented by church cooks they were earliest perfected and made famous in ecclesiastical cookery. The most famous inventor of the meatless or "maigre" soups was given by his master, Pope Leo X., the name which translated into English is Jack of Lent (Jean de Carême). As a proper name this Carême, which means Lent, later was borne by one of the most distinguished cooks in the history of the culinary art.

Most of these meatless soups have been thick, therefore have been called "potages." The most famous of all these and one of the standbys in the homes of the French poor people was named for a great soldier and statesman. This "potage à la Conde" was a purée of red beans.

To call these soups vegetable soups does not fit the case for us, because our vegetable soups have had a broth foundation. No maigre soup is a broth, not does it contain a broth. It can never properly be called a bouillon nor a consommé.

In my own practice these broths are so rarely used that I fancy the whole world is a little less devoted to them, but I may be mistaken. However, one who devotes practically her whole time to cooking and the subject of eating unconsciously follows many of the wider practices in food use.

That the French are so devoted to the maigre soups—not so devoted as the Italians—seems the more remarkable because broths have been to them as the breath of life. The church turned their devotion otherwheres by its proscriptions from their meat diet. But it has always been easy for them to have broths because out of the merest scraps or out of the barest bone and nice vegetable seasonings they could concoct something which could be appropriately so called. The Italians have used the meat scraps for other favorite purposes, and made their soups of vegetables or of cereal substances. But this is another and a long story.

The French have been successful in making endless varieties of maigre soups for the same reason that they have varied their broths by slight differences in seasonings.

An English writer who was rather disgusted with French cookery and perhaps tired of hearing that England had but one sauce wrote:

"The French have but one broth known by ten different names: Brunoise, jardiniére, phintanier, chiffonade, macedoine, julienne, paysanne, Flamande, mitonage, croûte au pot, and as Sam Weller would say, 'It's the flavoring as does it.' It is simply bouillon, plain broth, weak at that. The addition of a cabbage, or a leek, or a common or beggar's crust, will change a potage à la jardiniére into a croûte au pot, and vice versa."

But for all the scorn of this accusation we have here a fundamental principle of soup making. Learn to make good foundations of any sort and you may work out all sorts of pleasing variations of it. That foundation may be a vegetable purée, or a vegetable liquid, or a white sauce, or plain milk, or luxurious egg, or even a butter sauce with egg for the thickening, just as well as a meat stock.

Of all the concoctions of cookery there is not one to my mind in which a clean taste counts so much as in a soup. The maigre cream soups are for this reason not so likely to be pushed way, after one taste, as are the thick soups of other types with a meat broth foundation. The most horrid of these in general are those called velouté (velvet) and the English mulligatawnies.

These always remind me of what a woman in London told me about being soup taster at all public places for her husband. If she told him the soup was "cosommé de bouillon" he "passed it up."

With age and acquired wisdom, with experience, observation, study of physiology, interest in what our great biologists tell us about the need every human being has for milk, I have become more and more convinced that there is absolutely no thing we put on our tables that is quite so worth while as the milk or cream soups. Perhaps that part of my eating creed which pertains to these soups might read somehting like this:

Milk or cream soups hold first place among all liquid foods and medicines as well, for they are genuinely curative. They should be given to children every day to help in the consumption of the requisite quart of milk a day. The mother carrying child needs them above all other foods, to protect her own substances. The nursing mother must have a requisite portion of milk in her diet, and there is no more agreeable fashion of serving it than this.

When any human being is fatigued there is no better food than a hot cream soup. Cream soups are invaluable when one has a cold or any other mucous trouble, like influenza. Cream soups give the best sort of nourishment, no matter what the occasion. They are supremely worth while when it is necessary to rehydrate our bodies after loss of liquids, as in the case of diarrhea.

The simplest, least expensive, and easiest of all these soups to make is one of potato, and there are as many ways of making this, almost, as of varying our dish of potatoes. The potato adds to the milk several invaluable food elements, and increases the energy value of the soup. The butter used in making nearly all cream soups may be added to such an extent as to bring a half pint of this soup up above many portions of meat in energy value.

Nearly every vegetable and green that we use may contribute a seasoning or considerable substance to one of these soups, and a great number of combinations may be made of these and other differences made by varying proportions. Yet in old fashioned cookery about the only vegetable used in making a milk soup was the tomato, and tomato bisque soups, though counted elegant in some households and particularly in boarding houses, are the least worth while as food, contribute less than all other milk soups.

Perhaps one of the reasons why cream soups have not made headway in many a home where they would be appreciated and enjoyed is that vegetable cookery has not been perfected in that home. It is rather hopeless for a poor vegetable cook to attempt making a superfine soup of this type. Every bit of water natively in the vegetable needs to be retained for flavoring, and must not be diluted. Vegetable waters for making cream soups are more or less of a delusion and a snare. I never have such to use unless, for instance, I purposely make a celery soup stock or cook cabbage in certain ways.

Of late I have frequently made a one person portion of cream soup after exactly the same manner I make a rather superfine white sauce in which to serve vegetables on toast or as follows:

Melt one or two tablespoons of butter in an aluminum saucepan, add to it a tablespoon of finely cut up onion, the same of celery, and a bit of green pepper or any two of these. Cover the pan and over a low fire these will soften and pour out their water content in five minutes. Add one or two level tablespoons of flour, according to desired thickness, stir till perfectly blended with other ingredients, add one cup of milk, stir, and cook until the whole thickens and season with salt, a tiny bit of pepper, and two or three gratings of nutmeg. The saucepan may first be rubbed with garlic.

This poured over toasted bread makes at least half a meal, and a highly palatable one. If only the onion is used and half a cup to a cup of cooked celery is added one may have a delicious mixture to serve on toast. Macaroni previously cooked in but a little water, if of the right type, is good in this sauce or soup, and always when it is served as a sauce a half cup of grated cheese or no more than two tablespoons of fine cheese increases its food value and palatability. At no time must the sauce be thinned with water in or from poorly cooked vegetables. It is essentially one of those delicate things the worth of which can easily be destroyed.

Fried out salt pork, if not scorched, is an excellent fat to use for a milk soup of potato, canned corn, an imitation Bortsch soup, etc. Cut in tiny dice, the fried out pork may finally be used as a garnish for a rather hearty soup.

When it is desirable to use but little fat of any sort and to add it last in a soup tapioca is undoubtedly the best thickening for the milk. Egg is used to thicken maigre soups that contain no milk, as well as many which do. The French use it for quite an endless variety of soups for their thickening.

Potato is itself a thickening and is used as such with corn, cabbage, lettuce, spinach, etc., but soups made of it sometimes contain another thickening agent.

To be successful in making many varieties of cream soup it is necessary to understand the worth of a single stalk of celery, even a coarse stalk, which can be scraped clean of its thready outside to the soft pith, cut up fine and used.

One of the easiest and quickest ways to cook this for seasoning of a cream soup is to cut it fine, and cook it in butter in a covered kettle over a fire that will not brown the butter. This brings out its essence without diluting it.

For instance, there is cream of parsley soup, which some like for its mildness and its green shade. The parsley is prepared, cooked in a little water until tender, put through a sieve and added to a prepared cream sauce-like base. With careful seasoning this makes a pleasant and mild soup. But it may be brought up 50 or 100 per cent in character if it is added to the stalk of celery "sweated" as described.

The soup pot is only for hotels and large families where it may easily become an anathema. These cream soups do not require a soup pot, although if it pleases us we may serve them from a marmit. A cup is perhaps best and most suitable for most of them, but the rimmed soup plate seems best for others. It is a good deal a matter of taste or perhaps of whim.

Cream Sauce Soup Foundation.

Allow one tablespoon of butter and one tablespoon of flour to each cup of milk, and put together like white sauce by slightly melting butter, blending the flour with it, adding milk, and stirring and cooking until mixture boils and is thickened. Do not continue to boil. Salt, pepper, and a grate of nutmeg go well as seasonings, no matter what the vegetable added.

Tapioca Foundation.

Allow one teaspoon of granulated tapioca to each cup of milk, cooking the two together for about fifteen minutes over a small fire. Butter to season may be added last to this soup, and that is the best way to add it when the soup is for the invalid.

Plain Milk Foundation.

Hot milk may be added to well mashed and whipped potato, stirring until the desired consistency is reached. No thickening is needed when hot milk is added to mashed carrot and similar purées.

Vegetable Stock Foundation.

Celery cut fine and cooked with an equal quantity of water or a little more makes an excellent vegetable stock which may be used like milk in making a white sauce. Soups made with this stock are called cream soups because to be excellent they need finally the addition of one or two tablespoons of real cream per cup to perfect them. To the celery may be added onion and other vegetables in making a stock.

Cream of Turnip Soup.

Allow one cup of mashed turnip to each cup of milk thickened with tapioca. Cut yellow turnip in dice, add a few spoonfuls of cold water, and put on the stove in a small, closely covered aluminum kettle, and cook over a bit of fire. Turnip should always be cooked over a low fire and with a small amount of water. It contains almost 90 per cent of water, which should not be diluted any more than milk should be watered. A hot fire and long cooking makes it strong. Rightly cooked turnip makes a bland and agreeable cream soup.

Cream of Onion Soup.

The quickest way to cook onions to use with tapioca foundation is to cut them fine, put into a pan which can be covered closely in which has been melted a tablespoon of butter to each two or three onions. Over just the right amount of fire these when closely covered will cook in from five to ten minutes. There never should be enough fire under them to brown the onions.

All measurements are made level in these recipes. A teaspoon of regulation size holds sixty drops. Three level teaspoons equal one level tablespoon. Sixteen level tablespoons equal one cup (one-halp pint). The half-pint measuring cup is the standard measuring cup used in modern cookery.

Puree of Chestnuts.

Cut half inch crosses in the flat side of Italian chestnut shells; parboil in boiling water three minutes, drain dry. To each pint of nuts allow one teaspoon of oil or melted butter; put chestnuts into a dripping pan, add oil, and stir and shake until each nut is coated lightly with the oil; then let "sweat" in a moderate oven five minutes; shaking the pan occasionally. With a small, sharp pointed knife peel off the shells and brown skin. Keep nuts covered while shelling is in progress to expedite the work. Cover the shelled nuts with chicken stock or meat broth and cook until nuts are tender. Drain and press through a ricer or a puree strainer; dress with butter and cream and season with peper and salt; beat thoroughly (the puree should be the consistency of mashed potato). Use as directed. This puree is delicious served with broiled lamb chops. Serve at a luncheon.

Baked Rhubarb and Sultana Raisins.

Pick over and remove the stems from two-thirds cup of sultana raisins; cover with boiling water and let cook slowly until raisins are tender, and water reduced almost to dryness. Wipe and remove the leaves and root ends from one pound of southern grown rhubarb; do not peel; cut in one-half inch pieces crosswise and mix with prepared raisins and one cup of sugar. Bake in an earthen casserole or pudding dish until rhubarb is just tender. Add no water. Chill and serve with hot tea biscuit.

Southern Cabbage au Gratin.

Remove the outer wilted leaves from a medium sized head of southern grown cabbage. Cut in halves lengthwise; remove the hard stalk and cut cabbage in quarters; slice two quarters in one inch strips crosswise. Cook one-half the cabbage in boiling salted water until tender; drain. Melt four tablespoons of butter in a sauce pan, add four tablespoons of flour mixed with one-half teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper, and a few grains of cayenne; stir until frothy, then pour on gradually while stirring constantly two cups of hot milk; add one-half cup of grated cheese. Arrange a layer of cabbage in a buttered baking dish, cover with a layer of sauce and repeat until both cabbage and sauce are used, having the last layer of the sauce. Cover top with a layer of seasoned cracker crumbs. Bake in a hot oven until crumbs are browned.

Porterhouse Steak with Onions.
(Adirondack Style.)

Peel four medium sized white onions; cut a thin slice from both top and root ends, then cut in halves crosswise. Arrange them in a well buttered agate dripping pan, cut side up; rub each slice lightly with a bruised clove of garlic and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cream two tablespoons of butter, add two tablespoons of fine bread crumbs and one teaspoon of finely chopped parsley. Spread this mixture evenly over tops of onions and bake in a moderate oven until tender and a golden brown, basting often with its own juice and butter; add a little more butter if needed. Broil a porterhouse steak in the usual way; remove from broiler to hot serving platter and spread with butter and surround with the baked onions. Serve at once.

Spinach Salad.

Wash and pick over carefully one-half peck of spinach, heat gradually and let cook in its own juice if young (if old, add one quart of salted water) twenty-five minutes. Drain, pressing out all the water possible, chop fine, season with salt, pepper, a little French dressing, lemon juice, or vinegar, moisten with melted butter. Pack solidly into small timbale molds, chill and garnish with rings of hard cooked eggs, yolk pressed through sieve and heaped in a pyramid on top of molds. Serve with green mayonnaise.

Herring, Cold Boiled Potato, and Egg Salad.

Cover salt herring with boiling water and cook fifteen minutes. Drain, cool, and separate into flakes; there should be one cup. Add an equal measure of cold boiled potatoes cut in one-fourth inch cubes, and one-third the measure of finely chopped white of hard cooked eggs. Mix lightly but thoroughly and moisten with french dressing, cover and let stand in a cold place one or more hours. Beat one-third cup of heavy cream until stiff, add the pulp of two pimientos rubbed through a sieve. Fold this mixture into two-thirds cup of mayonnaise dressing. Moisten ingredients with dressing and arrange in a mound on a nest of crisp well bleached chicory leaves or crisp water cress.

Shrimp and French Pea Salad.

Remove shrimps from can, wash thoroughly in cold water, dry on towels and remove intestinal vein (a dark threadlike process lying in narrow groove in back). Break shrimps in three or four pieces (there should be two cups), reserving seven of the most perfect ones. Marinate broken shrimps with French dressing. Drain French peas from liquor in the can (there should be one cup), marinate, let stand one hour. Drain both shrimp and peas, toss together and moisten with mayonnaise dressing. Arrange in a mound, surround with a border of well bleached endive or lettuce heart leaves. Garnish with the whole shrimps, arranged crosswise at right angles in center. Sprinkle with finely chopped parsley.

Jellied Chocolate

Put two cups of boiling water, one-eighth teaspoon of salt, and one and one-half squares of unsweetened chocolate into a saucepan. Place on range and cook until chocolate is melted, then continue cooking three minutes, stirring constantly. Soften one-third of a package of granulated gelatin in one-fourth cup of cold water; then pour the boiling mixture over it. Stir until gelatin is dissolved, add two tablespoons of granulated sugar and one teaspoon of vanilla. Pour into individual molds (previously wet on the inside with cold water), set in the refrigerater to harden. Unmold on a cold serving platter and serve with whipped cream sweetened and flavored delicately with vanilla.

Carrots a la Poulette.

Wash, scrape, and cut new carrots in small straws one and one-half inches long; there should be two and one-half cups. Blanch and lett stand for five minutes. Drain and cook until tender in boiling salted water to cover, to which add two teaspoons of butter. Drain again. Melt three teaspoons of butter in a saucepan, add two and one-half tablespoons of flour, stir to a smooth paste and add gradually, while stirring constantly, one cup of chicken or white stock, one-half cup of hot cream, and one teaspoon of finely chopped chives. Reheat carrots in sauce, add one-half teaspoon of lemon juice, season with salt and pepper. Remove from range and add slowly the yolks of two eggs slightly beaten.

Steamed Rhubarb Pudding.

Cream one-third cup of butter or substitute, add gradually one-half cup of sugar, stirring constantly; add the yolks of two eggs beaten until thick and light. Sift together two cups of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, and one-half teaspoon of salt; add to first mixture alternately with one-half cup of milk or water; then cut and fold in the whites of two eggs beaten until stiff, and one cup of pink rhubarb wiped and cut (without peeling) in one-half inch pieces. When well blended turn into a buttered pudding mold, filling it to two-thirds its depth; cover and steam one and one-half hours. Remove from mold to hot serving platter and serve with hard sauce.

Ramequins of Macaroni and Oysters.

Cook one-half cup of macaroni broken in one inch pieces in chicken broth or white stock until tender. Drain and chop rather fine. Melt two tablespoons of butter in a saucepan; add the macaroni and four tablespoons of grated cheese and one-half cup of cream; season to suit the taste with salt and pepper; stir constantly until the boiling point is reached. Wash and pick over two dozen select oysters (if oysters are large cut them in halves), drain, and mix thoroughly with macaroni mixture. Remove at once from the range and turn into well buttered shallow earthen ramequins. Sprinkle tops with fine bread crumbs mixed with grated cheese, allowing one part of cheese to two parts of crumbs. Bake in a hot oven until heated through and crumbs are browned. Serve in ramequins as the chief dish for luncheon or supper.

.....Eggs Baked in Fish Cups. .....

Wash salt codfish in cold water to free it of salt, then pick in small pieces. There should be one cup packed solidly. Simmer fish fifteen minutes in hot water to cover. Drain and set aside until cold. Add two cups of soft bread crumbs and two eggs beaten until thick and lemon tinted, season with salt (if needed) and white pepper. Mix thoroughly and shape into six balls, then with the fingers form mixture into deep saucers or cups deep enough to hold an egg. Arrange cups in a well greased shallow pan one and one-half inches apart, brush lightly with melted butter, and slip a fresh egg into each cup. Put a dot of butter on top of each egg, sprinkle lightly with salt and paprika, and bake in a moderate oven until eggs are firm. Remove to hot serving platter and garnish with slices of lemon sprinkled with finely chopped parsley.

Jellied Chocolate.

Put two cups of boiling water, one-eighth teaspon of salt, and one and one-half squares of unsweetened chocolate into a saucepan. Place on range and cook until chocolate is melted, then continue cooking three minutes, stirring constantly. Soften one-third of a package of granulated gelatin in one-fourth cup of cold water, pour the boiling mixture over it. Stir until gelatin is dissolved, add two tablespoons of granulated sugar and one teaspoon of vanilla. Pour into individual moulds, previously wet on the inside with cold water, and set in the refrigerator to harden. Unmold on a cold serving platter and serve with whipped cream sweetened and flavor delicately with vanilla.

If your Child is Cross, Feverish and Sick.

Look, Mother! If Little Tongue is Coated, Cleanse the Inactive Bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is that they become clogged with waste, the liver becomes sluggish, the stomach is disordered, and then your little one becomes cross, feverish, and does not eat, sleep or behave naturally. The breath is bad, and system "stuffy" with a cold; the child has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste-matter, sour bile and undigested food pass out of the system, and you have a healthy, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," made by the California Fig Syrup Co., which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Look for name "California." Accept no Fig Syrup but "California."

Real Love Stories

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

THE MAYOR'S DAUGHTER.

SEVERAL years ago a young man of my acquaintance was working his way through medical school in Chicago. As he wanted to specialize in eye work after he had acquired his degree, he took up the study of refraction on the side, and by fitting glasses evenings and holidays he made enough to pay his expenses.

The end of his third year, however, found him in danger of a physical breakdown from overwork, and he felt he must devise some method of earning the expenses of the coming year by which he would have the much needed benefits of fresh air. After much thought he decided to go out into the little towns, and going from house to house solicit orders for glasses. Not knowing where to go, he left it to chance, and going into the railway station threw a ten dollar bill on the desk and told the clerk to give him a ticket as far west as that would cover.

> Do you know a real love story—one that is stranger than fiction? It is the idea that is wanted. No attention will be paid to literary style. "The Tribune" will pay $5 for every story published. No manuscripts returned. Address Doris Blake, "The Sunday Tribune," Chicago.

The next morning he alighted from the train in a little Iowa town, found a boarding place, and at once began to canvass the town for orders. After working the place pretty well, he rented an old horse and buggy and made one and two day trips to neighboring hamlets, and it was during one of these trips that the romance of his life began.

During his second day in one of these villages he was arrested and brought before the mayor on a charge of selling goods without a license. The mayor was a pompous and rather ungrammatical man who talked largely about this dire violation of the law and of the fine he intended to impose.

The young man protested vigorously and a heated argument ensued, during which the young daughter of the mayor entered the room. After listening to the discussion for a few minutes, she interceded for the culprit and secured his release with a mere reprimand. My friend would have liked to for a while, but was afraid father might change his mind, so thanking her earnestly, he left, carrying with him a pleasant impression of the strange girl who had befriended him.

The next week he returned to Chicago, and in the rush of the old life the whole adventure soon became an infrequently recurring memory.

Two years later, when an interne in a city hospital, he was called one night to see a patient, a young woman who looked vaguely familiar. She was too sick to talk, and he puzzled every time he saw her as to who she was and finally one day, after her fever had left her, he asked her if she had ever seen him, and she told him that she was the little country girl of his adventure.

After that he spent a great deal of time in her room, and when she left the hospital to return to Iowa they were engaged to be married. As he had to start a practice, it was three years before they could be married, but they finally were and have lived happily ever since. Z. K.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Sally Joy Brown

> I want to be the medium through which the friend indeed and the friend in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be glad to be of service to you. Please write on but one side of the paper.

Invalid Made Happy.

"I wish to thank the readers for their kind and generous response to my request for magazines. As I cannot write a personal letter to all, I take this means to say that the readers have made me the happiest shut-in in Chicago, with their kindness in sending me so many fine magazines, which I appreciate and read with much enjoyment. D. E."

Planning a Surprise.

"About three months ago a woman came to my house from her home in the country bringing her three children, the youngest 1½ years of age. She had to undergo a series of operations at a Chicago hospital and I am pleased to state that while not cured her view on life's future is brighter. Her devotion to her children has touched the heart of all of us and whatever she wants for them seems to worry us till she gets it. She is going back home to her husband in two or three weeks when she gets a little stronger and she has expressed a desire for a baby bed, as the doctor says her baby must sleep alone; and also an icebox to keep things more sanitary this coming summer. We intend to send ahead of her many little things we see she needs so that when she gets home there will be a little surprise for her. The writer has a motor truck and will be pleased to call for an icebox and a baby bed and pay something for them if the holders of such things are willing to part with them. Your column is such a sunshine spreader that we decided to appeal to you. A. H. M."

I present your petition with warm wishes for its success.

Ink Stain on White Waist.

"Could you tell me how to remove an ink stain from my white waist? "F. D."

Perhaps the most common stain and at the same time one of the most difficult that we have to deal with is ink. If it were possible for us to know the composition of the particular ink which has caused the damage it would then be a comparatively simple matter to remove the spot. In the first place, cold water should be applied, and often it will wash out a fresh ink stain. Here, as in the treatment of all other stains, gentle means should be used first. If cold water is ineffective, then lemon juice and salt or milk is the next to try. Using lemon juice and salt the stain is covered with a paste made of the two and placed in the sunshine. If the stain is not removed before it has dried more lemon juice should be added.

Wants Something New.

"I wonder if there is not some one who has some water color or oil studies they would like to exchange with me. I am painting the same things over for want of something new. J. L."

Blind and Lonely.

"Your corner has helped so many in need; perhaps it can also help me. I am a colored woman, blind, and left alone since the recent death of my husband. I am lonely and perhaps some of the readers would be willing to call on me to read to me or to take me out for walks now and then. I should like to go to church, but have no one to guide me there and back. "C. W."

It would be charitable to do this small service. Mrs. C. W. lives on the south side, so I hope to hear from some kindly disposed neighbor.

All Kinds of Time to Read.

"May I have one of the Bibles offered through your department? I am a patient at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium. I am lonesome and have all kinds of time to read. I wish I could get a large Bible. J. L."

The Bibles had been given away before you made application; perhaps there is another one for you. If so I have your name on file.

Some Old Clothes.

"Will some kind reader send me some old outworn clothes they have no use for? If they are misfit I will gladly make over. I am a widow with five children—boys 14 and 12, girls 8, 4, and 1. It may mean little to you and will be a great help to me. "Mrs. J. P."

This is a worthy case. Won't you please gather together any outgrown clothes you may have and send to me for the widow's address?

Supplied with Reading Matter.

"May I thank you and all the generous readers for the magazines and books sent to me? P. M."

This is from a tuberculosis patient at the county hospital—made happy by generous friends of the friendless.

Discarded Ear Trumpet.

"I have a discarded ear trumpet and if you know of some worthy person I shall be happy to send it to him. "G. J."

Many thanks. Any one in need of an ear trumpet may have the address of C. J.

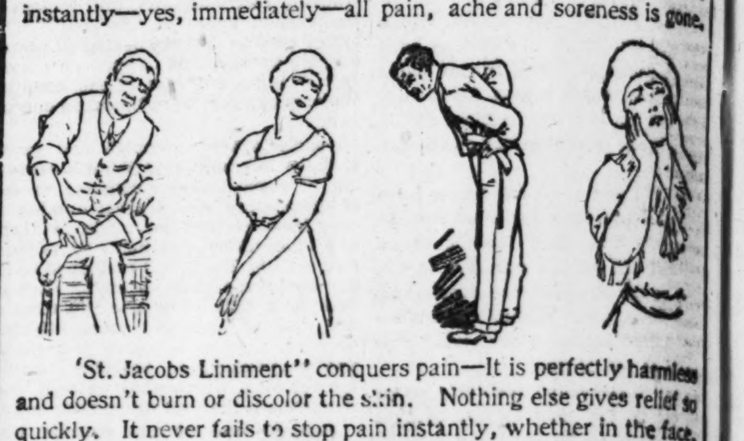
Keep a Baby Book.

"For each of our three children we keep a baby book, with records of weights, special occasions, etc. I have two extra baby records which I would be glad to pass on to some mothers who would enjoy having them. "Mrs. H. C."

This is a nice idea. If you have a new arrival in the family and wish to be the possessor of one of the books I have the address.



RUB PAIN AWAY WITH "ST. JACOB'S LINIMENT"

Redfern
THE PREFERRED FRONT-LACE
Corset

"It is a perfectly wonderful corset." A perfectly wonderful corset must be one with correct and graceful lines, beautiful material and trimming. Its value must not be superficial, because it must be dependably made in parts unseen. And it must be comfortable.

Front-Lace Redfern typify the designing skill of The Warner Brothers Company and are, in truth, "perfectly wonderful corsets."

Redfern corsets are sold by the leading stores everywhere, because preferred by discriminating women. Their preference is your assurance of satisfaction.

Now is the time to Plant!

Nature's factory whistle is blowing. Can't you hear it? It is the morning song of the robin calling to you to start your garden. The earth is waking. The first green tints of growing things suggest messes of tender peas; bunches of spicy, baby radishes and onions, new beans, spinach, chard and tomatoes; fresh, crisp lettuce; little salmon-pink carrots and sweet, crimson beets and juicy corn, to say nothing of flowers in profusion. The work shop is waiting. The old garden patch is itching for the spading fork and hoe. At a nearby dealer's store, already feeling the urge to grow, are your packets of

FERRY'S SEEDS

Here under the Ferry label is something more than seeds that will grow. Here is sixty years' experience in seed cultivation—the care and effort of the greatest organization in the world devoted to seed selection and testing.

In buying Ferry's Seeds you buy pedigree—the assurance of pure-bred quality. Each kind of Ferry's Seeds inherits from ancestor plants established family strains of luscious tenderness, flavor and abundant growth.

Each kind of Ferry's Seeds, vegetable or flower, is grown in that part of the world where it reaches its greatest perfection. These crops are shipped to Detroit and in our great trial gardens are selected and tested by actual growing before they are offered for sale. Thus we make as sure for you as is humanly possible that all the ancestral virtues are there, ready to answer the call of Spring and reproduce in your garden in all their perfection.

Professional gardeners, of years of experience, value the extra care we take to build up strains of quality, to eradicate blemishes.

Plant Ferry's Seeds and enjoy the extra certainty of garden success that our extra care insures. Unknown seeds are dear at any price. Now is the time to plant.

The new 1919 Ferry "Seed Annual" will be sent you on request. Ferry's Seeds are sold by dealers everywhere.

PLANTING GUIDE FOR THIS VICINITY.

[Copyright: 1919: By J. F. H. Heide.]

The accompanying table lists the more common of the vegetables and culinary herbs suitable for this climate, and the numerals under the heading of "zones" correspond with the three atmospheric zones illustrated last Thursday. Thus "1" indicates that a plant will repay the effort in the partial shade, and congested neighborhoods of great industrial centers; "2" that it is tolerant of occasional light smoke; "3" that it requires full sunshine and comparatively pure air.

The dates are, of course, only approximate and planting must be governed by the temperature and condition of the soil about the date given. The fact that some show a date a week earlier than this issue of THE TRIBUNE need not disturb the gardener. The ground will be the more fit now and germination and early growth will be the more rapid on that account. The table should be preserved for future reference.

Strange Weddings Contest.

A Screaming Affair.

When the kid brother of the bride let loose a mouse just as the minister said, "Will you take this man," etc., the bride let out a wild scream and grabbing the minister around the neck shouted "Save me, save me!" The only thing that saved the situation at all was that the other girl attendants saw the mouse and began screaming, too. Otherwise the bride might have lost a perfectly good husband, as without the mouse as evidence it would have been a hard thing to explain to his satisfaction why she wished to be saved.

Worth Millions.

I had officiated at the wedding of a farm hand and after the ceremony he asked how much he owed me. I answered, "O, just whatever you think it worth." He eyed his bride lovingly, then leaned over and whispered confidentially: "Golly, I ain't no millionaire."

Saved the Day.

Betty and Corporal Jim were having a hurried wedding before his departure. Naturally many details were forgotten in the rush. Just before the ceremony the pastor drew the two aside and asked, "Where is the ring?" Jim stared at Betty in dismay. The minister, noting his confusion, asked, "Aren't you going to use the ring ceremony?" It was Betty that saved the day. "Not this time," she sweetly murmured.

From a Saving Family.

One day a friend of mine came to me and asked me to be a witness to his wedding at the parsonage of a minister. I assented and went along with him. After the ceremony he reached down into his pocket and said to the minister, "How much do you want for your services?" The minister never blinked an eye and said nothing. "All right," my friend said, "here's a dollar for your work." The bride, who came from a saving family, said, "Harry, are you going to give him a whole dollar for that little work?" At this moment any one could have knocked me over with a toothpick.

Getting Even.

A girl I knew was to be married in church on a certain Sunday, but the bridegroom-to-be had been imbibing too freely and did not show up at the appointed time.

We were all surprised to hear later that the girl, a spirited one, had made up with the delinquent young man. However, they went to the altar together the following Sunday. Again the audience was surprised, for the bride, instead of answering "Yes," when the proper time came, emphatically replied "No!" And added: "I will not marry one who could so far forget himself as to fail to attend his own wedding. I am going to leave him as he left me, to stand at the altar alone—humiliated and ashamed."

With that she strutted out of the church, while the bewildered bridegroom thoughtfully scratched his head. He must have gotten an idea while doing so, for they again made up. And the strangest part was that when the wedding really did take place they were able to ignore their previous humiliations and were as cheerful and happy as a couple of children. Having gotten even with him, she could, it seemed, easily forgive and forget.

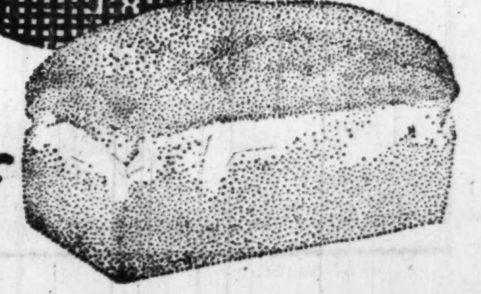
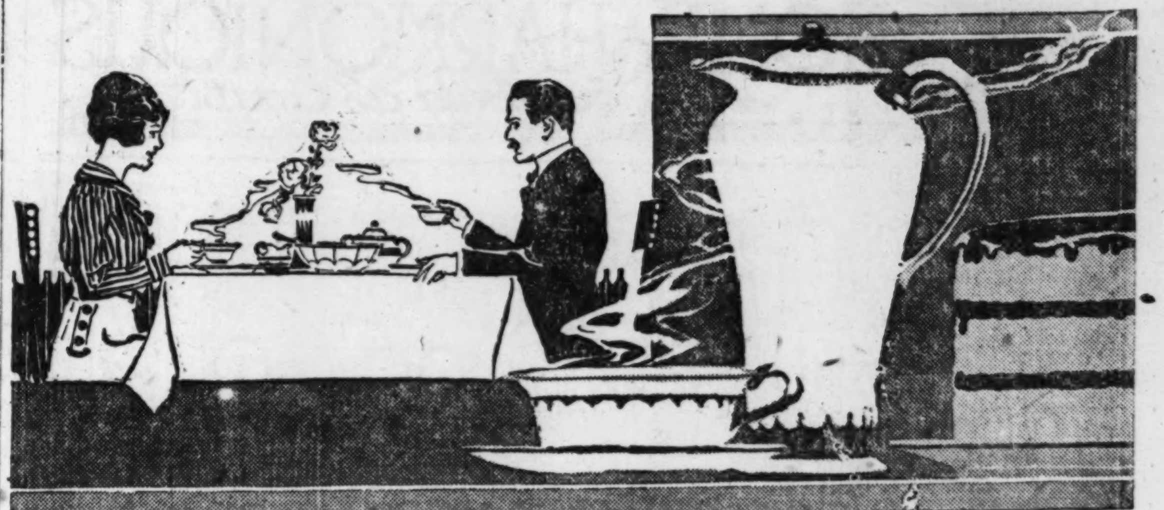
The Same Sweet Flavor in Every Loaf





"Let's have Cocoa for a change!"

"LET'S have Cocoa for a change!" Variety is the spice of appetite. Tea and coffee taste better, too, when you drink a delicious cup of Bunte's once a day.

Drink Bunte's Cocoa for breakfast! Food and drink in one, its delicious chocolate flavor is the "most popular in America." The rarely sustaining qualities put you in good working trim.

The Perfect Blend

In the Cocoa bean are all the essential qualities that go to make chocolate and cocoa. But there's as much difference in the blend of cocoa beans as in the blend of teas or coffees. The real chocolate flavor of Bunte's results from the perfect blend of only the highest grade cocoa beans.

Bunte's Dutch Process

The Dutch Process by which Bunte's is manufactured takes out the bitter center of the cocoa bean—removes the bitter shell—and gives you the pure meat—100% soluble—so pure and rich it takes the place of chocolate for all cooking purposes.

Purity You Can Prove Yourself

By making a cup of Bunte's Cocoa you can test its purity yourself. Bunte's Cocoa has all the pure concentrated chocolate flavor of the cocoa bean. With Bunte's there is no waste—no loss.

Cocoa for Many Purposes

There's a place in every meal for Bunte's Cocoa. Cook with it. Bake with it. Give it to the children. Drink it yourself and enjoy this pleasant change from tea and coffee.

When you cook with Bunte Cocoa you serve with satisfaction!

BUNTE BROTHERS Established 1876 Chicago

THE VICTORIAN PERIOD.

BE not scornful of the wax bouquet in its high oval glass case. The little old footstool with its cover done in cross stitch has, evidently, gone back into the past and brought its flowers with it. Is it possible then that the whatnot will return?

Anything is possible, since the antique hunters are keen on the scent of Victorian relics. The whatnot stands for a period in matters mobiliary when quantity of ornamentation was considered more important than quality. The whatnot was the tenement in which dwelt all the knickknacks gathered by the family—yea, even the pink shells from the seashore, Maud, and souvenirs from Niagara Falls.

In those days the gentle housewife was most particular about the dusting, and every morning each one of these treasures was carefully polished with chamois or cheesecloth. But the gentle housewife floated naïvely through a lifetime of domestic equanimity and composure. Existence was not complex then. She wasn't out reading papers on Browning, mixing up with politics, putting over municipal improvement plans, establishing public playgrounds, or looking after the recreation programs of prosperous working girls. No, she had time for her whatnot, which was a sort of family pet.

We willingly accept that from the Victorian period, which happens to be beautiful; for the rubbish we have only a bah and a bye-bye. If the little dog chances to be a quite wonderful china dog, he may crouch upon the mantelpiece and be welcome, but he must be very doggie indeed, if not more so, to catch our attention these days when our eyes are open to the real and closed to the counterfeit. There is much in the old stuff that is quaint, and much that is worthy, but this does not mean that every old bit of rubbish once treasured by Aunt Jane or Cousin Martha should be given a display place of honor. It is like the revival of samplers and queerly embroidered pieces in which roses were always of bright red and leaves of bright green; the mass of it was not worth the endless hours spent upon it, and yet an occasional design thrills with its charm.

The sudden interest in marble is another expression of the Victorian mode. Beautiful consoles for the hall have marble tops, placed in frames of marqueterie or lacquered woods.

These old things are subject to rearrangement and readjustment. In fact, we take the old material and put it in new form. For instance, in one studio we find a pair of old carriage lamps transformed into stunning lighting fixtures for the hall. A favorite trick of the decorators is to translate old trays into serving tables for the dining room or tea tables for the sunroom. Stunning old vases, too clumsy for general use in a small apartment, give themselves gloriously in the lighting scheme and are presto-changed into lamps of beauty and distinction. Old cupboards, with painted interiors, are turned inside out, like a discarded garment, and make attractive screens for the dining room. Candlesticks of glass are subjected to hand decorating and then topped off with shades of white lace and embroidery shades that go into the washtub—and these grace the dressing table.

What can be done with old mirrors is a story in itself. One of the quaint notions of the past was to hang a mirror back to the mantel and place before it some bird or animal made of porcelain, the foolish thing gazing at its own reflection. Suffice to say that the idea attracts attention and sometimes inspires admiration.

In the use and placing of these art objects the greatest discrimination is necessary. But that is true of all art objects. One must have a keen sense of the fitness of things and an understanding of "atmosphere." A little bit of Victorian stuff fills up a vast space; you cannot crowd in more than a suggestion. The mode of today tends toward simplicity and sweeps far away from clutter; we have learned from the Japanese the charm of bare wide spaces, and this has given us a real delight in the process of elimination. That which is worthy remains; to the rest, oblivion. There must be sufficient decoration to contribute that element that we call hominess, for lack of a better word, but no more than sufficient.

It is not surprising that the wax flowers have come back Some of them are beautiful, though most of us look at them as curiosities of delicate craftsmanship and wonder how they ever were put together. But why not wax flowers, since the linen posies and the parchment bouquets, not to mention beautiful artificial and everlasting blooms, are so popular? There was a reason for their coming, too; it was the coal famine of 1917-'18, when hothouse blossoms became scarce and expensive. Why buy those that fade in a day when one can possess florettes that last through the months and the years?

In fine china you will find plenty of good 1840 patterns—china candlesticks, showing small youngsters carrying bouquets, with al fresco growths twining about and around; funny squatty compotes bordered with glass flowers, china frames for pictures, and queer bottles that will look well upon your dressing table.

Which reminds us that, in the bedroom, the old stuff is most attractive. Hand quilted counterpanes in white and color are preferred by many a woman who scorns the day bed and its manteau of taffetas. The same lady revels and delights in all the old handmade rag rugs, crocheted, or hooked through burlap into amazing patterns of flowers, fruit, and animals. We allow that the big house is the place for old-timey effects, while the small apartment, where all the family runs through all the rooms, the day bed and the bed chamber that has the appearance of the boudoir are better.

Ruffled pillow slips belong to the era of the little fat English queen, and also the damask sofa, with all its dignified composure.

We must not forget the footstools covered with black broadcloth, embroidered with a wreath of flowers—red roses always and yellow buttercups and forget-me-nots. Yes, and fuchsias, too. Fuchsias "embroider so beautifully." Fancy the hours put in by our great grandmothers in this perfectly "genteel" occupation! And how amazing it is that their work survived! Unless moths have chewed their destructive way through the fabrics, the broadcloth foundation and the silk or wool flowers are just as fresh and firm as they ever were. More than one woman has lived to regret the fact that she threw away some of these triumphs of needlecraft. Everything comes in again, if you wait long enough—even damask sofas, false hair, and bustles!

And if you have a glass panel painted with a bouquet of flowers—one of the art products of sixty years ago—you will feel particularly rich. For that is Victorian to the last Canterbury bell.

O, always there is a Canterbury bell.

ETIQUETTE

by ELIZABETH VAN RENSSELAER

Questions on etiquette will be answered if you write to Elizabeth Van Rensselaer, "Chicago Sunday Tribune." If you wish a personal reply inclose a stamped, addressed envelope.

A WOMAN'S SIGNATURE.

THERE may be little in a name, but there is a great deal in a signature, especially a woman's, and there are several definite rules concerning its use. The most important of these holds true for all women, old or young, married or single—in signing letters, checks, or contracts of any kind, the writer's own name, unprefixed by "Mrs." or "Miss," should be employed. For example, "Mrs. Robert Harold Jones," who was Mary Smith before her marriage, should sign her business and personal communications "Mary Smith Jones" or "Mary S. Jones," except, of course, those letters of a more intimate nature to her family and dear friends, to whom she is "Mary." She may, if she likes, write "Mrs. Robert Jones" in parenthesis below the signature, in order to designate the proper return address.

In the telephone book or city directory she is "Mrs. Robert H. (or Mrs. R. H.) Jones"; for her calling cards, her full name, "Mrs. Robert Harold Jones," is correct.

In the case of an unmarried girl or woman practically the same precepts apply, her difficulties being much simplified since her choice of names is limited to one. The prefix "Miss" is used only to indicate her address and on her visiting cards.

When registering at a hotel a married woman signs her name "Mrs. R. H. Jones," as she expects her mail to be addressed, and an unmarried girl or woman registers as "Miss Mary Smith."

These few and definite governing principles may appear to be of minor importance, but a noticeable trait of well bred women is that they never neglect even such apparently small regulations.

E. T. L.: It is not correct to leave one's spoon in the glass when drinking iced tea. Club or hot roast beef sandwiches are eaten with a knife and fork. Bread should be broken before being buttered and eaten. If you will send me a stamped addressed envelope, I shall be happy to mail you a list of reliable books on etiquette.

eat more macaroni made of wheat

APRIL 1919
MARCH 1919

a fitting lenten food

WE must abstain from meat, perforce,—now that the Lenten season is here. And as all restrictions are removed from wheat, this is a most fitting time to test the real food value of—macaroni.

Wheat foods are rich in "gluten,"—the body-building element. Of all wheat foods, macaroni contains most gluten. Eat macaroni—for blood, bone, brawn—and sinew.

A satisfying food. Macaroni, as now made in clean sanitary American kitchens, is a most pure and wholesome product. Experts tell us that it serves both as food and fuel.

Because, macaroni is more rich in nutriment than bread, or meat, or potatoes. It is a well balanced food supplying all that the system needs to sustain life.

And how really tempting,—how tasteful when properly prepared and served! Many delicious combinations are possible—with soup, game, fish, poultry, eggs, cheese, oysters, and mushrooms.

Always new charms, new delicacies, new ways to vary the monotony of the menu. Can be eaten for any meal, at any time, in any season. A most versatile food!

Good for men, women and children. An excellent food for growing boys and girls,—because of easy digestibility and high nutritive power. And they learn to love it!

Oysters with Macaroni
(Escalloped)

One package macaroni (boiled), ½ pint oysters, 1½ cups thin white sauce, ½ cup buttered bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon butter for baking dish. Scald oysters in own liquor. Making white sauce using oyster liquor. Spread ½ macaroni in baking dish, add ½ of oysters and ½ of white sauce. On top, remainder of macaroni, oysters and white sauce. Sprinkle with bread crumbs, bake moderately 20 minutes.

Directions for Boiling

Use two quarts water, two teaspoons salt, one package of Macaroni. Let water come to boiling point,—add Macaroni and boil vigorously 12 or 15 minutes—until tender. Macaroni must always be boiled as directed before use in any combination.

Lobster, Macaroni Salad

For the salad—one package ready-cut macaroni (boiled), 1 cup cut-up celery, small head of lettuce for garnishing. Mix macaroni and celery. Add 1 cup mayonnaise dressing, to which add 1 cup milk. Cool and chill salad. Drop 1½ lb. lobster in boiling water, add 1 teaspoon cayenne, boil 20 minutes. Cool, cut-up, and arrange on salad imbedded in lettuce leaf.

Beautiful Hair Has a Cash Value to Business Women.

TRY BROWNATONE—FREE.

At the federal employment bureau office of the Chicago Woman's Club three hundred women of 40 years and over have applied for positions since July. The woman in charge of the munitions desk quite frankly tells the applicants that they must dye their hair if they are to get into government work. "This," she declares, "is a plain statement of what every woman knows."

"Rich Brown Hair Makes Plain Faces Beautiful"

The war is over and the call for volunteer workers has decreased. But it is still true that the woman who would win recognition in the business world or in society can no longer afford to neglect gray, streaked or bleached hair. But the careful woman will avoid dangerous dyes and will tint her hair and will use "Brownatone."

"Brownatone" is the one safe, reliable, easy to apply hair tint for changing gray, faded, or bleached hair to any beautiful shade of brown or black.

Absolutely Harmless.

Greaseless, odorless, easy to apply—a comb or brush is all you need. Instant in results and guaranteed to contain no lead, sulphur, silver, zinc, mercury, aniline, coal tar products, or anything to injure the hair or the most tender scalp. Far superior to so-called "restorers" and harmful "dyes."

Sold and recommended by reliable druggists everywhere. Two colors: "Light to Medium Brown," and "Dark Brown to Black." Two sizes, 35c and $1.15. Refuse all substitutes. Used for false as well as growing hair and endorsed by thousands of women in society and the business world.

Doris Blake Says

If you were born this week you are

Impulsive.

Have you a perplexing love affair in which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Doris Blake, care "The Sunday Tribune." If you wish a personal reply send stamped, addressed envelope.

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

If your birthday falls during the week beginning today you are well under the influence of Aries, the ram. Your tribe is Gad, of which it is said, "Lo, a troop cometh," fitly expressing your impetuous and unconquerable energy. And the meaning is "armed and prepared," indicating the insight and reasoning powers you possess. This sign belongs to the fiery element and is of cardinal or movable quality.

You are characterized by intellectuality, self-reliance, activity, energy, and impulsiveness. You are pioneers in the realms of thought and action, though you are more idealistic than practical. Always willful and headstrong when young, most of you fail to achieve the necessary measure of caution even in mature life and continue to go to extremes. Self-restraint, calmness, coolness, and consideration for the feelings of others are not your virtues, as a rule, though what you lack in this respect you gain in dauntless courage, enthusiasm, and zeal, either for your own work or for any cause you may take up.

You have an inflexible love of justice, especially in what is due to yourself, and a fair regard for others' rights if they don't stand too much in your own way.

You are enthusiastic and kind, and if an employer you will be able to inspire employés—or those of them who are capable of being inspired—with a good measure of your own vigor and determination. If you are an employé you are faithful, equally enthusiastic, but must do everything according to your own methods. Any material interference in your details will disarrange them and be apt to awaken an unexplainable and uncontrollable obstinacy that may result in your throwing up the whole business.

You want to enjoy yourself and have others enjoy themselves, even at your expense financially, if you can afford it.

You are domestic, kind in your home, and patient with your own children, but not overly so with those of others. You will endure a great deal of hair pulling at home but little outside. If you are a woman you will be fond of having many admirers, but will not be strongly drawn toward marriage unless the man who seeks to win you masters your affections and desires by his own worthiness and then becomes your god. If you are a man you will be apt to be drawn more strongly toward marriage.

Your marriage with a Sagittarius person, Nov. 28-Dec. 22, provided your bringing up was the same, would be a happy combination, or with one of your own sign, March 22-April 20; Gemini, May 22-June 22; and Leo, July 23-Aug. 23, are also congenial friends.

April 13 and Nov. 29 are the two most fortunate times in the year for you to begin a new enterprise. Your colors are blue, pink, and white; your birthstones, diamond, and amethyst. You will find success in many fields—as a judge or lawyer, teacher, merchant, financier, business manager, architect, contractor, or artist.

She Seldom Looks Up.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young man of 26 and recently returned to my former position after a thrilling time in France. There is a new girl at the office that I am interested in—nice appearing, quiet, and ladylike. I don't seem able to attract her attention and I thought you might be able to give me a hint. Once I had occasion to speak to her about an office matter; she answered politely and briefly, but didn't seem anxious to prolong the conversation. I pass her desk every day; she seldom looks up—in fact, she doesn't seem to be aware of my existence. Now I should like to get acquainted with her, but don't want to force myself on her attention if she really doesn't care for my friendship. Can't you help me out, please? RODERICK."

I know how you could attract her attention, Roderick. Pin your mind on your work and get your boss' approval to such an extent that you will get the next promotion and at the same time a word of congratulation and approval from the girl. Maybe she is not impressed with you in your present capacity, so you can kill two birds with one stone by focusing your eye on the job ahead and working like a beaver to get it and perhaps earning promotion and the coveted soft glance of the new girl at the office.

A Dark Eyed Gentleman.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a very heartbroken girl of 18. I have always been a quiet girl until just about a month ago. I am in love with a dark eyed gentleman of about 28 years. When I first came to this town I met him and have found that I am always thinking of him. He always talks very nice to me, but never asked me out as he used to do. I learned that he danced. Lately I met him with a widow lady with whom he used to board. They were at a dance. It has been a very heavy burden on my heart, as I find myself dreaming of him at night and day-dreaming of him all day. I even talk and call him in my sleep, mother tells me. I have been trying to forget. What would you advise me to do? MABEL."

Now, my dear Mabel, you want to try to learn to laugh over your love affair. Just remember that every one of us has gone through one of these heartachy spells when our beloved turns his eyes in the direction of a widow lady. Those widows "do beat all" the way they can lure the men from the single girl's side.

Camp Stories Contest.

Your son, your brother, your husband, or your sweetheart in the service undoubtedly has told you some amusing incident that has occurred in his camp. Undoubtedly, too, there are ever so many stories originating in camp that are still untold. This contest is especially open to the soldier himself if he has a good camp story to tell. It is open also to every one who has been told a good camp story of actual happening. "The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned. Address Camp Stories Editor, Chicago Sunday Tribune.

A French Orphan.

One returned overseas soldier told about his company adopting a French orphan. They were all excited about it and all had in mind a little homeless girl or boy, and when the picture came that the government sends of each one, it was the picture of a woman of about 40 years old.

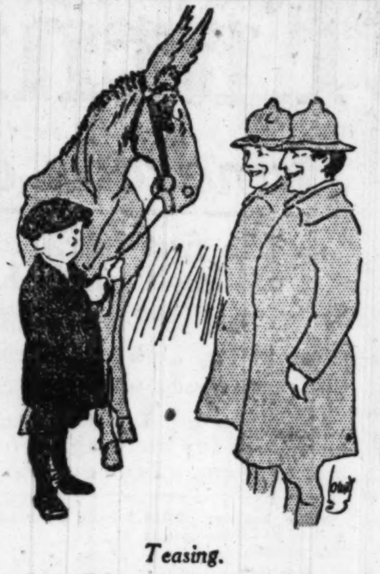
Busy Between Meals.

"What do you think of the army as far as you have gone?" inquired a drill sergeant.

"O, I think I may like it after a while. But just now there is too much drilling and fussing between meals," was the reply of the rookie. A. A.



Teasing.

A small boy astride of a donkey was taking some supplies to an army camp in Texas and got there just as a detachment of soldiers, preceded by a band, was marching past. The lad dismounted and held the bridle of the donkey tightly in his hand.

"Why are you holding on to your brother so hard?" asked a group of soldiers who were standing near and wanted to tease the boy.

"I'm afraid he might enlist," said the lad without even a smile. L. B. K.

The Hum of the Mill.

He was a lad from the backwoods of Arkansas, where sawmils are numerous. Going into the army and overseas he arrived at Camp Codford, England. While here he saw and heard his first aeroplane. The aviator was flying low and the buzz of the engines could be distinctly heard. Turning to a buddy he says: "Where is that sawmill I hear?" A. H.

Oui, Oui!

In a letter from a Yank soldier over there he remarked: "Gee! this French is sure a funny language. 'We' is 'Yes.'" N. K.

THE homey tang of old-time New England cookery, and the generous farm idea of pure, good food ingredients plentifully used, come to your table when the family is served with

JONES DAIRY FARM SAUSAGE

It is made according to a treasured recipe handed down from the days when cooks were satisfied with nothing but the very best of materials. It is a recipe that we have faithfully followed on the Jones farm for over thirty years.

Here amidst the wintry fields of Wisconsin, choice young pork, prime from the nearby corn belt, is made up into the delicately spiced Farm Sausage that delights those who appreciate good food.

Jones Dairy Farm Sausage is not made in quantities. Just enough is cut, spiced and made up each day to fill that day's shipment. Nothing is used but the choice young pork, spiced with the perfect knack of long experience—no cereals or preservatives. All the original farm flavor and goodness are in the package you get.

If your dealer can't supply you, write to us at the farm and we will tell you of one who will.

The Jones Dairy Farm Products—Sausage, Hams, Bacon and Lard—come in net weight packages of perfect freshness and purity.

Jones Dairy Farm, Fort Atkinson, Wis.

The Japanese Way to Remove Corns Doesn't Hurt a Bit—Easy and Simple

The Magic Touch of Ice-Mint Does It. Just a Touch Stops Soreness, Then the Corn or Callous Shrivels and Lifts Off. Try It. Your Feet Will Feel Cool and Fine.

Just a touch of Ice-Mint and "Oh!" what relief. Corns and callouses vanish, soreness disappears and you can dance all night or walk all day and your corns won't hurt a bit. No matter what you have tried or how many times you have been disappointed, here is a real help for you at last. From the very second that Ice-Mint touches that sore, tender corn your poor tired, aching feet will feel so cool, easy and comfortable that you will just sigh with relief. Think of it; just a little touch of that delightful, cooling Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. No matter how old or tough your pet corn is, he will shrivel right up and you can pick him out after a touch of Ice-Mint. No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying it or afterwards, and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

Ice-Mint is the real Japanese secret of fine, healthy, little feet. Prevents foot odors and keeps them cool, sweet and comfortable. It is now selling like wild-fire here.

Just ask in any drug store for a little Ice-Mint and give your poor suffering, tired feet the treat of their lives. There is nothing better, nor nothing "just as good."

"Cinderella Shoe Week"

Our First Semi-Annual Sale of Small Sizes in Women's Shoes and Oxfords

$1.33

My, Oh, My! What a wonderful opportunity for women with tiny feet! Lucky "Cinderellas" who can wear small sizes in shoes and oxfords! Your fairy godmother has waved her wand and prices on fine $3.00 to $6.00 footwear suddenly drop to $1.33.

Every woman who has been proud of her small foot can be doubly proud now. We have just taken the accumulations of small size shoes and oxfords from our regular lines and recent big sale events, and grouped them all in one lot at one price regardless of cost.

Everything goes! Lucky women in the Cinderella class, in other words, with small feet, will find here shoes of all descriptions, from heavy street shoes to the daintiest of evening slippers. We take unusual pleasure in inviting all Cinderellas in or near Chicago to this wonderful "party." We know you will have a good time till the last pair is sold to the last happy guest. Selling starts at 8:30 Monday morning. Sizes from 2½ to 4, widths from AA to E.

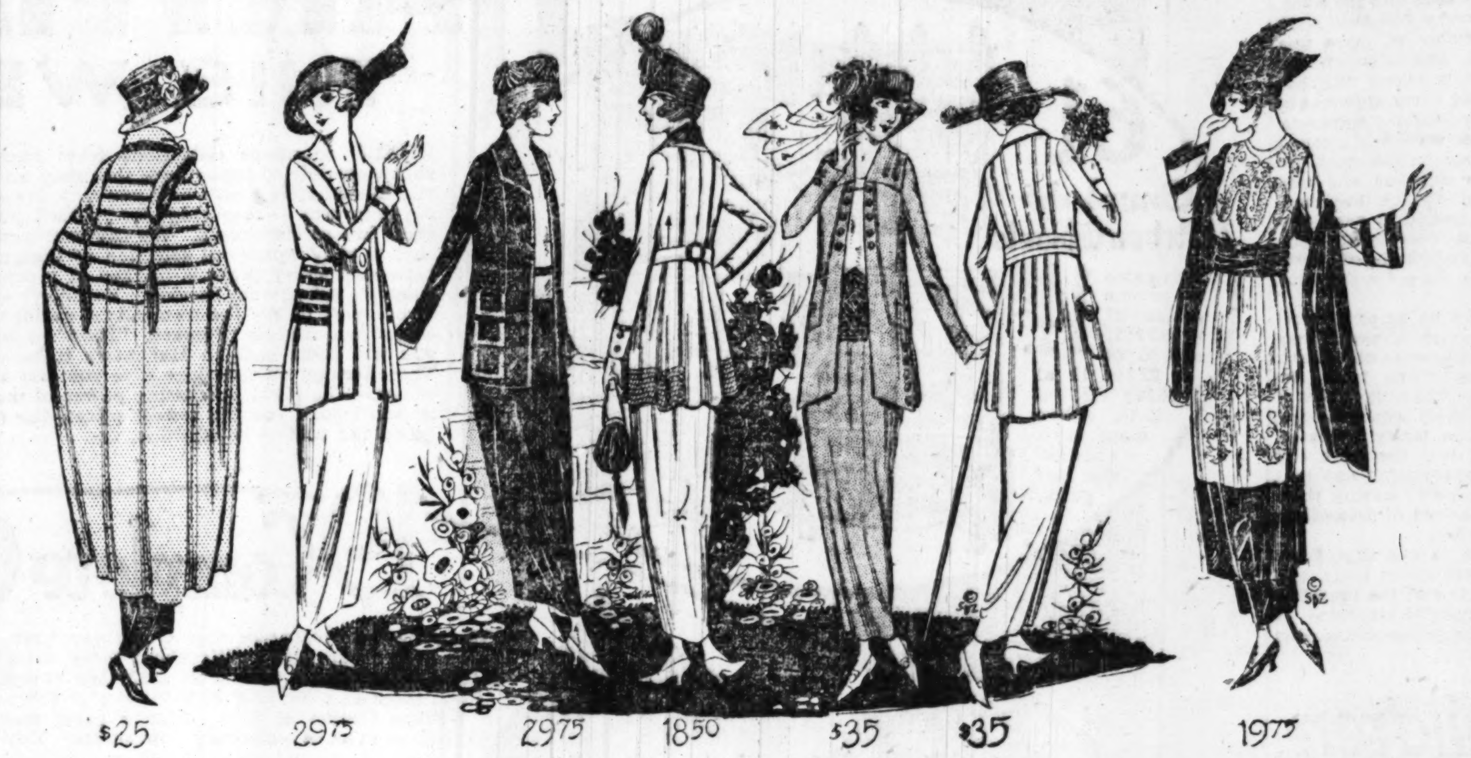
00 Women's Smartest Spring Suits Are Featured at $18.50, $29.75 & $35

A suit offering for Monday which should crowd our fourth floor all day. All specially priced at far less than you would expect so early in the season. This suit event will convince you of Rothschilds' supremacy in value giving. They are fashioned of serge, tricotine, poiret twill and pin stripe suitings. Each exemplifies fine workmanship, each expresses keen individuality, each denotes the new trig fashions. In all the approved styles, vestee effects, tailored, semi-tailored, belted and box-coated. The importance of early choosing cannot be too strongly emphasized.



Distinctive New Spring Styles in Women's Coats, Capes, Dolmans, $25.00 and $19.75

Coats are cut full, some belted, others on loose, straight lines. Capes ripple from the shoulders, fastening in back. The full lines of the Dolmans, in some models, are caught in by a belt, in others, styles unconfined. These new arrivals are developed from serges, velours, snow flake, and beautiful mixture cloth.

A Special Offering of Women's New Silk Dresses, values to $25.00, at $19.75

There's almost no limit to the beautiful styles. Satins, Combinations, Jersey, Taffeta, Georgette, Crepe de Chine, and elegant serges. This specially priced group includes many new and attractive dresses suitable for street and afternoon wear. Models that you usually expect to pay $25 and up to $30 for, tomorrow at $19.75.

For and By BUSINESS GIRLS

Mary King.

Miss King will be glad to help business girls solve their problems. If you want a personal answer, send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Miss Mary King, "The Sunday Tribune," Chicago.

THE DOMINEERING BOSS.

AT a restaurant table the other day one girl spent her entire luncheon period in telling another about a happy change in the management of the office, and how she felt herself developing under the new régime. Her story was interesting in that it was a comparison between two women, one of whom had some little time before succeeded the other as manager of the office.

The woman who had originally managed the office was described by the girl at the table as being the meanest woman she had ever known. It seemed that outside of two or three of people in the office who were old employés, she treated every one under her in a domineering fashion, and never seemed to be happy except when she had a chance to reprimand somebody before the entire office, which she did at every opportunity.

When breaking in new employés she would give them as few instructions as possible and as little information, and if requested for information concerning their work, her answer was usually given in a withering tone which implied that she considered them stupid and inefficient. As the girl at the table put it, "She always made me feel like a worm."

One day, however, the general manager of the firm overheard her tell a new employé that she was brainless. The new girl resigned on the spot and another girl in the office, a friend of the "brainless" one, left with her. Accepting the resignations of the two girls was the last thing she did for the firm for when it came to the ears of the general manager that two girls had just resigned, he sent for Miss R. and she never came back into the office.

One of the girls who had been with the firm for a number of years was given the position, and although she had been on friendly terms with her predecessor, she had never approved of her methods in handling the employés.

The new manager was an immediate "hit" with every one in the office, for although she was reserved and possessed of sufficient dignity, her manner to the other people in the office indicated that she considered them sensible people and believed their interests, like hers, were for the good of the firm.

She ran the office on as economical a basis as the former manager, succeeded in keeping the work up to date, and had no resignations from disgruntled employés. The atmosphere of the office was entirely changed, and while there was no laxity tolerated, each employé felt that her work and her efforts were appreciated and that there was some hope of having them recognized to the extent of promotions in due course of time.

This comparison is one that I am sure was based entirely on facts, and was not distorted to suit the prejudice of a jealous or spiteful employé. It was told without bitterness and carried conviction.

Bright Sayings of Children

"The Tribune" will pay $1 in thrift stamps for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunt Bee, "Sunday Tribune," Chicago.

This department appears every day in "The Daily Tribune."

Robert has an uncle who takes great delight in teasing and asking questions of his little nephew every time he gets a chance. One day he asked him if he knew who George Washington was. "For mercy sakes," exclaimed Robert, "don't you know who George Washington is! Why, he's the man that invented Americans."

* *

Vera had been having a ride in the street car. I was visiting at her house when she arrived home and she greeted me by saying, "I saw an old lady in the car who looked just like you." Her mother and I burst out laughing (I being 24 years old). She immediately saw her mistake and said: "I mean I 'magine you will look like her when you get old."

M. A.

Paul and his little brother were playing when the small brother grew sleepy and wanted to go to bed. Paul objected, saying he would be lonesome. His mother told him to get his book. He seemed indisposed at first, but finally grew interested and in a short time the small boy took a notion to get up and play again, to which Paul exclaimed: "Go back to bed! I don't want you now; I've got acquainted with my book!"

For Constipation! Physic Purge or Laxative?

Everyone now and then becomes constipated, and millions are chronically in that condition. The perplexing question arises—what to use.

Purgatives and cathartics are drastic and usually cause a reaction. Saline waters are rapid in action but do no more than empty the bowels.

Just as certain an effect, and certainly a much more pleasant one, can be obtained by the use of a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It acts gently, without griping. It is an especially ideal medicine for children, women, old people and others who find purges too powerful.

Only a teaspoonful is required, and by morning the movement is free and complete. A bottle in the house is insurance for the whole family against constipation, indigestion, headaches, flatulency and other digestive ills.

The druggist will refund your money if it fails to do as promised.

PRICE AS ALWAYS

In spite of greatly increased laboratory costs due to the War, by sacrificing profits and absorbing war taxes we have maintained the price at which this family laxative has been sold by druggists for the past 26 years. Two sizes—50c and $1.00.

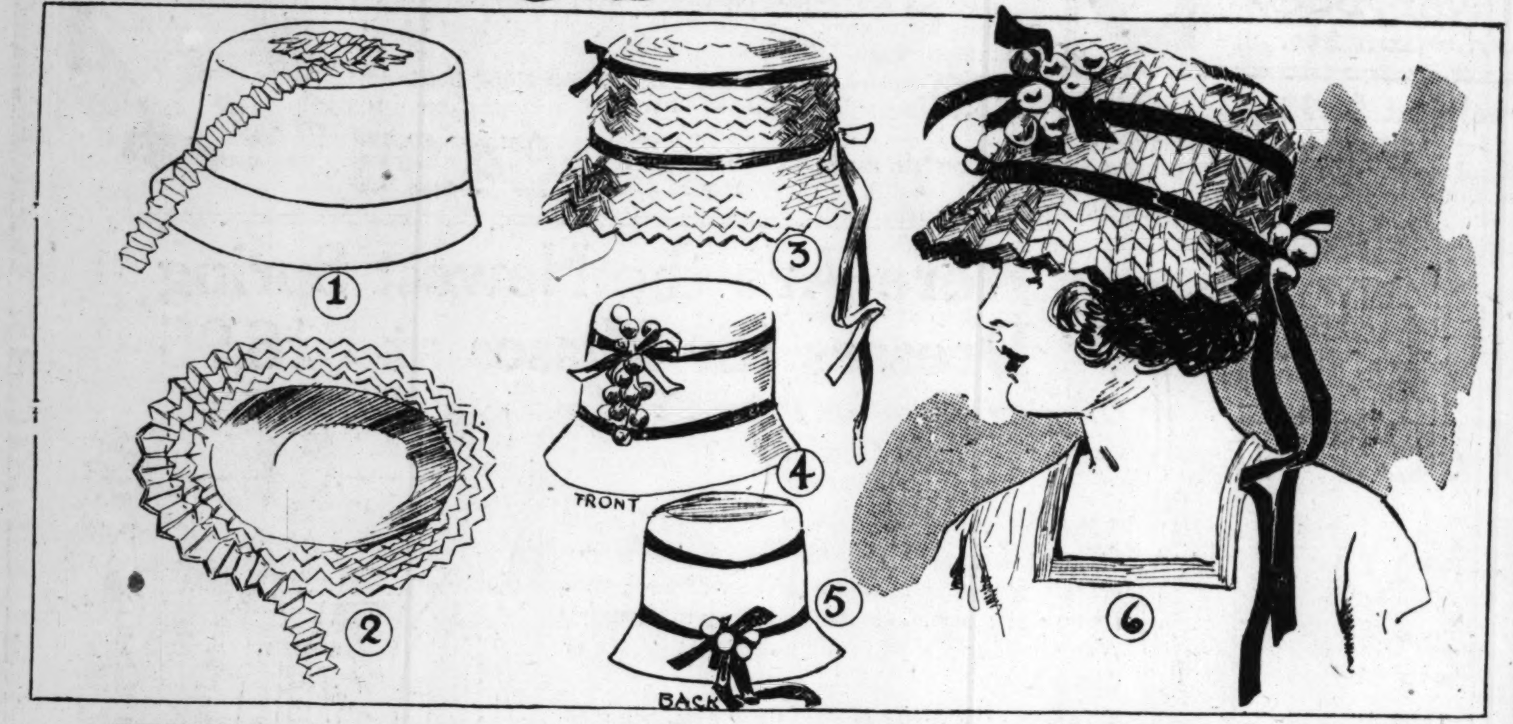
Practical and Fancy Needle Work

By Clotilde



CHILD'S HAT.

It is hard to choose from the many pretty hats which are shown this spring for the "little women" of 8 to 14. They are of the loveliest and warmest of the rainbow's colors, and fruits and flowers abound in their trimming.

The attractive little "poke" shown in the picture is of bright red straw braid, trimmed with narrow navy blue grosgrain ribbon and ripening red and white cherries. It is easily made and the material required is not expensive.

The directions follow: Take the buckram shape and with the straw braid (which you can use in any color; not necessarily red) begin at the center top of the crown and tack on the braid. (This is shown in Fig. 1.) Continue to sew the braid, going round and round, row after row, until the entire outer side of the shape is covered. Be sure you tack the braid securely, but do not tighten the thread too much, as it will break through the glazed surface otherwise. The thread must naturally be self-shade, as each tack comes through each scallop of the braid, when it is properly sewed.

Now start covering the under surface, beginning at the inner back for this facing. The tacking of this braiding will have to be done carefully, as the stitches otherwise will come through to the other, or upper, side. (This is shown in Fig. 2.) Finish off both the upper and lower straw neatly, running the clipped ends beneath the row just above the last one.

With the shape now completely braided bind and tack here and there the blue grosgrain ribbon, finishing the upper band with a double loop bow in the front and the lower band with a single bow and streamers. (This is shown in Fig. 3.)

In the center of the upper front looping firmly sew the larger bunch of cherries, arranging them so that the larger portion of the fruit falls down towards the lower band. (This is shown in Fig. 4.)

Take a bunch of the cherries, about one-third the size of the front trimming, and tack them in the back center of the lower bow, arranging them so that they lie close to the brim. (This is shown in Fig. 5.)

This finishes the hat as shown in Fig. 6.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Varied Activities of Women.

Mrs. Jacob A. Riis has charge of the women's department of a brokerage house in New York. She has a corps of women workers under her and attends to all the details of selling securities to women who have money to invest.

Power is given a commission to be created by the provisional government in Quebec, Can., to fix minimum wages for women in industrial establishments. The minimum wage fixed in any case is to be binding on both employers and employés.

Statistics show that 5,000,000 American women have changed their husbands in the last four years.

A commission to study the labor of women and children has been appointed by the governor of Louisiana.

The first bill presented by Kansas' first woman legislator—Mrs. Minnie Grinstead—prohibits smoking in public eating houses.

Canadian employment authorities claim that a domestic receiving $30 a month is getting as much as the girl in an office who receives $75.

The shutting down of the British munition factories makes it necessary for over 700,000 girls and women to seek other employment.

DURABLE DURHAM HOSIERY Trade Mark

"More of those Splendid Durable-DURHAM Stockings"

Women who have worn Durable-DURHAM know it is the right hosiery for every member of the family. It wears so long without holes and always looks so well.

An Exhibit Revealing All the Best of "the New" in Millinery, Suits, Frocks, Wraps, and the Accessories of Dress

NINETEEN-NINETEEN, at one bold stroke, casts utterly aside those utilitarian modes that have held sway during the past wartime seasons, and has brought forth to take their place other modes that express vividly the buoyant spirit that has succeeded to the stern repression of the days now happily past. Our staff of fashion experts have entered with zest into the preparations for the important event which opens tomorrow, and their selections are presented in a review that reveals the Springtime fashions in all their rare charm.

The New Suits

The long, slender lines, the box coats and the smart tailored effects give to the new suits elegance and modishness that are accentuated by many novel touches, notably in the collars that button high about the ears, drape softly about the neck, or hang gracefully down the back. Poiret twills, tricotines, serges, silvertones and other handsome fabrics contribute their full share to the distinction of these new suits. Almost unlimited choice is afforded at a broad range of prices from 27.50 to 125.00.

The New Wraps

A distinctive note is struck in the new dolmans and capes, which are the season's favorite fashion. The graceful lines upon which they are designed produce a charming effect of slenderness. The linings, of silk in many beautiful shades, add a pleasing note of color, and their smartness is emphasized by the clever ways in which the trimming is applied. The materials include tricotines, serges, silvertones and velours. The price range is wide enough to meet all requirements—from 21.50 to 90.00.

Dresses for All Occasions

The new frocks of spring, whether those for afternoon or evening, or the simpler, practical sort for business wear, all embody a newness of design that wins for them instant favor. Those of serge, tricotine and Poiret twill, of plain or printed Georgette, and the clever combination of light and heavy materials vie with one another in loveliness. You will find wide scope for choice at almost any price between $25 and $75.

The Blouse

The blouse is more feminine and lovely than ever. The irreplaceable georgette and crepe de chine are fashioned into models that, with their embellishments of laces and embroidery and their smart collars, are irresistible. Many beautiful creations are shown at 5.95 to 15.00.

The Skirt

Silks, satins and failles, in plain colors and rich plaids, are the materials from which the modish skirt is made. The narrow lines of the skirts, their smart tailoring and trimming touches give an attractiveness that has not been equaled for many seasons. Wide choice may be had at moderate prices.

Summer Furs are an important part of the season's costume. The "choker" is the smartest of the new neckpieces, and there are many new effects in scarfs, capes, stoles and coatees, in mole, sable, fox, mink, Hudson seal (dyed muskrat), nutria, fisher, etc.

Large Hats, Small Hats and Hats In-Between Present Their Contrasting Charms

Distracting, indeed, in their variety and feminine charm are the millinery modes of this springtime season. Hats with wide brims that droop or turn up at unexpected angles enter into spirited rivalry with hats narrow of brim and piquant in their tailored simplicity.

Hats of horse hair are a distinct novelty. These, with hats of maline and lace, are in favor for the more dressy occasions. Lisere, handsewn, and silk-and-straw combinations form the tailored hats and those for practical service. Ostrich lavishly trims the more elaborate hats, and flowers are predominant among other trimmings. Beautiful dress hats are priced from 19.50 to $50; tailored and popular priced trimmed hats at $5, 7.50 to $15.

The untrimmed, tailored, and ready-to-wear sections show many new features that will repay inspection.

Third Floor.

Juvenile Apparel

Our displays are extensive and varied, and provide for every requirement of the younger set.

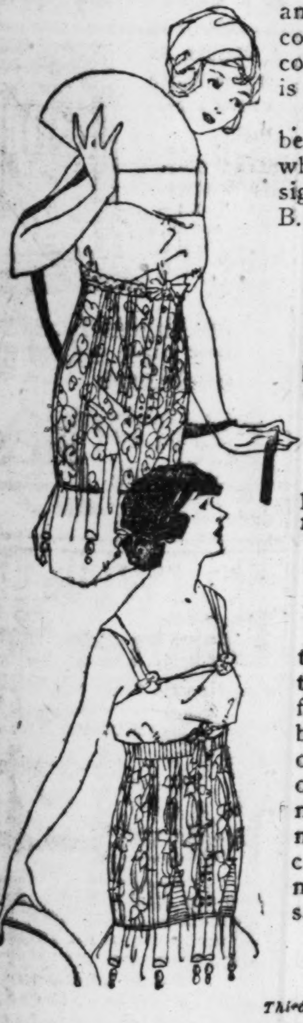
Frocks—of satins, taffetas, foulards, jerseys, georgettes, for dressy wear; linens, ginghams, organdies, voiles for practical service—in fact, frocks for all occasions; $2 to 42.50.

Suits—for the flapper and junior, carrying out every detail of the season's new fads; 25.75 to $45.

Girls' and juniors' Dolmans and capes, so attractive to youth, with gay lining, overcollars, fancy vests; 8.75 to $55.

Choose a C. B. Corset

To Wear Under Your Spring Costume



and you will enjoy that sense of comfort and satisfaction that comes from wearing a corset that is correct in style and fit.

Nothing is quite so dainty as the beautiful brocades in flesh and white with floral and figured designs which we are showing in C. B. corsets, which are indeed

How a Father Has Learned to Save Shoe Bills.

"My son is very hard on shoes, so keeping him properly shod has been quite an expense to me," writes Mr. J. Allison Allen, of Amity, Arkansas.

"But since I started to buy Neolin-soled shoes for him I have found that it costs only about a third as much to keep him in shoes."

This is because Neolin Soles are so tough and durable that they wear a very long time. Shoe bills are kept down because you don't need so many pairs.

You can get Neolin-soled shoes at almost any good shoe store. They come in all styles and for all members of the family. Neolin Soles are also available everywhere for re-soling. They are produced by a scientific process to be what soles ought to be—comfortable, waterproof and long-wearing. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear any other heels.

9120—Girls' dress, with duchesse closing and full length sleeve; one piece straight gathered skirt with side pockets. Ten pieces. It is cut in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Bust measure, 23, 24½, 25½, 27½, and 29½ inches. For the ten year size 3⅛ yards of 36 inch material is required.

9127—Women's one piece dress with sleeves in long or short length. Cut in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 5 yards of 36 inch material.

The Safest Dry Cleaner

TWELVE years' use in millions of homes and offices has proved Energine the safest dry-cleaner to use and it cannot injure the most delicate of fabrics.

Energine saves millions of dollars in cleaning bills every year. This way it is worth its weight in gold.

It knocks millions of spots, making garments as good as new, saves laying spotted or soiled garments aside until out of style or throwing them away.

Energine costs a mere trifle—a large bottle lasts long and should be used more often.

You know how it is, for example with a spotted or greasy necktie, or delicate fabrics. Unless you can clean them at once they are practically useless, thrown away for all time. Energine saves and makes them instantly renewed.

Pure—Clean—Colorless

Pleasant and easiest to use, it leaves no odor, no ring, no stain. Colorless, contains no grease or sediment like others. Cleans fifty different things, including gloves, coat collars, neckties, fancy slippers, scarfs, veils, suede shoes, spats, feathers, felt hats, waists, furs, draperies, rugs, upholstery, laces, etc.

You'll be surprised at the immediate gratifying results with Energine and wonder that you had not used it for every dry cleaning purpose more often for years.

The Eyeglass Glide.

It was at a formal dancing party, and I was dancing with a young man who wore eyeglasses. I soon felt something cold slide down my back and my friend said, "Pardon me; my glasses have fallen down your back." Needless to say I escaped to the dressing room and had the glasses removed and returned to him.

In Sweetest Tones.

At State and Madison one day an elderly woman apparently did not understand the policeman's signals and was hesitant about crossing the street. She would dart out, become frightened, and rush back again. I watched her do this two or three times and then when the proper time came I stepped up and in my sweetest tones said, "I think now would be a good time to cross." She came back at me with, "Well, why don't you go then?"

Nothing to Talk About.

I had not been married over a year and there was still a lack of organization in my household economy. I was having a party of friends to noon lunch and among them was a certain young woman who would be sure to tell of any untoward mishap that might occur.

The guests were seated and I was getting the last dishes warm. A heavy step sounded outside the kitchen and in a voice loud enough to be heard all over the house, a gruff voice said, "I've come to turn off the gas. Can't take your money now. You'll have to pay your bill at the office and fix it up with them to turn it on again."

Somehow the conversation did not proceed as it ought at the table.

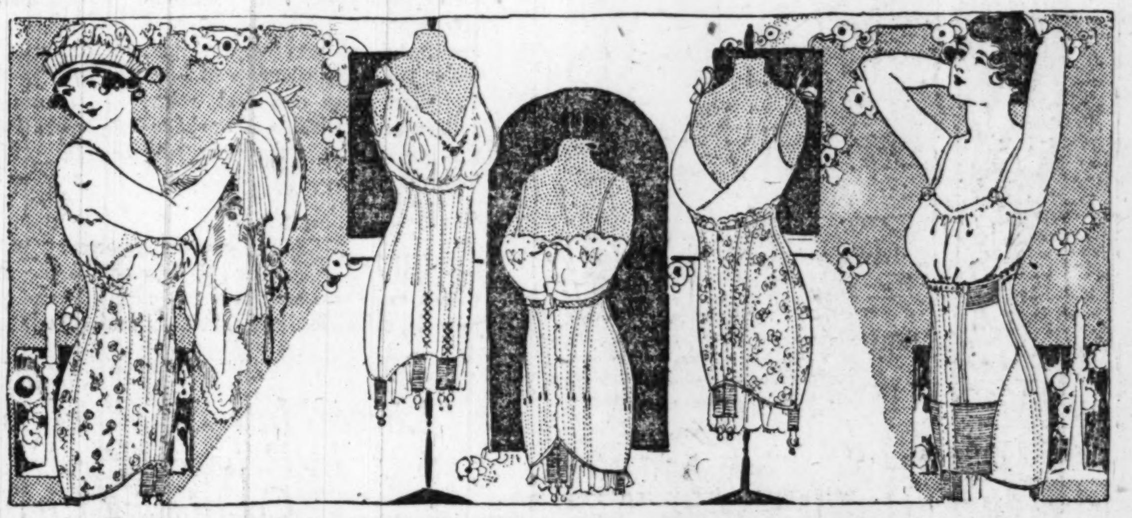
Spring's New Styles Require a Properly Fitted Corset

Third Floor—Center

The new narrow skirts have no room for the bulk of an ill fitting corset, but must have a smooth foundation to hang and fit properly. Our corsetieres, so thoroughly trained, can fit you perfectly to an R & G or Binner corset because we have them in complete varieties, a model for every distinctive type of figure—a model that can bring the fashionable, slender lines, and comfort, as well. For the fitting service no charge is made.

R & G Corsets

An R & G corset for spring plus the service of our fitting corps brings the most complete corset satisfaction you have ever had—for our fitters are trained carefully and scientifically in the correct way to choose and fit a corset and have to aid them R & G corsets in a complete variety of styles and sizes. You can be assured the correct figure for spring, with the long, slim lines—and comfort as well, for R & G corsets are an aid to every woman's figure if she but spend a few moments with our corsetieres, so that she secures the proper model and has it properly fitted. We feature R & G corsets at .... $2 and up to $5



Binner Corsets

Are you stout? Have you large, bulging thighs? Do you want to look slim and have straight lines? Then let us show you a pair of Binner corsets tomorrow and tell you about the diagonal side steel—any one who wears them once, always wants another pair. The wide range of models we have of this celebrated brand makes it an easy matter for us to fit you to precisely the model your individual type of figure should have. The slimmer lines of fashion for the spring skirts are a warning to see to your corset first if you want to appear well dressed. The skillful designing of Binner corsets is of added importance for that reason. Binner corsets at $6 to $10

Women's $2 Thread Silk Hose, 1.19

Main Floor—Dearborn Street

Women's pure silk thread hose, a splendid heavy weight quality that wears wonderfully and that you'll appreciate, full fashioned—high spliced ankles, silk lisle soles and silk lisle or all silk garter tops. White, silver, medium gray, gold, pink, Russian tan, bronze, champagne, ivory, navy and black—all Chicago asks at least $2, for Monday only at 1.19

For years St. Paul and the foremost cities of the Northwest chose their smartest millinery at Rothschild's (355 Jackson Street), for Rothschild's had extensive foreign and eastern connections, so that their stock included at all times the most desirable styles of the season, the millinery that Fashion favored most strongly—and when the Creditors' committee ordered the stock sold a great part of the stock of trimmed and untrimmed Hats for Spring that was on hand is included in our timely purchase of the Louis J.

Second Floor—State Street

And now you can choose from the Rothschild stock in the very heart of the season at about half actual value—the charming trimmed hats that Rothschild's were just about to offer for spring—the new conceits, that were planned as in former years with utmost care—the trimmed hats that had Paris and New York for inspiration—the season's new colors, new shapes, new trimmings, new straws, all at figures that will prove startling in their lowness; for every saving we make is for the benefit of our customers. Rothschild's four-story building held many a case of millinery not yet opened—all here for tomorrow quite regardless of the fact that just now, with Easter almost upon us, Millinery is in greatest demand, at the same low figure it was bought at—55% on the dollar. No adequate story of what the stock holds can be told—millinery of every sort, gathered in the expectation of their largest season, at about half what just such millinery and trimmings are to be had for anywhere in Chicago. The full story of the remarkable bargains is a story of economies all will want to share in.

Rothschild's Trimmed Hats for Spring

The small hats that are in such favor with "Dame Fashion," the medium size hats, the large hats, rough straws in endless styles, the three end Jap straws, pineapple straws, fine straws, milans—hats of every shape, style and size—hats of every color—hats for the maid or matron—here now in five gigantic lots, spread out on tables for quick choosing, not at $5.00 and up to $37.50, the Rothschild prices—but at

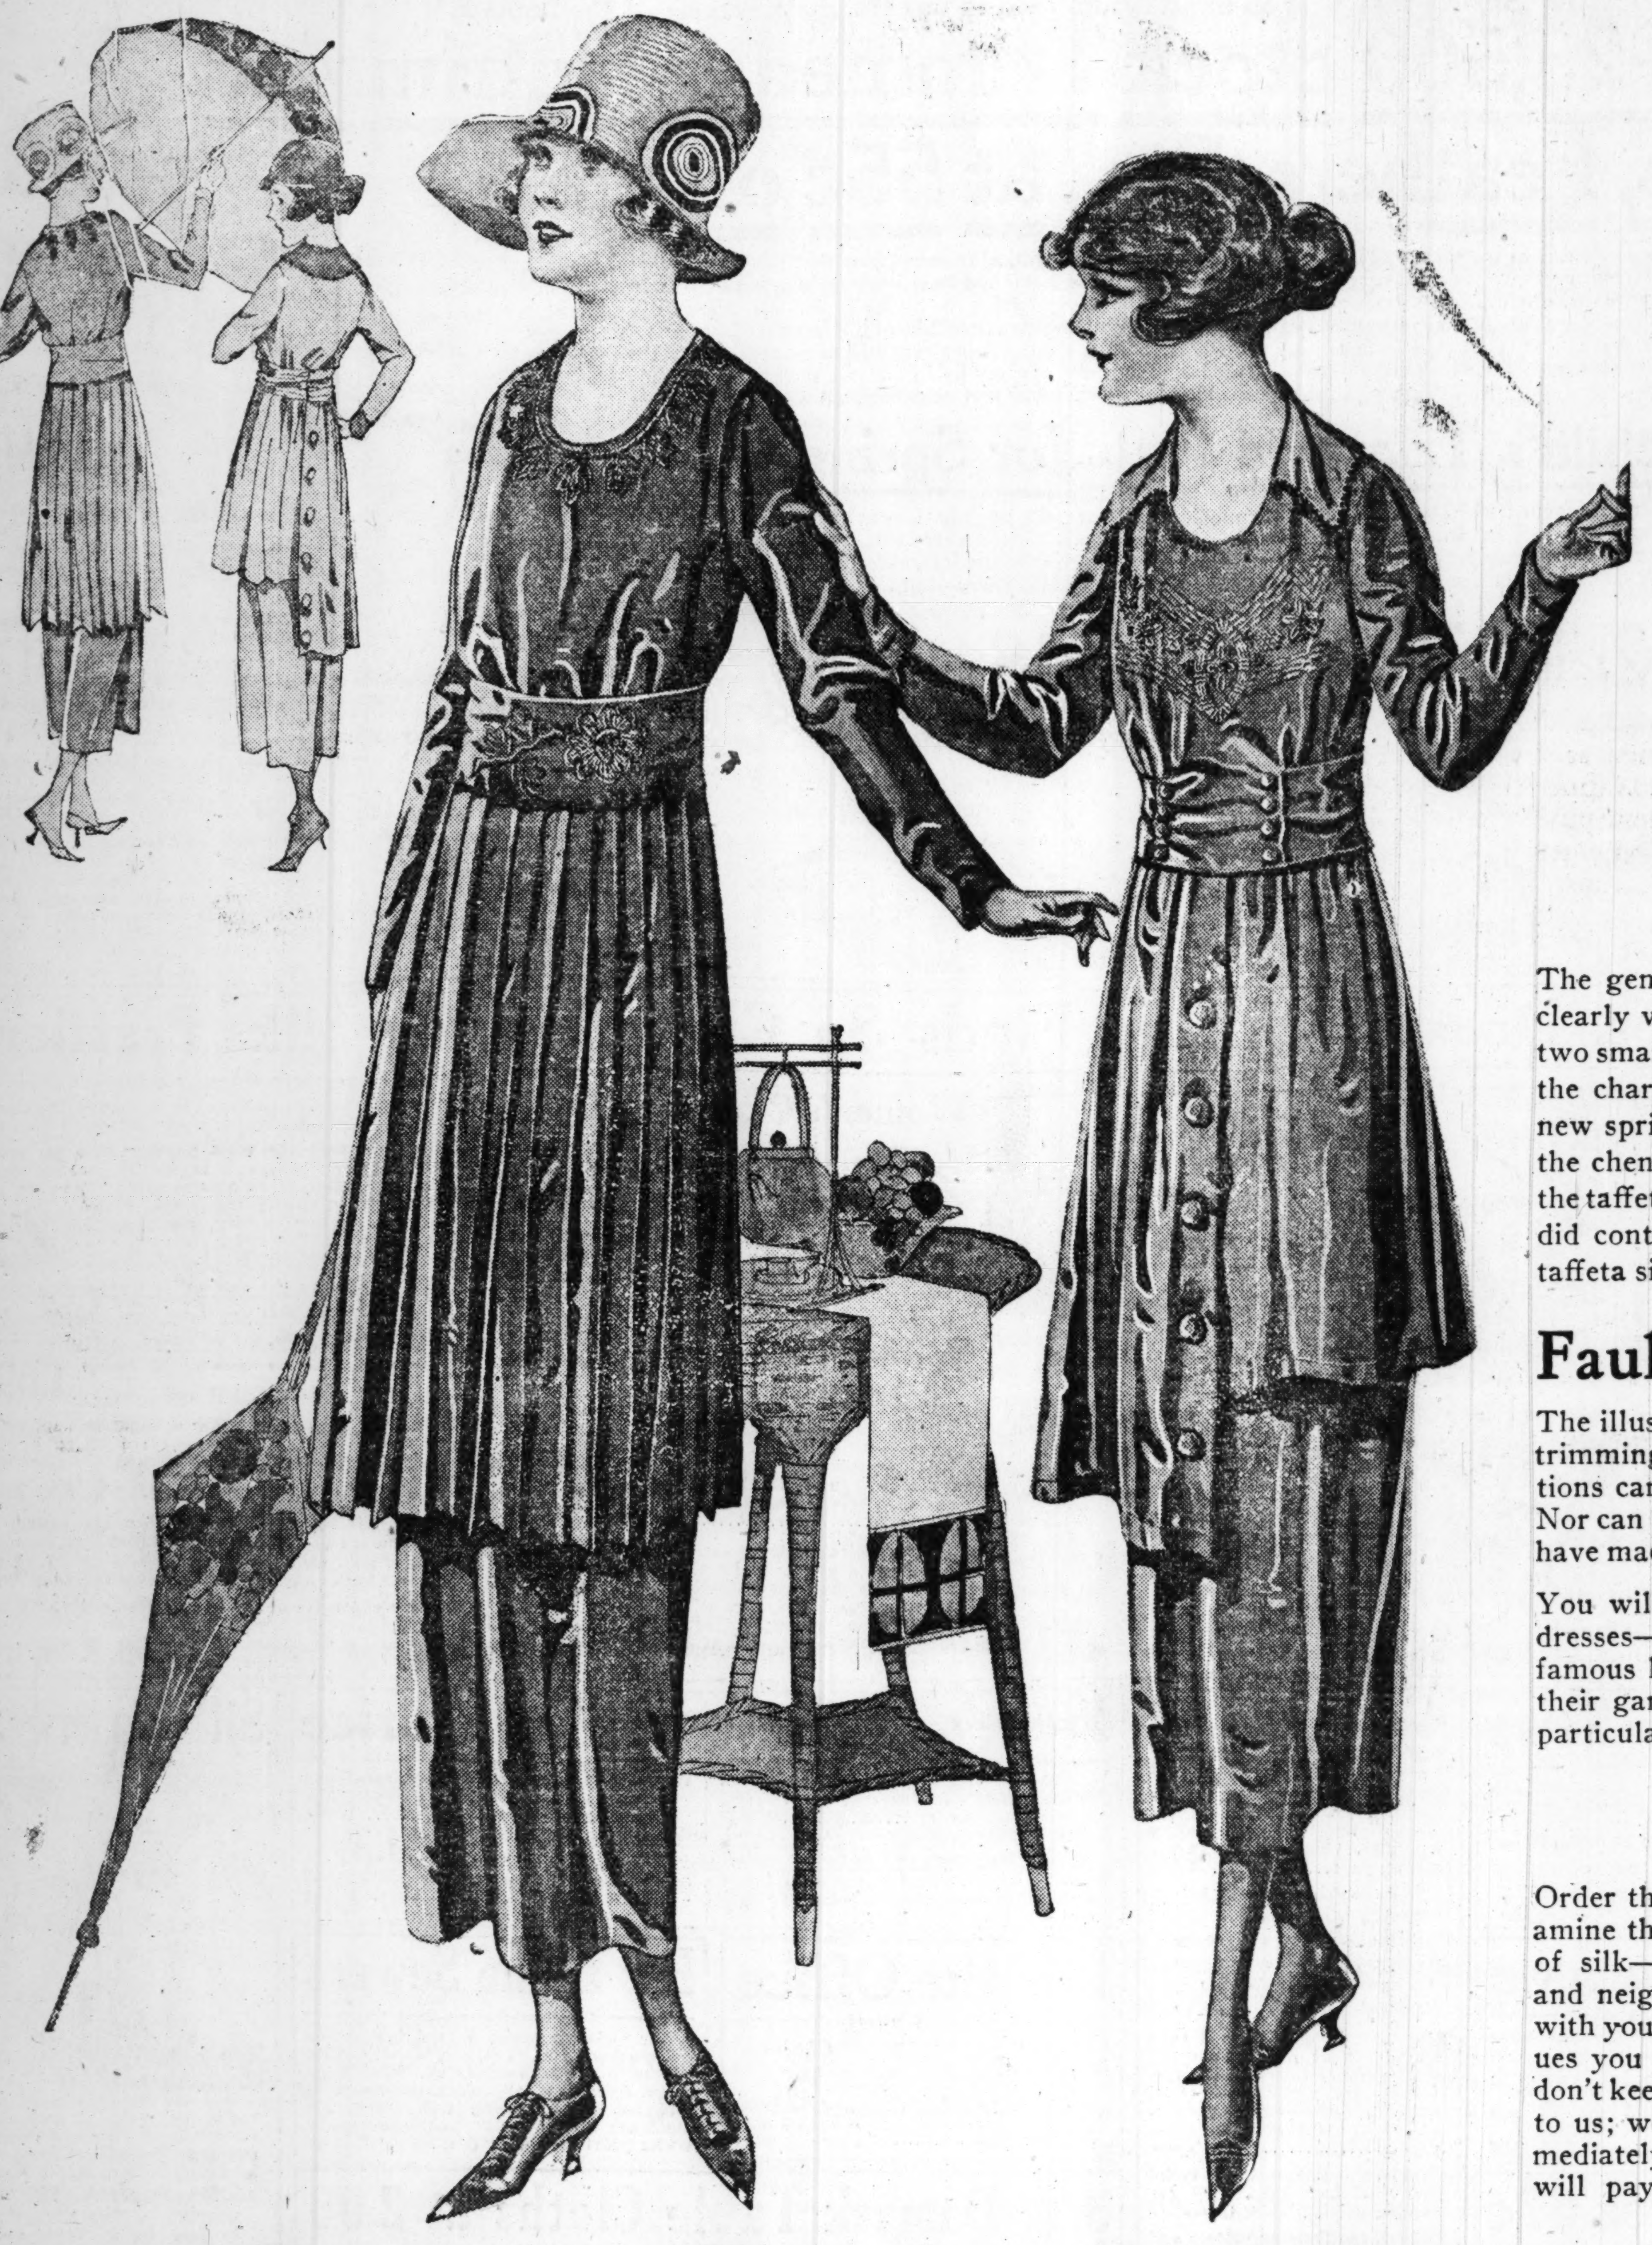
Featuring the Season's Two Biggest Silk Dress Values

at $13.75



Newest Spring Styles

Tunic dresses are very much in vogue for spring wear and these two stunning styles are the newest of the 1919 creations. They are the kind of dresses that add youth to the wearer and are becoming to both young and old. Every woman who intends purchasing a dress this spring should consider one of these smart up to date silk models.

They come as a result of a purchase very advantageously made which permits these unusual special prices. Others would ask a great deal more for dresses that do not have the style or character contained in these two beautiful designs. Note the snap and the dainty application of trimming, and then picture in your mind the high grade quality silk from which they are made, and you will have an idea as to the wonderful values represented in these two silk dresses.

Designed by Experts

The genius of the expert designer is clearly visible in the creation of these two smart style dresses. They have all the charm that is so symbolic of the new spring styles. Note how cleverly the chenille is placed on the blouse of the taffeta silk frock. See what a splendid contrast it makes to the lustrous taffeta silk and Georgette crepe collar.

These are points that you will appreciate a great deal more when you have seen and tried on these dresess. But these dresses should arouse your interest not only because of their richness of style but because of their modest prices. It has been a long time since dresses of this smartness of appearance and elegance of fabric have been quoted at such extremely low figures.

Faultlessly Made, Guaranteed Fabrics

The illustration shows you the newness of the design, the effectiveness of the trimmings, and the gracefulness of the lines of these dresses. But the illustrations cannot show you the lustrous silk materials from which they are made. Nor can the illustrations show you the faultless way in which the expert tailors have made these charming dresses. You will be surprised at the workmanship.

You will find no fraying edges, no skimping, no unfinished hems in these dresses—they are made in accordance to the specifications as required by the famous house of Mandel Brothers, noted for the excellent way in which all their garments are made. It is only after you have examined these minute particulars that you will appreciate the two wonderful values herein shown.

Shipped on Approval

Order these dresses on approval—examine them critically, test the quality of silk—show them to your friends and neighbors. If they do not agree with you that these are the biggest values you have received for some time, don't keep them. Send the dresses back to us; we will exchange them or immediately refund your money and we will pay all cost of transportation.

Our out-of-town customers who make our store their style headquarters will quickly note the unusualness of this offer and promptly mail their orders. It is such a wonderful opportunity in dress values that every woman who intends purchasing should promptly take advantage of it. Remember, we assume all the responsibilities. You run no risk in sending us your order.

Description of These Smart Silk Dresses

New Plaited Tunic Model

203Z21 Colored leaf-pattern embroidery relieves the simplicity of this charming frock made with round collarless neck, so fashionable this season. Silk rose motifs on broad girdle of self-material also add to the neatness of the style.

Made of Silk Crepe de Chine

Made of silk crepe de chine, a material that always gives service and satisfaction, by experts in a faultless manner. It will please the most critical. Waist is gathered full above girdle, closes invisibly at the side and has lawn underwaist.

Both Women's and Misses' Sizes

We furnish this dress in both women's and misses' sizes. Women's sizes in 34 to 44 inch bust measure. Misses' sizes 14 to 20 years. Choice of Copenhagen blue or taupe color.
No. 203Z21—Price, Charges Prepaid...... $13.75

Modish Silk Taffeta Frock

Hand-Embroidered Blouse

The front of the waist is stunningly hand embroidered with chenille, silk floss and beads. This new and novel trimming effect gives the waist of this dress a style character all its own and one that you cannot help but admire when seeing.

Becoming to Young and Old

This dress comes in both women's and misses' sizes. Choice of navy blue and copenhagen blue. Women's sizes come in 34 to 44 bust measure. Misses' sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years.
No. 203Z22—Price, Charges Prepaid....... $13.75

Mrs. Percival Thompson

Mrs. Percival Thompson, who, with Mr. Thompson and their four children, is spending the winter at the family's beautiful residence in Coronado, Calif., is prominently identified with all social and charitable movements in Coronado, as well as in Wheaton, where she and her family spend the summers.

Things in General Slowly Changing to New Standard

By Mme. X.

THIS is the moment of the year when floods overflow the usual banks of streams and rivers, and in tumult and confusion, catch up and whirl onward masses of débris that once was useful, orderly material.

So you and I are being whirled along by a mighty torrent, loosed by the war, and just whither we are going, or on what shore we'll be cast the Lord only knows!

There are nasty looking perils in the rushing overflow. Millions of people, plain, simple, earnest folk—think that their only chance of rescue lies in reaching and climbing on to a raft labeled, "League of Nations." Others, officially known as leaders, are shouting warnings, declaring that the raft, though right in theory, is badly built. They haven't as yet produced another, more seaworthy bark, however, so the flood tossed people cry: "Calk up the seams; make this craft seaworthy! We must get out of this raging torrent, back to dry land, and to our daily work and play."

Patience, friends! We shall in due time be cast up on some strange shore—if we're not first entirely engulfed and submerged by the bolshevistic undertow tugging now at our toes and knees. The floods will subside, leaving a rich deposit of silt out of which will grow a new civilization. To be sure, we may not live to see it, but it will come just the same.

In the new order of things there won't be such a great distance between the upper and lower strata of society as heretofore. There won't be so many waiting on and serving so few. There are already many signs of this change of standards in the matter of service. An amusing instance of this is a rapidly growing system of shops in smaller towns, called "shopeterias," where the customer waits on himself as he does in a cafeteria.

Quick to Forget.

I think no class of people deserves more credit than the faithful ones who are going on with war relief work, now that the sustaining emotion of active warfare is withdrawn. It was a very different affair to give your time, strength, and sympathy to the succor of our soldiers and sailors when every day's newspapers were full of accounts of battles and campaigns and hardships, from giving the same spiritual and bodily energy to the succor of men who perhaps never got as far as France. Yet the latter often need it more than if they had got to the actual battle line.

We Americans are making too quick a recovery from the war's impact. It's a common phrase that the war didn't last long enough to do us much good as a people. The men come back from the dangers, discomforts, and dreariness of their sojourns in Europe with eager anticipations of their welcome here. Do they find us all on the curb waiting to receive them with open arms? They do not. They see hordes of men hurrying to make money and hordes of women hurrying to spend it.

The writer, welcoming a returned warrior, who had seen many historical battles, said, "I want so much to hear all about your adventures."

He smiled and replied, "So every one says, but nobody stops long enough to listen."

Growing Feeling of Resentment.

No wonder Gen. Wood and others report a growing feeling of resentment, and a tendency to self-assertion on the part of the returned soldier. He comes back to us feeling that his countrymen owe him a better living than he made before he went away, or than the man who stayed at home makes. Every one admits this, probably, but not every one acts accordingly.

Certain incidents would seem to indicate, however, that it is more a question of degree than of theory that separates the disgruntled ex-soldier from his would-be employer. One of the latter tells of an interview with one of his former employés, a soldier, who had returned to civil life and came to him to get back his job.

"Certainly I'll take you back," he said, "and I'll pay you $125 a month instead of the $100 I used to pay you."

"Indeed you wont!" was the emphatic response. "Do you suppose that I'll take less than $175 a month after I've risked my life for my country while you stayed safely at home? Not much!"

An appeal was recently made at the Khaki and Blue club by a large mail order house for twenty-two men for a temporary job, which was to do cataloging for six hours a day, six days in the week, for $18 a week, with one day off in ten to look for a job. Out of the 500 men appealed to only two could be induced to take up the offer.

At the Hospital Ship.

To return to the faithful workers who are ministering to our men in uniform, a visit to the Great Lakes Naval Training station in the fierce March rains of last Monday gave an interesting glimpse of that wonderful institution's many activities. Although last summer's high water mark of 47,000 men has been reduced to between 10,000 and 15,000 men, the station is still a busy hive of youth and energy. It is constantly receiving recruits from our western farming districts and turning them into sailors for the high seas.

The "hospital ship," as they call the congregation of buildings, wards, nurses' homes, Red Cross convalescent house, medical mess, and so forth which are dedicated to ill and wounded sailors—was the especial object of this visit. It's an up to date establishment, with 134 nurses, a full complement of doctors, surgeons and orderlies, a perfectly equipped operating room, X-ray room, and laboratory, and at present about 1,000 patients.

Among the latter is a contingent of wounded marines—remnants of the famous marines of Chateau Thierry. Once more, as at the military hospital at Fort Sheridan, the writer was struck with a certain wistful, aloof expression with which the wounded men regarded the group of visitors, sound of body and whole of limb, as if putting the silent question: "Why I and not you?"

It isn't the same in France, or England, or Italy. There, wherever similarly situated war victims look, they see why. Sorrow, desolation, suffering, sacrifice meet their gaze, not hurrying, preoccupied throngs of prosperous, pleasure seeking people.

For "Gobs" on the Mend.

The attractive, cozy little Red Cross convalescents' house, which was established at the station last summer by Mrs. Joseph Cudahy and other Rer Cross workers, is fulfilling its Red Cross workers, is fulfilling its from early morning till late in the evening seven days a week with "gobs" on the mend, who can read, write, nap, play games, strum on the piano or turn on the phonograph to their heart's content. They can also bring their problems there for solution.

A ministering angel in the hospital ship's many departments is the wife of its chief, Capt. Odell. Young, pretty, gay, and sympatheic, she occupies a unique place in the hearts of workers and patients there. During the terrible "flu" epidemic last autumn, when nine hundred of our fine lads there died, for three weeks she was on guard every night at this convalescent house from 10 to 6 to look after the families of the stricken men, who were there given shelter.

The place was filled with cots where mothers, fathers, sisters, and wives slept. Over each bed was pasted the name of the occupant. When Mrs. Odell at the telephone received word that such and such a boy was passing away she it was who woke the waiting family and who took them to the bedside of the dying son, brother, or husband.

Every night now there's a vaudeville, concert, dance, or other entertainment at this refuge for convalescent sailors.

He's Now Rear Admiral Bassett.

The new commandant at the station, Capt. Bassett, has just been notified of his promotion to an admiralship. Fortunately this does not mean that he is to be transferred to another post, as were his predecessors, Rear Admiral Fullam, Rear Admiral Moffett, and Rear Admiral Scales.

I say "fortunately," meaning fortunately for this community, for his is an attractive, sympathetic personality, and he promises to be as great an addition, socially speaking, as his contemporary in military circles, Gen. Wood.

Because of a recent operation on his tonsils, Admiral Bassett (I'm not sure whether it's not too soon to apply his title) is going to Florida to regain his health, the rude lake breezes that whistle about the naval station not being conducive to a quick recovery. On account of delicate health, Mrs. Bassett has not yet joined her husband in his new station.

Wilde Comedy at Arts Club.

Over 200 people gathered at the Arts club last Tuesday evening to see a presentation of Oscar Wilde's comedy, "The Importance of Being Earnest," while over 100 were turned raging away, because of lack of space. The Mesdames Howard Linn, Mark Walton, William Nitze, and Paul Bartlett, and the Messrs. Hinckley, Sloan, Bartlett, and Boynton animated and gave a certain verisimilitude to the self-conscious and stilted wit that set the world of Oscar Wilde's time agog.

We've left the studied and sententious behind us now, but it is pleasant to be reminded of another era by a clever, capable, good looking lot of young people, and the Arts club's amateur theatrical troupe arouses especial enthusiasm because it evidently aims to amuse and not to instruct or lift up.

Mrs. Ryerson to Entertain.

Lent is almost half over. Next Friday is Mi-Carême, instituted by the early fathers of the Roman church to let off steam among the pious in the forty days' fast imposed for the good of their souls and bodies. Perhaps we've not fasted as did the early Christians, but the traditions still hang about the day to make it an occasion for relaxation.

This is why Mrs. Arthur Ryerson has chosen it as the date for a costume dinner-dance to which fifty of Chicago's younger married set are invited to meet Mr. and Mrs. George W. Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. George H. Clark. Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Clark are two of Mrs. Ryerson's three daughters.

Mrs. Ryerson's house is especially adapted for such an entertainment. It is the largest of that attractive little row of houses (Georgian, aren't they?) that David Adler built four years ago in Lake View avenue, facing the old part of Lincoln park's north end.

The one now occupied by the Hugh McBirneys is going to be once more the home of its owners, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Cramer Jr., when Lieut. Cramer returns this summer from serving his country in France. The Rosecrans Baldwins will also have to seek another abode when Capt. Abram Poole, Mrs. Baldwin's brother, comes back to his own in a month or so.

Mrs. Harry Dangler's residence, the fourth in this row, has been taken by the Charles Deweys, whose Lake Forest house was gobbled up by the expansion of the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Fashion Banishes the Stays.

We may be in process of getting rid of autocratic rulers of nations, but there's one despotic power we cannot hope to overcome, one group of tyrants whose edicts admit of no reversal, namely: the fashionable Parisian dressmakers. Worth, Paquin, the Callot sisters, and their ilk are said to have announced that they will make no gown for any woman who wears a corset. The only thing permissible for the truly up to date and perfectly chic "mondaine" is a supple, slight, elastic fence around her middle.

This is all very well for the young and slim, but how about the woman whose ample girth has so long been restrained by steel and whalebone that were it released now it would be as easy to cover with a garment as would those large amorphii that throb and float about in tropic seas?

To think that women should lay aside their stays just when President Wilson and others are trying to lace the nations of the globe into the largest corsets ever designed.

Arche Club Active in Varied Lines of Welfare Work

PAST presidents will be guests of honor at the musical given by the Arché club Friday afternoon. At 10:30 a. m. the music study class will meet, and Wednesday afternoon the conservation class of the club will meet at the Hyde Park hotel to hear S. J. Duncan-Clark on "America and the New World Order," and Mrs. George O. Young on "Anne Hathaway's Garden."

The Arché club entered upon its thirtieth year last October. To foster the study of art and encourage local artists were the prime objects of the founders. For many years Lincoln center has been the home of the club.

The club contributes annually to the Outdoor Art league, the Public School Art society, the Municipal Art league, scholarship to the Art institute, and buys a picture from a Chicago artist during the exhibition of local artists at the Art institute. The art study class maintains the traditions of the club and is presided over by Mrs. Helen K. Barber as chairman.

The civics and philanthropy class is under the leadership of Mrs. Ammon M. Fogg. Up to date civic questions are discussed. Annual donations are made by this class to vocational supervision, the Woman's shelter, Association for the Blind, Travelers' Aid, and Boy's Brotherhood of the Republic.

It was under the supervision of this class that the Red Cross auxiliary was organized at the time the United States entered the war. The following officers were chosen for the Red Cross auxiliary: Mrs. T. M. Flournoy, chairman; Miss Gertrude Jackson, Red Cross representative; Mrs. H. H. Gross, chairman ways and means committee; Mrs. Sumner Sollitt, chairman purchasing committee; Mrs. Frank B. Cooke, chairman sewing committee; Mrs. Ammon M. Fogg, chairman knitting committee; Miss Mary Pitkin, chairman surgical dressings committee; Mrs. N. L. Olmstead, chairman allied relief.

The sum of $2,600 was raised by voluntary contributions and $550 by an entertainment given by Mrs. Harry M. Boon, making an emergency fund of $3,150. A large quantity of yarn was purchased and knitted garments were sent to American boys. Donations were made from this fund to the Woman's Council of Defense, Dry Chicago federation, the Adoption of a French Child, war library, Queen Elizabeth Fund for Belgian Children, Armenian fund, child welfare, and the Juvenile Protective association.

Mrs. Milton H. Mack is chairman of the literature class.

The music study class has made the Arché famous at the Great Lakes Training station by providing monthly concerts for the boys. The chairman is Mrs. David C. Harries.

Mrs. Dan Sayre Crosebeck is chairman of the conservation class.

Mrs. Paul Barrett is chairman of child and infant welfare at Lincoln center.

The young ladies' auxiliary provides an entertainment each year in addition to its philanthropic duties. Miss Mary Adelaide Pitkin is the president.

Mrs. Sumner Sollitt is the chairman of the war service committee, which had the supervision of the Liberty loan. Over $300,000 was raised in the various government drives.

The officers are: Mrs. Thomas Milton Flournoy, president; Mrs. Harry M. Boon, first vice president; Mrs. Will C. Thorbus, second vice president; Mrs. Adele S. Martin, recording secretary; Mrs. William W. Plewes, corresponding secretary; Mrs. B. J. Buckingham, treasurer.

The directors are Mrs. Samuel C. Price, Miss Nanette B. Sheffer, Mrs. A. Ralph Johnstone, Mrs. James R. Smith, Mrs. Willis O. Nance, and Mrs. William M. Kelly.

DOWNTOWN CLUBS

The One Hundred and Forty-ninth field artillery war relief has obtained a permit from the south side commissioners to erect a grand stand between Van Buren and Seventh streets in Michigan boulevard. Maj. Gen. Wood, the governor of Illinois or his representative, and Col. Pelouze and his welcome home committee of the city of Chicago will review the regiment in Michigan boulevard the day of its return. No tickets will be sold, but subscriptions to pay for the erection of the stand will be received by the battery leader and tickets will be given to the subscribers. Subscriptions should be sent to the following:

Mrs. Harry Foote, 6104 Ellis avenue, telephone Hyde Park 4493, representing Battery A, Chicago headquarters, medical corps.

William G. Ilsley, 7330 Harvard avenue, Stewart 4074, Battery B.

Mrs. R. M. Chamberlain, 8713 Pine Grove avenue, Wellington 1448, Battery C.

Mrs. Henry King 1507 E. Sixty-seventh place, Midway 9094, Battery D.

Mrs. George Dunn 5427 Harper avenue, Hyde Park 6315, Battery E.

Mrs. H. M. Fabian 3932 North Keeler avenue, Irving 9568, Battery F.

Mrs. J. N. Schieble, 4157 North Leamington avenue, Kildare 7406, Irving Park group.

At the business meeting of the Chicago Woman's club on Wednesday at 2 p. m. nominations for president, second vice president, and corresponding secretary will be made. The fourth of the series of garden conferences given under the auspices of the housewifely thrift committee will be held tomorrow at 10:30 a. m., when Dr. William Crocker will lecture on "Insecticides, Late Planting, Harvesting, and Storing." Following the art and literature luncheon tomorrow the French study class will give a program of the folk lore of France. Mrs. Albert H. Veeder will speak before the literary study class on Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. on "The Vision of Tolstoi." The English study class will meet with Dr. Edwin Herbert Lewis on Thursday at 10:30 a. m. The open door program this afternoon at 3 o'clock will be a "Spring Day," in charge of Miss Hattie Summerfield.

The monthly luncheon of the Woman's City club will be held at the College club tomorrow. Miss Elizabeth Grey of THE TRIBUNE will speak on "Adventures in No Maid's Land." She is the author of the series of articles, "Housemaiding for Facts," which recently appeared in THE TRIBUNE. Gilbert E. Hyatt, president of the National Federation of Postal Employés, will present conditions in the Chicago postoffice. At 2 p. m. members of the council proceedings committee will attend the meeting of the city council. On Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. Prof. Forest R. Moulton of the University of Chicago will address the citizenship class on "The Unemployment of Soldiers and Sailors." At the noon citizenship class on Wednesday questions submitted to the voters on April 1 will be discussed. On Thursday at 2 p. m. members of the sanitary district committee will attend the meeting of the sanitary district board. At 5:30 p. m. the citizenship class will meet. There will be a meeting of the county affairs committee on Friday at 10:30 a. m. and of the Americanization committee at 4 p. m.

During the bazaar and style revue given by the Political Equality league on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday afternoons on the eleventh floor of the Stevens building, suffragists and clubwomen will act as models and display model creations. Among the models and committee women are Mrs. Rell Randall, Mrs. G. Blaine Niles, Mrs. Henry Nevell, Mrs. A. H. Schweizer, and Mrs. George S. Haskell. The bazaar is a feature of the mid-Lenten fête given as a benefit for the suffrage and patriotic work of the league. There will be no charge of admission and many useful articles will be offered for sale in the bazaar booths. Luncheons will be served by the league members from Tuesday to April 4, inclusive, in the league rooms. The War Camp community committee will serve a canteen supper on Thursday evening. Following the supper a cabaret entertainment will be held.

Mrs. Louis B. Erwin and Mrs. Irvin McDowell will be hostesses at the Friday afternoon tea at the College club. The dramatic circle will present a group of plays on Saturday afternoon and Saturday evening. The plays are: "Three Pills in a Bottle," by Rachel Lyman Field; "Behind a Watteau Picture," by Robert Emmons Rogers, and a pantomime featuring Miss Augusta Swawite in a program of dances. Those taking part are Miss Anna Bjorklund, Miss Agnes Keanan, Miss Marion Goodsmith, Miss Margarete Koop, Miss Genevieve Forbes, Mrs. J. Trumann Streng, Mrs. Adolph Hartmann Jr., Miss Sarah Mulroy, Miss Dorothy Edwards, Miss Kathryn Schmidt, and Mrs. Charles Sloan.

Meetings preliminary to the Victory Liberty loan campaign, which opens on April 21, scheduled for the coming week include:

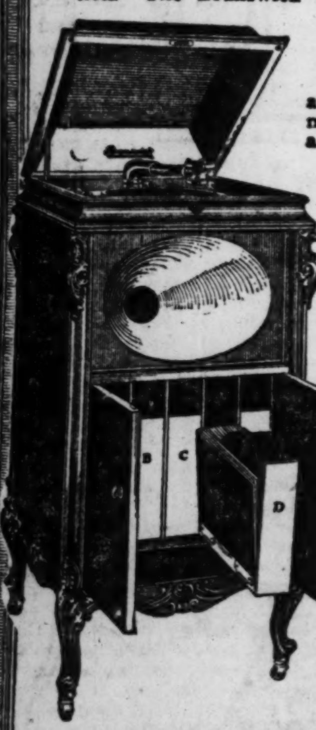
The Brunswick
ALL PHONOGRAPHS IN ONE

Why the Brunswick Method of Reproduction Insures a Superior Phonograph

Reason No. 1 The Brunswick Method of Reproduction includes the Ultona, a new conception in playing. The Ultona consists of an arrangement of the several necessary reproducing diaphragms upon one tone arm — an all-in-one arrangement, with no attachments — nothing to take off or put on.

At a turn of the hand, the Ultona presents to any type of record the proper diaphragm and needle, the exact weight. Thus the requirements of each type of record are met. The Ultona demands no sacrifice in tone, as attachments often do.

Reason No. 2 Equal in importance to reproduction is tone amplification. The Brunswick Method of Reproduction also includes a new idea in acoustics — The Brunswick Amplifier.



Old-time ideas were at variance. Some makers still cling to metal construction. Others use a combination of wood and metal—a wooden horn and a metal casting as the "throat."

But the Brunswick Amplifier is oval in shape, and built entirely of wood, like a fine violin. It is molded of rare holly-wood. The sound waves receive uniform amplification to reach their fullness, hence The Brunswick tone is richer and more natural. Strident, metallic notes are absent.

We Invite Comparison

Make comparisons. Let your ear decide. Try to find an equal to Brunswick tone.

You're bound to end such a search at a Brunswick Shop, where every opportunity will be given you to decide for yourself.

Can a Table Be "Human"?

Literally—perhaps not!

But almost!

It wasn't just idle sentiment that created a poem about an "old arm chair."

What was it?

Just this: that somebody had an arm chair that lasted a long, long time; and it was comfortable because it was made that way; and it wasn't just a chair to look at—and somebody became attached to it because it was a part of their daily life for years and years and years.

And that's what this story is about.

About Home Furnishings THAT LAST.

It is about the Home Furnishings you buy in the JOHN M. SMYTH Store, because THEY LAST and WE CAN PROVE IT.

There are Tables, and Chairs, and Dressers, and many other things that are still in use in Chicago Homes that were bought FROM US before the PRESENT GENERATION WAS BORN.

We guaranteed the quality then and we guarantee it NOW.

We only sell you Home Furnishings of Quality because we don't BUY OR MAKE ANY OTHER KIND.

That guarantee is worth something to YOU. CAPITALIZE IT!

THE SCHOOL COUNSELOR

"I will go with thee and be thy guide."—Everyman.

Are you uncertain which high school, college or university is best suited to the needs of your boy or girl?

Are you puzzled as to where to send your children when they graduate from the grammar school or high school?

Are you dissatisfied with the progress your boy or girl is making in school?

Do you wish advice on the different preparatory schools and colleges and the courses which they offer?

There are schools which train particularly for each and every line of endeavor. Do you desire information concerning these schools?

For any information you wish on schools and education write the School Counselor, Chicago Sunday Tribune.

[From time to time articles will appear in this column on the city and parochial high schools.]

TRAINING FOR THE FARM.

MANY inquiries have come in lately in regard to the study of agriculture as it is offered in the high schools, the parochial schools, the private schools, and also in the universities and colleges.

Usually it is the boy or the man who is interested. Occasionally it is the girl. The summer lies ahead, during which time there is an exodus of boys and young men to the country. Spring is here with its graduating of large numbers of students, and of these students, all of whom are interested in their future, a considerable number and a steadily increasing number are concerning themselves with agriculture.

The boys who returned from farm work last summer brought back, besides health, money and a consciousness of having done their bit. Many new ideas they developed, too, ideas which will be of value to themselves and to the communities where they live. These boys were bright high school lads, and they realized clearly their own lack of training for the work and the value of a thorough training in all farm processes and a knowledge of farm machinery. Many of the boys also brought back a liking for the work which will be an impetus to the "back to the land" movement.

Specialized education in farming is now widespread. With the value of this education well appreciated, agriculture courses are now established in all our high schools, in the parochial schools, and in the private schools, and the universities are devoting much time and energy of their own to interest and educate the prospective agriculturist.

The high school course in agriculture is, of course, but a beginning, and yet it is a most valuable one. It shows the boy what he needs to know and where he can gain added knowledge. At this point the university continues the work.

In the high school course the boy receives, in addition to English, which is always required, a training in botany, chemistry, horticulture, agronomy, perhaps zoology and physics, all valuable subjects. Then there is mechanical drawing, wood shop, and forge work. In this way the farmer boy can be his own carpenter and blacksmith. This leads to a study of farm mechanics and farm machinery, a most interesting line of work. The government has recognized its value to such an extent that a training in farm mechanics is given to the soldiers in the camps. Every farmer now must know how to repair his own tractor.

Boys with this training in farm machinery are able to earn enough during the summer to pay their winter expenses at school. The go out in the spring with the harvester companies and follow the harvest season from the southern states to the extreme north; their work consists of putting up and repairing harvesting machinery.

Farming, like every other industry or profession, has developed rapidly. There are many old time ideas which still prevail, however, and many still maintain that the way to learn farming is to go out on a farm and work. Likewise, it used to be the custom for a boy who wished to be a doctor to go into a doctor's office, and there, by reading and observation, he acquired an adequate knowledge of medicine. A lawyer was trained in much the same way.

Medical and law schools gradually emerged from these primitive methods, but agricultural schools have not fully established their claims. There are those who still maintain that the school of unguided experience still gives the best education in farming. How much education does pay a farmer, however, is now being answered in many different ways.

A few years ago the Missouri College of Agriculture conducted a survey of 656 farms in Johnson county, Mo. Among these farmers 554 had only a district school education, while 102 had received a great deal more than that. It was found that the better educated farmers were operating 83 per cent more land and that they owned four-fifths of the land they operated, as against three-fifths owned by those with only district school education. They kept one-sixth more stock, worked 14 per cent more land per workman, and earned 71 per cent more clear labor income per year.

A study of education and farm income made a few years ago in New York state brought forth the fact that of 1,303 farmers in four townships no college graduate had been reduced to the position of a renter, and that among the renters 83 per cent had at most only a district school education.

Prof. O. R. Johnson, in concluding his report, says: "While other factors have played some part in the greater earning capacity of the educated farmer, yet from a careful study of the organization of his business it appears that education must have played a large part in his greater earning capacity."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

"I would like to get more education. A school that teaches correspondence offers me a high school course. Do you think that its course will fit me to enter college, as it claims?"
P. K.

If the correspondence school of which you write is a reliable one, its course will fit you to enter a university or college when you have completed it. Without knowing the name of the correspondence school I cannot give you any definite information concerning it.

"I would like to have you answer a few questions for me. I am a junior in high school and I intend to take up a medical course after I graduate. The school I shall probably go to is Rush Medical. Do I have to have a knowledge of Latin, and how many years of that subject? Would you advise a young man to study medicine? Do I need a preparatory course to enter this school and how many years?
"H. O."

Three years of Latin are necessary to enter Rush Medical college. Four years of high school and two years of university work are also required. Medicine is a most excellent profession for a young man to follow if he is interested in it.

"Five months ago I came to Chicago from southern Illinois, where I have taught two years in the public schools. I received my second grade certificate by virtue of examination. I have been told that in order to teach in the public schools here an applicant must be a normal graduate. Must I go to normal before qualifying? J. S."

To teach in the public schools of Chicago one must be a normal graduate. Why don't you go to the Chicago Normal college and inquire concerning the courses it offers? The college is located at Sixty-eighth street and Stewart avenue. William Bishop Owen is the principal.

"Can you advise me how to improve my spelling and penmanship? I had to stop school on account of sickness when I was young, and now I find it hard to get along without these two studies. Is there a correspondence school or can you tell me if there is a night school in the city where I can go? B. K."

There are correspondence schools and night schools which will teach you spelling and penmanship and English, too, which you will doubtless find of great help to you later in business. If you will send me your name and address I shall be glad to mail you a list of these schools.

"I am a man 23 years old and find myself interested in the same sort of work I was interested in seven years ago. At that time I could not pursue the study of it. I have my mind on the study of architecture and landscape gardening. I have only two years of high school training in architectural drawing, which might be foundation enough to start the course of study. Will you tell me if you think it is too late in life to start at the bottom of such a thing? Also will you tell me whether a course in advertising would be better at this time, and advise me on what school to attend? Will heartily appreciate any assistance you may render. H. B."

You are certainly not too old to start studying architecture and landscape gardening if you have a real talent for it and a strong desire to make it your life work. It is impossible to advise you which to take up, architecture or advertising, without knowing something of your ability along each line. Advertising is a good line of business if you wish a business life and there are many opportunities in it. If you will send me your address I shall be glad to send you the name of some schools at which you can study architecture and landscape gardening.

Below is the list of courses offered in the Chicago high schools. Have you children who will enter shortly? Or have you children already in high school and are you in doubt as to whether they are pursuing the courses best suited to them?

There are over twenty courses to select from. Are you sure what line of work your boy or girl is best fitted for?

We shall be glad to answer questions on any subject pertaining to school. We want to help you to select the best the city offers in the way of training and education for your boy and girl. We want you to obtain the best the city offers in training and education for your boys and girls.

Copies of these courses will be mailed on application and detailed information given regarding them. The courses desired should be specified and a stamp inclosed.

HINTS FOR BEAUTIFYING THE HOME

The question of how effective the furnishings and decorations of your home are is largely a question of lighting.

Many times effective and proper lighting is impossible with existing fixtures, and proper lighting as the most important feature of making a home attractive is not always understood by landlords. In the past this difficulty could not readily be removed, but now ELECTRIC SHOPS have made it easy to correct this condition. For a dollar or two a month, added to your electric light bill for a year, you can purchase an attractive fixture with which you can replace an existing fixture, and if you move from the premises your own fixture can be taken with you—like the rest of your furniture—and the old one restored.

When you next pay your bill for light, pay it at the Edison building, 72 West Adams Street, and at the same time step into their beautiful new fixture room and look over some of the handsome furnishings in the fixture line which you can secure and hardly know that you are paying for them.—Advertisement.

NEW WARS FOR OLD.

The present war was the outgrowth of forces largely economic, though organized and concentrated by political entities, some of them, notably Austria-Hungary, comprising within themselves various conditions of race, social character, religion, and even of conflicting economic interest. Theoretically, and in large measure actually, it was a struggle of political opposites. We were constantly told that it was liberalism versus autocracy, although the presence of imperial Russia and autocratic Japan on the liberal side was rather embarrassing to this claim. Nevertheless, the main combatants did in fact differ in political organization, and the war morale on our side, at any rate, was greatly enhanced by this conception of the main issue.

Later events, however, have changed and still are changing the situation. If we have had a war of the liberal nations against the autocratic, we are now each day more clearly confronting an opposition, which may become war, between liberalism and radicalism, between representative democracy and bolshevism.

The gravity of this new struggle will be largely determined by the course of events in Germany. If Germany passes into bolshevism the contest may be more desperate and destructive than the war from which we are now emerging. If Germany becomes a representative democracy the balance will be safely on the side of the latter and a swing back in that direction even in Russia may be hoped for.

But in any case, the fact remains that we have today a tremendous opposition of economic systems which threaten consequences of world-wide extent.

The economic and financial factor is indeed at the heart of the desperate problem which Europe faces today and is grappling with in Paris. We have seen how the financial entanglements of Russia and France, which bolshevism had tried to sever with one blow, are complicating the problem of peace with Germany, and we can foresee that a radical Germany promises similar difficulties. At present conservative forces are holding a precarious power in central Europe, but at any moment they may be swept away. Suppose this occurs either immediately upon the acceptance of the drastic and onerous terms which the peace conference certainly will impose upon the central powers or after a term during which extreme radicalism waxes strong upon the effects of heavy taxation and other consequences of war and the peace terms. At best, conditions in central Europe are going to be painful for all its people, and upon such conditions bolshevism is sure to thrive.

We must confront, therefore, the possibility of a revolution in Germany and Austria, if not throughout central Europe and possibly even in Italy, and the consequences which are almost certain to flow therefrom. One of these is pretty likely to be a repudiation of the financial obligations imposed by the Paris conference. Besides this the peace terms are to set up a number of new political entities, some of which will represent an overlapping or conflict of economic interest, the command of resources or thoroughfares. Poland, German Austria, Bohemia, Jugo-Slavia, Italy, Greece, Roumania, and Bulgaria represent an almost inextricable tangle of conflicting interest involving considerations of economic, strategic, religious, and racial nature. Any settlement must be a compromise, involving sacrifice of cherished hopes and claims. These hopes and claims are not merely the figment of governments or of privileged classes, but, in many cases, run deeply into the life of the various peoples. The conflicts between Roumania and Hungary, between Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary, between the Poles and Ukrainians, are not the creation of autocratic politics but are of the people, and the establishment of liberal institutions does not moderate them. While democracies may, on the whole, be more reluctant to go to war than autocracies or military aristocracies, they do make savage war over their own interests.

This is apparent from the present condition of Europe, where four years of titanic warfare have not prevented the immediate outbreak of popular wars. Poland is at war with the Bohemians over territorial claims. Hungary has been invaded on all her frontiers by all her new republican neighbors. Italy and Jugo-Slavia are at daggers drawn. The new psychology for which Mr. Wilson calls is not apparent. Only the greater nations now wish peace. But how long will they resist the temptation to take sides in the jealous rivalries of the smaller nations which possess useful resources or desirable situations?

Meanwhile upon this ancient scene of conflict is imposed the new menace of a great social-economic revolution spreading in an atmosphere of suffering, confusion, and discontent from bolshevist Russia.

That there is need for a larger coöperation among the greater powers to calm and control this clash of appetite and ambition no one will deny. But America, which was created by people of all races who wished to draw away from this age long struggle of the old world, would do well to study very carefully any agreement she is invited to make for the surveillance of world conditions. If, without surveying the situation with clear eyes, we sign a general warrant to keep the peace wherever it is endangered, we shall presently find our sons in arms to collect debts we did not make or guarantee, to correct boundaries which do not concern us, to support ambitions we have no part in. The task is likely to be interminable. We have helped to defeat the militarist imperial world conquest of Prussia. Are we, therefore, bound to underwrite the resultant map, the peace of Europe, whatever happens? Suppose Germany becomes bolshevist within a few years and, therefore, repudiates her debts and obligations wherever they run? Are we to maintain an army of Americans to enforce these obligations and set up or support indefinitely a régime which will respect them? Suppose bolshevism should spread to Italy, or through Austria or Belgium and Holland, or into Spain? Are we ready now to pledge ourselves to whatever task of discipline or control may be determined upon by other powers?

It might very well prove to be advisable or necessary for us to enter upon this task as we helped overthrow the Prussian design. But are we ready to foreclose our choice now?

At least, we ought not to make this epochal decision blindly. The Paris covenant may not commit us irrevocably. We are not certain what it does, but until we are certain we cannot make a wise decision. When we are certain, we have then before us, fairly, the question whether and to what extent we are willing to bind ourselves and our posterity, the most momentous question in our history.

"A HOME FIT FOR HEROES."

It cannot be fit with slums. It cannot be fit with ill nourished school children. It cannot be fit if it has patches of life barely endurable.

It will not be fit if it is indifferent to bestial conditions which cannot be remedied by the people who suffer from them. A home fit for heroes cannot be a small room between a geranium bed and a garbage can.

It will not be fit with the air full of smoke and streets full of filth. It will not be fit with ugliness its predominating characteristic. It will not be fit if great numbers of people in it are housed in worse fashion than animals ought to be stabled.

We said the men went abroad to make the United States safe. Some Americans said that they went abroad to make humanity safe, but the men went to make America safe. Some of them went from Chicago. Some of them are coming back to Chicago—not all of them. They went to preserve something. It is our job to make it worth preserving.

Slums are not the product of a city's inevitability. They are the product of its stupidity, of its indifference, lack of perception and thought. A great mass of people cannot live together as four families might live at a country crossroads. Their interdependence demands an assumption of responsibility by the people who can do things for the people who cannot.

A home fit for heroes will be one in which there is a recognition of responsibility by the people who might do things for the people who cannot.

Life has a right to comfort and material competence; it has a right to color and decoration; it has a right to find itself interesting. It cannot proceed by the suppression of everything that is alluring and by failure to suppress what is squalid.

A home fit for heroes will have healthy allure and beauty, cleanliness, convenience and comfort, clean air, clean streets, decent street cars, no slums, plenty of amusements.

We may be working towards a desirable condition—but slowly and without a comprehended plan. We are getting the forest preserve. We are getting the boulevard link. We need action on the lake shore development. We need street car service. We need more music. We need more athletics—boxing included.

We need not to be so afraid of ourselves and not to be so indifferent to ourselves. We need to brighten up and clean up—to start something.

The prevailing idea is that the proper correction of life is by taking something out of it. The right idea is to put something in it. Chicago needs steam shovels at work, and brooms and bands—a quickening of work, a heightening of pleasure, a development in accomplishment and in beauty.

It could become a sightly city fit for the people who live in it. Then it would be a home fit for heroes.

"SAVE AND PAY UP."

There were not a few persons who thought after the armistice was signed the country could go back to the old scale of extravagance. With the passing of the war, it was argued, the necessity for thrift had passed. Some millions of people learned an emphatic lesson to the contrary when they filed their income tax returns.

But there are deeper reasons why we must continue to practice thrift. A. C. Miller of the federal reserve board estimates the credit and currency inflation of the country at some $6,000,000,000, by which he means that our credit and currency has been increased by that amount over and above the actual necessities of our industrial growth. Inflation is one of the chief reasons why prices are high. The money is in circulation, but goods are scarce.

In the same connection it is estimated about $6,000,000,000 in government loans are being carried in or by the banks, and the government will probably have to borrow at least $7,000,000,000 more to meet our expenditures for the remainder of the fiscal year.

Mr. Miller declares that these $13,000,000,000 in public securities will have to be taken up by genuine saving "if our financial and credit system is to be sterilized of the taint of inflation at present upon it." And if we fail to save prices are likely to go higher with the attendant dangers of panics, not to mention industrial disorders.

We haven't begun as yet to pay our war bill. We cannot pay it by some financial hocus pocus. The only way we can discharge the obligation is to practice thrift. Pay for your Liberty bonds first and then deposit all the money you can spare in the bank.

LOVE STRUGGLES TO BE FREE.

[From the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

After several years of experience with eugenic laws it is now being proposed in Wisconsin to repeal them as unsuitable and onerous. Before the general assembly the author, a resident of Milwaukee, asserted that so unreasonable were the marriage statutes that a large number of persons intending matrimony crossed over to Waukegan, Ill., and there took their nuptial oaths.

At the beginning the prediction was made that the eugenic campaign to introduce stock farm methods into human affairs eventually would come to grief. There is something about human beings that they do not even understand themselves, much less the scientific psychologists, psychiatrists, and others of that breed who make charts and diagrams of the currents of the soul. Love's young dream should not be rudely dispelled by a demand for life insurance and medical statistics. Hymen, and not Galen or Hippocrates, should bear the wedding torch, and Cupid, not an aseptically gowned hospital orderly, should chant the epithalamium.

THE JOLLY BALANCE.

The "jolly balance" of all things
On this queer ancient earth,
The jolly scheme behind the stars
Of life and death and birth—

All these the dear God knows, and knows
The game we're out to play,
And makes the jolly balance swing
All through the jolly day.

A CHICAGO gentleman reported to his wife that the lady who sat next to him at a dinner was very charming, and looked extremely well in white. "But, my dear," said his wife, "she was not dressed in white." He persisted, and she denied, until finally it dawned on him. "Good heavens!" he exclaimed, "was all that skin?"

Sir: Being somewhat religiously inclined, I have occasionally sent you—and you have been discriminating enough to print—wheezes which might be classified as religious and subclassified as biblical, theological, hymnological, ecclesiastical, homiletical, and ministerial. I hope that hereafter you will reserve all such contributions for the Sunday edition. A Sunday paper should be made as religious as possible. CALCITROSUS.

WE don't know anything about finance, but we know what we like; and our idea would be to have the new brew of Root beer carry the same rate as the new Liberty bonds—4½ per cent.

GREATER CHICAGO.

[From the London Times.]

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, the American flying "Ace," was given a town banquet in his honour on arriving at his home in Columbus, Chicago.

"WE were singing for some Britishers," relates Frank Kenney of the Seventh regulars, "and one of them requested a song, the title of which he could not remember. 'The people in it are mad,' he explained; 'quite out of their minds.' With this clue we finally guessed the title, 'They Go Wild, Simply Wild, Over Me.'"

MANY, MANY THANKS!

Sir: Travelers passing thro' Abilene, Texas, on the T. and P. have a pleasant moment viewing the palatial establishment and obtrusive signboard of Laughter Bros., undertakers. But, if it's chop suey you want, then Guey Sam of 22d street West is your man. J. D. M.

The Flu of Yesteryear.

Sir: When the flu is pronounced a very modern invention are we overlooking the Widow Bedott's recital to Elder Sniffles:

O Reverend sir, I do declare
It drives me most to frenzy,
To think of you a lying there
Down sick with influenzy.
A body'd thought it was enough
To mourn your wife's departen,
Without sich trouble as this 'ere
To come a follerin' arter.

A little farther off and Dr. Buchan (1792) advises "oil of annise, camphire, and the vapours of frankincense and benjamin." Pliny, also, might furnish stranger remedies. ALFRED BULL.

AT this critical stage in the history of civilization it may not be inappropriate to record the fact that Fred Goat is President of the Brooklyn Masonic Veterans.

WE ARE FIRST COUSIN TO DISCRETION.

Sir: The young men who purchase corsages and baskets of me for the ladies of their choice are always so very secretive regarding the cards they inclose. After writing them they lick 'em tight in the envelope. Being young and curious, I find no difficulty in reading the cards by holding to an electric light. My conscience troubles me, but, being too bashful to tell the young men, I am relying on your discretion. MADELINE.

The Education of William Albert.

Sir: "A little botheral, if you're in the mood," as Keats wrote to Haydon. There spent the evening with me William Albert, just back from Flanders fields with the Croix de Guerre and a boche helmet which he thinks might be converted into an indirect light for the scriptorium. Fascinating young philistine, he plans "to take fifteen hours" this semester, and diffidently I nominated a modicum of belles-lettres—a bit of Tennyson's "mighty-mouth'd inventor of harmonies." Kindly but firm, William Albert demurred: "A fellow wants somethin' practical, somethin' he can use. You know, Prof, th' country's comin' back strong—peppy—you know: I can't just express it, but you get me. Th' lil ol' U. S. A. is gonna be It, an' edjacation's gotta be—well, you know whatta mean." On the floor beside a small wooden writing desk that once was Thomas Gray's stands a paunchy folio. "Practical, son?" said I, hoisting the ragged veteran to my knee, "something a fellow can use? Listen." And the sonorous cadences of the Areopagitica—Elia's "organ music"—rolled out: "Methinks I see in my mind a noble and puissant nation rousing herself like a strong man after sleep, and shaking her invincible locks. Methinks I see her as an eagle mewing her mighty youth and kindling her undazzled eyes at the full midday beam, purging and unscaling her long-abused sight at the fountain itself of heavenly radiance, while the whole noise of timorous and flocking birds, with those also that love the twilight, flutter about, amazed at what she means, and in their envious gabble would prognosticate a year of sects and schisms." William Albert sat at attention. "Prof, what is that?" "Literature, son," said I. "Milton. Will you sign up?" And William Albert lifted the book from my knee and began to turn the pages. P. D. S.

THIS GLOBE TROTTER HASN'T REACHED CHICAGO YET.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin.]

"This is a great town," writes "Traveler" from the Hotel St. Francis. "I have been all over the country, but I have seen no other place where they issue evening papers in the morning and morning papers in the evening. Why is it?" Well, San Francisco is just that much ahead of other places, that's all.

THE difference between the old Germany and the new is the difference between Hans Sachs the cobbler and Ebert the saddler.

Where He Gets His Brightness.

Sir: Two distributors, one of corsets, the other of sausage casings, occupy contiguous floors in a south side building. Of course the obvious will readily occur to many of your aides, that is, that these two concerns are appropriately juxtaposed, both being makers of corsets, or both being makers of casings, just as you please. As for me, I rather prefer f. w.'s reason for the propinquity. "I have worn the stays," she irresistibly remarks, "and I never sausage casings." W. S.

WHAT THEY THOUGHT OF JIM'S CIGARS.

[From the Crockery and Glass Journal.]

It is becoming quite the fashion among salesmen to tender their visitors red apples in lieu of cigars. "Jim" Gordon, of the Jones, McDuffee & Stratton Co., started it. He gave his customers the choice between apples and cigars, and apples went nine times out of ten. Half a dozen other salesmen at Pittsburgh last month fell in with the idea, and it looks as though the Red Apple would become a craze.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

Dr. Evans' advice on "How to Keep Well" appears daily on the editorial page of "The Daily Tribune."

EPIDEMIC LETHARGIC ENCEPHALITIS.

JUST about a year ago a new disease appeared in France and England. Possibly by reason of the war it did not attract the attention which its importance demanded. But then it did not seem to be of great importance; it did not affect many people; it was not violently contagious and, in most places, about four-fifths of those attacked recovered and without serious after effects. The disease slowly spread and apparently has now reached many places in this country. Since it is being publicly commented on as a new and terrible disease it is worth while giving some facts about it.

At first there was considerable uncertainty as to its nature. Some physicians who had treated cases regarded it as a form of severe food poisoning something like ptomaine poisoning. For a long time effort was always made to run down the particular spoiled food responsible for the disease. Efforts to identify the disease as botulism or ptomaine poisoning and to find the ptomaine chemically, as well as efforts to find the bacillus of botulism, were finally desisted from, as no success had been had in this line of investigation.

Then some persons regarded the disease as a form of meningitis. There is always an increase of meningitis in war times, and this disease sometimes runs a course far different from that which is regarded as typical. Then effort was made to prove that it was a form of infantile paralysis differing from the typical form of this disorder in that it generally affected adults, did not have symptoms typical of infantile paralysis, and that it left no after paralysis. Nevertheless as late as five months ago a leading medical journal of great influence had a long editorial in which it was argued that the disease was a form of infantile paralysis.

The name—lethargic encephalitis—means inflammation of the brain characterized clinically by a considerable degree of stupor. Among other names given it are infective ophthalmoplegia, acute encephalitis, toxic ophthalmoplegia, botulism meningitis, acute poliomyletis, infantile paralysis and Heine-Medin disease.

Among the symptoms quoted by the Journal of the American Medical association from Hall are these: "The patient while in ordinary health begins to be languid and drowsy with or without other symptoms. In a few hours or days the weakness has increased and indeed may amount to complete prostration so that he lies helpless in bed and can hardly move a muscle. Now the drowsiness becomes more marked and deepens into lethargy. Fever may be absent or it may be present from the first, become severe and persist. Cerebral excitement and delirium have been prominent features in some cases. There may be drooping of the eyelids, paralysis of the muscles of the eyeballs, nystagmus or oscillating movements of the eyeballs, paralysis of some of the muscles of the face, difficulty in enunciating and difficulty in swallowing. In many cases there are muscle tremors, at times in one limb and at times in another, the location and extent never being uniform."

The disease rarely attacks any except persons over twenty years of age. It seldom attacks two members of the same family. It is difficult to prove that it is contagious in any sense. In the main it is a disease of the late winter and early spring.

Pothier reports a small epidemic of the disease which appeared among soldiers at Camp Lee the latter part of October, 1918. The first case was a corporal who had influenza six weeks before. He first noticed that he was seeing double and that he had some difficulty in swallowing. He was conscious, rational and free from fever except during a part of one day. After a day or two the man developed some difficulty in breathing. Five days after he was taken sick and died. The autopsy proved that the man did not have meningitis or infantile paralysis. There seemed to be an inflammation of the brain substance itself. Here was a man without fever or rapid pulse, without aches or pains, yet dying at the end of five days.

Two months later the second case occurred—a lieutenant who had noticed double vision, headaches, lack of appetite and constipation for two days consulted Maj. Pothier. He stated that he was in the habit of seeing double whenever his digestion was disordered. Close examination showed that there was a weakness of one of the eye muscles, a fever which did not go above 102, lasted for four days and then went away. Having seen the first case Maj. Pothier was able to make a diagnosis of lethargic encephalitis in this case.

The third case developed about three weeks later. A private noticed double vision the day before he was admitted to the hospital. On admission he had double vision, vertigo and constipation. He had a slight fever which lasted twelve days after the patient entered the hospital. There were no other symptoms except that the man had some paralysis of one eye muscle and nystagmus. He got well.

A corporal had acute inflammation of his middle ear on Jan. 1. Three weeks later he developed double vision and vertigo. This man had a slight fever for ten days. On the strength of his experience with the other cases Dr. Pothier made a diagnosis of lethargic encephalitis.

The next day after case No. 4 appeared a private came to the hospital on whom the doctor made the diagnosis on the strength of a low fever and vertigo. A week later another private was thought to have the disease because of nausea, headache, vertigo and double vision. The temperature in this case ranged between 98 and 100.

Case No. 7 was a lieutenant who had vertigo, drowsiness, double vision, and sensitiveness to light.

Case to No. 8 had vertigo, weakness, great drowsiness, delirium, difficulty in swallowing and paralysis of the left side of the face.

It may be doubtful whether all these cases were lethargic encephalitis, but some of them were, and the most typical case in the list was the first one seen. Having watched that case through, and made an autopsy on it, his opinion as to atypical cases is better than that of any one who has not seen any cases of the disease. If the eight cases were lethargic encephalitis two facts are established. One is that the disease may run a very mild course. Only one out of eight cases in this series died and some of the cases were very slightly sick.

In the earlier part of the French epidemic one-half the cases died. In the early part of the British epidemic 20 per cent of the cases were fatal.

The second point established is that we have had the disease in the United States since last October. This proves that it spreads slowly. In two cases reported by Marie from France there was double vision, headache, drooping of the eyelids, somnolence, lethargy, and slight fever. One of these cases died on the ninth day. The other lay in a state of almost complete coma for seven weeks and then died.

The Journal of the American Medical Association refers to cases that sleep for three months, during which bed sores developed, but which later recovered completely.

The reports are that when the disease terminates in recovery there is no permanent paralysis and no wasting, as there is after infantile paralysis. There is no loss of the sight or hearing, as there is after meningitis.

There are some who hold that the disease is really a modified meningitis in which, however, the meningicoccus attacks the brain and not the meninges, but against that there is the fact that the eyeballs do not shrivel and the hearing is not lost, as so frequently happens in meningitis.

Cases of this disease should be reported to the health department. The physician connected with that organization should be given the opportunity to learn what they can about the new disease.

Probably about the same precautions as are employed to prevent the spread of meningitis will be employed. The treatment must only be symptomatic.

PROPER GLASSES.

Mrs. J. B. writes: "Tiny water blisters form on the rim of my eyelids, interfere with eyesight, and feel as though there was something in the eye. A few months ago they did not appear so often, but lately appear almost every day. What is the cause and cure? Would glasses be of any benefit in my case? My age is 38 years."

REPLY.

This symptom generally indicates a need for properly fitting glasses.

MOSQUITO PROOF.

Traveler writes: "I intend to go to the tropical countries on business, and I'd like to know if there is anything that can be done to prevent me from getting malaria?"

REPLY.

Do not permit mosquitoes to bite you. Sleep under mosquito netting. Stay in screened rooms from late afternoon until breakfast time. If you must go where mosquitoes are thick and biting in the daytime use a repellent. Some persons take five grains of quinine a day in addition to the above precautions.

MILITARY COURTS.

Boscobel, Wis., March 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—There has been so much written about the injustice of military courts martial during the war that the average civilian is likely to form the opinion that the entire system is wrong and that its complete abandonment with the substitution of a system more like our ordinary civil courts is desirable. My experience as a trial judge advocate of a court martial (analogous to the prosecuting attorney of the civil courts) at one of our camps has convinced me that the system, properly administered, affords as much protection to individual rights as do our courts in civil life.

Military courts are governed on the whole by the ordinary rules of evidence. Every sentence is subject to review by the commanding officer, through the camp or division judge advocate's office. Undue severity, I believe, can be avoided by a more careful selection of courts on a basis of judicial temperament and training. If the camp or division judge advocate is a thoroughly trained lawyer and the commanding officer follows carefully his recommendations in passing on each case, absurd sentences will not get by. The trial judge advocate should be careful to secure able counsel for each accused and should not consider it his duty to secure the most possible convictions. These conditions, I believe, prevailed in the court with which I was associated, with the result that in a dozen cases, ranging from absence without lease to rape, no sentence of over two years was imposed and upheld.

It might be well for congress to set a maximum limit of punishment instead of the elastic "such punishment as a court martial may direct." In other respects, however, the advantages and necessities of the system as pointed out in a recent TRIBUNE editorial should be preserved and the reform come from within. C. F. WHIFFEN.

BUTTONS AND JAPAN.

Davenport, Ia., March 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In a recent issue appeared an article calling attention to the shortage of buttons and in consequence, the need for reclaiming buttons from castoff wearing apparel.

This article in itself is misleading, since the buttons in the lead as to quantity used (and this mainly in giving real service) are of domestic manufacture, and there is at the present time an ample supply. Furthermore, the normal rate of production is such that the domestic trade need not fear having to resort to pins or, perchance, nails.

We might state, however, that the domestic or fresh water pearl button industry has been seriously affected by reason of the importation of Japanese pearl buttons, made possible by the totally inadequate tariff protection applicable at present. It will be necessary to revise the tariff schedule in order that this strictly American industry maintain normal activity now that import restrictions and handicaps are being removed. M. A. OHLSEN.

THE FRIEND OF THE SOLDIER

The Friend of the Soldier will coöperate with the war risk insurance bureau of the treasury department, 1307 Stock Exchange building, Chicago, and with the committee of the Chicago Bar association on legal assistance to soldiers and sailors, 105 West Monroe street.

Address inquiries to Friend of the Soldier, "Chicago Tribune." Answers to as many as possible will be published in this department. To insure a personal reply an addressed and stamped envelope should be inclosed.

No attention will be paid to anonymous letters.

ABOUT INSURANCE.

Centralia, Ill., March 18.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—I wish to carry $5,000 of my $10,000 war risk insurance. 1. Is it possible to make this change? 2. If so, how should I go about it? 3. Will the policy lapse if premium is not paid on the first of the month? 4. Can one send premium without the certificate number? C. H. C.

1. Yes.
2. State definitely in a letter just what change you wish to make and direct the letter to the insurance section, bureau of war risk insurance, Washington, D. C.
3. No. You have thirty days grace.
4. The policy or certificate number should always accompany any payment or other reference to the insurance.

ANSWERS.

Daly and Donahue.—The army of occupation will soon be composed of the seven regular army divisions. It has not yet been determined whether some national guard divisions will be added to the forces. However, the Seventy-eighth division, which was originally mentioned for replacements in the army of occupation, has recently been released for return. Some of the men in the regular army divisions are men who were inducted into the army through the selective service, but they are not considered members of the regulars through being transferred to a regular army organization.

Virgil Sill.—The time it takes for a letter to travel to Chicago and a unit in France is about three weeks. The best way to keep the soldier in touch with the news is to mail newspapers or clippings to him right along.

Miss F. I. M.—The Third army is in Germany. We do not know when the Three Hundred and Twenty-ninth field hospital with the Third army headquarters will return.

Michael G.—The One Hundred and Thirty-first infantry will be home in May. It is one of the units in the makeup of the Thirty-third division.

Mrs. W. C. Iverson.—Unless you could tell us the branch of service with which your husband is connected we could not give any information about his return. The Second company, headquarters battalion, is not a complete address.

Walter Harding.—The One Hundred and Thirteenth engineers is one of the units in the Thirty-eighth division. Company D is in St. Blin, France.

Frank L. Payne, Eagle Grove, Ia.—A. P. O. 714 is located in Langres, and A. P. O. 705 is in St. Maxient.

Ike New—Casual companies are composed of men unattached to any units, who are formed into companies according to the states from which they come.

M. J. B., Canton, Ill.—Coast artillery regiment 75 returned on the Aeolus, which arrived March 11.

Mrs. B. D. Lee—The Three Hundred and Twenty-fourth labor battalion was lately reported located in Nogent-en-Bassigny. It is not attached to any division. No mention of its return.

Miss Clanahan, Winnetka, Ill.—The headquarters of the Second division is in Heddesdorf, Germany. Divisions One, Two, Three, Four, Five, Six, and Seven are to stay in the army of occupation.

John Swanson—The Three Hundred and Forty-fifth machine gun battalion is near Berncastel, Germany, with the Ninetieth division. It is expected to sail for the United States in June.

N. Jamieson—Base hospital 1 is in Vichy, France. It has not been ordered to prepare for homecoming.

Mrs. Hubert—Coast artillery regiment 51 is stationed in Fort Hamilton, New York. A. P. O. 741 is in Mehun, France.

Miss Florence England—The Third provisional training regiment is stationed in Le Mans and it will very probably be held there for some time to come. A great many of the men in this unit were taken from the Blackhawk division.

Margaret Warren, Libertyville, Ill.—Motor supply train 428 is not in the army of occupation. Location is Brest.

THE TARIFF COMMISSION.

Hammond, Ind., March 19.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Who fostered the tariff commission board? When was it established? What are its powers, and as it now acts does it establish a just protective tariff on all goods imported or approximately so? E. D. C.

The tariff commission bill was introduced in the house on Feb. 1, 1916, by Representative Rainey of Illinois. Again on March 28, 1916, it was introduced in a modified form, and after some further revision on the part of the senate was passed during the life of the Sixty-fourth congress and approved by the president on Sept. 8, 1916.

The commission is composed of six members appointed by the president, with the approval of the senate, and in exercising this power of appointment he is to see that not more than three members are of the same political party. The first commission members, who were appointed in April, 1917, were to hold office for terms of two, four, six, eight, ten, and twelve years respectively, but their successors will be appointed for terms of twelve years.

The commission investigates the administration and fiscal and industrial effects of customs laws, the relation between duty rates on raw material and finished or unfinished products, looks after the operation of customs laws. It may also investigate tariff relations between this country and foreign countries, commercial treaties, economic alliances, etc.

The commission is solely a body for investigation and is without administrative power. It does not afford protection.

SHAKING RUGS FROM BACK PORCHES.

Chicago, March 17.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The tenants of this building persist in shaking and beating rugs on their back porches, with the result that dirt and dust are continually entering open windows and doors. The agents of the building have been asked to put a stop to it, but apparently they take no interest in the matter. Is there not some way the people living on the upper floors can be made to stop this practice? READER.

Respecting the complaint against premises 4734 North Robey street, I have to advise you that an investigation was made by an inspector from this department, as a result of which a notice was served on the owner and tenant to abate nuisance of dust caused by beating, shaking, or sweeping rugs on rear porch.

JOHN DILL ROBERTSON,
Commissioner of Health.

POCAHONTAS COAL NOW BEING USED.

Chicago, March 18.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The chimney on building located at 34 South Clark street is a persistent violator of the smoke ordinance and daily emits volumes of smoke and gas which make life a burden for the workers in nearby buildings.

Repeated complaints to the smoke department have brought assurances of action but no relief.

Is there not some way to compel compliance with the law in this case? M. D.

This plant is now burning Pocahontas coal, and should be able to operate without annoyance to tenants of adjoining buildings.

W. H. REID,
Smoke Inspector.

LEASE STILL IN EFFECT.

Chicago, March 18.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—In October, 1917, I leased a flat for one year, and at the end of the year I told the landlord I would stay another year. When I paid my rent the landlord said he had a lease made out but had mislaid it and could not find it, but accepted the rent and has every month since. When I went to pay the March rent he told me he would have to raise the rent $5 a month.

1. Does my lease hold good—that is, the one given to me at first for one year?
2. Does his taking the rent every month in the second year make the lease a holdover and good until October, 1919?
J. J. K.

1. Yes.
2. Yes. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WIDOW TAKES ONE-THIRD.

Galesburg, Ill., March 18.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A died leaving no will. He left a few thousand dollars in bonds and life insurance, made out to "estate," totaling about $25,000. He is survived by a wife and two little children, also by a father and mother and sister. Who inherits? R. C.

If the deceased resided in this state the widow will take one-third and the children the balance.

BALZAC THE MUSICIAN

By James Gibbons Huneker

WHILE we believe that George Moore's comparison of Balzac with Shakespeare is more Celtic than critical, nevertheless it cannot be denied that in the hierarchy of creative artists Balzac stands next to Shakespeare in the fecundity of his imagination. Henley described "The Human Comedy" as "a monstrous debauch of the imagination"; but surely no more of a "debauch" than the Plays. All abnormal productivity of the intellect so impresses us—Rabelais, Goethe, Lope de Vega, Robert Browning, Richard Wagner. There are more than two thousand figures in "The Human Comedy," clearly characterized, no two alike; and each man and woman you might meet during a day's stroll about Paris. Balzac and music. Balzac and women. Balzac and money. Balzac and politics. Or, Balzac and a thousand themes. His encyclopedic knowledge, extraordinary sympathies and powers of expression, do they not fairly drench every line the man penned? He could analyze the art of painting and foresee its future affinities with impressionism (read "The Unknown Masterpiece") as in "Gambara" he divined Berlioz, Wagner, and Richard Strauss.

Balzac's "Gambara" and "Massimila Doni—what genius he had in selecting names that inwardly and outwardly suited his characters. Think of "Z. Marcus," think of his feeling for the mystic quantity inclosed in the zigzag of the last letter of the alphabet. After rereading "Gambara" we feel tempted into echoing Mr. Moore's extravagant assertion. Balzac is not a novelist but a magician. What sets him apart from other novelists, even from his technical superior, Gustave Flaubert, is his faculty of vision. He is a seer. His predilection for Emanuel Swedenborg was deep calling unto deep.

Any motive the Frenchman touched, whether music, usury, or erotics, he vivified with his prophetic imagination. He saw his theme concretely, he saw its roots in the dead past, and, plunging his eyes into the future, he foresaw its spiritual aura, its ultimate evolution and incarnations. Such a man as Honoré de Balzac might have been a second Bonaparte, a second Beethoven, so magnificent were his physical and spiritual energies. He had science, he had magnetism, and he elected to become the social historian of the nineteenth century France and after, the greatest romancer that ever lived, and the profoundest psychologist since Dante. His "Human Comedy" is unconsciously modeled upon "The Divine Comedy," and contains its inferno, purgatory, though not its paradise, unless the dazzling seventh heaven of "Seraphita" be considered an equivalent for Dante's supremely ecstatic vision. But the various circles of the inferno transposed to Paris, with their damned and tortured souls, are in "The Human Comedy."

RODIN alone has interpreted Balzac. As for novelists who followed him, they fairly nest in his books, draw their nourishment from them, and build their souls in his vast reservoir of spiritual certitudes. The swiftest way to describe Balzac is to enumerate the negations of his contemporaries and successors. All they lacked and lack he had in such amazing abundance that comparison is not only absurd, it is cruel and brutal.

Surely Wagner must have read Balzac, whose musical romance "Gambara," was finished in June, 1837, and there are things in it that may have anticipated Hector Berlioz. However, the key to the book is not any particular personality, but its prevailing passion; Balzac always searched for the master passion in the lives of humans. Given the clew note, he developed his theme into symphonic proportions. His characters are charged with the electric vitality of their creator. It is Andrea's love of intrigue that leads him to follow the beautiful Marianna, wife of the composer, Gambara—a fantastic being worthy of Hoffmann. He is an Italian in Paris who wrote a mass for the anniversary of Beethoven's death, also an opera, "Mahomet."

And what an opera! Has such a score ever been dreamed of by any composer? Gambara is a poor man, looked upon as a lunatic, living in an Italian cookshop kept by Giardini —one of Balzac's delightful discoveries. All Balzac pulsates with discovery. Born at Cremona, Gambara studied music, especially the art of orchestration. For him music was a science and an art, for him a group of tones were definite ideas, not merely vibrations that agitate our nervous centers. Music has the power of restoring us to ourselves, of telling secrets of sex long buried in our subconsciousness.

By comparison the other arts are too obvious, too explicit. Fancy a writer of fiction delving into the philosophy of music more than eighty years ago! But like all great mystics, Balzac saw the edges of reality in sharper relief than any realist.

"Mahomet" is a triology, the poem by Gambara himself. Mark this modern detail. It contained "The Martyrs," "Mahomet," and "Jerusalem Delivered"—the God of the west, the God of the east, and the struggles of religious sects about the sacred tomb. In this gigantic frame are inclosed philosophy, patriotism, racial antagonism, love, the magic of ancient Sabianism, the oriental poetry of the Jews, culminating in the culture of the Arabians. Gambara explains: "Ah! to be a great musician it is also necessary to be very learned. Without knowledge no local color, no ideas in the music." This irresistibly recalls a phrase from one of Wagner's notebooks. The story of the music-drama is too long to be set down here, it is a wonderful olla podrida. It has the ring of an analytical program written to explain the dark sayings of some new fangled heretical symphonic poem. In it there is a curious and not unfamiliar medley of psychology, musical lore, history, stage directions, cries of hysteria, and much clotted nonsense. There are the clash of character and the shock of events. Note this phrase:

"The gloomy color of this finale (Act I.) is varied by the motives of the three women who predict to Mahomet his ultimate triumph, and whose phrases will be found fully developed in the third act, in that scene where Mahomet tastes the delights of his grandeur." Does this not forestall Wagner, or did Balzac find a hint in Hoffmann's "Kater Murr"? Is not Kapellmeister Kreisler the first of his line? Now, while there is far too much praying in this drama of the soul and senses, it is not such a farrago as it appears at first reading. Balzac evidently knew little of the technics of music, yet he surmised things with astonishing perspicacity. His characterization of the megalomaniacal Mahomet and his epileptic frenzies would serve as a portrait of almost any founder of religion. Balzac had Voltaire's play to draw upon, but he makes epilepsy a commanding motive in Mahomet's life—as it is, if we but knew it, in the lives of the majority of religious genius, from Buddha to the latest fanatical "healer."

AND how was this extraordinary music and libretto received by Gambara's wife, her admirer, Andrea, and the Italian cook, Giardini? "There was not a suggestion of a poetic or musical idea in the stunning cacophony which smote the ears; the principles of harmony, the elementary rules of composition, were absent in this shapeless composition. Instead of music learnedly connected, Gambara's fingers produced a succession of fifths, sevenths, octaves, major thirds, and steps from a fourth without a sixth in the bass, a combination of discordant sounds thrown at haphazard, which were designed to torture the least sensitive ear." Include the whole tone scale, emphasize the chord of the ninth, and you have your Moussorgsky and Debussy.

But we feel assured that all this must have been strangely novel music, even though Balzac does flounder in deep water when he attempts technical description. We are told that "as the discords howled beneath his fingers" Gambara nearly fainted from joy. Furthermore, he had a raucous voice—the true voice of the composer. "He stamped, panted, yelled; his fingers equaled in rapidity the forked head of an angry serpent. Finally, at the last howl of the piano, he threw himself backward, and let his head fall upon his armchair." Poor Gambara! Unhappy Kapellmeister Kreisler! How much this sounds like the stories about Wagner and Berlioz, neither one a pianist, and both endeavoring to express upon the colorless keyboard their multicolored and epical dreams.

Gambara shows Andrea, the faithful lover of his wife (O Balzac, thou hast devined every mathematical combination of the domestic triangle, even the friendship of deceived and deceiver!), his Panharmonicon, which is to replace an entire orchestra, now realized in the Aeolian inventions. Gambara plays upon it. Every instrument is represented. The total impression is overwhelming. His audience is enchanted. The composer sang to his accompaniment (in which the transcendental technique of Paganini and Liszt is revealed) the farewell of Khadijah, the first wife of Mahomet. "Who could have dictated to you such chants?" demands a listener. "The spirit," replied Gambara. "When he appears, everything seems to be on fire. I see melodies face to face, beautiful and fresh, colored like flowers; they radiate; they resound, and I listen, but infinite time is required to reproduce them."

IT is a pity this man drank too much (if such a thing is possible). In the end comes ruin. Gambara's wife, tiring of his too slow progress toward fame, disgusted with his habits, leaves him for Andrea. They go away, after the manner of lovers in a hurry to destroy their happiness. Abandoned, Gambara falls into poverty, into disgrace. The sheriff seizes the Panharmonicon, and the manuscript musical scores are sold as waste paper. "On the day following the sale the scores had enveloped at the Halles, the central markets, butter, fish, and fruits.

"Thus three great operas were swallowed by the baskets of retailers." Worse remained. Years passed and one day the runaway wife, Marianna, returned. She was become old, ugly, withered. With the truly sublime unconsciousness of genius Gambara opens weary, welcoming arms. All is forgotten because he was too great to forgive. Who shall judge, himself must be above judgment. Wretched as he was Gambara did not dare interrogate her woman's soul. They sang duos with guitar accompaniment on dusty, deserted boulevards after dark.

Marianna gives Gambara cheap, fiery cognac so that he may play better. He encounters a musical duchess. He plays fragments from his old compositions. "Where do you get this music?" she asks. "From the opera of 'Mahomet,'" answers Marianna. "Rossini has composed a 'Mahomet II.,'" she adds. This too musical lady of title interrupts: "What a pity they will not give at the 'Italiens' the operas of Rossini with which we are unacquainted, for this is certainly beautiful music." Gambara smiles. Thus finishes the career of a great composer.

"O mighty poet! Thy works are not as other men's, simply and merely great works of art; but they are also like the phonomena of nature, like the sun, the sea, the stars, and the flowers; like frost and snow, rain and dew, hailstorm and thunder, which are to be studied with entire submission of our own faculties, and in the perfect faith that in them there can be not too much or too little, nothing useless or inert; that the further we press in our discoveries, the more we shall see proofs of design and self-supporting arrangement where the careless eye had seen nothing but accident!" Thomas De Quincey, master of the sonorous phrase, wrote this of Shakespeare. There is no other name but Balzac's that we dare bracket with Shakespeare.

RHETORIC

By Louis Untermeyer.

[From the New Republic.]

This man's noblest edifice. All else
  Crumbles and rots. His loftiest stone is thrust
  Into the patient and ironic dust.
His iron ships, his scornful citadels
Are scattered by a whiff of fiery shells
  That mingle with them in a pool of rust.
  But words, mere words, invulnerable, august,
Become his statesmen and his sentinels.

He lets them do his fighting; sits and calls
  On them to keep the world from going free.
  They build him stubborn forts where he can be Safe from his manhood, its demands and brawls;
  While Life, foiled by this soft security,
Beats futile hands on vague, invisible walls.

The TRIBUNE'S WEEKLY ALMANACK

MARCH

NEW LIFE

THE meadow lark sings from the field and the blue bird from a post, the hermit thrush is back in the brown leaves and buds are red; a green film has run over the top of the earth, of the faintest green but spreading and deepening.

Snow drops blossom, the jonquils are in bud, and tulips have thrust the spirals of their leaves up above the frost cleared ground. Wintered parsnips are dug up for the skillet; young green onions are in the cold frame.

At every gust of the east wind the white oak is robbed of brown leaves which have weathered the winter storms; with every breeze of the south wind a new song comes; frogs are in the pools at the field's edge and in the pool by the willows.

Magic fingers are opening the casements and the songs heard but unsung are becoming songs sung to be heard. Intimation and suggestion, which have whispered to the hopes of men, change to realities for the sight of men. What has been in portent, benevolent portent, becomes tangible in benevolent fact. The promise of the lengthening day with the sun coming north on the western rim of the world, is a fact in the swelling bud and in the blue bird on the post.

ENGLAND'S SCAR

By Henry M. Hyde

LONDON, March 1.—At the time the armistice was first signed an American army officer was the guest of friends in London. His host is a member of parliament and a man of importance in the public life of Great Britain. The family—which is a large one—sent many sons to the war and the name appeared more than once on the casualty lists.

On Nov. 13 the officers' host gave a family dinner to celebrate the coming of peace. Some fifteen or twenty guests were at table, including several in khaki and blue. Towards the close of the dinner the American officer left the table to get some photographs from his room. He was gone several minutes.

"I suppose," he told me, "that quite without meaning it I must have come back into the dining room without making the slightest noise. At any rate, when I entered every member of that big family party sat silent with drooping head. As they looked up I saw tears in the eyes of more than one. Instantly my host was on his feet proposing a toast, 'To our gallant allies!' They drank it standing, with a smile on every face.

"I felt that I had intruded on a sacred privacy. Six sons of the family—one at Gallipoli, one in the Soudan, and four in France—had been killed. Into the gay dinner intended to celebrate the final victory their memories had come. Though I was an old friend I was after all a stranger and the instant I appeared the private sorrow was banished. Nor during the remainder of my stay was the matter mentioned."

It is quite impossible for an American to understand or appreciate, without coming to Europe, what the war has meant to the people of Great Britain, France, and—doubtless—to the inhabitants of the other countries which I have not visited. It is equally impossible to be a witness of the way in which the English and French conceal their awful losses and hide their heartbreaks without the deepest sympathy and the warmest admiration for their magnificent courage.

During the war more than 600,000 English boys—sons of these little islands alone—were killed in action or died of wounds. It may help Americans to realize what that means to consider that if our losses had been proportionately as great we should today be mourning the death of 1,350,000 of our sons! Two-thirds of all the great army we sent to France would be today buried in French soil! Not a home in the United States but would be a home of mourning!

There are 45,000,000 people in the British isles, against about 110,000,000 in the United States. Figure it out for yourself and try to grasp the bitter contrast.

Not only has almost every family in these islands had to mourn the death of at least one soldier son—not only has every mother had for four years to go to bed nightly with the awful dread of what the waking might bring—but the conditions of living here at home have been such as Americans can hardly imagine—let alone know by experience.

WE used to talk about coal famines! To one who has spent even part of a winter in London what we call coal famines in America are a joke. Here in London in January, with the thermometer at 15 degrees above zero, it was almost impossible to get a fire in a bed room at all except by virtue of a doctor's certificate declaring that one is an invalid. Of course the British have practically no central heating. Steam heating plants, even hot air furnaces, are almost unknown. Even in normal times they depend entirely on coal fires in little grates which send nine-tenths of the heat straight up the chimneys. And add to the low temperature the icy, penetrating sea fogs which come creeping in from the ocean and shroud London in arctic gloom and dampness! Nobody in Great Britain could get even more than a most scanty coal ration—not for one winter but for several. Even in handsome drawing rooms one sees ladies and gentlemen constantly rubbing their numb, blue hands, and politely pressing closer to the tiny grate fire.

To you with your feet on the steam radiator the idea of a constantly shivering Britain may have its humorous aspects. Actually the scarcity of fuel has done more than merely make people uncomfortable. It has, medical men say, seriously lowered the vitality of many people, particularly the elderly and those not naturally strong, and rendered them susceptible to the attacks of such diseases as the "flu" and resulting pneumonia, the third recurrent wave of which this year is now sweeping over the islands this month, with long and increasing lists of deaths.

And the food. Even at his best the British cook is no artist. He will roast a "joint," boil a potato, prepare some sort of a soggy bag pudding, which meal will furnish plenty of solid and substantial nourishment, but that is about his limit.

Imagine him with nothing in the way of raw materials but "offal," a little cornmeal, half enough wheat flour, a mere trace of butter, a few teaspoonfuls of sugar, no fruit, a few slices of bacon from America so salty that it can hardly be swallowed!

CONDITIONS are slightly better now, but when I first came to London last December one went from one high priced hotel to another trying in vain to get a meal at once appetizing and satisfying. Even where good French chefs were in charge and where one paid $5 for a simple meal without wine, it was apparently impossible to find anything that we at home would call fit to eat. English people have been living that way for more than three years and each year the restrictions have been getting more severe.

So drastic has been the combing out of men for the armies that almost every business was left short handed, or, as the British put it, "understaffed." The result was that the householder could not get many jobs done at all. If the plumbing went to pieces one went without. Until the last month it took four or five weeks to get laundry done, and it was favor of the greatest for any laundry to accept a new customer.

I have been in London the greater part of two months. One thing with which I am particularly struck is the fact that the faces of the great crowds passing back and forth on the streets of London are unsmiling. Almost always the faces, particularly those of the women, are drawn and deeply lined. A face with even a trace of a smile is so rare as to be remarkable. I didn't know the London crowd before the war, but people who did say there has been a great change in the last five years.

I do not wonder at it. The longer I stay here the more I realize—and that only dimly—what the British people have endured and suffered and accomplished in the war.

Now, I don't want some ass to sneer and say that I am becoming an Anglophile, that I am succumbing to British flattery and compliment. In the first place, I have had none. Chicago may as well realize that the average Englishman hardly knows there is such a town and cares less. And at the risk of being discourteous I am going to say that to me personally the English is a most unsympathetic race.

But any man with eyes who spends even a few weeks in Great Britain without recognizing the strength, the patience, the endurance, the determination, and the quiet self-confidence of the British people is simply a fool.

TABLOID BOOK REVIEW

By Fanny Butcher

Last week's best sellers in a leading Chicago bookstore were:

FICTION.

"The Sky Pilot in No Man's Land" [Doran], by Ralph Connor.

"The Secret City" [Doran], by Hugh Walpole.

"The Way of a Man" [Appleton], by Thomas Dixon.

"The Wine of Astonishment" [Appleton], by Mary Hastings Bradley.

"The Man Nobody Knew" [Dodd-Mead], by Holworthy Hall.

"The Great Hunger" [Moffat-Yard], by Johan Bojer.

WAR.

"With the Help of God and a Few Marines" [Doubleday Page], by Brig. Gen. A. W. Catlin.

"Living Bayonets" [John Lane], by Lieut. Coningsby Dawson.

"The Charmed American" [John Lane], by George Lewys.

"History of the World War" [Doubleday Page], five volumes, by Frank Symonds.

"The Roots of the War" [Century], by William Stearns Davis.

"The Glory of the Coming" [Doran], by Irvin S. Cobb.

A TEMPEST was stirred up last week in our literary teacup by Robert Nichols' suggestion that England liked American poets when they were most American and least imitative of the English. It was taken to mean that England wanted us to be jackanapes, to fiddle for them a raucous "Arkansas Traveler," because thus only could we be thoroughly American. I am sure that he meant nothing of the sort.

I have just finished reading "The Great Hunger" [Moffat-Yard], a great novel by Johan Bojer, a Norwegian, and it has made clear to me what an artist like Robert Nichols means when he says he wishes that we would be American poets and not just poets. He wants us to hold the stethoscope of art to the vibrant, pounding human heart of America, not to a mummy. We will hear the heart of the world as it thumps. Just that thing Johan Bojer has done in "The Great Hunger," which is one of the biggest novels I have ever read. Peer, in his search for the meaning of life and God and the universe is Evryman, and yet he is uniquely Norwegian. No one but a Norwegian could have written "The Great Hunger," and yet it is a theme which is peculiar to every race.

There are a few pages in "The Great Hunger" which are as fine, both for their literary and spiritual inspiration as the inspirational chapters of the Bible, and as universal in their appeal. But, as the Bible has its roots in the soil of the Hebrews, so "The Great Hunger" takes its nourishment from the sparse soil of the Norwegians, and in that sense does Robert Nichols, himself at the same time a typially English and universal poet, wish that American literature were more fundamentally American.

"The Song of the Sirens" [Dutton] is partially a record of the dreams of Edward Lucas White, author of El Supremo et al., so he explains in the preface to the volume. The psychoanalysts will get yuh if yuh don't watch out, old top.

Alfred Kreymborg will accompany himself, when he reads from his poetry on Tuesday evening, on what he calls a mandolute, an instrument of his own invention, which looks, so I am told in strict confidence, like a mandolin which has barely weathered a railroad wreck. What it sounds like only Kreymborg himself can demonstrate.

A new edition of Walter Noble Burns' "A Year with a Whaler," has just been brought out by the Macmillan company. It is the most interesting book on the subject that has ever been written, and it was done by our old star reporter. I remember being sent on my first assignment—a little robbery at St. Luke's hospital, and told to look up Mr. Burns and get him to help me. I thought he was the great William J., and I was so awed at the thought of being on a story with the great man himself that I just looked and never spoke to him. He left THE TRIBUNE for the more fertile golden harvests of advertising, but nobody has forgotten him. And you won't forget his book when you read it.

The public library has inaugurated a bulletin board where the names of books of prominent visitors who are expected in Chicago will be posted. There are listed now books by John Galsworthy, who will be here April 8; Alfred Kreymborg, who will lecture on Tuesday evening at the Anna Morgan studios under the wing of the Others Lecture bureau; Capt. Alan Bott, author of "The Cavalry of the Clouds," back home after an ordeal in a Turkish prison camp, who will tell about it on April 11, and D. Thomas Curtin, the man who got into Germany when the getting was bad and wrote about it in "In the Land of the Deepening Shadow" and "On the Edge of the Quicksands" [Doran].

"Dere Mable" (Stokes) has gone into its sixteenth printing, 600,000 copies. The new Streeter book, "That's Me All Over, Mable," has gone into a sixth printing, 275,000 copies, and now the publishers are announcing "Dere Bill," a companion volume of Mable's letters, by Florence E. Summers.

"Nono: Love and the Soil," by Gaston Roupnel, translated by Barnet J. Beyer, is the first of the Dutton's Library of French fiction, a series of stories of life in the provinces of France, published as a sort of antidote to the too-Parisian books. "Jacquou the Rebel" is the second.

"From Czar to Bolshevik" (John Lane), by E. P. Stebbing, was written in Russia while the Russians were doing their quick change. There are illustrations from photographs which he took himself.

The public library has some new foreign books, fifty in Dutch and 300 in modern Greek. This is the first time that the library has had any books in modern Greek. If you have yearned and palpitated to read something in modern Greek, now's your chance.

The British admiralty has adopted as a guide in the work of reconstruction and reorganization of the British navy made necessary by the war Arthur H. Pollen's "The British Navy in Battle" (Doubleday-Page). It was published in England before it appeared here.

At the big book store in New York the other day I saw among "Children's Books" a copy of Ibsen's "The Doll's House." If we did anything like that New York would call us gauche.

Farming Secrets!

It's quite a feat to raise 138 bushels of corn per acre---and average that much---but when you make that on 90 acres! That's what I. S. Long did. The new way in farming will help you.

—the simplest way to cut down on labor
—the most approved methods of vitalizing your soil
—the soundest principles of improving the dairy herd
—the experts' discoveries for growing record crops
—the practical methods of increasing stock profits
—the most advantageous marketing plans

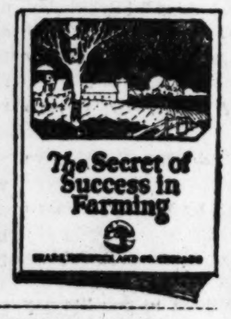
Told by More Than 100 of America's Greatest Farming Authorities

A thousand and one new farming discoveries have been made by men who are revolutionizing crop and livestock results.

These new ideas are producing record-breaking yields of corn; are quickly reclaiming soils formerly thought hopeless; are securing startling butter fat production; are forcing hogs to market earlier and bigger on less feed; are doubling and trebling profits in practically every farming operation, in every climate and locality; are cutting down labor needs by saving work in a hundred ways. And now these secrets have been made public.

The Discoveries of Specialists

Just as we have the physician who specializes on one particular branch of medicine, so we have the farmer who specializes on one particular branch of farming. No one farmer can hope to learn through his own experience as much about all branches of farming as all these specialists together have learned. The road to quick success in farming is to take full advantage of what all these authorities have discovered.



The Secret of Success in Farming

A $50,000 Work At an expense of over $50,000 for the editorial material alone, the successful farming experiences of recognized authorities in all parts of the country have been collected and placed within the covers of Farm Knowledge—the Farmer's Own Cyclopedia. Never before has a work of this scope and value been produced. There is nothing else like it. Farm Knowledge contains the results of actual experience in improving methods and increasing profits; it was specially written in interesting and easy-to-understand language. It is up to the minute in every way, yet it upholds every old time method that has proved its merit.

FREE Booklet Explains All

Farm Knowledge contains over 2,000 pages in all, 28 full page photographic reproductions, frontispiece in each volume in colors and over 3,000 other illustrations. Each volume is nearly 2 in. thick.

It is impossible to describe so important a work in this small space. But we have prepared a special booklet which shows the complete list of contents, names of authors, with brief description of each, and shows sample pages to give you an idea of how the subjects are treated. We want every one who is interested in farming to send for a copy of this free booklet. Read about the new farming secrets which have revolutionized old results, doubling and trebling profits. We will also quote you our low price, easy terms of payment and free examination offer. Write NOW. Mail coupon, postal or letter.

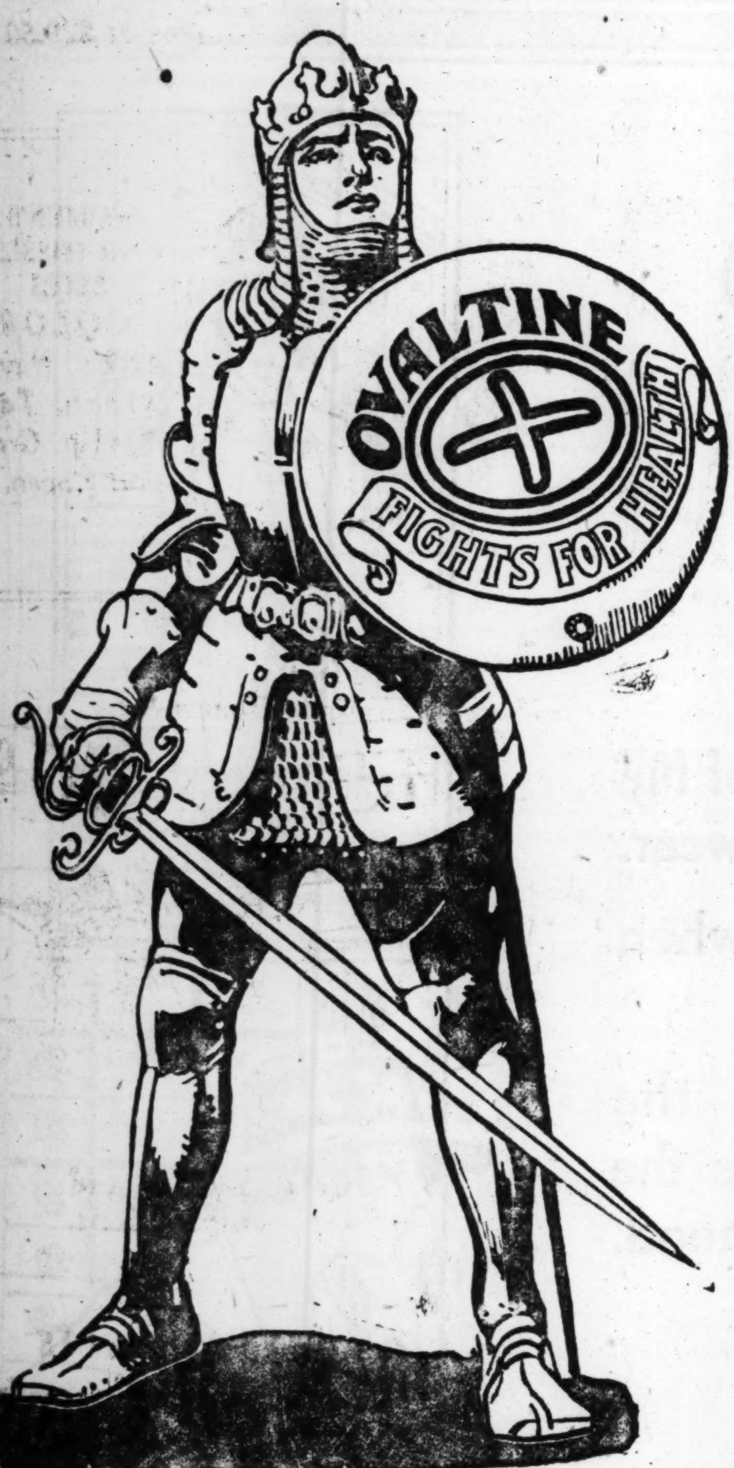
I Am

OVALTINE

The Food Knight



Who Wins Health and Strength

For those convalescing from sickness or operation—

For the overworked who are suffering from Nerve Strain, Anaemia or Sleeplessness.

For the growing child, often undernourished by foods that do not meet the requirements of its rapidly developing body, brain and nerves.

For the aged, whose digestive organs are feebled by long usage.

OVALTINE—The Perfect Food-Drink

Made in the form of golden brown granules from barley malt, newly-laid eggs, fresh milk, and the purest of cocoa. Easily prepared without cooking. Delicious either hot or cold.

Most Nourishing of Foods

OVALTINE is a super-nourishment—contains more nutrition per pound than any other food. That is why the British Red Cross included it in all food packages sent to the invalid prisoners of war in Germany.

Just two teaspoonsful, according to directions, has the food value of over 2 eggs, 4 cups of cocoa, or 30 cups of beef extract.

Easily Digested and Assimilated

No stomach is too weak to benefit from delicious OVALTINE. Twice as digestible as milk. Fully nourishes without taxing the digestive organs. Recommended and prescribed by doctors the world over for the sick and run down. Used by the ton in the military hospitals of the Allies in building back to fighting vigor their soldier convalescents.

Every particle of OVALTINE is pure nutrition. There is no waste. Every grain is transformed into living tissue.

Balanced to Every Body Need

OVALTINE is a complete food. Possesses the vital food elements, properly balanced, for building body, brain and nerves.

The milk and egg supply the organic phosphorus for the brain and nerves, and with the malt furnish the minerals for the bones. Nearly all of OVALTINE'S constituents are rich in fats and carbohydrates—the chief givers of bodily energy.

A Product of Many Years' Standing

OVALTINE was originated in Switzerland years ago by Dr. A. Wander, and its merits have spread its fame and use all over the world.

Highly nourishing, easily digested, delicious, it has met with favor everywhere.

Thousands of families, feeling the ill effects of tea or coffee, have turned to OVALTINE, with health-gaining results.

Presbyterians to Provide Funds for Future Needs

By the Rev. W. B. Norton.

TODAY marks the culmination of the financial drive of the new era movement of the Presbyterian church of the United States of America. The total amount sought is $38,000,000. Of this $13,014,339.50 will be devoted to the benevolent offerings, an increase over last year of 100 per cent, and $25,000,000 to the local budgets of the churches for current expenses.

Today's canvass for funds provides for the year which will begin April 1. It is a new movement in that it provides for church expenses and missionary and other offerings in advance instead of at the close of the church year. It is a new era movement in providing for the conditions brought about by the world war, including care for returning soldiers, the rebuilding of churches destroyed in the war in France, Italy, and Belgium, and to provide better salaries for the more poorly paid clergy in view of the higher cost of living.

"A pre-war program is as inadequate as a last year's bird nest," is one of the slogans of the new era campaign.

The special war fund is $500,000, equally divided between supplying the needs of returning soldiers and the churches in the war zone.

The Rt. Rev. Mgr. Patrick J. McDonnell

The Rt. Rev. Mgr. McDonnell is pastor of St. Mel's Roman Catholic church, Washington boulevard and Kildare avenue. The announcement of the honors bestowed upon him by Pope Benedict at the request of Archbishop G. W. Mundelein, by which he has become a monsignor with the right to use the title right reverend, was made on St. Patrick's day in recognition of St. Patrick being his patron saint.

The official vestments have not yet been received, but permission was given to make the announcement in advance. The ceremony of investiture will take place at some future date.

Mgr. McDonnell was born in Ireland and was educated at All Hallows' college, Dublin. He came to Chicago soon after his ordination in 1880.

He served two years at St. Gabriel's and a short time at the Cathedral of the Holy Name and then began his work on the west side, which has been such a conspicuous success as to bring to him the papal recognition.

At successive dates he has led in the construction of a parochial school, convent, the large church, a high school with twenty-six classrooms and all forms of modern equipment, and a brothers' home to accommodate thirty brothers. The two latter buildings were dedicated by Archbishop Mundelein, the previous ones by Archbishop Quigley. St. Mel's parish has been liberal in its benevolent gifts and active in all forms of parish service.

Ask Any McCray Owner

WE are perfectly willing to rest our case with the McCray owner. Ask the woman-of-the-home what she thinks of the McCray Refrigerator—ask your next door neighbor, or the grocer, or the butcher.

For more than 30 years we have been building refrigerators. During those years our constant aim has been to make refrigerators that satisfy; from the standpoint of health—convenience—durability—economy.

McCray cooling principles insure a constant circulation of cold, dry air through every compartment—thus insuring perfect preservation of food. McCray insulation confines the cold air currents within and excludes the warm air from without.

In Chicago the place to see and buy the McCray Refrigerator is at the McCray Salesroom, 1000 South Michigan Ave., Chicago.

The last of a series of six talks on current topics by Mrs. E. S. Adams and Miss Julie R. Adams will be given on Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the assembly room of the Chicago Historical society, Dearborn avenue and Ontario street.

Mrs. William H. Rehm will give a dinner-dance at her residence, 1525 Astor street, Wednesday evening, for her daughter, Miss Katherine Rehm, who is home from school for the spring vacation, and for Miss Rehm's guest, Miss Marjorie Lake of Hartford, Conn.

The South Shore Country club is to have an eventful week beginning this evening with an orchestra concert and moving pictures. Tomorrow afternoon there will be a bridge tournament and on Saturday night there will be a military ball for Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood and his staff.

The School of Domestic Arts and Sciences will have a mid-Lent sale of household utilities on Thursday from 10 to 5 o'clock at the Blackstone hotel. Mrs. John L. Shortall is chairman of the sale, Mrs. Alfred Granger is chairman of recipes, and on her committee are Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney, Mrs. Uri B. Grannis, and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey.

The second Cinderella hop of the season will be given next Friday evening in the solarium of the Surf hotel.

Society is looking forward with keen anticipation to the fancy dress dinner-dance that Mrs. Arthur Ryerson will give next Friday night at her residence, 2700 Lake View avenue, for her daughters, Mrs. George C. Clarke of Cooperstown, N. Y., and Mrs. George W. Patterson.

Mrs. Ernestine Friedlander will celebrate her ninetieth birthday today with a reception from 3 to 6 o'clock at the residence of her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Friedlander, 518 East Forty-fourth place.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Green of 5521 Cornell avenue will give a reception this afternoon for their daughter, Rosalind, whose engagement to Leland J. Wilhartz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilharzt, was recently announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Blonder of 2825 Logan boulevard will be at home this afternoon and evening for their daughter, Gertrude Beryl, whose engagement to Dr. Daniel D. Klein was announced recently.

PERSONALS.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Cable of Hubbard Woods have returned from the Virginia Hot Springs, where they spent several weeks.

Slams of Life

By J. P. McEVOY

THE GIRLS OF TODAY.

I wonder why the flappers wear
That tired, bored and sated air?
Why ennui sits upon their brows
And nothing can their spirits rouse?—
Dispassionate and blank their gaze
And laissez-faire their weary ways.

Chic little chits who yesterday
Were giggling in their girlish way
Are now sophisticated vamps
With sinful, soulful, sea-green lamps;
They've lived and suffered, O! so much!
And life is a dead sea fruit they touch.

So would the average man surmise
From the hollow stare of their browless eyes;
"These," he would say, "have played and lost,
They've shook with Fate and paid the cost;
One by one in the awful gloom
They've followed their hopes to a sunless tomb,
There in the desolate dust to lay
The dear, dead dreams of their yesterday."

These lidless, lifeless saurian stares
That meet your gaze on the thoroughfares,
That chill your soul in the milling mart,
That numb your brain and freeze your heart—
Do they bespeak the souls within—
Sodden souls of soil and sin?

Ah, no; these children look blasé
'Cause Theda Bara looks that way;
And life evokes a weary smile
Because just now it is the style;
They all mean well, the little dears,
But some one ought to pull their ears.

Vaudeville Wit.

MAJESTIC.

Bennie Fields, with Blossom Seeley: Man is no good in this world nohow. He is just like a worm. Comes into this world, crawls around, and then some "chicken" gets him. And I'm crawling around.

I got lots of luck, but most of it is bad. If I happened to be in a department store and the lights went out, and everybody was filling up their pockets, it would be just my luck to find myself in the piano department.

"No, there are none of us perfect."

"Did he go to France to fight?"

"Yes, he went to meet his wife."

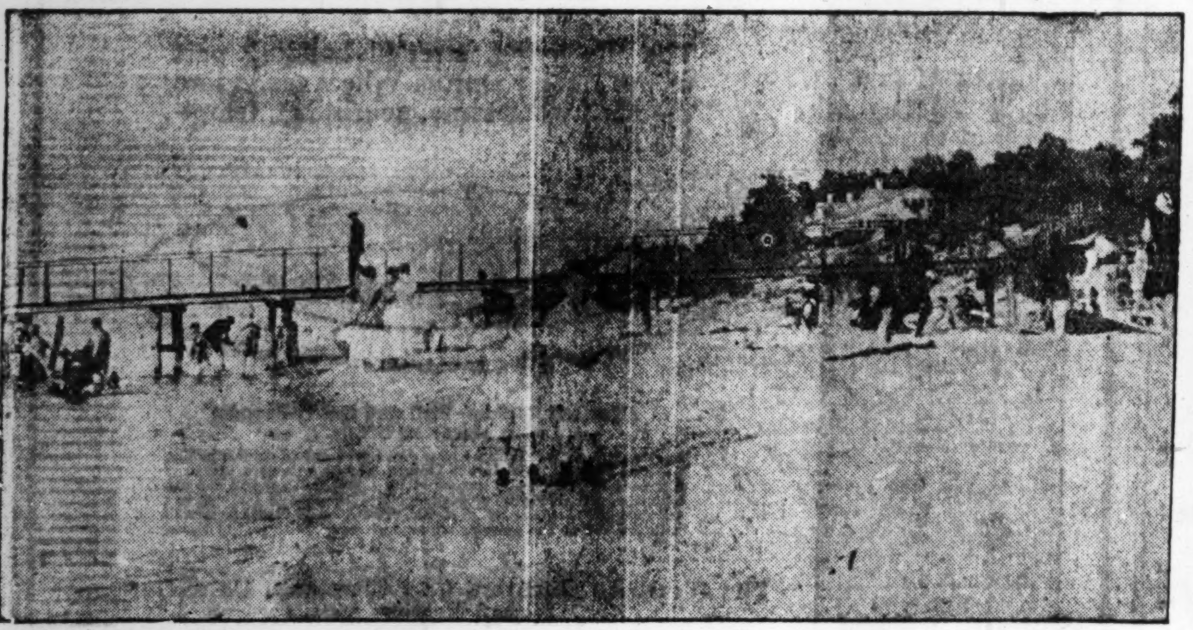
A Summer Home Club

You Are Invited to Join. By Acting Quickly You Can Secure a $1000 Life Membership and a Beautiful Wooded Cottage Building Site in the New Grand Beach Family, Golf and Country Club on a Plan That Eventually Will Not Cost You a Single Penny.



A Perfect Beach (two miles long) of Clean, White Sand and Pure, Clean Water

Approaching "Jumbo" Dune

Along the 8th Fairway on the Golf Course

This Unprecedented Opportunity, Although Extended to Only a Limited Number, Is Open to Men and Women Alike

To a group of representative Chicago business men is due the credit for this great new Family Club. Already nearly 100 members have been enrolled, among them bankers, lawyers, doctors, etc., most of whom have for years been annual summer residents of Grand Beach, where they own their own villas, bungalows and cottages, a few of which are shown here. That these prominent leaders of the business world of Chicago have endorsed and joined the new club is proof of its success.

Readers of The Chicago Tribune are familiar with the fame of Grand Beach on the Southern shore of Lake Michigan, far from summer's sweltering heat and the ceaseless din of city streets, yet only 90 minutes from Chicago on the Michigan Central railroad, or three hours by auto.

The primitive scenic grandeur of this beautiful 400-acre tract of wild and rugged dune land has fascinated thousands of visitors from all over the world, and more than a hundred beautiful bungalows and summer cottages have been built in this Arcadia by families socially prominent in Chicago and other nearby cities.

Combining with its scenic attractions an 18-hole golf links, with two miles of superb, gently sloping bathing beach, and an exclusive and refined patronage, Grand Beach stands unrivaled among summer home colonies and resorts. Throughout the summer the suburban train service or his own motor car enables the Chicago business man to give punctual attention to his desk in the city while enjoying with his family the restful peace and quiet of a home at Grand Beach, and the health building recreation and exercise afforded by its golf grounds, bathing beach and wooded hills.

For the purpose of making elaborate and extensive improvements that will convert this magnificent dune land grove into the finest country and golf club in the west, representative Chicagoans who own their own homes at Grand Beach have organized the Grand Beach Family, Golf and Country Club to take over the ownership, management and operation of this phenomenally successful resort.

Under the direction of Chicago's most celebrated landscape artist the club's 400-acre grounds, with two miles of beach, are to be transformed into a great garden park, unmatched anywhere in America for its beauty.

Life memberships in the new club will be strictly limited to 200 individuals (men and women), who will share equally in the ownership of the entire property, including one 18-hole golf course already in use, another 18-hole links to be constructed immediately, and the following improvements acquired with the property. These improvements comprise all the appurtenances and facilities of a high-class country club and have heretofore been operated in the service of residents and visitors by private enterprise.

A club house ("The Lodge"), a Golf Inn, Dining Hall and Kitchen, with seating capacity for 300; a Dancing and Amusement Pavilion; twenty-six Renting Cottages of from 2 to 7 rooms; complete Pumping Plant and Water Supply System; Telephone System; Barn; Garages; Ice and Tool Houses; Motor Bus; several miles of well built roads and walks, etc.

Already nearly one-half of the 200 life memberships have been subscribed or reserved for Grand Beach summer home owners and their friends. Following this first public announcement, the remaining memberships will be quickly allotted to desirable applicants.

If your character and reputation measure up to the requirements for admission to clubs of high standard, such as Beverly, Glen View and Westward Ho, the Chicago Athletic Association, University Club, Casino Club, Arche Club or Saddle and Cycle Club, then by acting promptly you can become a cottage site owner and life member in the Grand Beach Family, Golf and Country Club, on a plan eventually not costing you a single penny.

If your inquiry is received at once, one of these life memberships will be reserved for you for a few days to give you time to investigate and decide whether you wish to become a member. Call or mail coupon for full information.

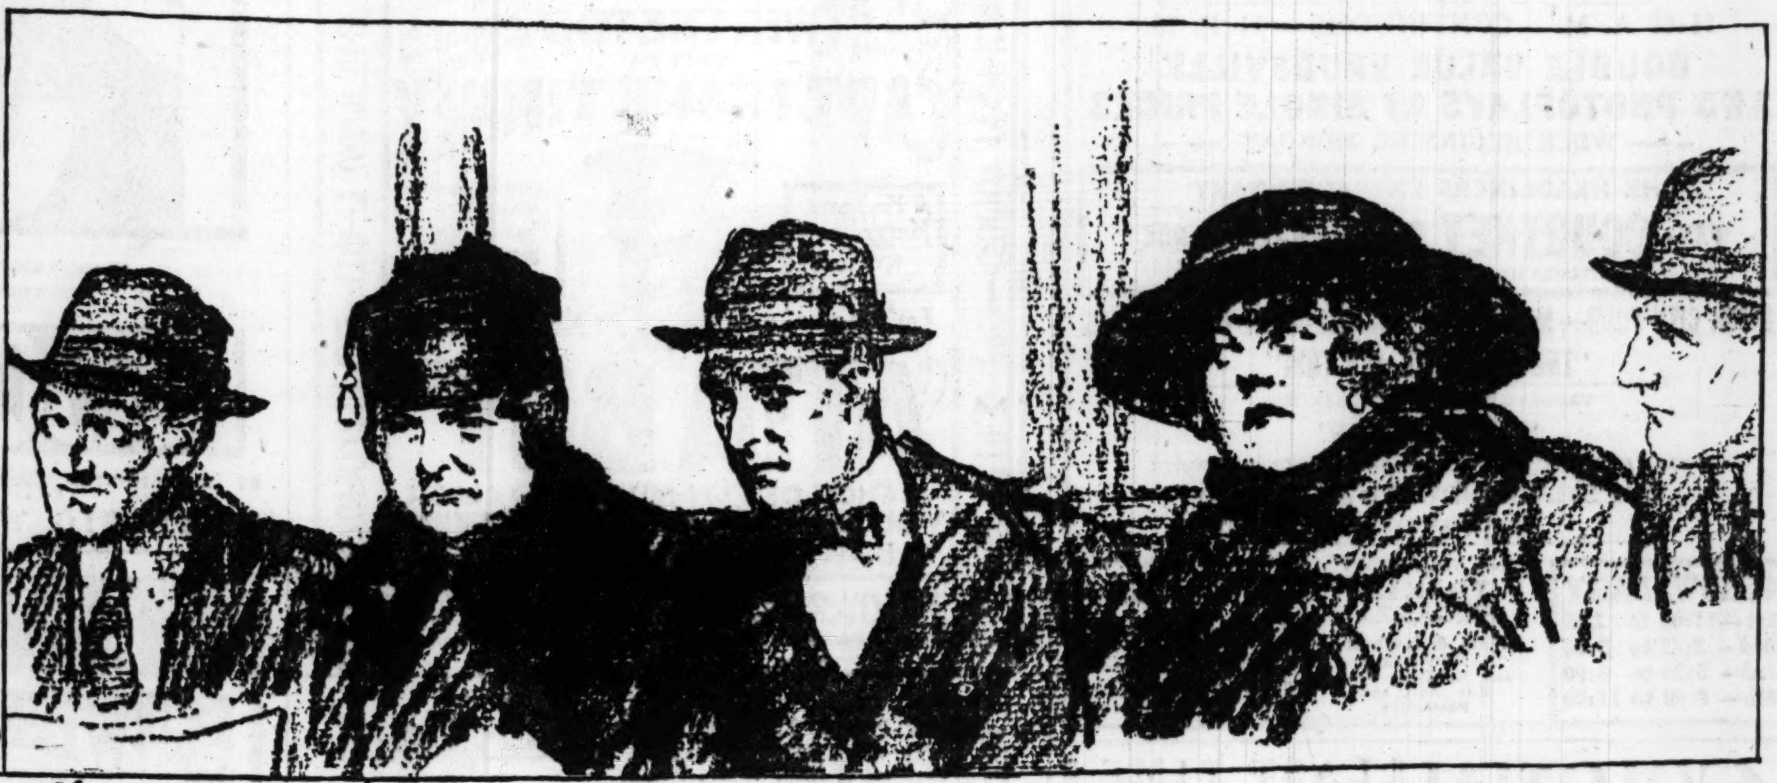
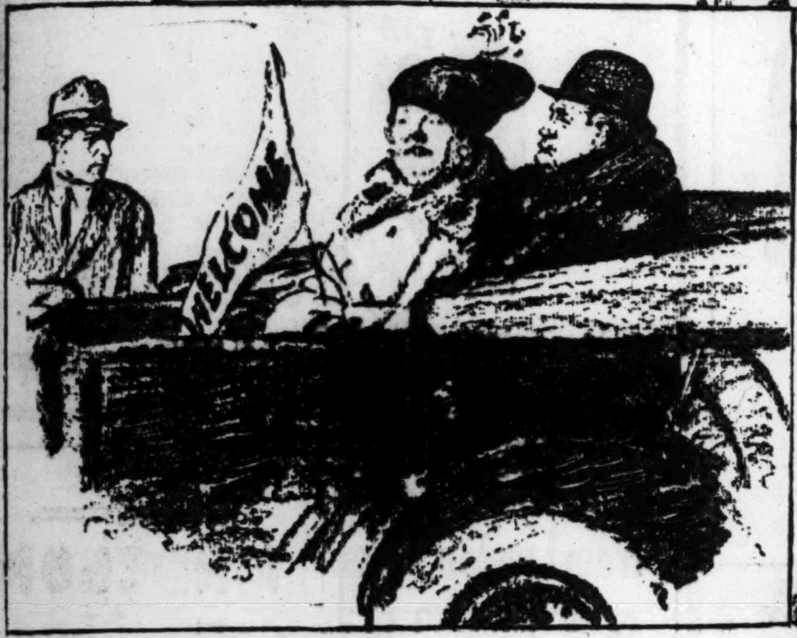
AMONG US MORTALS

AROUND TOWN

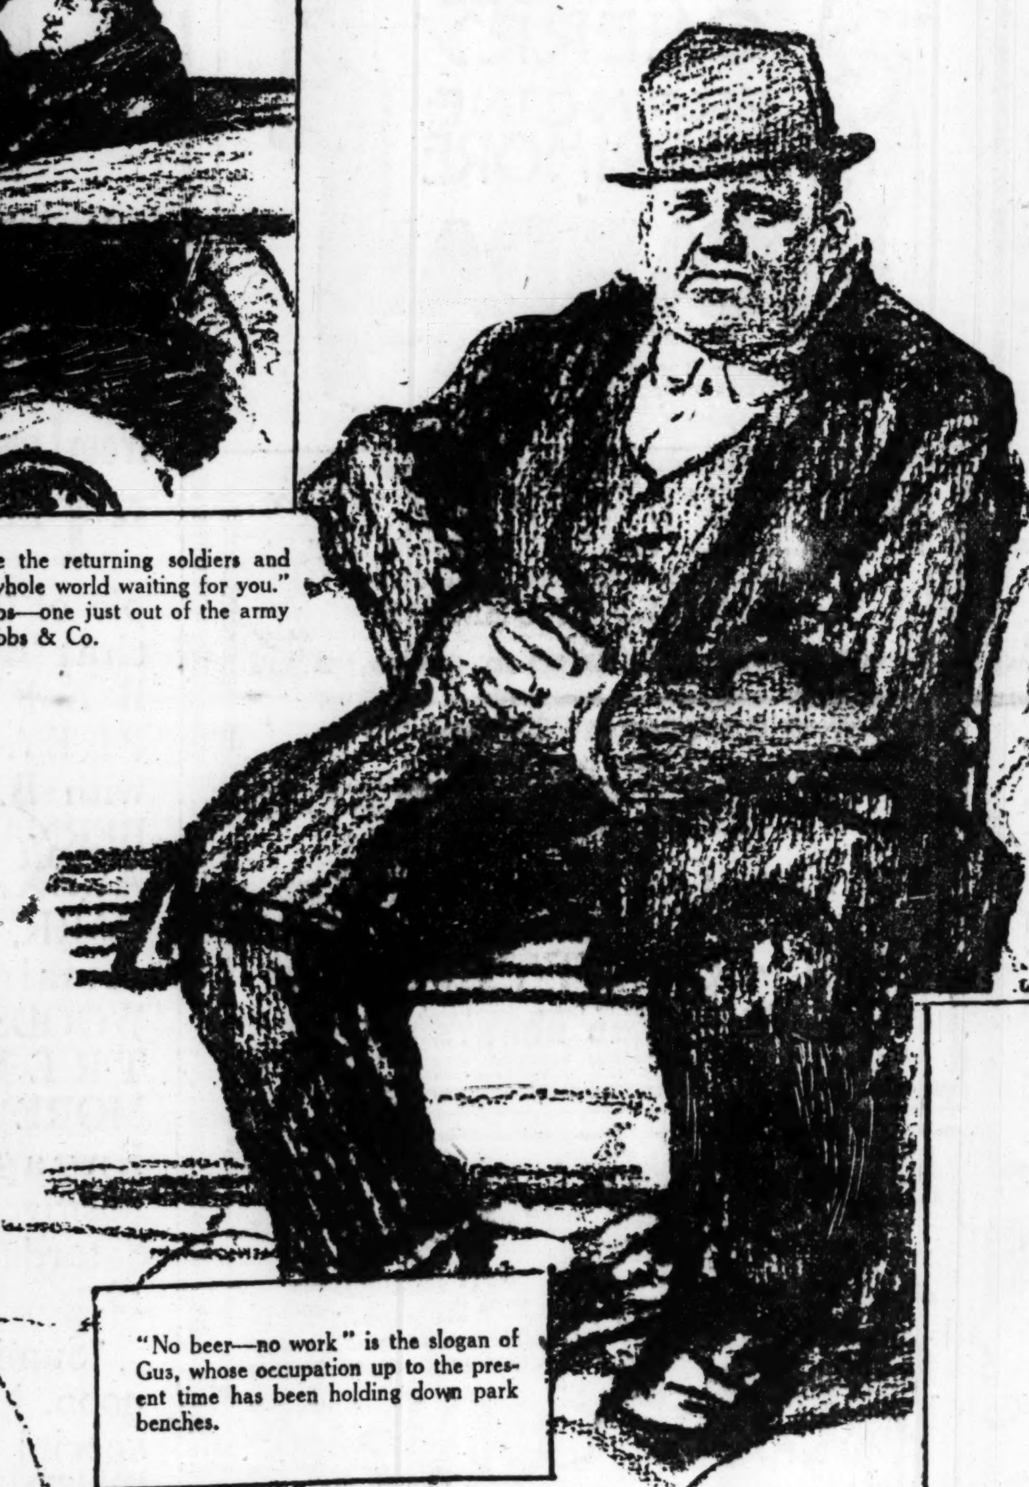
By
W. E. HILL



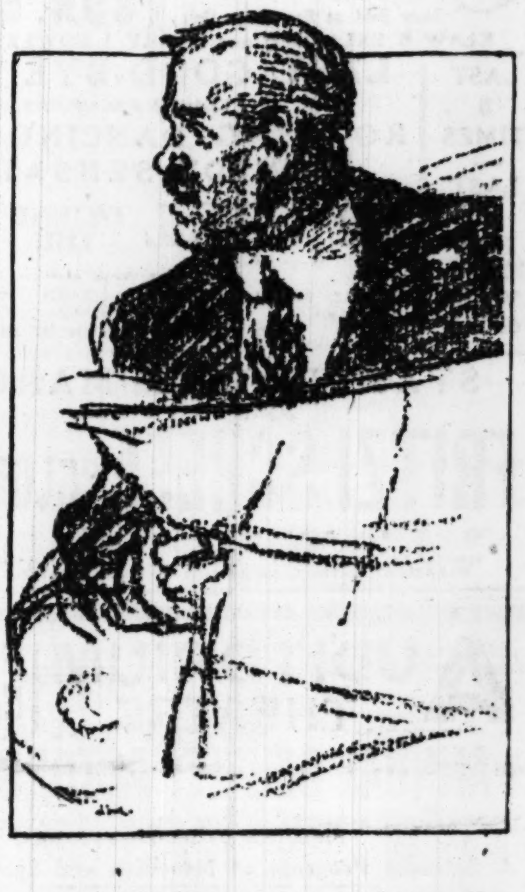
Two men further up the line are telling each other just what can be done with a raisin, a bit of yeast and a bottle of cider.



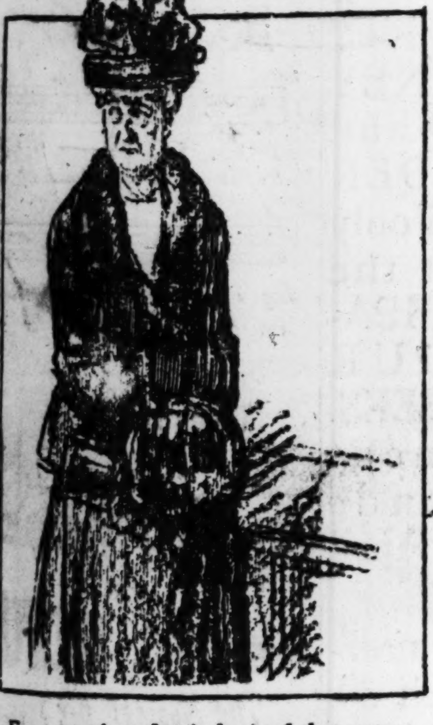
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grubbs are out to welcome the returning soldiers and show the boys back from France that "There's a whole world waiting for you." The sentiment is lost, however, on ex-Private Jacobs—one just out of the army—who failed to land his old job with Henry Grubbs & Co.



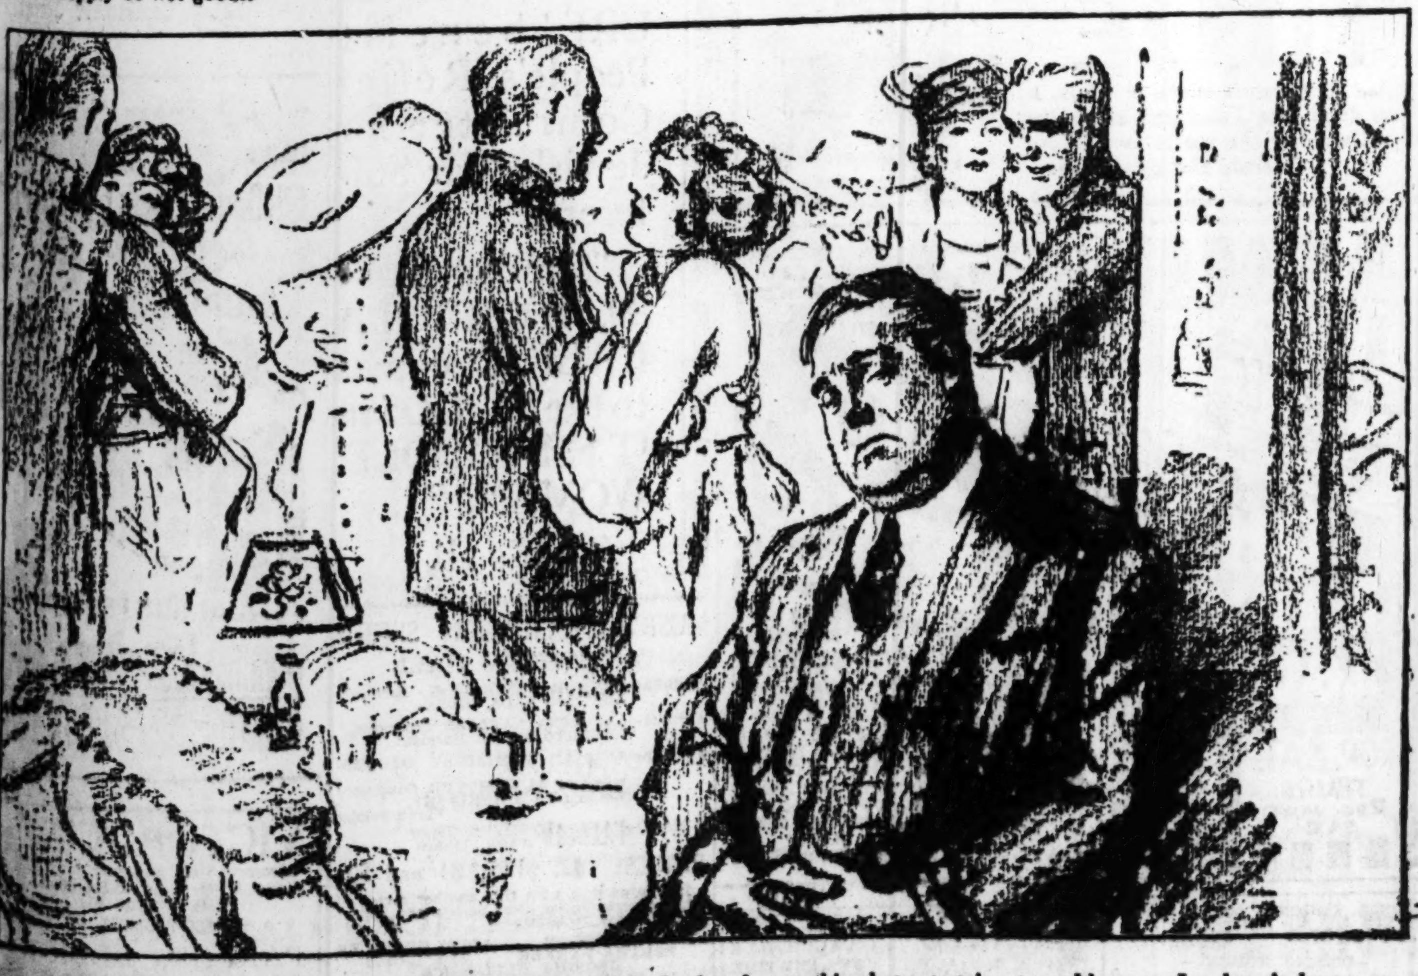
"No beer—no work" is the slogan of Gus, whose occupation up to the present time has been holding down park benches.



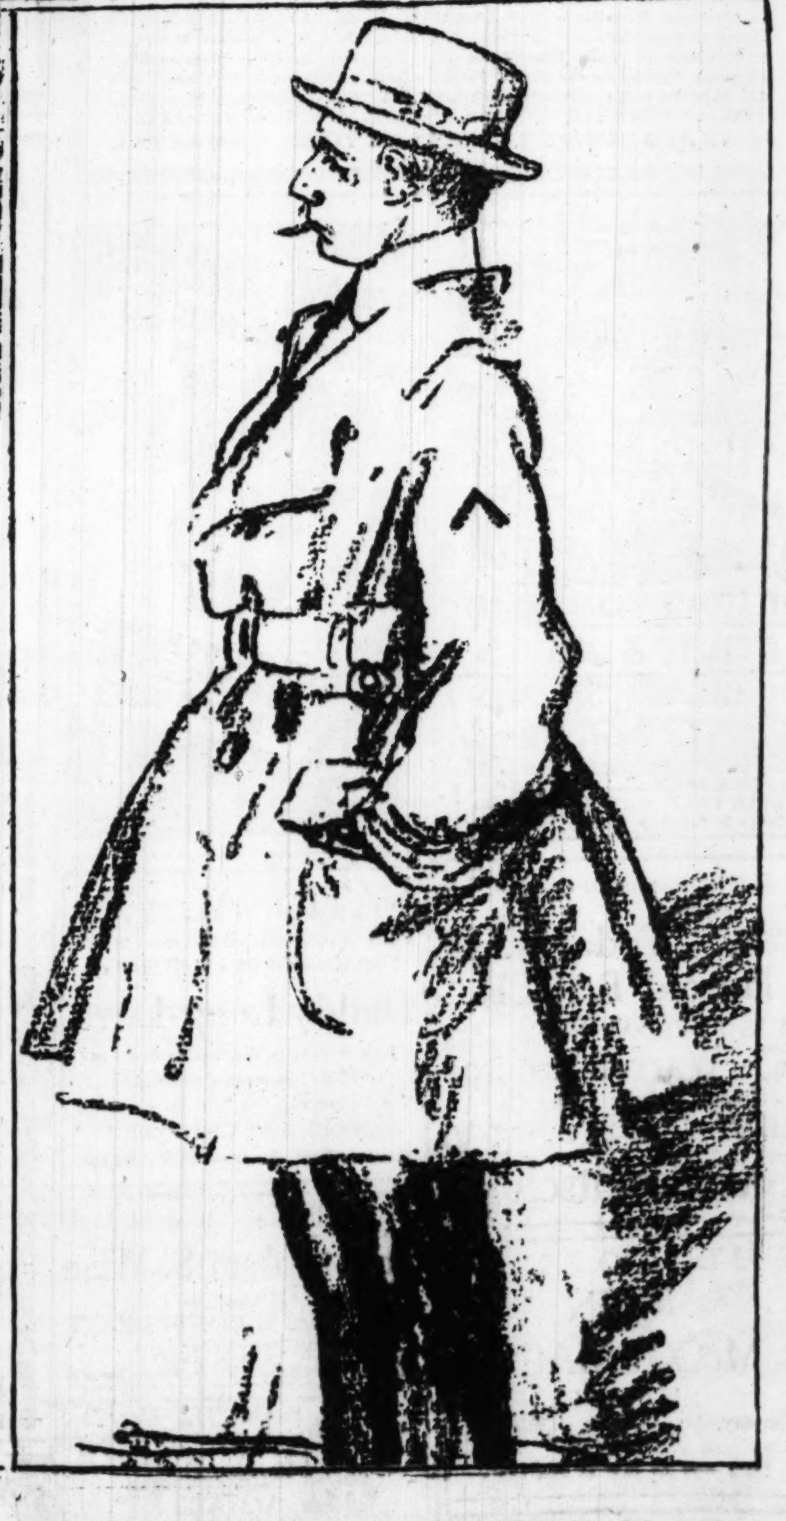
Straight whisky drinker, all "het up" over prohibition, has a great deal to say about beer and light wines for the first time in his life.



For years Aunt Lettie boasted that not a drop of liquor ever entered her doors. With prohibition ahead—"just in case we might need some"—she is secretly laying in a supply of wet goods.



Joe's friends are just from the war, and for the past months he has done nothing but entertain returned heroes. Joe doesn't dance, and between holding down tables at cabarets and loss of sleep he is beginning to crack under the strain.



The trench coat which never saw the trenches. Clifford is of the opinion that a red "discharge" stripe is better than no decoration at all.

The Theaters

By Percy Hammond.

HOW much more de luxe and splendid is "Scandal" in the movies than it is upon the theater's petty stage.

Over at the Garrick they play it with little else than a bed in the way of scenery; but if you drop in to your favorite Gem or Bijou when Miss Constance Talmadge is acting it, you will find that she is using a large section of the Pacific coast as her scenic investiture.

Four boards and a trestle! In the movie "Scandal" they have steam yachts, dories, launches, motor boats, and automobiles. The lovers' trysts are in stupendous gardens. The butler walks half a mile to cross a drawing room. The ocean is among the scenes, and even the tide is employed as a "prop." Troths are plighted upon a terrace more majestic than the famous promenade in St. Germain; and the chamber in which the heroine goes to bed is longer and wider and higher than the Coliseum.

One wonders which is the more efficacious. When Mr. Cherry, at the Garrick refers to his yacht, the "Galatea" you do not doubt that he has such a boat, for Mr. Cherry is good at the minutiæ of affluence. Still, you have to take his word for it. Mr. Browne of the movies is silent about his ship, but he shows it to you, and in motion—with the captain, the sailors, and the tea table spread luxuriously under the awning, aft.

The spoken drama excels, however, a moment later. When Mr. Browne kisses Miss Talmadge it is a mere adumbration, the wraith of a kiss, having no cling to it nor substance. It is an outburst of photography rather than of passion. It is as spurious as a yacht would be on the Garrick's puny stage. But when Mr. Cherry kisses Miss Larrimore it is more real than Mr. Browne's steamboat because it is a kiss, not the photograph of a kiss. Besides, one may embrace longer and more conclusively, by law, in the drama than one may upon the films.

Therein is a difference between the spoken play and the photographic. The cinema lover may roll along in his motor through fragrant Californian roadways, en route to a rendezvous with his heart's desire. He may alight from his car with great nonchalance, and, with the winged feet of the lens, ascend hundreds of the wide stone steps which are the Jacob's ladder to his Paradise. Momentous butlers may take his coat, hat, and stick, and he may float swiftly down miles of opulent hallway to an apartment cosmic in dimensions, and as full of bric-a-brac as the Field Museum is of specimens.

But when he gets there he is through. His shadowy arms encircle an outline. His mute lips move in futile aspiration to sound his emotions. He is, as Cassandra uttering a prophecy, no good. He is a shallow hint, a facade, an effigy whose blood is sepia intsead of red. A wax figure in life's shop window. Developing fluid courses through his veins in a fine fever; but he is a desert of acting in an oasis of scenery. Eventually he is excused for a moment while his interpreter writes for him, upon the screen, the things he tried to say to his lady love.

The psychology of the movie-lover seems (dubiously) to be more subtle than that of the drama-lover, if such atrocious hyphenations can be condoned. The imagination of him who prefers the play to the movie is satisfied by a chromo back-drop labeled upon the play-bill "Longacre Square at Midnight." He can understand that. But the embraces and I-love-yous of a hero and heroine must be material and audible, because he will not understand them otherwise.

On the other hand, the "movie-goer" is satisfied with suggestions of the movements of the actors' heart and soul. The movie-goer demands some realism as to swell cafés and the parlors of the patriciate, because he knows them less than he does heart beats and long, hot caresses on a park bench. But just a whisper or ten feet of film about troubled lovers becoming untroubled and he will be able to fill it in with his imagination and experience. The drama-lover must see real white arms encircling a hero's real broad shoulders. The movie-lover is rapt in the mere photographic innuendo of it. The drama-lover at a play says to himself, "That funny thing is a house. I get it." The movie-lover says to himself at a cinema, "That funny thing is a kiss. I get it." Both are gratified.

There are other differences between the movie "Scandal" and the one at the Garrick. There are in the movie "Scandal" a fight, a murder, and a rescue from drowning. And there is a vampire also, whose passionate observations are often put in script upon the screen. She lurks among the swaying verdure of the garden, spying sullenly upon her rival's virtuous romance, and going to His room later, saying, "She does not love you. I do. Let us go away from here." Her name is Ida and she slings a nasty sneer.

Mr. Browne in the movies is a very rich millionaire, but he seems to have made his money suddenly. Mr. Cherry at the Garrick appears to have inherited his funds, so accustomed to them does he act. Miss Talmadge in the movies is sweeter than Miss Larrimore at the Garrick because innocence and curiosity take her to the painter's studio late at night, while daring and impudence are Miss Larrimore's inspiration to the adventure. Miss Talmadge is more to be pitied than censured; Miss Larrimore should be spanked, in the phrase of a London critic, "until she glows."

The Garrick "Scandal" is compact and approximately well balanced, a graceful, witty, and audacious comedy for humorous and urban observation. It is trim and bright and funny where the other is rococo, scenic, respectable, and serious.

One writes about them today merely because "Scandal" at the Garrick drew upwards of $14,000 last week, while the Lilac, on East Madison street, where the kinemetic version was seen one afternoon, was full at 20c per head. "Scandal" is a beguiling headline.

EDWARD SHELDON is the author of "The Jest," the American version of Sem Bennelli's Italian drama, "The Supper of Practical Jokers," which John and Lionel Barrymore are about to act under John D. Williams' direction. The play has never been done in American, though the Sicilians presented it in Italian and Mme. Bernhardt in Jean Richepin's French translation. There is an English edition by Ada Sterling. Bennelli wrote the libretto of "L'Amore dei tre Re," which is a hit in grand opera.

Father Smith of the Catholic Actors' guild and Wilton Lackaye debated the question, "Is the modern stage worth while?" the other day in New York. Both took the negative side, and so did the audience, there being, apparently, no affirmative. Father Smith damned the thing because it "lacked soul"; Mr. Lackaye said that plays are piffle because the public is piffling.

Miss Laurette Taylor's place in "Happiness" was taken the week before last, in Cleveland, by a young actress calling herself Opal Euard, who, while playing the bit of the "second errand girl" in the last act, had learned Miss Taylor's ways and means. In Cleveland they raved about her, as is the custom in such cases. Miss Euard's previous experience with the drama was as one of the cabaret girls in the second act of "The Man Who Came Back."

Announcement is made that Miss Taylor will spend the entire season of 1919-'20 in New York City. In one of her plays, by Mr. Manners, she will act in Italian, and she is now learning to speak that language.

Seventeen young American second lieutenants, having a night to spend in New York recently, decided that Al Jolson would be grateful entertainment for provincial soldiers visiting the capital. They write THE TRIBUNE that though their investment was considerable, their profit was not, because, while Mr. Jolson's name was in electric lights in front of the theater, his person was in Palm Beach, Fla. They saw an understudy, however.

Enterprises of the Messrs. Shubert now undergoing revisions among the "dog" towns for production in the metropolises include Rachel Crothers' "39 East" (the address of a New York boarding house), with Henry Hull and Constance Binney involved; George Hobart's dramatization of "The Rise and Fall of Susan Lennox," with Mona Bruns as Susan; Martha Hedman in "The Dancer," by Edward Locke; De Koven's opera, "Yesterday," and the McIntyre and Heath piece, "Hello, Alexander."

Mr. Kaufman, dramatic editor of the New York Times, telegraphed last night, among other paragraphs in this column, that Booth Tarkington has almost finished a new play for Otis Skinner. Also, that among the cinema stars who will lift their voices in the drama next season are Miss Elsie Ferguson, Miss Beverly Bayne, Francis X. Bushman, and Theda Bara, who ponders an expedition into vaudeville for advertising purposes.

Miss Shirley portrays with sly comedy, a pretty figure, and a pleasant voice the rôle of an elegant lady-thief in "Oh, Lady, Lady" at the La Salle.

News of the Plays and Players

"The Rise and Fall of Susan Lennox" will be known as "Susan Lenox," the superfluous words and the extra "n" being eliminated for the purposes of billboard and electric light thrift.

Lieut. Bernard Granville, late of the Follies and the war, is to be in a new musical comedy, "Call a Taxi," this summer at the Woods. Earl Carroll is the composer.

Walter Hampden's successful performances of "Hamlet" in the forenoons in New York lead him to believe that he will do well evenings and afternoons in other cities. Therefore he will take himself and the tragedy on a tour of the more serious centers.

In the New York Telegraph Rennold Wolf compiles a list of those who have loved and lost Miss Ethel Barrymore, by way of proving that she has been engaged to be married oftener than any other celebrity. The list contains the names of the Duke of Manchester, Sir Robert Peel, Capt. Harry Graham, the late Richard Harding Davis, Arthur Byron, E. Clarence Jones, the late Herbert Stone, Prince Ranjitsinhji, the Earl of Ava, Ernest Lawford, the late Laurence Irving, Gerald du Maurier, "Freddie" Gebhardt, Robert Goelet, and Charles D. Wetmore.

Miss May Irwin returns to earth in a musical farce by Glenn MacDonough, called "The Water's Fine." They liked it last week in Poughkeepsie. When the play had no music the name of it was "Sister Mary."

After seeing Mr. E. E. Rose's adult and conventional dramatization of Mr. Tarkington's boy Odyssey, "Penrod," I should like to ask the youngsters who attended what they thought of it. Eddie Foy could as well footlight "The Spoon River Anthology," or Winthrop Ames the adventures of the Gumps.

"Of Ballads, Songs, and Snatches"

By Frederick Donaghey.

LEVITZKI'S cancellation of the recital designed for the Studebaker cuts today's list of performing pianists to two—Harold Bauer, in Kimball hall, and Pauline Meyer, in the Playhouse. Bauer, one of the best who come to Chicago, has managed till now to keep away since he and Gabrilówitsch, about a year ago, gave one of their delectable exhibitions on two pianos. He is so good a player that, like Gabrilówitsch and Godowsky and Hofmann and Miss Noaves, he should be able to come at least twice a season to sell-outs in a big hall. Hofmann will be here, at the end of the week, with the Orchestra; and Gabrilówitsch is to come back for a recital next Sunday, with his bill split between Chopin and Schumann. One of his Schumann pieces is the G-minor sonata, which seems to be the subject of this season's "run": Levitzki used it in his recital of last month in Orchestra hall; and Ethel Leginska puts it into the bill for her return, on April 6.

Sophie Braslau is bulletined tentatively as soloist in next week's Orchestra program; and it is not certain that she will be able to come. I hope she keeps the date; for this contralto has moved far in the right direction since, in 1915, she visited with the Orchestra for the special purposes of poor Granados' "Dante," a symphonic poem in which the Spaniard seemed unable to get along without a vocal part. Her voice is rich and lovely; and she knows a lot about how to sing. Down in the Metropolitan, where she is in regular employment, she has been put into numerous important parts in the répertoire. Her behavior last summer in the operas sung in Ravinia Park was mostly first-rate.

From a lusty merchant of music in San Francisco comes a letter concerning Mr. Polacco, who is to conduct the special Orchestra concerts tomorrow afternoon and Tuesday night. Polacco was for a time resident there, as conductor of the operas put on in the Tivoli. The letter contains nothing to indicate that he will not be interesting, at least, in his turn on Mr. Stock's dais.

"My dear Mr. Donaghey:

"I notice that Giorgio Polacco is to conduct a symphony concert with the Chicago Orchestra. If Polacco does this, you will hear something thoroughly worth while. I believe that the only symphony concert that Polacco has conducted in America was in the Tivoli. That was in 1905. When I see the bluff thrown by some of these alleged conductors and think back a little, I realize Polacco's greatness. San Francisco is supposed to have a great symphony conductor in the person of Alfred Hertz. Well, if Hertz is a symphony conductor, I am an aviator! It takes Hertz on an average of ten rehearsals to put on a concert. His programs are comprised for the greater part of the old symphonies, which the men of the San Francisco orchestra have played time and time again.

"As I remember our concert in the Tivoli, it was given because Polacco's heart yearned for something wherein he could do better work than as conductor of our opera. We warned Polacco beforehand we could not afford many rehearsals. He gave quite a lengthy program, which included the fifth symphony of Beethoven. I assembled the orchestra. When Polacco arrived at 9:45—the rehearsal being called for 10—I was horrified to notice that he did not have any of the scores. I learned afterward that, when the librarian offered them to Polacco, he thanked him and said: 'I do not use any scores.'

"This fellow, Mr. Donaghey, conducted all the rehearsals and the concert absolutely without score, and put on what was undoubtedly the greatest symphony concert ever given in the city—and I do not except those given by Mascagni, Dr. Muck, Damrosch, or any other conductor. And Polacco did it with four rehearsals of two hours each; but, believe me, he made those musicians ooze blood for the two hours every morning that he was before them!

"Undoubtedly, very few people in this country know that, as a symphony conductor Polacco is greatness, itself. What a wonderful thing it would be for music in this country if some one of the big orchestras would get Polacco!

"FRANK W. HEALY."

Mr. Polacco is not, he says, to return to the Chicago Opera.

On the theme of the orchestras and their conductors, it is just as well, perhaps, to reprint this from a review in the New York Evening Post by Henry T. Finck of a concert by the Philadelphia Orchestra, under Leopold Stokowsky:

" . . . one missed the glorious euphony of our Philharmonic brasses; but that was not the conductor's fault. No American city now has an orchestra equal to our Philharmonic—nor any European, for that matter. The Philadelphia Orchestra, however, is a good one; and its conductor makes the most of it."

How, as somebody is forever asking in the comic strips—how do they get that way? Compared with the Chicago Symphony, the Philharmonic is definitely third-grade: it is just better than the New York Symphony, and no more. Nor is the Philharmonic's conductor, Josef Stransky, reasonably to be regarded as in a class with Mr. Stock. Stokowsky, whom Mr. Finck patronizes so furiously, is a far better conductor than Stransky.

No other city in the known world today is in possession of an orchestra or a conductor so good as Chicago's; and this orchestra long since passed far beyond the best ever achieved by Boston's. No other orchestra in the world has amplified and extended its répertoire so consistently and so deftly as has the resident organization; and none of the other conductors owns an outlook so broad or an attitude so catholic as Mr. Stock's.

Caruso last night, in New York City, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his debut. He received $2.50 for his first performance; and that sum was then statutory in Naples for unknowns. His fee in opera per night is now $2,500.

Alessandro Bonci, whom the Metropolitan took from Hammerstein and buried to keep Caruso from fretting in the days when some of the critics were seeking to tell the public that Bonci was the greater tenor, plans to come back next season for concerts and recitals. He was a lovely singer in the lyric and romantic parts of the Italian répertoire—the rôles for which Campanini has engaged Tito Schipa.

Caruso, in his impending Chicago recital, will share the bill with Nina Morgana, a soprano, and Elias Breeskin, a good violinist heard twice last season in the Playhouse. Miss Morgana is on the Chicago Opera's roster for next season.

Mr. Ara, viola player of the Flonzaleys until he went into the Italian army, emerges whole from the great quarrel and rejoins the greatest of the string quartets. Mr. Bailly, the fine player who took Ara's place, joins the Berkshire, Mrs. Coolidge's quartet, as violaist and director.

The Flonzaleys, in making arrangements for next season, plan a fourth concert for each series in Chicago and other large cities, with a somebody to assist for the purpose of reviving compositions designed to include the piano. The Kneisels gave plenty of attention to such pieces, and frequently were reinforced by celebrities of the piano.

"The Legend" and "The Temple Dancer," two home-made operas staged the other night in the Metropolitan, will not do, it seems.

The three other short operas produced this season in the Metropolitan, Puccini's, have been put to a complete test, so far as repeated performances are concerned; and the general verdict is that two of the three are worth keeping. They are "Il Tabarro," an item about infidelity and murder in the cheerful scheme of "Cavalleria" and "Pagliacci," and "Gianni Schicchi," a frank farce. The weakling is "Sister Angelica," in which all the characters are feminine. Mr. Campanini, I believe, possesses the right to mount the operas next season in Chicago: whether in one bill or separately I do not know. The Metropolitan has been obliged by the contract to use them together this season, and is free next season to perform one or two in a bill.

The Society of American Singers, which was unable to draw even war-tax audiences when it ventured with the operas catalogued as grand, is going along in New York City with the light and comic pieces. They have added Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience" to their répertoire, and plan revival of "Iolanthe" and "The Yeomen of the Guard." Jefferson De Angelis, who never could sing, is a new member of the company.

John Philip Sousa and Raymond Hitchcock are among the incorporators and officials of a concern which plans to restore operetta as an American pastime, with "The Mikado" as the first offering.

André Messager, who came to Chicago as conductor of the Paris orchestra, resigned upon the return home of the organization, that he might devote himself, he explained, to composing. His opera of "Madame Chrysanthème," a variant of the Butterfly scheme, is in Campanini's plans for next season, in the reasonable belief that it will provide another rôle for Tamaka Miura. The little Japanese soprano has been the subject of staggering praise in the Manhattan newspapers for the five weeks of the Chicago Opera's engagement there. Columns have been devoted to explaining wherein she is better or worse in this scene or in that than Farrar and Muzio and other Butterflies since Puccini's opera was imported in 1906, thirteen years after "Madame Chrysanthème" was staged in Paris.

Karsavina, who was to have come here with the Ballet Russe, is said by the Musical Courier to be dancing in Petrograd for $25 a night; and the same pay is given to each member of her troupe! She was expected in 1915 as Nijinsky's co-star; and neither came.

Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird" has been set as an opera by Albert Wolf, a conductor in the Paris Opéra-Comique, and will be put on next season in the Metropolitan.

Concerts and Recitals

FIVE concerts are bulletined for the week by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra: two, constituting the twenty-third weekly program, to make up those missed on Oct. 18 and 19 by the flu-closing; a Pop, the season's eighth and last save one; and the twenty-fourth program Friday afternoon and Saturday night.

The first pair will be played tomorrow afternoon and Tuesday night, under Giorgio Polacco, guest-conductor: he is known well through his connection with this season of the Chicago Opera. He has prepared his own program, which consists of Beethoven's third (the "Eroica") symphony, Debussy's tone-poem called "La Mer," a nocturne (new) by Martucci, and, as the first Wagner of the season in Chicago, the prelude to and the Love-Death of "Tristan and Isolde."

Mr. Stock's program for the Pop, on Thursday night, includes Tschaikowsky's fourth symphony, the overture to Rossini's "William Tell," the overture to Weber's "Euryanthe," "In the Village" from Ippolitow-Ivanow's Caucasian Sketches, and Johann Strauss' famous waltz called "Wine, Women, and Song."

Josef Hofmann comes as soloist of the Friday-Saturday program, which, too, will be under Mr. Stock. The pianist is to take part in a revival of Chopin's first concerto and in the Chromaticon, attributed by him to an unknown called Dvorsky. Schumann's first symphony and Liszt's third symphonic poem, "Les Préludes," will be played.

Today.

3:00 and 4:15—Chicago Concert Ensemble: twenty-third program. Fullerton hall.

3:30—Harold Bauer, the pianist, in recital: his first this season. Kimball hall.

3:30—Pauline Meyer, a pianist, in recital: her first. The Playhouse.

3:00—Solomon Golub, who composes and sings, in a recital of his own works, in Jewish and Yiddish. Isaac Van Grove, accompanist. Central music hall.

Tuesday.

8:15—Warren Proctor, tenor, in recital: his first this season. Program in English. Kimball hall.

Thursday.

4:30—Eric De Lamarter in organ-recital. No fee. Fourth Presbyterian church.

Burns Mantle's New York Theater Gossip

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Out of a fog of commonplace attempts at drama and a period of Lenten dullness in the theater, Henry Miller has emerged with a new play by the Philip Moeller who wrote "Mme. Sand" for Mrs. Fiske. "Molière" is the title and the theme, and, like the Sand transcript, it is a personally conducted tour to such incidents in the life of the great French playwright as the author considers practical for the uses of his play.

Some little that is known of the life of Molière is tacked on to much that is alleged, or assumed, to be true, but the result is in one important respect much happier than it was in the case of "Mme. Sand"—there is a closer dovetailing of the episodes, a firmer cohesion, and consequently a stronger sustaining interest than there was in the other play.

It is easy enough to epitomize the life of Molière, or should be if you have looked it up lately. He was, you will recall, a wilfull lad who refused to follow the trade of his father, a worthy and successful upholsterer who had frequently been given the privilege of making the king's bed; that, being a natural mimic, he was attracted to the calling of those rogues the actors; that his parents were sore displeased, impelling him to drop the honest name of Poquelin and assume that of Molière; that he became a member of a strolling troupe that sometimes ate and sometimes went without food; that in his efforts to improve the plays of their repertoire he developed some skill as the George Cohan of his day; that after ten or twelve years in the provinces, he made Paris, where he attracted the attention of the then youthful and kind hearted Louis XIV.; that his popularity at court grew with his success as a dramatist and particularly as a good humored satirist making sport of the court itself; that in middle life he put aside the faithful Catherine Debrie, who had been his mistress and copyreader for years, to marry Armande Béjart, the little sister of his leading woman, for whose education he had paid and with whom he fell hopelessly in love; that she, being a frivolous and ungrateful little baggage, deceived him quite openly; that finally he left her and went back to Catherine; that in his advancing years he was forced to fight not only against a quick consumption, but also against the increasing favor with which his rivals were being received; that during his last weeks he became reconciled to his capricious wife; that he died in harness practically at the close of the fourth performance of "La Malade Imaginaire," and that his passing was generally mourned by the court and people of France.

What Mr. Moeller has taken out of this sequence of events are the incidents of Molière's marriage to his ward, her desertion of him, his popular standing at the court of Louis, and his death. What he has injected is an alleged attempt on the part of Françoise de Montespan, during the period of her high standing as the king's favorite, to intrigue the playwright into an affair; his refusal to be so intrigued; Louis' discovery of him visiting De Montespan in her apartments; the favorite's success in putting the burden of that visit on Molière; the king's natural suspicion, and Molière's definant answer to it, which is the big scene of the play.

It is this scene, offering a fine opportunity to Blanche Bates, who plays the alluring Montespan, and Mr. Miller, as Molière, that will give the new play such vogue as it may attain. It is a vigorous and well written scene dramatically. Montespan, having lured Molière to her rooms by appealing to his love of the king, exerts her charm to break his resolution; finding him true to both his king and his wife, she angrily flaunts the unfaithfulness of Mrs. Molière in his face and proves her point by showing the guilty Armande that moment in the arms of her lover in the garden below. Still Molière refuses to be won—when in upon these two walks Louis the Grand, who was that day supposed to be hunting at Fontainebleau.

What, he demands, as kings and husbands have done from time out of mind, what does this mean? It means, answers the humiliated Montespan, that she had asked M. Molière there to protest against his threat to make Louis the butt of a forthcoming satire; that she has pleaded with him in vain, and that he has all the earmarks of an ungrateful and disloyal subject about to take a nip out of the hand that has fed him with royal favors these many years.

Louis, being vain and suspicious, quite naturally turns upon Molière and demands an explanation. To which the playwright, himself a bit worked up, replies that the king can politely go elsewhere for such satisfaction as his pride demands; as for himself he refuses longer to be "lackey to the laughter of a king," and henceforth shall labor in the interests of the people of France. Good night!

Miss Bates achieved, the opening night of "Molièle," the most splendidly satisfying "comeback" recently recorded in the drama. She was, for one thing, strikingly handsome in the seventeenth century costumes and impressively graceful in pose and gesture as well. She has acquired, too, in her middle years a poise and a definitely clear enunciation that favor her reading. She was far too lovely and charming to suggest the wicked intrigante, but despite this handicap she fairly swept the audience into enthusiastic approval of her.

Miller plays Molière rather stiltedly, but rises nicely to the declamatory opportunities of the big scene. Holbrook Blinn is the Louis, a stolid but dignified king, and Estelle Winwood neatly visualizes the conquettish wife without suggesting many of her unattractive characteristics.

Otis Skinner is also with us this week with another play of sweeping gesture and booming rhetoric—the ten year old Balzacian "Honor of the Family" which he revived for purposes of road touring and found so popular that he determined on a New York engagement.

It is a play and a part that suit Mr. Skinner down to the soles of his strutting boots, and he wades into and through it with a zest that pleases his audiences mightily. They were quite willing to cheer him the opening night, and seeing that they were doing the same thing at the "Molière" premier has set us wondering if it is not possible the artificial costume play and the florid type of hero are not in for a bit of a revival. One such has been predicted many times, but nothing has ever come of it, largely because costume plays are so often very bad plays. Another "Zenda," might arouse quite a lively interest these days, but it would have to be a good "Zenda."

George Bernard Shaw came his first cropper in a New York theater the other night when his war time satire, "Augustus Does His Bit," was put on in front of "Toby's Bow" at the Comedy. The idea being, evidently, that by attracting the Shaw public to the theater the business of the original play would not only be improved but that its virtues would be the more generously advertised.

But "Augustus" provided nothing more than a dull half hour, during which the playwright took another fling at his friends, the blundering Britishers, engaged in war service. His example of a jack in office was that of Sir Augustus Hightower, a conceited ass who, having failed at the front, been taken prisoner by the Germans and promptly exchanged as one who could do their cause more good at home than he could in an internment camp, is sent to Little Piffington as a recruiting sergeant. There he is further "shown up" by being robbed of his most valuable papers by an alleged spy. There is a flash or two of the Shaw wit and an occasional point scored, but the general effect is sad. The play was withdrawn after a few performances.

The combination of the income tax and the excuse that Lent offers to those in search of excuses to stay away from the haunts of pleasure, have had a depressing effect on theatergoing in New York. Business at most of the playhouses has fallen off a third these last two weeks. As a result there is much stirring about in the search for new attractions to take the place of the weakest of the old ones.

There is still much insistence among the managers that the summer is certain to be unusually prosperous and hardly a theater of all the Broadway list but will try to hit it off with a summer show of some kind. The idea being that the tourist ban will still keep many Americans with money fluttering about this, their most fascinating city, with or without alcohol, and that the relatives approaching tidewater for the purpose of welcoming their heroes will be eager to take the boys to see what the girls are doing in the higher drama.

Yesterday a good Maxwell
—Today a Better One

More miles per gallon
More miles on tires

THAT is the policy of the Maxwell Motor Company.

It began five years ago on a single chassis plan and today 300,000 Maxwells have been built on this program.

Not 300,000 Maxwells identically alike—for that would be admitting that the car has never improved in five years' time.

More than 1000 refinements have been made in the Maxwell.

But the original chassis plan was not changed. It has simply grown better as the days went by.

The logic of building one thing and thus building it well is too clear, too sound, too emphatic in results to argue against.

Like any fine piece of machinery the Maxwell seems to improve with age.

It runs on and on without end. We have never heard of a Maxwell salvaged.

There is no car with a better road ability record. And it saves many a thrifty dollar by shying at the repair shop.

This Maxwell you see today is not a new Maxwell; though many persons have thought so. It has been so much improved in appearance that our contemporaries in the trade repeatedly refer to it as the new Maxwell.

However, good looks have not in any way handicapped its running. And the latter is the main thing, after all, in a motor car.

ANOTHER HERO OF THE PLAINS.

By Mae Tinée.

LURED another wild man from the west into me den last week.

Harry Carey, girls!

"What did you say his name was?" the beauty editor asked.

"Harry Carey."

"Sounds like Japanese suicide," remarked the beauty editor.

Which it does. Mr. Carey, himself, however, is far from being suggestive of such a thing. He's quite a live one, judging from all appearances. He is also a gentleman with a will of his own and shattered the fond hopes of his press agent immediately upon his arrival. He would not wear his sombrero on the streets of Chicago. Neither would he don his "chaps."

"Good advertising for you if you'd do it while I take you around and show you Chicago," the p. a. persisted.

I am told that Mr. Carey retorted: "What do you want to show me Chicago for? I was born in New York?"

There's no fuss nor pretense to Mr. Carey. He tells you frankly that if he had to depend on the sale of his pictures east of Chicago he'd be out of a job.

"The easterners want spectacular stuff—and I'm no good at that," he says. "They don't care about just good riding. Westerners understand and applaud that. And I'm a good rider. Also I'm pretty real as a cowboy. When I go into a dance hall I always take off my 'chaps.' Real cowboys don't wear 'em and spurs when in the presence of ladies. Which makes me think of a letter I got from a soldier who used to be a cowboy. I don't get many mash notes, but I get quite a few letters from fellows. This soldier thanked me for showing motion picture audiences that a cowboy knew how to be respectful in the presence of ladies.

"'Thank you for taking off your "chaps" and dusting your shoes before you went into that hall,' he said."

It also seems that cowboys, when at home and not engaged in conducting a finishing school for horses, wear overalls and doff their guns. Mr. Carey has a ranch with a seven room house, a wife, and everything, and he says the only time he wears his trappings is when he's fixing to show the tenderfoot how the other half lives.

Vurr' pleasant and companionable and unassuming I found Mr. Carey. He acknowledges a fervent admiration for Bill Hart, Tom Mix, and Nazimova. And Chaplin. By no means let us forget Chaplin!

Have you noticed the horse he uses so much? Well, he's been to Carey what Fritz was to Hart, and, like Hart, Mr. Carey plans soon to pension him off to pasture. The horse, whose name is Pete, has only one peculiarity, according to his master. He's afraid of the water.

"People ask me often if the kind of pictures I take are not bad on the horse," said my visitor. "I haven't found them so. Only one time to my recollection has Pete been up against danger. That time I jumped him off a boat into the water. We'd tried the stunt out with other horses and they'd gone in and swam to shore with no trouble at all. But poor old Pete! The minute he struck water he flew into a panic and nearly drowned. That was the last time I ever tried anything of the sort on him."

Mr. Carey told me he had received instructions to go on further east and visit the picture theaters there, but that he was not going to obey. He says he's a canny guy, and, having three better pictures coming out than he's made before, he's going to let them make the rounds before he appears in person.

Look like? O, nothing matinée hero-ey about him. Just regular height, regularly dressed, blue eyed, sandy haired regular man. Nice.

It is announced by the managment of the Randolph theater, where are being shown Martin Johnson's pictures of the cannibals of the South sea, that on Tuesday afternoon, none other than Mr. Johnson himself will appear in person and dilate on the marvelous adventures, narrow escapes, and thrills that were his and his wife's when procuring the pictures. If you don't believe there's danger in photographing cannibals maybe you will when informed that when Mr. Johnson applied for life insurance in New York the other day, and named his occupation, he was refused with a promptitude that made his head swim.

The motion picture business may still be in its infancy, as its fond sponsors are so fond of saying, but the stars thereof have a grown up income tax to pay this year all right. It is estimated that altogether the motion picture stars and directors of Los Angeles will pay a tax of in the neighborhood of $3,000,000 on incomes of more than $10,500,000 a year.

While the fans have been stewing over the fact that there seemed to be no more George Beban pictures forthcoming, Mr. Beban has been, I hear, doing considerable stewing on his own account. You know he created a distinctive type of photoplay, a type that appealed to everybody. It seems, however, that various directors and heads of companies thought he ought to change his style. So they informed him he'd have to have more love stuff and bring his photoplays up along more conventional lines. "If I have to do that," said Mr. Beban, "I'll stop making pictures." Good as his word he was, too. At least, he released none. The fact he's at work again argues he at last has brought somebody around to his way of thinking.

"Beckoning Roads," the new Jeanne Judson novel, has been chosen by Bessie Barriscale for picturization.

Mary Pickford's next picture for the First National Exhibitors will be "Burkeses' Amy," adapted from the novel by Julie A. Lippman.

Little birdie tells me that the handsome J. Warren Kerrigan is no longer fancy free but is mooning over a pretty girl seen recently with him in pictures. Little bird doth not depose whether or not the lady looks upon him with favor.

The young man who interviews for the Hyde Park High school paper obtained an interview with Miss Marsh and her husband when they were in the city recently. He wrote me a long letter regarding his experience, much about Miss Marsh, but he sums up her husband in the following terse sentence: "The kind of fellow that hates to be called dear in public."

In his next picture Charles Ray will be seen riding a bicycle from house to house. A good type to select for a canvasser, we'll say, with those sad brown eyes of his.

That redoubtable and blood-stained warrior, Capt. Tinney, will lead his legions into a musical show tonight at the Olympic, called "Atta Boy." The chorus and the minor principals are soldiers from overseas.

ASK ME! ASK ME!

WHO ARE YOU: Why don't you sign your name to your letter? If it hadn't been so nice a letter I wouldn't have cared, but I don't like my friends to be anonymous.

ANNA W.: You will have to send me a stamped, addressed envelope for the information you request, Anna.

MRS. W. M.: Whoever told you they hired real doctors when a doctor was needed in a picture? I should say that almost anybody capable of carrying a black bag and looking grave could qualify. Address Elsie Ferguson in care of Artcraft, 729 Seventh avenue, New York.

STAR EYES: Twinkle, twinkle! No, Mr. Bushman hasn't entirely deserted the screen. He and his wife, Miss Beverly Bayne, were making a picture for Vitagraph the last I heard. But Mr. Bushman raises Great Danes in addition to his picture work.

N. M. S.: Yes, Alice Joyce is a pleasant personage on the screen. "The Lion and the Mouse" is her latest picture. Before that she appeared in "Captain's Captain." She was born in Kansas City, Mo., and usually spends her winters in Jacksonville, Fla., and her summers in New York. She started pictures with the Kalem company and is the wife of Thomas Moore.

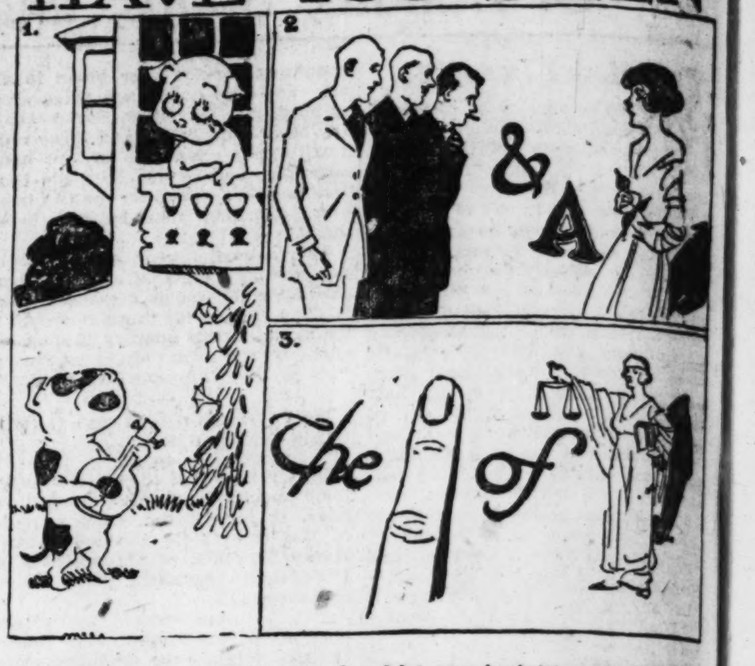
MARY PICKFORD LOVER: A letter addressed to Mary Pickford, in care of Paramount, Hollywood, Cal., will reach her. Here is the cast of "The Stoning," which was an Edison picture: Ruth Fenton, Viola Dana; her father, Charles Sutton; her mother, Helen Strickland; the minister, Robert Conness; Buck Jones' boy, Yale Boss; Alec Peter, Harry Beaumont.

K. V. E.: O, I don't want to roast them! You!

FRANK V.: Surely, I'll tell you. Address William S. Hart, in care of the William S. Hart Productions company, Los Angeles, Cal. You didn't send the stamp, Frank.

LARRY H.: No, Theda isn't dead. I don't know the name of Charles Ray's tailor. Anybody with a pair of shears and a passion for raveling could execute some of the costumes he wears on occasion.

HAVE YOU SEEN



No reason for you to sit around and let your brain stagnate just because it's Sunday. Go to church, eat your dinner, then sit down and give your mind a little exercise by figuring out this puzzle.

"You'd get my insurance policy."

"My father in his house is king."

"Yes, I was there the night your mother crowned him."

"I'm sorry I married you. There were at least twenty young men anxious to marry me and they were all smarter than you."

"They must have been smarter; they got away."

Lou Holtz: It was on account of the mosquitoes in Hawaii that the "Houla Houla" was invented. "Houla Houla" translated into English means "Lay off me, Lay off me."

"What is the definition of your backbone?" the teacher asked my brother.

"Your head sits on one end of it, and you sit on the other."

Al and Harry Klein:

"Can you tell me why they call the American soldiers doughboys?"

"Well, I guess it's because the secretary of war's a Baker."

"You seem to have a very bad cold. What are you taking for it?"

"Well, make me an offer."

"What would you rather be hit by, a cow or an automobile?"

"An automobile."

"Why?"

"Because, an automobile only has one horn."

"You know so much about food, name three of the principal articles containing starch?"

"Two cuffs and a collar."

Bertee Beaumont and Jack Arnold:

"Are you a recruit?"

"No, I'm an insurance man. I just got two orders next door—one to 'Get out' and one to 'Stay out.'"

"Are you an American citizen?"

"No, ma'am, I live in Evanston."

"Do you live a fast life?"

"I said I live in Evanston."

"Have you any marks of identification on your body?"

"Yes, two on my head, by my first wife."

"Are you married?"

"No, I earn my own living."

"Do you drink anything?"

"Yes, anything."

"Can you tell me why women's minds are cleaner than men's?"

"Yes, because they change them so often."

"Why didn't the last man I sent you join the army?"

"He had water on the brain."

"Well, then put him in the navy."

"How old are you?"

"I'm nearly eighteen; I don't look it, do I?"

"No, but you probably did once."

"How many in your family?"

"Six boys and two girls."

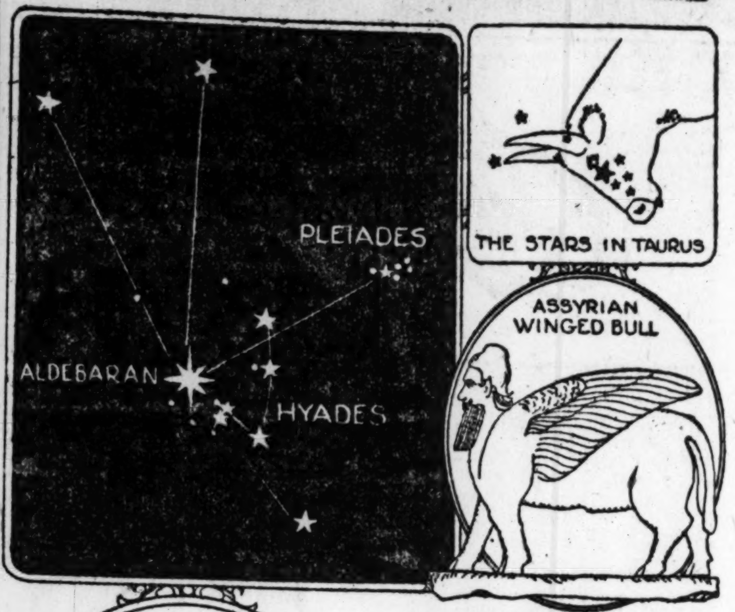
"That's not a family; that's a regiment."

"Have you any dependents?"

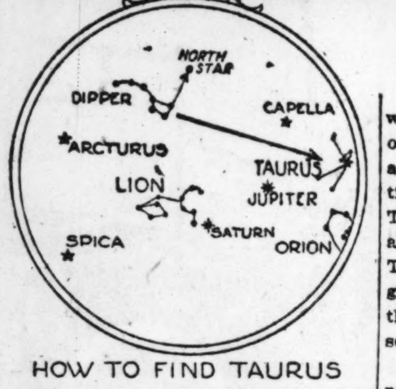
"No, sir."

"That's right; nobody can depend upon a woman."

ASTRONOMY



TAURUS
DRAWN by S.F. MAXWELL



HOW TO FIND TAURUS

CONSTELLATION OF TAURUS.

Among the winter constellations now rapidly vanishing below the western horizon there is none more interesting or worthy of note than Taurus, the Bull. Taurus is now well placed for easy identification: This evening at dark it is directly in the west. To be sure to find it, remember that the group is built around the red, first magnitude star, Aldebaran.

Taurus represents a bull, lunging at Orion, and Aldebaran is his angry eye. The name Aldebaran is derived from Arabic, and means "the eye of the bull." The modern Taurus is not a complete animal, but comprises only the head and shoulders of the bull. Two stars mark his horns, the Pleiades mark his shoulder, and the Hyades his nose.

Taurus, like the other constellations of the zodiac, antedates all written history, and so we do not know what the original constellation looked like. Every age has had different representations of the bull, some in one posture and some in another. At the present time we follow the Greek conception of it, as modified by the Arabs.

The bull played an important part in the art of bygone ages. Any one who has visited an archæological museum when the sculptures of past ages were on exhibition, must have been impressed by the frequency with which it appears.

The Assyrian winged bulls and winged lions that guarded the gateways of the old temples of Mesopotamia have a history that is interesting. Civilization of a high order flourished in the Tigris-Euphrates valley seven, eight, and even nine thousand years ago. There were royally appointed astrologers whose function it was to watch the sky to foretell the weather and the seasons.

It must be remembered that Mesopotamia was a country of intensive agriculture, and the weather there either made or ruined that year's crops.

In predicting the weather these primitive scientists discovered that spring began when the sun was in the constellation of the bull, and the heat of summer came on as the sun entered the constellation of the lion. From these observations beliefs and myths grew, and furnished the inspiration for statues of bulls and lions, bearing the face of a king or a deity, and having wings to denote that they were taken from the sky.

The constellation of Taurus is filled with interesting objects. The Hyades are a V shaped group of stars that make a pretty cluster in an opera glass. The Pleiades are not far away. They look something like a tiny dipper. Their shimmer is sure to attract even the most casual watcher of the skies. The Pleiades also appear well in an opera glass. Refined astronomical investigation has shown that they form a family of suns, bound into a compact system by clouds of nebulous gases and dust.

Aldebaran is one of the cooler stars in the scale of inorganic evolution. Suns of its type are nearing extinction. Stars start from dust, grow huge and hot by drawing into themselves all the surrounding planets, satellites, and smaller particles. At length, when they have exhausted the clouds from which they drew their material, they cool again, passing through the stages represented by the Orion stars, Sirius, the sun, and Aldebaran, until finally they are dark and dead.

THE DELECTABLE TIME

By Guy F. Lee

There's a good time a-coming, when all of our fears
Shall fade in the glory of joys and of cheers;
There's a glad day ahead, when no work shall be done
Save that which we like to do just for the fun.
When that hour is here there shall be no more worry,
No reason for stress, no occasion for hurry.
No one knows the date, but there's no one alive
Who doubts for a moment he'll see it arrive.

Life wouldn't be worth much if this were not true;
The past is the past, and the present won't do.
But the future! That's where all our hopes and our aims
Are centered—that's when we collect on our claims!
The Land of Delight is just over the hill,
And we're all sure we'll reach it and feast to our fill.
And so, though tomorrow may lead us to sorrow,
When tomorrow's today, there's another tomorrow!

TRIANGLE PAPER

BEST QUALITY

"TRIANGLE" service has created a sensation among Chicago paper buyers. The "TRIANGLE" idea of specializing in the handling of Rough Papers, with a warehouse just outside the loop, has enabled local Merchants, Manufacturers and Wholesale Houses to obtain a type of service unprecedented in the history of the paper business. Many of Chicago's largest stores and industrial plants are numbered among our large list of customers. We have on hand at all times, for immediate delivery, a large stock of the following so called Rough Papers in all weights, sizes and grades at prices that are right.

Wrapping, Packing, Butcher's Fibres,
Manila, Krafts, Toilet Papers,
Rag, Tissues, Bags,
String, Rope,
Twine

A Roll or a Carload

No order is too small for us to handle—none too large. No matter what your requirements may be, whether in roll or carload lots, the same prompt, careful and satisfactory service is rendered.

Our splendid warehouse facilities enable us to maintain a large supply of various grades of rough papers in all standard sizes. This "big stock" feature is a guarantee of dependability and is of special value to users of wrapping and packing paper whose business demands immediate delivery. You can always rely on a "TRIANGLE" promise. We do not claim to do the impossible—but we do guarantee to give better "all 'round" service than the average house in our line. We solicit business from both large and small users on this basis.

Get Our Prices on Catalog and Flat Printing Papers

Although the handling of rough papers comprises the greater part of our business, a large department is devoted to supplying the users of printing papers, enamel, super-catalog papers and news stock.

We represent several large mills and are in position to quote unusually low prices on mill runs. An assortment of various grades is carried at our warehouse for immediate delivery on small runs.

Give us an opportunity to estimate on your next order. We can save money for you.

38 SALESMEN AT YOUR CALL

"TRIANGLE SERVICE" is complete in every detail. We have a staff of thirty-eight salesmen whose efforts are devoted exclusively to serving our trade. These men are not mere "order takers." Every man is a specialist in paper and can talk "paper" intelligently.

There is a certain satisfaction in knowing that the man with whom you are discussing your paper needs understands what he is talking about and can offer suggestions in your favor. When you consult with a "TRIANGLE" salesman you are talking with just that kind of a man.

PHONE CENTRAL 5141

Ring us up and have us send one of our men down to see you. Allow him to tell you personally what we can and will do for you. Perhaps he can show you a way to effect a great saving in your paper buying. If you wish, he will submit special samples or dummies. He is a walking encyclopedia on all paper questions and it will really do you good to have a chat with him.

No conscientious buyer of paper stock should ever place an order without obtaining a "TRIANGLE" quotation. Call us up or drop us a line and a salesman will be at your service.

NEW YORK SOCIETY by MME Y

Dances Galore in Lenten Season; All for Charity

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.] — You remember how the hired man on your grandfather's farm used to say: "There's them geese goin' south agin. There'll be a frost." And in the spring you will recall he reversed the statements: "Swallows are comin' north. I must be about my plantin.'" He told time, as it were, by the migration—and no less do I.

As the swallows homeward fly in September, just so surely do the smart set have their seasons for flight. There is only one essential difference that I can see between their flitterings and the swallows. The birds remain longer in one place. The hired man on my grandfather's farm had time to catch his breath between seasons, but as for me, I no sooner get my flocks settled than they are again on the wing.

Three different friends mentioned to me last week that certain families whom we all know had gone from Palm Beach to Aiken and no hired man could more accurately read this season than I. His signs might tell him that he ought to begin his spring plowing. To me this society item said that there was going to be a fox hunt in Georgia mighty soon; that before many weeks all of the homes along Long Island would open and the suburbs and colonies would swell almost to bursting by the time of the Metropolitan handicap and the opening of the racing season in Belmont park.

When the smart set moves from Palm Beach it means that the barometric, thermometric, temperamental, and social conditions are such here that the Lenten sewing classes for the benefit of dear knows what all are flourishing. This year there seems to be some slight change in the times that is affecting conditions everywhere. You hear of it from all over the world—snowfall in France when it ought to be straight rain they were getting; a lovely winter in New York throughout. The way it affects the smart set is that they seem never to know when to leave off dancing. They are whirling their lives away.

Alsace-Lorraine Supper Dances.

"Isn't this Lent?" I demanded last week, thinking I must be mistaken in the season.

Listen to the list of dances and see if you can believe your ears. The Alsace-Lorraine supper dances have begun their third series. One was given last week.

Mrs. William Thaw III., Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, and Mrs. John Wanamaker Jr. are among the moving spirits of the dancing enterprise. The entertainments begin at 11 o'clock, when most folks are well started toward bed. How's that for up to date Lenten observance. However they are expensive, and the proceeds go for free milk for France or something like that, and anything you do for France is justifiable in Lent apparently, according to the new Litany.

Last week the buds blossomed out with one of their Friday junior dances, which is merely the technical, archaic name for them, since this one and most of the others are on Monday. This one was at the Ritz, under the direction of Miss Georgiava Harriman Owen. One of the mothers of the young women muttered something to me last week about girls being so interested in France or the Frenchmen—I didn't just get it—but anyway a group of young French officers were their particular guests.

Bridge for the Matrons.

A new evening dance club was formed last week. You see they are actually coming to get up dances in Lent and not to abandon them. The first one was a great success and they decided then and there to give seven more. They take place in the Della Robba room of the Vanderbilt. It is one of the few series where matrons as well as debutantes are provided with entertainment. They even go so far as to set up tables of bridge for the old-fashioned dowager who does not dance. By all of which the tubercular children of France benefit.

The smart set has underwritten a new contract to furnish free milk to Italy and toward that end will dance conscientiously in fancy dress on the night of March 27. Miss Oliver Russell will do a pantomime dance and Mrs. John S. Ferguson will give some Spanish dances. The wife of the Italian ambassador, Mrs. Edward N. Breitung, and others of the smart set are patronesses. I would go so far as to say that a volume of work equal to that which they are doing but directed into other channels would condense, can, and deliver at the doors of Italy a fair consignment of milk.

I am not through with my record of dances past and prospective yet. They are not going to end with Lent. On Easter Monday there is going to be one under the decorative title of the Rainbow ball. It will take place at Sherry's and will be useful principally as a setting for some of the loveliest, expensivest fancy costumes worn by the smart set since their country went to war. At midnight there will be a tableau, in which some of our most prominent young matrons and girls will take part.

Miss Katharine Mackay is head of the program committee. My word, it was just the other day that her name appeared in print only once a year, and then as a little girl, who walked up Fifth avenue on Easter morning with her father. Now she is a full grown debutante and her father is guiding her and watching her fondly. He, as you know, is Clarence Mackay, and he, for this particular activity, is acting as treasurer.

Festival for France.

But the biggest charity event of the whole season comes on Tuesday evening. It will be at the Metropolitan Opera house and will be a festival for France. Surely if France can be reclaimed and reconstructed, the smart set will reclaim her. This particular blowout is given for the devastated regions of the Somme and the Ardennes.

I despair telling you about it. In fact, I have sidestepped the task several times. Mary Garden is the moving spirit of it. Every once in a while she decides on something in the way of entertainment and the next day decides on something else. She is going to give an act of Thais, or Cleopatra, both or either, with perhaps a little of Louise, and without any doubt a great deal of Mary Garden. The list of patronesses and boxholders would occupy a column.

Wait until next Sunday and I will tell you exactly what has happened. It is far the better way when a prima donna and the prima donnas of the smart set join hands in any enterprise. Then, when it is over, you know exactly what you are talking about—and not before.

The admiration for the Overland is due not alone to its sturdy and graceful appearance but to its utility as well. By its use thousands have increased their efficiency and added to their physical well-being. Over 600,000 Overlands are now in use. More than one-fifth of them are Model 90. No more conclusive evidence of public approval could be had. Overland success is largely due to the fact that Overland owners have not only bought Overlands themselves but have enthusiastically recommended them to their friends.

ART by Eleanor Jewett

Reynolds' Sunset at Art Institute; News and Notes

A splotch of red on the rim of the world,
Green in the afterglow;
A paint brush slipped from the fingers of Pan,
Splashing a path below.

Burnt sienna and purple and gold
The vivid colors ran,
Till the whole west sky was aflame with light;
But what, think you, cared Pan?

Red and amber and orange and gray,
And violet shaded pale—
The west sky gleamed with a thousand tints
In the wake of the brush's trail.

Never a sunset had been so fair
Within the mind of man,
And all men stopped and, wondering, watched—
But what, think you, cared Pan?

The silvery arc of the crescent moon
Figured the flood with white;
The setting ball of the day-old sun
Sank in the seething light.

The Night rose silently out of the east
And silently began
Spreading her nets for the colors bright—
But what, think you, cared Pan?

Yellow and lavendar, green and gold,
The grim nets caught them fast.
With octopus claws Night seized them all,
And all were gone at last.

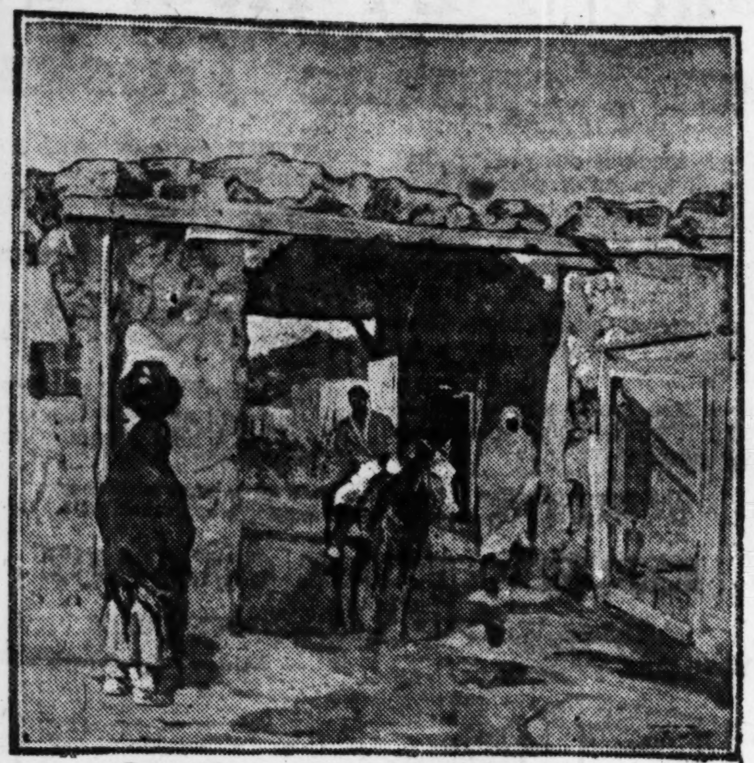
Gone were the glories the sky had shown,
But not forgot by man—
And for the paint brush that slipped that night,
What do you think cared Pan?

THERE are painted, it seems to me, more rarely than might be, glimpses of the sunset sky. Possibly this is because of the evanescent qualities of that sky; possibly because of an unavowed timidity on the part of artists before the master painter. But, whatever the reason, when the sixty minutes, the average measure of the passing of the sun, trailing its clouds of glory back from the day into the dark of night, are done, he who has watched the slipping of the sands through the hour glass and has set some impression of that wealth of color on canvas, has achieved a certain measure of his subject's immortality.

In the present exhibit of paintings by Chicago artists at the Art institute there is a rather timid sunset by J. Wellington Reynolds. It is one of the group of paintings by him dealing with this hour that were shown earlier in the year. As clearly as I can remember now, there are no other sunset sketches in the exhibit. But, in the Inness room, with its too fervid crimson background, there is a sunset where the sun is a ball of fire sweeping the sky and earth with the unchained flames of its passion. Out of that scarlet holocaust, when the golden sands have slipped a little more through Time's glass, will be drawn strands of many colors barring the sky, until the shadows of dusk deepen and Night commits once more her recurrent theft.

I suppose everybody who has once been a little girl, and, I almost dare say, everybody who has once been a little boy, has, buried somewhere in their memory, rememberances of the dolls with which they used to play. One includes boys, mindful of the knotted towels about which as much glory is shed in the careers of Budge and Toddie as there is about Toddie's famous desire to "see the wheels go round," and which nearly equal in importance Alice's Duchess and the supercilious caterpillar. So should everybody find a measure of interest in the puppet show installed in Gunsaulus hall of the Art institute.

Gunsaulus hall itself has been dressed anew to fit the occasion. The scheme of decoration, as regards color and arrangement, is charming. Windows have been cut in the yellow walls and in them are set out tiny dramas representative of life in various countries and enacted by dolls of stolid complexion but resplendent costume.



The Gateway by Walter Ufer.
CHICAGO ARTISTS' EXHIBIT AT THE ART INSTITUTE.

A dire and dreadful scene is that of the case of a thousand murders—fit title for a mystery story—where the stricken figures encumber the ground and the manner of their deaths is made plain by attaching to each lifeless body the implement which took its life. One doll swings by a rope, another writhes with a dagger through its heart, a third is spitted on the point of a sword. And on this tragic spot the author of these unfortunate occurrences treads with a sardonic grin and contemptuous glance, searching some concealed victim that might yet taste the temper of his unused weapon.

But not everywhere does tragedy lurk. There are quiet vistas revealed picturing the ways of the people in Japan, the sports of those who live in the Land of the Long Night, and the gentle, leisurely manners of the mountain whites of Virginia, where, unless feuds beckon, nothing disturbs these devotees to the ruling adage of the southlands "dolce far niente."

There is an interesting exhibition of sketches by Gordon Ertz at the Palette and Chisel club. They present the champagne side of art deliciously. Bubbles of fantasy, the light froth of thought, the loose threads of a summer dream, a man's making of fairy matter—and with all that, a sureness of touch, knowledge of anatomy, skill of drawing, vigor of conception, freshness of vision, which round the scattered series into a complete whole of concise imagery.

One might run rapidly over a chance chosen group of the drawings. The "Firefly and the Moth" is charming. On a fat, heroic mushroom a firefly sparkles, aping the glitter of a fairy in the dew at dawn. To her flies a gray winged moth, eagerly beating the south wind with her soft pinions into abject obedience. And the wind goes singing under the stars, where the roses curl their red petals in sleep.

There is beyond this a drawing of a sea witch, a slim, treacherous creature cradling a skull in her hand and standing on a mountain of rank weeds that find their footing in a cluster of other skulls, poor victims of the rage of Neptune.

Beyond this is a likeness of Dolores, tall and hard, and imposing in grief. A woman in black with a scarlet mouth. On one hand perches the dove of oblivion, but nestled in the other is the head of that serpent of unassuaged sorrow which bites unending at the heart of those who have lost happiness and yet cannot forget her.

"Over There" is to me the one sketch that lacks conviction because of its apparent striving for effect. The title gives the theme without more prose detail being needed. "Nemesis" is rather good.

The loan exhibition of American paintings at the Hamilton club is unusually excellent. Care was taken in the choice of the pictures hung and, in the success of the exhibit, that care has been rewarded. One recognizes a number of the paintings as having been shown at the Art institute, but many of them are not so well known to us. The first view of a new Inness is always a matter of rejoicing, and the "View From My Studio, Tarpon Springs, Florida," is more than worth mentioning.

When a number of paintings are of equal merit it is a difficult task to attempt definitions of even a few of them without raising the question: "Why those and not these?" In the case of this exhibit I shall not even dare that question, but state, with calm and collected assurance, that among those paintings which are of interest are "Michigan Avenue in December," by Guy Wiggins; "Invocation," by Mazzanovich; "Enchanted Pool," by Blakelock; "The Northwest Wind," by Charles H. Davis; "Herself," by Robert Henri; "Sheep in Pasture," by Verboeckhoven; "The Cathedral Spires, Spring Morning, New York," by Childe Hassam; "The Purple Prince," by Victor Higgins; "The Yellow Sands," by Paul Daugherty; "Storm on the Maine Coast," by Max Wyte, and "The Cotter's Saturday Night," by Sir David Wilke.

The Hamilton club gold medal will be awarded to the painting that wins the majority praise by popular vote.

The Chicago Association of Commerce announces a rather unusual competition which is open to the artists of Chicago. The association is completing plans for the enlargement of its weekly paper and is seeking an adequate cover design. The competition for this design closes on April 14. The awards—there are several money prizes offered—will be made soon after by the judges of the competing sketches. The judges are George W. Eggers of the Art institute, Oliver Dennett Grover, William H. Harper, R. E. Kenyon, and H. B. Mulford.

At the close of the competition it is planned to hold an exhibition of the sketches in the Art institute. Those who wish more information concerning the competition may write to the publicity department of the Association of Commerce, 10 South La Salle street.

The lower the grade of gas the easier it is for a Hot Spot Chalmers

THE great engineers of the automobile industry are discussing nowadays the low grade gas situation more often than the number of cylinders a car should have.

Not long ago one of them said that automobile engines would have to be redesigned to use the inferior gas of today.

This the Chalmers engineers did when they built into the great Chalmers engine the now famous Hot Spot and Ram's-horn manifold.

These two devices convert low grade gas into high power.

For any engineer will tell you there are more thermal units or power in a gallon of low grade kerosene gas than there is in a high test gas.

The Hot Spot puts the gas in shape for power results. It breaks up into tiny vapor molecules the gas—so fine that it really becomes "dry".

Then the Ram's-horn drives it to the cylinders by the quickest route ever devised and when the explosions come there is so little power to escape through the exhaust as to be well nigh negligible.

One short ride in a present day Chalmers will tell you the story far more eloquently than the English language can express it.

TAMPA, FLORIDA, "ON THE BOOM"

YOUR "OPPORTUNITY KNOCKING"

From a "fishing village" prior to its incorporation as a city only 18 years ago, Tampa has a population now of over 100,000, which it is predicted will be increased to 500,000 within the next 5 to 10 years.

Comparatively it's only recently that some "big business" men and others of all classes have discovered that the Tampa Territory has the "World's Greatest All-the-Year-Round Congenial Climate" combined with a soil that produces annual crops ranging up as high as $3,000.00 per acre.

THE "MERCHANT PRINCE," John Wanamaker, says: "I have been coming to the WEST COAST for four winters. Tampa gives one the impression of a city destined to grow to greatness. I see a great future for Tampa."

We have already sold over 3,000 acres in tracts of 10 acres and upwards in our "TABLE LAND." It's covered with beautiful Long Leaf Yellow Pine and other Semi-Tropical Trees and Flowers, and LOCATED within 30 minutes' auto ride on a Brick Paved Road of the heart of the City of Tampa.

The 1920 Model Stearns Is Here

Announcing the Arrival of the Exceptional Car

THE more you know about motor cars, the more you will appreciate the Stearns 1920 models which have just arrived.

The more critical you are of beauty and comfort, the more you will like these new cars.

The more determined you are to secure motor car dependability, the more satisfied you will be with any of these fine models.

Stearns has successfully passed through the crucial tests of twenty years of service and now enters a new season fortified by enviable records of performance.

Its sleeve valve motor has an unrivaled capacity for economical service. It has proved its right to the high place it holds among the motor-wise.

Stearns mechanical accuracy is frequently the theme for discussion where well-informed motor car owners gather. To Stearns owners it means dependability and economy.

Stearns Motor Car practice brings a combination of qualities not to be found elsewhere. It assures endurance—the continuous, pleasurable service every buyer seeks.

Come and see these exceptional cars. Ride in them. Test them as you will. You will become conscious of how nearly perfect a motor can be. You will have found the car that your ideals have pictured.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker's
Own Story
The American Ace of Aces

OFFICIALLY accredited with bringing down twenty-six German planes, decorated with the American D. S. C. with nine individual citations, the French Legion of Honor and the Croix de Guerre with three palms, tells his marvelous experiences in sixteen full-page weekly installments, copiously illustrated from photographs. Eddie Rickenbacker is the most idolized flying man in America today.

Pershing's Cable

read by Secretary of War Baker on the occasion of a dinner given at the Waldorf-Astoria in honor of Captain Rickenbacker, at which there were a thousand men present, among them many government officials:

"The history of the American Air Service on the western front is as remarkable for its sound and successful development of aviation tactics as for its spirit of unselfish devotion and daredevil gallantry, which is unsurpassed by anything that the great war has produced. Captain Rickenbacker has written some of its brightest pages, and on behalf of the American Expeditionary Forces I am proud to bear witness to our admiration for the air service and for him."

Universities Will Teach Road Lore

AMERICA'S haphazard fashion of building and using the highways of the continent, it seems, is headed definitely for the discard. The signs of the times are multiplying.

The University of Michigan, it was announced last week, will establish a course in highways transport next fall. At the same time it became known that Queen's university, in Ontario, will have next year a course in roadmaking in connection with its practical science department.

The new courses are designed to train experts to help direct the coming great expansion in road building and highways transportation. It is believed that thousands of men who have been trained by the army in the haulage of freight over the roads will want to round out their education by going back to college in preparation to making highways transportation their life work.

Many other students also have indicated their desire to take up this new occupation, and these, with the former army men, will make up the first classes.

The students at the University of Michigan will take up automobile engineering, various phases of the transportation question, as presented by the department of economics and highways engineering, since it is now recognized that the roadbed and the highway vehicle that travels it are as closely related as the rolling stock and the road bed of the railway line. Other universities in this country, it is believed, will offer special training along these lines next fall.

How Many Wheels?

In discussing the relative merits of three and four wheel motor vehicles an early automobile editor had this to say:

"The three wheeler is not easy to steer, nor is it comfortable to ride in on any but the smoothest roads. When the average purchaser comes to lay out enough money to buy an automobile he soon concludes that he will be best pleased with a comfortable little four wheeler, which is easier to handle, safer, and affords room for a companion by his side and not tandem as with the three wheeler."

Beg Your Pardon!

"High Speed's" article on automobile insurance, published March 9, implied among other things that collision insurance on a $2,000 car can be obtained for $30. Several correspondents have called attenion to the fact that "full coverage" on such a car in the Chicago territory now costs $109. Quite right. "High Speed," in this case, was in error.

HIGHWAYS WEATHER SERVICE.

HIGHWAY 15 (Milwaukee-Fond du Lac)—

In many places the road is rough and in some sections very muddy. The flood in the Milwaukee river is subsiding, but it will be several days before some of the roads can be traveled.

HIGHWAY 17 (Milwaukee-Kenosha)—

With the exception of mud on the short unpaved section, the highway is in excellent condition.

HIGHWAY 19 (Milwaukee-Madison)

This route is reported in good condition near Okauchee, but generally poor on account of mud elsewhere. The road is bad between Brookfield and Pewaukee and it is impassable for autos in some places near Hubbleton.

In General.

Southern Wisconsin is free from snow and there is very little in northern counties, except in the woods where considerable remains. On account of melting snow and the recent heavy rains dirt roads are in very bad condition. In the vicinity of Milwaukee floods in the rivers have rendered many roads impassable.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 18, 1919.

"Highways weather" reports—a service designed primarily for motorists—constitute the newest wrinkle in the activities of the department of agriculture. The weather bureau at Milwaukee is now issuing weekly a card like the one reproduced herewith, indicating detailed road conditions on the principal routes radiating from Milwaukee, and the staff of the Chicago weather bureau is discussing with Washington the advisability of launching a similar service in this territory.

"So far," reports W. P. Stewart, meteorologist at Milwaukee, "our work has been only tentative, but it is proving of considerable value and we hope to extend the service to cover most if not all of the state and to issue at least two bulletins weekly."

Motoring in England.

An illustration of automobile conditions in England is revealed in the Morning Post of London of Feb. 1, which says that cars are beginning to appear on the roads in increasing numbers, but away from the vicinity of certain factories there are few, if any, signs of new vehicles.

"Indeed," it adds, "the price of used cars in anything like good running order is as high as the actual cost of the vehicles new in pre-war days, sometimes higher. This points to the fact that the native industry will not get going properly for several months."

British motorists, like many car owners here, are having difficulties with low grade fuels, and in order to provide a better grade a plan is on foot to mix the highest grade aviation spirit, of which there is a more than sufficient store in the country, with the lower grades that have been available.

The mixture, it is stated, will be sold at about 3 shillings 9½ pence a gallon, equivalent to 90 cents, indicating that gasoline is still a high priced commodity in England.

Unlontown's Ready.

The Uniontown, Pa., speedway will inaugurate its 1919 racing season with a contest on May 17.

News and Comment of MOTORDOM

Conducted by SHEPPARD BUTLER

Spring's Here: Do Your Duty!

BY HIGH SPEED.

used to be the fashion for village debating societies to discuss at needless length the thrilling question of whether the pleasures of anicipation are greater than those of alization. We need not enter into is here, but certainly the present sean, with its anticipations of the joy us time just ahead, is not the least leasurable of the motor car owner's ear.

Though mud and rain hold the world thrall just now, there is a golden adiance beginning to steal into the unlight that presages the glorious ays that will soon come—long, happy ays on the open road, with a whole ummer of pleasure under the steerg wheel ahead. But if the full enyment of these coming days of spring to be realized the car owner must ive his vehicle some careful attention t the present moment.

The first question that must be deided in undertaking the spring overaul is whether there is any vital part f the mechanism that requires attenion which the owner does not feel able o give. Does the rear axle need overauling? Is the transmission good or another season? Do the engine bearngs require readjustment?

If the car must go to the service staion for some replacement or repai ake it there this week. The repai nen are going to be tremendously bus his year, and unless you get your jol inder way now you may be without the ar when the good weather begins a w days, perhaps, from now.

As a beginning of the work that you ntend to do yourself make a careful ist of all parts and equipment that ou are going to need. Gather the arious things you expect to use, cotter ins, nuts, bolts, valve grinding comound, patches, cement, waste gaskets, rease, graphite, oils, kerosene, valve pring litter, etc.

With the materials all gathered and eady to hand, the first step in overauling is a thorough cleaning. This hould include not only the body, but he upholstery and the running gear nderneath the vehicle. The engine hould be thoroughly cleaned, all ummy deposits being removed with erosene. All oil compartments, crankase, gearset, differential, etc., must e drained of their old oil, and after eing flushed out with kerosene should e refilled with fresh lubricant.

It is best to begin with the engine nd gradually work back through he mechanism. Unless the cylinders ave recently had carbon removed this s the first step. Of course scraping is he only really thorough method of leaning out carbon, but the oxygen nethod is fairly satisfactory and will ave to be resorted to in case the engine is not of the removable head type nd the owner is in a hurry.

Bar these two ways, there is the arbon loosening compound, which is often very satisfactory, but care must e used in purchasing this agent to get ne made by a reputable concern, as here are some of these on the market oday which are utterly worthless. Finally, there is the chain method, in which a special chain with steel links s dropped through the spark plug hole and the engine is run. The chain s thrown about the combustion chamber and knocks the carbon deposits ff the walls.

The carbon having been removed, the next step is to grind the valves. For this operation a valve spring lifter is needed and some good grinding compound. A grinding tool is extremely handy for the work, but a screwdriver may be used.

To grind a valve the spring is first removed, the passage into the cylinder first being stopped up with a cloth to prevent bits of carbon and grit getting into the combustion chamber. With the valve freed the engine is turned over until the tappet is at its lowest point of movement, for otherwise the valve will not seat.

If the valves are badly pitted use coarse grinding compound at first. Spread a little of the compound on the face of the valve and then place the valve in its usual position and gently oscillate it with the grinding tool. Grind until the valve and its seat are of an even gray color, with no black spots. Then remove the valve and clean it thoroughly with kerosene, cleaning the seat and parts adjacent at the same time. Insert the valve before removing the next so as to be sure that each of them gets back on its proper seat.

With this work done the cylinder head should be put back. It is not advisable to use the old gasket in reassembling. A new gasket should be ready to install. The seat should be perfectly clean and the gasket should be covered with a little shellac and then put in place. After applying the cylinder head tighten the nuts, drawing down first one a little and then the opposite one. Do not draw one nut down all the way and so on around, as this may spring the cylinder head.

The inlet manifold will next require a little attention. The gasket here will probably need replacement and sheet asbestos will be used, liberally covered with graphite. Finally give the engine a general tightening up. Use the wrench on all nuts; tighten the pump packing nut if a pump is used. Give the fan any adjustment it may need. Tighten all the ignition wire terminals. See that the magneto, if one is used, is tightly bolted down. Do the same for the generator. Tighten up the radiator holding down nuts.

The starting and lighting system will require an overhauling, and this had best be delegated to the service station. Likewise the ignition system, if it has been showing signs of internal disorganization; let the experts at the service station give it an overhauling. About all the average car owner can do is to clean the interrupter mechanism with a little kerosene and then give all moving parts a few drops of oil.

Next in line comes the steering system. Play should be taken up in the linkage and all the joints should be packed with grease.

The clutch next demands attention. If it is of the cone type, the leather facing should have a treatment with neatsfoot oil after the leather has been cleaned of all dirt or gummy matter. If the clutch runs in oil it should be drained, flushed out with kerosene, and be refilled with a mixture of kerosene and lubricating oil, half and half.

Finally the rims should be removed from the wheels and the tires from the rims. Clean the rims and paint them with graphite paint. Remove the wheels and repack the bearings with fresh grease and adjust the wheel bearings if there is excessive side play.

And after all these attentions have been bestowed upon the car take it out on the road and see how it works in actual operation. Make further adjustments as the operation seems to indicate.

Armistice or no armistice, they are still developing new ways of using the gasoline motor as an engine of war. This tractor, the American army's latest war device, isn't really a tractor at all, for it doesn't pull anything, but carries a big field gun on its back. It was tried out recently at the Aberdeen proving grounds, showed its ability to meet all requirements, and has been installed as a regular item of artillery equipment.

The Experts Say----

STRONG soapsuds made from automobile soap and rubbed on the glass of the windshield and allowed to dry will prevent fog or rain from obscuring the vision through the glass. Kerosene is sometimes used for this purpose, but it does not last as long as the above, and glycerin is also recommended.

* * *

A painter's brush that is thick and soft will be found better than waste for removing dust from the motor. There are so many small projections that waste is generally a cause of bad language and little else.

* * *

The tank of the vacuum fuel feed system should be cleaned out at least once in three months. The operation is not hard to carry out. The top of the tank should be removed and the inner vacuum chamber be taken out. This enables the operator to reach the lower chamber, from which all dirt should be removed.

* * *

Short circuiting at the spark gap is sometimes caused by small metallic beads, formed by the intense heat of the spark. These beads form a bridge between the electrodes across which the current passes. This trouble, fortunately, is easily discovered and cured simply by removing the beads.

* * *

The locomotive engineer frequently uses his hand to determine lubrication failure, and this is a hint that the car owner can put to good use. Failure of lubrication permits excessive friction, and friction generates heat. Any part which is discovered to be too hot to the hand held near it is probably suffering from faulty lubrication.

* * *

Increased amperage may be secured from partly run down dry cells by crowding the material near the carbon element down with a small bit of wood and a hammer. This loosens the obstructing material from around the carbon and permits free chemical action. The asphaltum material may be sealed again by the use of a little heat.

* * *

If the car owner, after being out in bad weather, will take the trouble to wipe the tires and rims clean with a sponge and then wipe them dry, especially along the beads, he will do much to prevent the formation of rust.

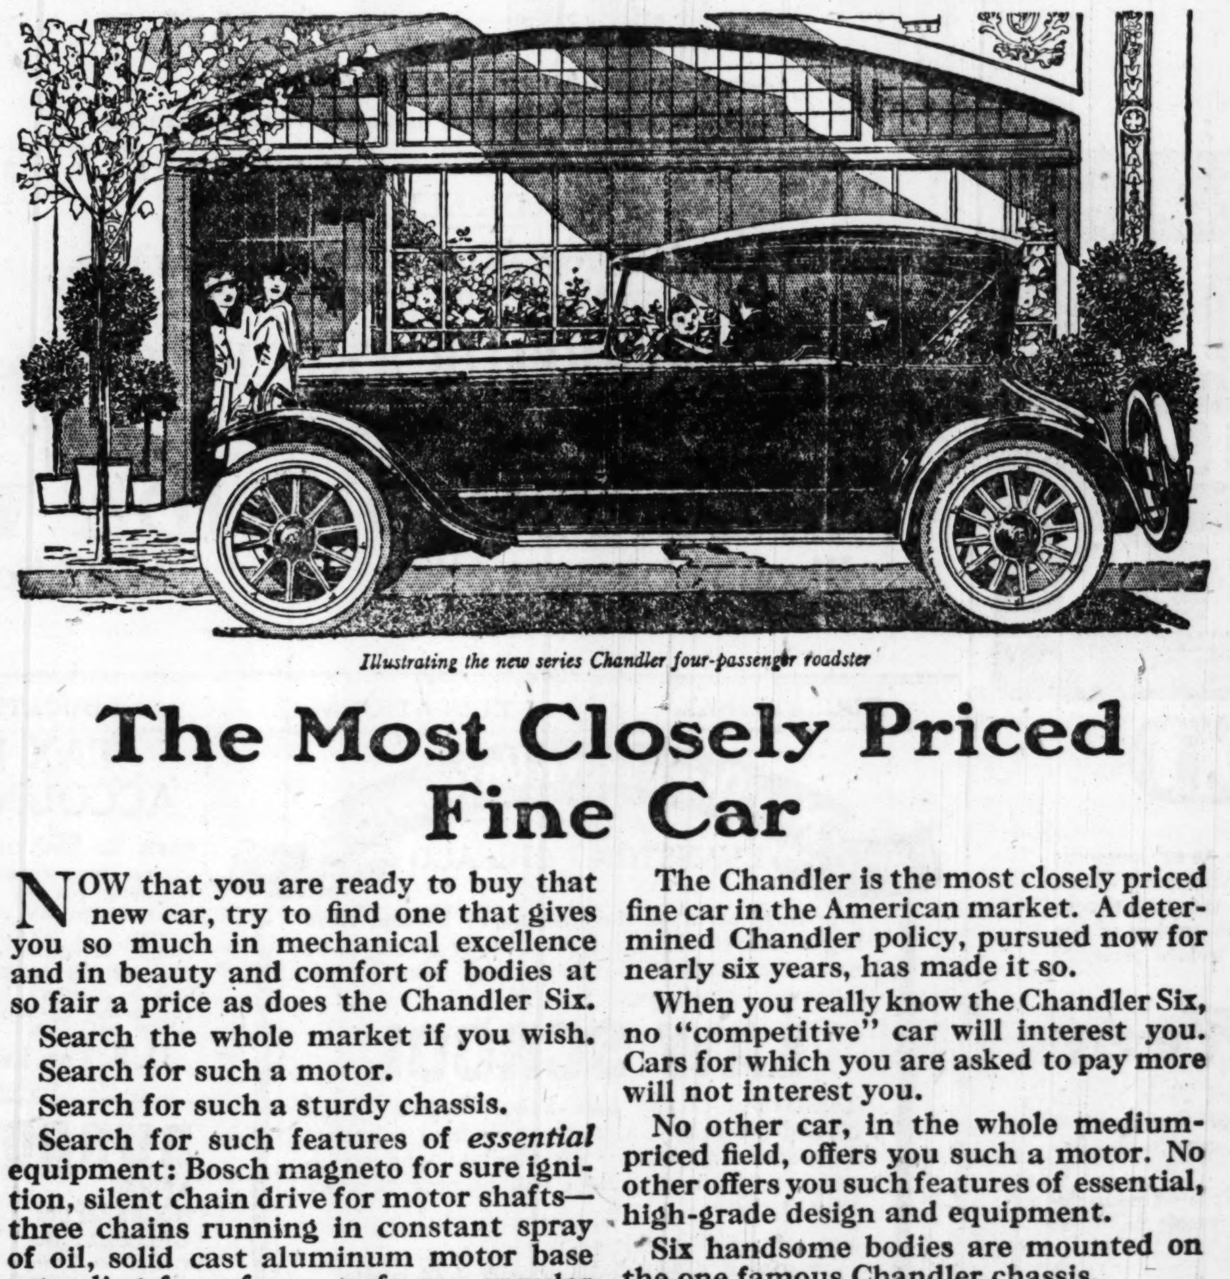
CHANDLER SIX $1795
Famous For Its Marvelous Motor



Illustrating the new series Chandler four-passenger roadster

The Most Closely Priced Fine Car

NOW that you are ready to buy that new car, try to find one that gives you so much in mechanical excellence and in beauty and comfort of bodies at so fair a price as does the Chandler Six.

Search the whole market if you wish.

Search for such a motor.

Search for such a sturdy chassis.

Search for such features of essential equipment: Bosch magneto for sure ignition, silent chain drive for motor shafts—three chains running in constant spray of oil, solid cast aluminum motor base extending from frame to frame, annular ball bearings to carry the power back to the rear wheels with the minimum loss through friction.

The Chandler is the most closely priced fine car in the American market. A determined Chandler policy, pursued now for nearly six years, has made it so.

When you really know the Chandler Six, no "competitive" car will interest you. Cars for which you are asked to pay more will not interest you.

No other car, in the whole medium-priced field, offers you such a motor. No other offers you such features of essential, high-grade design and equipment.

Six handsome bodies are mounted on the one famous Chandler chassis.

The Chandler leads today just as distinctly as in the years past. And now, entering its greatest year,

Chandler is Back to $1795

Asking you to pay more wouldn't give you more. To mark up the price doesn't make a car better. The Chandler is sold at a closer price than any other fine car. You can prove this by your own comparisons.

Some day you may be saying that about your battery.

Of course you'll believe it.

Yet your battery may have been getting nearer and nearer to the failing point every day on account of trouble that you could have headed off weeks ago if you had only known.

You may have let the water get low.

You may have used more current than has been replaced.

You may have let a connection work loose.

But whatever you did, the weakness would have been uncovered by an inspection and a simple hydrometer test.

If you haven't a hydrometer and have never inspected your battery or made a test, come in and let us explain.

Zenith Still Supreme

Mr. Car Owner:

Did it ever occur to you that our friend and benefactor, the aviator, cannot en route "get out and get under" to adjust his carburetor? A moment's reflection on this subject makes clear why the Zenith Carburetor is supreme in the aeronautical field. Having no moving parts it is TROUBLE-PROOF as well as highly efficient. Trouble may mean death to the aviator. To you, only an expenditure of patience and money. But, can you afford to waste either? We have a Zenith that will fit your car. Pick it up and SCRAP your troubles.

War Worn Trucks Can't Be Repaired

"TRUCKS used for transportation of men and materials during the war will not find a way back into the market," says a former member of the One Hundred and Second Engineers recently returned from France and now with the International Motor company.

"There are two reasons for why this is so. One that the transportation problem is equally as difficult now as when the war was reaching its climax. The other is that the trucks have been subjected to such hard usage that when discarded from military service they are junk.

"When units are broken up and returned for muster out, motor transports are turned over to a base motor depot. Those that can be repaired are overhauled and kept in service; but many trucks are scrapped on the ground without even being taken to a salvage dump.

"These worn-out trucks will have to be replaced by new trucks and it is doubtful if the number of trucks now contracted for will be sufficient to take care of present needs.

"The railroad system of France, even including the temporary military railways, is hopelessly inadequate, and motor transports are overloaded and driven at excessive rates of speed over roads that have been worn out by traffic night and day or ruined by bombardment.

"Factories, stores, homes, and even farms must be rebuilt, and until the entire war ruined area is restored there will be no lessening of the tremendous demand for trucks."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS - - By High Speed

I wish you would kindly publish the best route from Chicago to Stuttgart, Ark. I wish to make the trip about April 20. C. W. V., Springfield, Ill.

The best route would be by rail. I should not think of driving to Arkansas in April unless the trip were absolutely necessary, for road conditions are almost sure to be extremely bad. If you decide to make the venture get onto the hard roads of Indiana as quickly as possible, driving either directly east and then south to Terre Haute or southeast from Springfield to Vincennes. Then go south through Evansville, Hopkinsville (Ky.), Clarksville (Tenn.), and Charlotte, and southeast through Waverly, Jackson, Brownsville, Memphis, Forrest City (Ark.), Goodwin, Brinkley, and Roe to Stuttgart. It would be wise to make frequent inquiries as to road conditions along the way and modify your route accordingly, for local rains often make stretches of road here and there impassable.

What is the best route by automobile from Peoria to El Paso, Tex.? What is the distance? A. B. B., Peoria, Ill.

Go through Bushnell, Macomb, Augusta, Quincy, Hannibal (Mo.), Moberly, Carrollton, Excelsior Springs, Kansas City, Ottawa (Kas.), Emporia, Newton, McPherson, Ellinwood, Dodge City, Fowler, Guymon (Okla.), Stratford (Tex.), Amarillo, Canyon, Clovis (N. M.), Roswell, Alamagordo, and Las Cruces to El Paso. The distance is 1,558 miles. I should defer this trip until considerably later in the season if possible. The roads are in bad condition now.

Please inform me as to the best all around route to take by automobile from here to Southbridge, Mass.

N. A. H., Benton Harbor, Mich.

Go through Niles, Elkhart (Ind.), Goshen, Ligonier, Kendallville, Butler, Bryan (O.), Napoleon, Portage, Fremont, Norwalk, Elyria, Cleveland, Painesville, Ashtabula, Conneaut, Erie (Pa.), Westfield (N. Y.), Fredonia, Silver Creek, Buffalo, Batavia, Canandaigua, Seneca Falls, Auburn, Syracuse, Utica, Little Falls, Amsterdam, Schenectady, Albany, Pittsfield (Mass.), Westfield, Springfield, and Palmer to Southbridge. A pleasant way to make the trip, if you do not care to drive all the way, would be to drive to Detroit, ship your car by lake steamer to Buffalo, and continue from that point.

RACINE MULTI MILE CORD TIRES

EXTRA TESTED

RACINE Multi-Mile Cord Tires are distinguished by the supreme mileage achievement of the tire world—Racine Absorbing Shock Strip. The Racine Absorbing Shock Strip is an extra strip of blended rubber of graduated resiliency. It takes up shocks and jolts of the road. It completely neutralizes them, and unites the tough rubber of the tread to the rubberized cord fabric carcass of the tire. Thus, the two are welded perfectly and danger of separation is eliminated.

Extra Care—Extra Wear

Miles and miles of extra service are added to Racine Multi-Mile Cord Tires by this achievement of Racine Rubber Company's chemists. Each of the many Racine Extra Tests is applied through every step in this tire's production. This extra care in the factory means extra wear on the road.

Racine Multi-Mile Cord Tires are built on the proved Racine principle of multiple-strand construction. Greater tire mileage and greater riding comfort result from the flexibility of the thousands of rubber livened cords.

Greater Tire Mileage

Non-skid construction is scientifically perfected in Racine Tires as proved by severest tests over slippery, treacherous roads and pavements. You want greater tire mileage—Racine Multi-Mile Cord Tires will yield it. Competing with any make you choose, Multi-Mile Cord will prove its Extra Tested value.

WOMEN LEARN TO SPEAK

Never before have women had such an opportunity to take an important part in business, social and public affairs. To become a "Leader," a woman must be able to speak upon any and all occasions—the natural shyness of woman is her greatest handicap to success. Her self-consciousness and lack of preparatory training hinders her advance to her rightful position in clubs, societies, fraternal orders and in great business and professional walks of life. Some women have "blues," discontented, no ambition in life; they never attend meetings or social conversation; they stay at home, never go out, because they are like a sphinx amidst people; they only listen, but cannot talk or express themselves intelligently upon anything.

The woman who wishes to wield the greatest influence among her various organizations should be a self-confident, convincing, fluent, intelligent speaker, and scarcely any other accomplishment counts for as much toward Leadership in her club circles. Every live woman is called upon at times to address social, fraternal, business or public gatherings.

Our instructor, Dr. Rostell, Ph.D., of Oxford, England, is a thorough master of persuasive, convincing, fluent speech-force, with 30 years' practical teaching. He inspires and awakens into activity all those faculties that encourage you forward to "doing things in a large way," with more concentration, poise, voice-power, memory, expression—gesture—and to speak distinctly, accurately, interestingly upon any subject or topic when called upon to speak.

Two extra classes, for women exclusively, forming Monday, another class Wednesday—information upon interview. Call or phone RAND. 878.

PRODUCTION of cars in Michigan and Ohio during February was double that of the preceding month. This is shown in the production reports from thirty-eight leading manufacturers. These plants produced 4,871 cars a day last month, as compared with 2,833 a day in January.

Every company with the exception of Packard is now in production. Packard has started work on its new cars, and the first of these will leave the assembly line some time in April.

The detailed production figures for the first two months of the year were as follows:

On Dec. 31, 1918, only 15,545 finished passenger cars were in the hands of automobile manufacturers throughout the United States. This represents only three days' normal production and sales.

At the same time truck manufacturers planned a production of 327,930 motor trucks for 1919—plans made after the armistice was signed—a production of 100,000 trucks more than that of 1918 and based on purely commercial absorption.

These remarkable figures, exhibiting a passenger car market practically drained and a motor truck business anticipated far in excess of even war demands, have been made public in a letter from C. C. Hanch, chief of the automotive section of the war industries board, to the industry. The letter states that production of passenger cars in 1918 totaled 926,388, as against 1,740,792 in 1917—a reduction of approximately 50 per cent.

Total motor truck production for 1918 was 227,250, as against 128,157 in 1917. The 1918 production included 164,264 for civilian use, as against 109,865 for civilian use in 1917, and 62,986 for military use in 1918, as compared with 18,292 in 1917—indicating a large increase of trucks for commercial purposes during the war and despite it.

Production of trucks in 1919 as planned by the manufacturers shows a predominence of 1 ton trucks with two ton, one and one-half ton, three-quarter ton, three and one-half ton and five ton next in the order named.

The Automobile Club of Southern California, at Los Angeles, has been waging bitter war on the automobile thief in its territory. This "mental X-ray" is submitted and guaranteed authentic by one of the detectives in the club's employ,

I AM the auto thief.

For a plugged nickel I'll tell every secret of my business and then I'll go out and get away with more cars than I know what to do with.

It is easier to steal cars in southern California than it is to pick oranges. Orchard owners protect their fruit and auto owners don't.

They think they have me on the run, but partners are too willing to help me out. Who are my partners? They are the owners of automobiles. They are all the owners who are careless, and their name is legion. The carelesser they get the richer I get and I like 'em.

If it was as hard to buy machine keys that fit every auto lock as it is to buy a decent shot of hop or a pinch o' "snow" they might have me on the hip. But shucks, I can go out and buy lock keys just like buying postage stamps.

I can buy a fifteen cent key that will fit a $3,000 car. But 'most always I don't have to spend the fifteen cents. My "partners" leave their keys in the locks downtown and then I get a $3,000 car for nothing just by stepping in and driving off.

PRETTY SOFT

Any nut who drives a car with the rear bumper hiding the rear license plate is going to have his car hooked, and hooked good. The cops don't see the number and the get away is easy. Any number that has dents in it or with some good cracks in the enamel is a great help to me. That is a trade secret.

When I have to stop and scratch my head over a car then I don't steal it. But when a car sits up and begs to be stolen I am human and do the work.

Can Import Racing Cars.

European motor car manufacturers who plan to compete in the 500 mile race at Indianapolis motor speedway, May 31, will be able to get their entries into the United States without any trouble, according to a recent ruling of the war trade board. This order includes "cars, carriages, and other vehicles."

Lifting of the ban on importations means that Fiat, Sunbeam, and other foreign companies that have always participated in the big racing events of the motor world will probably ship mounts into America for the premier contest on the Hoosier oval. Fiat has already announced that it would get back into the racing game, and there is a strong indication that most of the other companies in Italy and England will come in. It is hardly expected that any of the German or Austrian firms will attempt for some time to fraternize in the racing world with the men of the other nations.

Automobile Trade Notes and Gossip

"MOTOR ROW" is preparing to devote a little of its time to politics. Robert M. Sweitzer will present his claims as a mayoralty candidate at an automobile dealers' luncheon to be held at noon tomorrow in the Pershing room at the Lexington hotel. Presumably the other candidates will be given similar opportunities later. The Sweitzer meeting has been arranged by a committee headed by Thomas J. Hay, Chandler distributor.

The new Essex, which made its debut at the automobile show as a touring car only, has blossomed out in Detroit as a sedan. The model is finished in dark green, upholstered in gray whipcord, carries five passengers, and will sell for $2,250.

Next year's national truck shows in New York and Chicago will be held during the same week as the passenger car exhibits and not during the week following, if the National Automombile Chamber of Commerce carries out the wishes of its truck manufacturing members as expressed in a recent vote. William F. Melhuish, Jr., president of the Futon Motor Truck company, claims credit for having suggested the plan.

The builders of the Garford truck have entered their bid for glory and a place among the "firsts" in the war and after it. A recent letter from a member of the signal corps with the American army of occupation closes with this sentence: "It will doubtless be of interest to you to know that the Garford was the first truck to cross no man's land into German territory after the signing of the armistice."

Dodge Brothers dealers are expecting deliveries this week of a new four door sedan which will sell for $100 more than the present two door model. The chassis will be the same as at present.

The new headquarters of the Republic Truck company at 753 West Jackson boulevard were opened with a house warming party last Wednesday Most of the Republic dealers in the territory supplied by the Chicago organization were present.

Rubber shortage note—One of the greatest shipments of rubber ever received in America in a single lot is on its way across the continent from San Francisco in a special train of twenty-six cars. There are 2,240,000 pounds of the stuff, and it represents the entire production of 560,000 rubber trees for a year, being part of the large accumulations of crude rubber held back in the far east by the embargo on importations. The shipment is consigned to the United States Rubber company at Detroit.

A TEST FOR "GAS"

COMPREHENSIVE tests of gasoline quality cannot be made without laboratory equipment, and then only by experienced men. There is a simple test, however, that can be taken as directly indicating the suitability of any gasoline for use in an internal combustion engine. This test can be made in a few minutes by any motorist without expense. It is conducted as follows:

Into a small porcelain crucible pour about 30 c. c. of the fuel to be tested. Light it and allow it to burn freely till the fuel is entirely consumed. If only a small amount of carbon is left on the side walls of the crucible, and the bottom remains practically clean, the quality of the fuel is good. If the deposit of carbon on the side walls of the crucible is heavy and black, and if there is a thick black residue at the bottom, the gasoline is poor. There, are, of course, any number of degrees of variation between these two extremes.

Primary consideration for judging the quality of gasoline and its suitability for motor vehicle fuel are the relative ease of starting in cool weather, mileage per gallon in ordinary use, heaviness or slightness of carbon deposits in the combustion chamber, and degree of adulteration of the lubricating oil in the crankcase.

Fiat Coming Back.

Representatives of the Fiat from the home offices at Turin are in the United States making preparations to resume the production here of Fiat cars for the American trade. They have several factory sites in view and it is expected that soon announcement will be made by the Fiat of plans for the resumption of its American business, which was largely discontinued on account of the war.

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS ARE SAVED ANNUALLY BY THRIFTY HOUSEWIVES WHO BUY FROM TRIBUNE ADS.

Sturdy Sterlings in Super-Size Cords

THE manufacturer is prone to go into mechanical details when all the customer wants is Service. It is the spirit back of the goods that determines satisfaction or the lack of it.

Ours is a homely sort of organization—we know each other by our first names and our salesmen are the first to jack up the factory when anything seems wrong. Every one of us from the chief executive to the newest office boy is interested primarily in just one thing—satisfactory service to our customers. Anyone who hasn't that spirit doesn't last long in the STERLING family.

Just now we are unanimous in the belief that the Cord type tires we have developed and perfected in the past twelve months are all that tires can be in quality—in strength—in extreme toughness and durability.

They are hand-made—built up layer by layer on iron cores—rigidly inspected in process—transferred to air-bags of our own special construction and given a four-hour cure under moderate temperature. The process is slow and adds to the cost. But it produces tires we can all be proud of and sell to our friends and neighbors without being afraid to meet them at the club afterward.

The great majority of STERLING Tires are sold for commercial use—on salesmen's cars, which travel much and constantly, in all weathers and over all sorts of roads—on delivery cars and trucks—on telephone service cars—on cars carrying the United States mails which are usually heavily loaded and hit only the high spots. STERLING Tires are built for hard service—and get it—and stand up under it.

For practical purposes our guarantee is that the user shall be satisfied. We save 5,000 miles (6,000 on 30x3½ and 31x4) just to have a basis for adjustment. But we expect, and our customers rightly expect, the tires to average very much greater mileage. If there were any way of barring accidents and under-inflation, we would as cheerfuly guarantee 10,000 miles, because we know how STERLINGS are made and what they will do when they are properly treated. STERLING Super-Size Cord Tires give exceptional service on trucks using 35x5—36x6—38x7—40x8.

We are interested in having our Tires give the utmost possible mileage over the guarantee, and for that reason in all of our 36 branches we repair them free of charge as long as, in our judgment, a repair is justified.

STERLING Tires are not yet widely distributed among dealers, but any dealer anywhere can get them for you.

5 ton construction —in a 1½ ton size

THIS new all-purpose Gramm-Bernstein truck is not an ordinary truck —it's a 1½ ton size built on 5 ton principles—with proportionate hauling dependability.

¶ It is built to make good for you on any job—even where most 2 ton trucks would fall down.

¶ If a better truck has ever been produced —we don't know it. It's our idea of what this size truck should be.

¶ Its economy is exceptional — the construction reflects the highest attainment of truck engineering — easy to operate— with a control that is surprisingly positive —as are the larger G-B sizes.

¶ Don't buy any truck until you see this wonderful truck value—then you'll see the difference between a small size regular truck—and the so-called 1½ ton trucks.

$1895.00

backed by

Stratton service

ALL G-B trucks are backed by Stratton Service—a service in the fullest sense of your idea of motor truck service. It's an any-hour service that keeps trucks "on the job."

¶ We know that if Stratton Service fails—we fail. Sale of a truck just starts with the signed order. Our reputation must stand or fall with the way we make good on this pledge to you.

¶ So when you buy a Gramm-Bernstein Truck—backed by Stratton Service—you buy as close to continuous satisfactory motor transportation as it is humanly possible to deliver.

¶ And this isn't just truck selling talk—it goes exactly for what it means—as these and every other G-B owner will tell you.

G. W. STRATTON,
President.

"Our Gramm-Bernstein trucks are giving very satisfactory service and very little trouble. As for Stratton Service—any one who isn't satisfied with that kind of service can't be satisfied at all."—John Walsh Teaming Co., 23 N. Elizabeth St.

"The Gramm-Bernstein Truck is a fine piece of goods. Not giving us any trouble at all. Stratton Service is real service."—George Hamilton, Nubian Paint and Varnish Co., 1856 Le Claire Avenue.

"Am I satisfied with Gramm-Bernstein trucks? The best answer to that is that I've ordered three more. Stratton Service is O. K."—James O'Donnell Teaming Co.

No Punctures No Blowouts

HOW MUCH DO YOU PAY FOR "FREE AIR"?

Whether you pump it in, or the obliging garage man puts air in your tires, you are not getting something for nothing. You are—so far as the garage man is concerned. It is a courtesy part of his service.

But when you figure the real cost of air in your tires—what punctures, blowouts, delays and repairs cost you—the expense of spare tires, spare rims and inner tubes—you will find that air filled tires are a mighty expensive proposition.

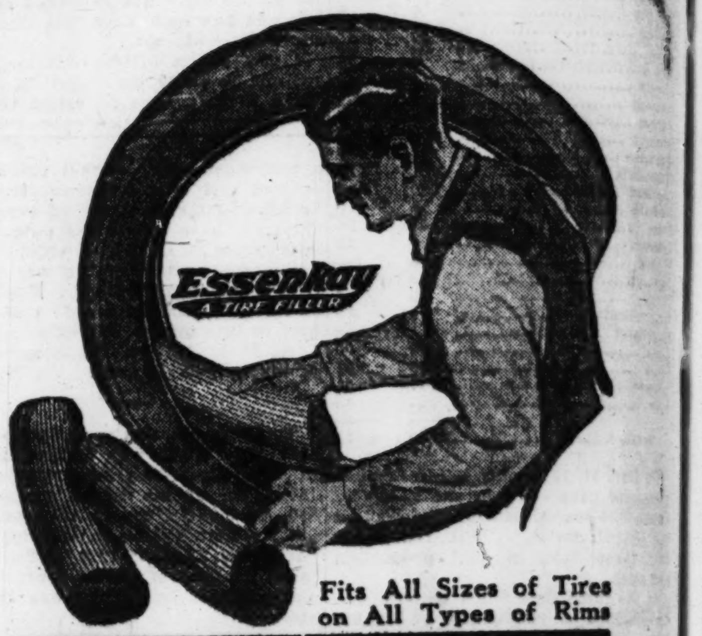
Motorists everywhere have grown tired of "babying" their tires. They have found from years of experience that air inflation means tire troubles. Over 50,000 every day users of ESSENKAY-filled Tires would never again accept air inflation as a substitute for ESSENKAY—leading dealers and garagemen such as listed below recommend and sell ESSENKAY. We said: "The Tire Filler Era is Here"—dealers say: "This is going to be an ESSENKAY Tire Filler Season" and the thousands of new ESSENKAY users prove this.

ESSENKAY makes punctures, blowouts and tire troubles impossible. No air is used, hence no inner tubes are required. ESSENKAY is a flexible, light and highly resilient material. It is not a liquid, therefore can not leak out of tires. It looks like rubber—has all the desirable flexible qualities of finest Para rubber—yet it actually contains no rubber in any form, and has none of the imperfections and weaknesses of rubber.



Fits All Sizes of Tires on All Types of Rims

"OVER 50,000 USERS"

Essenkay
A TIRE FILLER

Rides Like Air

No Spare Rims No Spare Tires
No Tubes No Pumps
or Jacks Required

Not a Liquid

Essenkay Is Guaranteed against being effected by heat, cold, water, mud, friction, atmospheric or climatic conditions, hardening, crumbling or flattening.

Doubles Tire Mileage

The use of ESSENKAY is a proved economy, because ESSENKAY should last as long as your car.

Your tires filled with ESSENKAY are always at a uniform pressure—cannot be deflated or run flat. 10,000 or 20,000 miles on ESSENKAY filled tires is the rule, not the exception. ESSENKAY comes in sections to fit perfectly into all sizes of casings and fills the casing completely. It can be installed on all types of rims.

First Cost---Last Cost

ESSENKAY is an investment, not an expense. When your ESSENKAY filled tires are worn down to the last layer of fabric, the old tire may be discarded and the same ESSENKAY transferred to a new casing. ESSENKAY is now in use on thousands of pleasure cars, trucks, converted trucks and tractors. Many municipalities, departments of Government, newspapers, etc., have increased truck and delivery efficiency to 100% and proved that first cost is last cost.

Free Trial Offer

ESSENKAY is sold by us on FREE TRIAL. We do not say "buy" ESSENKAY. We say "try" ESSENKAY. We ask you to test it in your tires under your own loading and road conditions. If your passenger car carries five people, crowd in eight. If your truck carries a ton, put on two tons. Ride over smooth roads—then over the roughest you can find, including hilly and sandy country. Allow the car to remain under maximum load on a concrete floor to prove that ESSENKAY does not flatten. Then—if you are not convinced that ESSENKAY rides like air—that it will end your tire trouble—that you will be no longer bothered with punctures, blowouts or slow leaks—that ESSENKAY will not flatten, crumble or deteriorate—return it—THE TEST WILL COST YOU NOTHING.

Talk Essenkay with the Sales Depot or Service Station Nearest You, as Shown Below

Talk to your nearest Sales Depot about Essenkay. They will give you all the facts. There are now over 200 Sales Depots in Chicago, and new ones are being established as rapidly as possible. If your Garage Dealer does not handle Essenkay, telephone us for the name of the Sales Depot nearest you.

The list of Out-of-Town Essenkay Service Stations is being rapidly extended as a result of the big Essenkay publicity campaign. Any of the stations will install Essenkay in your tires on their liberal free trial offer. If you can't get Essenkay in your town, mail the "Car Owner's Coupon" shown at lower right hand corner.

SITUATIONS WANTED—MALE.

Executives and Managers.

Experienced Executive

Seeks Change.

Here is a brief recital of his business career, leaving it to you to judge the qualities that have entered into it and how they may serve you and your business.

He began selling at fifteen. He earned the greater part of his way through college. He took a course in law as an additional business preparation. He did not enter its practice.

For the past twelve years in the employ of the same corporation, a national organization with nine offices and operating the entire country over. Has had complete charge of sales and advertising, and is now general manager. During this period, which is almost the entire life of the corporation, its capital and surplus have more than trebled and regular dividends in excess of twelve per cent have been paid. He has developed and held big special representatives now earning five to ten thousand per year.

Believes in and practices the square deal and the highest type of salesmanship. Aggressive, sane, safe, industrious, temperate, and loyal, and accustomed to reciprocal loyalty. Physically strong and mentally alert and tolerates no interference with the steady, forward progress of the business interests that have his attention. Possessed of some means but is not seeking an investment.

His reason for leaving his present position is that, while it offers unlimited tenure under present conditions, it offers no considerable opportunity for advancement. He desires a similar position either in a larger business or in one where a repetition of the success above referred to will result in a part ownership.

Replies held absolutely confidential.
Manager, Post Office Box 641, Chicago.

I SPECIALIZE IN SELLING BY MAIL.

What small growing, progressive concern, marketing a high grade meritorious article, will give me a chance to let it win BIG in the "direct" selling game. My experience has been largely with nationally advertised specialties, but am willing to enter another field. In addition to advertising knowledge, resourcefulness, initiative, loyalty, and executive ability, have a positive genius for hard work. I'm looking for a FUTURE by absolutely making good in the HERE AND NOW!

WANTED—MALE HELP.

Employment Agencies.

ARE YOU A MISFIT?

Too often men are condemned as failures when really this is not the case. Practically every man in the world has some place in which he can fit. We cite as examples such men as Grant, who did not find his proper sphere until very late in life; Patrick Henry was called "no good and no account" in his early life, and thousands of others who spent the greater part of their life finding out definitely where they belonged. These men eventually, as we all know, became great in their individual spheres. It is simply another case of the right man for the right place.

Too often men wait until it is too late before they recognize the fact that they are not properly placed. If for any reason whatsoever you are not absolutely content in your present situation, whether you be a $15 a week clerk or a $10,000 a year Manager, we ask that you come to us. Let us work on your case, let us advise with you and give you the benefit of advice and experience gained over a period of sixteen years in the analysis of individuals and companies.

YOU CAN BE PLACED RIGHT

and we can do it for you. It is up to you to come to us NOW.
We have openings in our file as follows:

Read this list carefully. Notice the hundreds of orders contained therein. Notice the class and caliber of these orders. In spite of having placed several hundred men this last week, we still need men—hundreds of men—to fill these orders that are coming to us daily.

One of these jobs may be your future opportunity—are you going to let it pass or take advantage of it now? Remember, opportunity does not come very often, and when it does you have to grab it and lock it up tight or some one else will secure its benefit instead of yourself.

We are anticipating the largest crowd in the history of our business tomorrow, and if YOU are not included in this crowd you will be doing yourself an injustice.

WHEAT

During 1918 we put under cultivation a number of farms which will grow their first crop this year, 1919. The cultivation on these farms is in extra fine shape, and as the land is new and the soil very rich you can be sure that the yield will be high. These lands produce the highest yields of small grains of any in North America, and, remember, that our grain brings the same price in the world's markets as that grown on land selling at $300 an acre in parts of Illinois and Iowa.
We are selling these farms at low prices and on easy terms. Western Canada farm lands are in line for a big advance soon. Write for our free, illustrated, and questions and answers booklets.

FLORIDA CALLS

Florida Valencia Orange and Grape Fruit Groves pay an income today as high as $500 per acre, if located in the hill and lake section.

Don't be a doubting Thomas. Investigate. Determine the fact—then act.

Howey, at Lake County, Florida, is the highest elevated section of the state. It offers to particular people the opportunity to have a successful grove built up under the supervision of a government expert.
The editor of the Tampa Tribune investigated these lands and termed this section "The Alpine Country."
Dr. J. H. Ross, president of the Citrus Exchange, investigated, and says: "It's an empire and the finest tract of citrus land left in the state."
These lands are the most beautiful of all beautiful spots in Florida. The elevation runs as high as 311 feet, real mountains for Florida. The truly large lakes of the state are to be found here, some of which are 15 to 20 miles long. This unusual combination gives the groves on the Howey Tract a sure and certain immunity against frosts, not enjoyed by localities south having a low altitude, therefore the trees retain their January bloom and load to capacity. Witness that trees, seven years old in our vicinity carried 17 boxes of fruit, while trees at the same age and with the same care on lowland exposed to these frosts will carry 3 to 4 boxes.
Mr. O. W. Connor refused $60,000 cash for a 40 acre grove 6 years old. Mr. Sidney Inman sold a 22 acre grove December last for $50,000. Mrs. Evans sold a ten acre grove last month for $35,000. These are real facts and prove conclusively the great prosperity possible to those who will plant a Valencia Grove in the hill and lake section on the Howey properties.
Business men and bankers will contract to build you a grove without worry or attention on your part. See us about our special price to the group of first 100 purchasers, our bank reference, commercial rating, etc.

PROTECT YOUR SAVINGS

"A dollar saved is a dollar earned." Regardless of what you make, it is what you save that counts. High salaried men often die poor while many wage earners, by systematic saving, leave their families well provided for.

Place your money where it cannot get away. Farm lands have been increasing in value for years and will continue to do so until soon all the good cheap land will be beyond the reach of the average working man, as the land in Illinois, Iowa and Indiana now is.

One of the few remaining good cheap land investments is in Antrim and Kalkaska counties, Michigan. There a splendid opportunity awaits you to become the owner of some of the richest soil in Michigan, by our systematic saving plan. It has proven to be a sure investment and you can make it yield good returns year after year.

If you continue ten years at your present occupation making no provision for the future, will you be any better off than you are now? Would you thus ever become independent? IF you should die, what condition would your family be in? IF, on the other hand, you start now and invest your savings in good land, with an insurance clause in your contract for protection, you can be come independent of strikes, lay-offs, low wages, high food prices, etc.

Our plan enables you to begin your savings with a $10 to $25 payment on 10 acres, $50 on 20 acres, and $100 on 40 acres; then easy monthly terms on the balance, and before long you will have a warranty deed and an abstract of title for 10, 20, 40, 80, 160, or more acres of land that can produce big crops of clover, beans, potatoes, alfalfa, wheat, rye, oats, vegetables, and fruit of as fine a variety and quality as you have ever seen.

By saving this way you can take your family from the smoky city or rented farm to this delightful country of pure air and water, fine climate, good markets, schools, churches, railroads, telephones, R. F. D., and enjoy living.

Send This Coupon Today.

Please mail to me a big free booklet about land without obligation on my part. Also explain how new settlers are exempted from taxes for five years and how free insurance protects purchasers. Also tell me about loaning money to settlers to buy live stock and build, and numerous other ways they are helped.

Montana.

FOR SALE—OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS BUT once. This is your opportunity to get some land at a bargain and make some big money off of it. Out in Montana, 55 miles west of Great Falls, in the famous Sun River Valley, is a 480 acre farm for sale. The owner is leaving the country not because he cannot make a handsome living off of it, but for family reasons.

Last year the country in Sun River Valley produced some of the best wheat in the state—this ran anywhere from 20 to 30 bushels to an acre. It is also a wonderful land for alfalfa. The country around the valley is famous for its stock raising—a great market at home for alfalfa.

The farm is offered at a bargain. All of the land adjoining is held at more than $25 an acre. There are about 200 acres of the finest pasture land, and the balance is excellent for raising alfalfa, oats, wheat, or flax. There is plenty of water. The farm is well equipped with machinery, house and barns, cattle and horses. Everything goes.

Following is the statement:

480 acres of land at $25	$12,000
4 room house and barn	1,000
31 head cattle	2,000
6 head horses	800
Machinery, including plows, harrows, mowing machine, harness, farm tools	1,000
Hay	700
Total	$16,500

The whole is offered for $13,000. It will take only $7,000 cash to handle the deal. Do you know of a better bargain? Some one is going to take it and make some real money. There is no time for delay. First come is first serve. If you are interested write, or wire to P. BURTON WILCOX, Gilman, Mont.

MAKING OF SOILS

HOME LANDS INC.,
CHICAGO, ILL.

Gentlemen:

A VIRGIN SOIL IS JUST AS POOR AND NONPRODUCTIVE AS A WORN OUT SOIL IF THE MINERALS FROM WHICH IT WAS MADE DO NOT CONTAIN THE NECESSARY PLANTFOOD.

The volcanoes were the first soil builders. The molten lava from their craters became granite rocks after cooling. The granite rocks are the parents of soils. They are composed of many minerals, such as Feldspar, Quartz, Mica, Talc, Calcite, Apatite, and Hornblende. These minerals contain the elements of plantfood necessary to grow crops, and a soil derived directly from granite is well supplied with plantfood.

Your soil is made from granite rocks by the action of water freezing and thawing, and wind, which causes the rocks to crumble away and form soil. Later, plants began to grow on this crumbled rock, and through them the organic matter of the soil originated, and the soil was slowly but surely made. Many soils have been transported from their "birthplace" by wind, water, and glaciers. Where streams flowed over the soil the more soluble minerals were dissolved out and carried along until the current became so slow they were deposited. Thus we find the clay soils fertile because the elements of plantfood and soluble in water. Later on, THE INSOLUBLE MINERALS [CHIEFLY QUARTZ, OF WHICH SAND IS COMPOSED] were carried away and farther down the stream, and this sand was deposited to form sandstone. Still later, the stream channel was changed, or the stream dried up. Again weathering took place, and the SANDSTONE crumbled to form SANDY SOIL. BECAUSE THE MORE SOLUBLE MINERALS HAD BEEN DISSOLVED OUT OF THIS ORIGINAL SOIL, AND THE SAND WHICH CONTAINS VERY LITTLE PLANTFOOD WAS LEFT, SAND IS NONPRODUCTIVE. Gradually sandy soil was mixed with organic matter and some clay and silt. Where sandy soil has a large proportion of these constituents, it becomes A FAIR SOIL, but years are required for this building up, and the process is very slow, especially because of the easy leaching of sandy soils.

Glaciers, vast mountains of ice, used to cover northern United States. Their tremendous weight moved across the country and carried with them huge boulders, which thus were ground to rock flour. This flour was deposited when the glaciers melted. Some of this soil remained where deposited. Some was blown about by the wind and again deposited.

Your Kennan Silt Loams were formed through these two processes. Their structure and chemical composition BOTH prove that this soil was made from granite rocks ground to dust by the glaciers. Moreover, the stones and boulders found on this soil are of granite and were left by the glacier before they were ground up. Stones of this character are not found on the sandy plains where water deposited the soil. The current could not carry such boulders. THIS SOIL CONTAIN THE MANY MINERALS FOUND IN GRANITES, MINERALS WHICH SUPPLY THE PLANTFOOD. Kennan Silt Loams cover the largest part of your district.

Vilas Sandy Loam, which is also found in Oconto and Forest Counties, was derived largely from the rocks of the region together with some sandstone. It contains sufficient silt, clay and organic matter to make a fair soil.

Vilas Fine Sand, very little of which is found in your district, is also derived from the same source, but is of less value due to its smaller percentage of silt, clay, and organic matter.

Plainfield Sand covers the smallest portion of your district. It is derived largely from sandstone rock and is of little value at present.

Next week I shall write a letter on swamps and marshes.

Very truly yours, R. S. DUNHAM,
Graduate of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

VALUABLE INFORMATION.

The above report, as well as others to follow, should prove of value to every man who desires to purchase a piece of land.

Mr. R. S. Dunham has been engaged by the HOME LANDS, INC., as its agricultural adviser. He will give impartial information and his services are at the disposal of any one interested in locating on a farm.

OUR LANDS

are located in Oconto River Valley, Forest and Oconto Counties, Wis. They are close to railroad towns, schools, roads, etc. Our prices range from $20 to $30 per acre for agricultural land. Stony land is sold at much lower prices as grazing land. Sandy and swampy land unfit for agriculture we do not offer for sale.

SALES PLANS NOS. 1 AND 2

1. We build you a house and barn; furnish cow, calf, pigs, sheep, chickens, fruit trees, tools. We also furnish dynamite on credit for blasting stumps and rent you clearing and farming machinery. On this plan we require $500 down, with no further payments for five years.

2. Land without improvements: $25 down, $10 to $15 per month, or annual payments of $100 down and $120 per year on 40 acres. When $500 is paid we give you the benefits of Credit Plan in Sales Plan No. 1.

CADILLAC AUTOMOBILE CO. OF ILLINOIS

IS THE PLACE TO BUY A

RENEWED CADILLAC

WHICH GIVES YOU THE UTMOST STYLE, SERVICE, VALUE.

Many of the handsomest, quietest running Cadillacs you see on the street are renewed Cadillacs. Note the perfect fitting pantasote tops [factory standard], the beautiful gray, tan blue, and maroon color bodies, specially painted by us. You can't tell such cars from new. Every renewed Cadillac has been taken apart, minutely inspected, worn parts replaced by new where necessary, reassembled, adjusted, tested, and proved as good as new. And we give service on a renewed Cadillac. When you get such a car at several hundred dollars less than the original price you are getting a real bargain with which no "used" car can be compared.

1918 Model (New Design)

CASH OR TRADE.

This car, seven passenger touring, is an exceptional car in every respect. If you want power and speed, it has them; it can do up to seventy at any time; it has "taken into camp" other standard cars of equal power and dimensions.

Has winter inclosure, slip covers, four new extra tires, and is complete and up to the mark for any man's money. IT IS THE ONLY ONE OF THE NEW MODEL IN CHICAGO.

Will consider exchange for coupé and difference in cash.

GUARANTEED ON 5,000 MILE BASIS.

Our tires have treble thickness, which insures them against punctures, blowouts; also weather proof. These tires are guaranteed on 5,000 mile basis, but often give the user as high as 8,000 miles. Every tire is furnished with a reliner, absolutely FREE of CHARGE; 14 plies of fabric between the inner tube and the road. Compare our prices, then send us your order.

JEWELRY, WATCHES, ETC.

DIAMONDS
SECOND HAND PRICE!

I am a retired diamond importer, occupying my time picking up bargains for cash from people who need the money, from estates, auctions, etc. My rule is, never to buy unless I can resell to a jeweler or diamond broker for less than the wholesale value. I offer the individual purchaser who seeks a real investment the same price. I call my price the "second hand" price, because it is below the market established in the diamond trade. Having no overhead expense to speak of, it pays me to take as little as $10 profit on a $300 deal. I sell all over the world through my weekly Bargain Price List, in which I list and give a guaranteed description of my diamonds. These methods of buying and selling diamonds are exclusively my own, and no competition can stand up against my price.

READ HOW I PROTECT YOU.

I am financially responsible [references, two big national banks in Chicago] and I give you a written guarantee of the carat weight, color, perfection and value of every diamond I submit. In addition I guarantee in plain English to refund every cent of the purchase price if you request it for any reason, and to exchange at the full value AT ANY TIME. Cut out this ad and I'll sign it as part of my guarantee.

SEND ME NO MONEY!

Select any diamond from this ad or from the big Bargain Price List which I send you FREE on request—I'll ship it to any express office or BANK in the U. S. so you can examine it. Not a penny of cost to you; no obligation to buy. I get all my business by merely showing my diamonds and stating the guaranteed description and price. My "second hand price" requires no salesmanship or persuasion. If in Chicago stop in and look over my stock.

HOTEL BRADFORD

THE HOTEL BRADFORD, SITUATED AT THE SOUTHWEST CORNER OF MICHIGAN-AV. AND 30TH-ST., IN THE CITY OF CHICAGO, IS OFFERED FOR SALE.

The hotel has been continuously operated upward of nine years and is now being operated by the undersigned, receiver appointed by the Superior Court of Cook County, Illinois, in a suit wherein the complainant claims that the hotel is partnership property in a partnership consisting of himself and the defendant.

The hotel is erected upon leasehold premises the unexpired term of the lease being about ninety years. The hotel fronts on Michigan-av., is eight stories in height, and has an actual rooming capacity of about 250 rooms, all of which rooms are now actually in service and are actually occupied.

The hotel is offered as a going business, but bids will also be received for the contents of the hotel, consisting of fixtures, furniture, and equipment, as distinguished from the leasehold and building.

Written bids for the hotel as a going business or separate bids for the fixtures, furniture, and equipment or leasehold and building should be sent to the undersigned, who will submit them for approval to the Honorable Denis E. Sullivan, Judge of the Superior Court of Cook County, in his courtroom, Room 811 of the County Court Building, Chicago, on Saturday, March 29, 1919, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day. Bidders are respectfully requested to attend in court at that time.

The hotel and contents will be exhibited by a representative of the receiver, who will be at said hotel from the date of this publication up to March 29, 1919.

Further particulars may be had upon application to the undersigned.
